CHOICE IS A SURPRISE

Laid to Mayor's Wish for Man Who Will Shun Publicity.

POLICY OF SILENCE LIKELY

Assistant Chief Inspector Plans Few Interviews and Will Stress Police Work.

WILL TAKE OFFICE AT NOON

Whalen to Give Farewell Talk to Men—Walker Says City Will "Ever Respect" Him.

Edward P. Mulrooney, Assistant Chief Inspector of the Police Department and head of the Detective Division, was appointed Police Commissioner yesterday by Mayor Walker to succeed Grover A. Whalen, who resigned to resume his executive post at Wanamaker's.

Announcement of the appointment of Mr. Mulrooney, a veteran of thirty-four years' service on the uniformed force, was made at City Hall by Mayor Walker simultaneously with his announcement of Mr. Whalen's resignation, which will take effect at noon today. Mr. Mulrooney will be sworn in as Police Commissioner by Mayor Walker at City Hall at the same time.

The Mayor's decision to go to the uniformed force for a new Police Commissioner came as something of a surprise. In police circles there was a disposition to attribute his appointment to strong Tammany influence, based upon the belief that Mr. Mulrooney is an enrolled Democrat and the knowledge that he has relatives and friends who are active members of the Tammany organization.

In other well-informed quarters the appointment was said to be attributable largely to the desire of Mayor Walker to pick a man who would not inject so much personal publicity into the Police Commissionership. This did not indicate, it was said, any personal feeling on the part of the Mayor against Commissioner Whalen but the Mayor's belief that no successor to the present commissioner could compete successfully with him as a colorful official.

Policy of Silence to Be Adopted.

It was learned authoritatively that Mr. Mulrooney as Police Commissioner would adopt a policy of silence, that he would give few interviews, if any, that he would stage no publicity "stunts," and that he would fight shy of photographers. It was said that the new commissioner, a policeman of long training and experience, would confine himself strictly to police work. Under the new régime, it was said, it will be the Mayor and not the Police Commissioner who will receive the most frequent first page attention.

"The Mayor felt that he should choose a man who was the direct opposite of Mr. Whalen," said a person conversant with the circumstances which led to the selection of Mr. Mulrooney rather than that of any of the others mentioned for the post. "He felt that the situation was such that to put in a man who would try to follow Mr. Whalen's methods would be like trying to put on a show that was sure to be a 'flop.'

"If you put on a show with John McCormack as number one you couldn't follow with Andrew Mack or Chauncey Olcott, even though you ordinarily would enjoy hearing Mack or Olcott. You'd have to have a dumb act, acrobats or dogs. The Mayor had to find a man who was tongue-tied. You can't have a banjo act followed by another banjo act. You have to have jugglers."

Selection Carefully Guarded.

Mayor Walker guarded the identity of the man he had decided to name as Police Commissioner with great care. Few of the Mayor's friends and associates knew whom he had selected, and it was said that Mr. Mulrooney did not know he had been picked until Mayor Walker telephoned Commissioner Whalen at police headquarters to bring Mr. Mulrooney with him when he came to tender his resignation.

Mr. Whalen and Mr. Mulrooney arrived at City Hall about 11:30, half an hour after the time appointed. In anticipation of Mr. Whalen's res-

MAYOR IGNORES BAR, PICKS MAGISTRATES

BURLINGHAM IS CRITICAL

G. B. De Luca and R. R. Murphy the Appointees—Successor to Coler Named After a Year.

Ignoring the offer of the City Bar Association to cooperate with him in picking suitable candidates for appointments in the lower courts, Mayor Walker named two new city magistrates yesterday to fill the places of Magistrates Bernard J. Douras, who resigned on Monday, and Albert H. Vitale, who was removed by the Appellate Division.

The new magistrates were sworn in at City Hall yesterday. They are Raphael R. Murphy, an organization Democrat and secretary to Supreme Court Justice Mitchell, who succeeds Douras, and George B. De Luca, an Assistant District Attorney in the Bronx, who will take Vitale's place.

Two Commissioners Named.

Mayor Walker also named two new city commissioners yesterday, who will receive salaries of $10,000 a year each. He appointed James F. Geraghty of 475 East 140th Street as Commissioner of Licenses to succeed William F. Quigley. Mr. Geraghty is now a deputy county clerk receiving $6,000 a year.

Frank J. Taylor of 388 Clinton Street, Brooklyn, was named Commissioner of Public Welfare to fill a post left vacant by the resignation of Bird S. Coler a year ago. Mr. Taylor is Commissioner of Records in Brooklyn at a salary of $7,500. He relinquished his duties on notification of his new appointment. It was said that Deputy Register Hyman Shorenstein, leader of the Democrats in Brownsville, would succeed him.

When he was asked for comment on the Bar Association's offer of assistance in appointing magistrates the Mayor said he considered the offer "very fine and very splendid." Charles H. Burlingham, president of the bar association, said yesterday that neither the name of Mr. Murphy

ZEPPELIN OUT AT SEA, FORCED FROM ROUTE BY OPPOSING WINDS

ABOARD THE GRAF ZEPPELIN OVER THE ATLANTIC, 8:30 P. M. Ship's Time, May 20.—Because of bad weather west of Madeira the Graf Zeppelin has changed her direction southward to Teneriffe, which she will pass after midnight.

The distance covered in the first twelve hours from Seville is 600 nautical miles [approximately 700 land miles].

The weather continues fair, but opposing winds have been met during the day and are still continuing.

The great airship probably will have to refuel and take on gas supplies at Pernambuco when she lands there before going on to Rio de Janeiro.

Trade Winds Have Vanished.

5 P. M.—The first day of the ocean flight tells a story of stolen trade winds. Science asserts they will prevail daily from Madeira to the Cape Verde Islands, but today they were not found in the whole weather map.

All kinds of other winds prevailed instead. Also the temperature contradicts science. With every mile we go to the south the air becomes chillier. Opposing winds from the Moroccan low pressure urge us more toward the middle of the ocean than we intended to go.

We shall have a radio talk with Madeira, which we expect to pass this evening about 9 o'clock, but we won't fly over the Canaries or Cape Verde and shall seek a trade tail wind further to the west.

The speed is now only fifty miles. But that is still double the speed of the steamship Europa.

Makes 70 Miles an Hour.

Noon—We lost some time in starting from Seville because the military crew on either side of the ship would not quite agree among themselves to do the same thing at the same time, but at last we came up splendidly.

We are heading now under a perfectly blue sky directly from Cadiz for the African coast until we reach Cape Mogador, where we shall have to pass a low pressure district.

The new passengers taken on at Seville include Mrs. Pierce, who behaves like a regular old-timer, though her only previous experience was in the unlucky landing at Toulon.

The Spanish Prince Alfonso is a linguistic genius. So far he has addressed every passenger each in his own language, even in the very peculiar Swiss-German.

The ship is a bit short of water and it is said the Spanish officials did not supply enough.

His Resisters, He Says, Will Fill All the Prisons, Making Government by British Impossible—Calls Campaign "Mad Risk," But "Justifiable One"

By GEORGE SLOCOMBE.

Special Cable to The New York Times.

POONA, May 20.—I have had two conversations with Mahatma Gandhi in prison. He is confined as a state prisoner in the central Yerovda jail, several miles outside of Poona.

It is one of the oldest prisons in India. Its exterior is quaintly Victorian, but inside its high wall are a number of low cell blocks, one of which is reserved for Mr. Gandhi. Both political and ordinary prisoners are confined there, but Mr. Gandhi receives certain privileges.

My conversation with the Mahatma took place in the presence of three British officials: Major Doyle, Inspector General of Prisons; Major Martin, the prison superintendent, and Mr. Gould, the district magistrate. With all three the prisoner appeared to be on excellent terms.

Mr. Gandhi's cell door opens onto a wide veranda. His spinning wheel occupies a prominent position in his cell. Among the books at his bedside I noticed a well-thumbed copy of Bunyan's "Pilgrim's Progress," the work of another famous prisoner.

From the cool darkness, in which he spends his days in meditation, the man reverenced as a saint in India by millions of his countrymen emerged to greet me with a shy smile.

During our interview, which took place on the shaded veranda, the Mahatma abandoned the cross-legged posture in which he is familiar to hundreds of millions and sat on a cane chair. Otherwise he was as the world knows him—bare except for a loin cloth, brown and emaciated like an anchorite of the desert, but well and even cheerful.

Only the spectacles on the mild shining eyes, the mouth with its queer toothless smile and a childish trick of dropping the sandal from one foot as he sat with one leg crossed rendered the apostolic figure human.

Two things seemed to me as clear as crystal during the four hours I spent with him—his burning love and his burning hate. He loves India as he loves all mankind. He hates the British domination in India as he hates evil.

The British in India are to him oppressors, the source of all maladministration and suffering, yet he has no personal hatred for the British or for any one.

He has a warm regard for the Viceroy, Lord Irwin. He has treasured friends in England. There are even many things in British history, British character and the British commonwealth that he admires. Once India is free, Great Britain, I suspect, will have no warmer friend than Mr. Gandhi.

Our conversation began with a general exchange of ideas on the British-Indian policies. I then asked him to explain frankly what he meant by "independence." Did he demand independence as ultimately implied in Dominion status or did he insist on separation from the British commonwealth?

"I have always heard," he replied, "that in England Dominion status is

ROW ON DRY LEAGUE BREAKS UP HEARING

BOTH CHEERED AND HISSED

Each Accuses the Other as Dry Chief Resents Questions Before Senate Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The inquiry into the activities of the Anti-Saloon League of America by the Senate Lobby Committee went off in a flurry today, to the accompaniment of mingled cheers and hisses from spectators, when Senator Blaine of Wisconsin, wet, and the only committeeman present, and F. Scott McBride, general superintendent of the league, got into a heated argument that was only terminated by Senator Blaine abruptly ending the session.

The hearing was adjourned to tomorrow, although Senator Blaine said he would not go on without the presence of a quorum of the five members. The other committeemen are Senator Caraway of Arkansas, chairman, and Senators Robinson of Indiana, Walsh of Montana and Borah of Idaho.

The argument arose over the action of Senator Blaine in placing in the record a "score card" to be used for "judging the qualifications of candidates" for public office, which was submitted to the general conference of the Anti-Saloon League in 1928 by H. E. Dawes, superintendent of the South Dakota League.

The "score card," to be filled out on the basis of "100 points being perfection," would give a political candidate 50 points for moral qualifications, prohibition sentiment and practice; 15 on official or civic record, 10 on intellectual qualifications, 10 on ability as a public speaker, and other points on such factors as church affiliations and family relations.

Never Used, McBride Says.

"You are pretty hard put this morning for something on the Anti-Saloon League to be dragged off into a proposed score card by one of the State superintendents, which was never adopted or never used by the Anti-Saloon League of America," Mr. McBride remarked.

"Oh, this Anti-Saloon League superintendent says this has been copyrighted in order to protect the rights of the league in the publication," Senator Blaine replied.

The Senator read from a letter by Mr. Dawes:

"'This method of judging conditions will be much more satisfactory than the old method of letters, questionnaires and vague indefinite replies.' I am quoting now from your superintendent."

"Let me explain it," said Mr. McBride. "You have been explaining it right along. Let me explain something."

"Mr. McBride, you are on the witness stand."

"Yes, and you are supposed to be questioning me."

"Mr. Chairman, I must insist that this witness give some deference to questions that are asked him," said Senator Blaine; but when he turned to the chair he saw that Senator

FEDERAL COURTHOUSE CONCEDED TO CITY

HUGE POSTOFFICE TO RISE

Monumental Structure Will Be Erected for Mail Service—Sites Yet to Be Selected.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—New York City virtually is assured of a separate Federal court building to cost more than $12,000,000, it was learned at the Treasury today.

Negotiations have progressed to a sufficient degree with the municipal authorities that officials felt safe in saying that arrangements would be made for the erection of a monumental structure to house the courts, and another building for a postoffice station to replace that in City Hall Park.

The postoffice probably will cost fully as much as the court house and will be a many-storied building, although the exact type and size will not be determined until the site is acquired.

Negotiations under way between the Treasury and the city authorities indicated that officials would get together within a reasonably short time and that arrangements would be made to vacate the City Hall postoffice site and turn it over to the municipality, to be worked into the plan for the municipal centre.

The government probably will buy a Federal court building site. The municipality will reimburse the government in proportion to the comparative sizes of the new site and that in City Hall Park—that is, if the old site is two-thirds as large as the new, the city will pay two-thirds of the cost of the latter. This would leave no provision for a postoffice site, which would have to be acquired by the government or taken over by the city.

Debated for Several Years.

For several years the government and the city of New York have been endeavoring to reach an agreement as to the vacating of the City Hall Park site and the erection of new buildings. Some time ago a committee from the New York Bar Association and the New York Merchants' Association conferred with Under-Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills and urged that a separate court building in keeping with the dignity of the Federal judiciary be erected.

Prior to that time it had been the intention to erect a combination court house and postoffice station. The structure in City Hall Park houses both governmental functions. This had been agreed to by the New York authorities, but later they felt that the separate court house should be erected. At the time of the conference the New York officials were assured that this would be done if the treasury could work out a satisfactory plan and if funds were available.

Several building projects have been arranged for New York. In addition to the customs appraisers'

Mosley Quits Post in MacDonald's Cabinet In Disagreement Over Unemployment Issue

Special Cable to The New York Times.

LONDON, May 20.—Internal dissensions in the MacDonald Government over the handling of the unemployment problem reached a climax today with the resignation of Sir Oswald Mosley from the Cabinet post of Chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster.

Sir Oswald, who had been prominently associated with J. H. Thomas, Lord Privy Seal, and who was joint author with George Lansbury, Minister of Public Works, and Tom Johnston, Under-Secretary for Scotland, of a memorandum on unemployment, which the full Cabinet rejected, refused the offer of another Cabinet post, and as a consequence, his resignation was accepted.

Sir Oswald stuck to his leader in last night's Commons division in which the government escaped defeat on its employment policy by fifteen votes, though he personally disagreed with the government's handling of the position. He now is expected to rally about forty English members of the Independent Labor party under his banner in Parliament.

Lady Cynthia Mosley, his wife, a member of Parliament, is credited by The Daily Mail with the intention of assisting her husband in forming a new group of Socialist intelligentsia both inside and outside the House of Commons, with a social centre at her home.

Such a group, says The Daily Mail, might easily be a new danger to Prime Minister MacDonald and his government.

Sir Oswald's proposals for relieving unemployment which the Cabinet rejected included flotation of a reconstruction loan, the immediate raising of the school age, the pensioning of workers at the age of 60, creation of an imports board to control wheat supplies and prices and national schemes of road construction.

Eighty-eight back-bench members of the Conservative party, who are anxious to get to grips with the MacDonald Government in Parliament over the London naval treaty, were held off today by Stanley Baldwin, Tory leader. Mr. Baldwin has taken the stand that no action should be started until the government presented its supplementary estimate for new naval construction to the House of Commons.

HIS SHIP IS THE "TARGET"

ON BOARD THE U. S. S. SARATOGA, off the Virginia Capes, May 20.—In blue water, at a cross roads of the ocean thirty-five miles off the Virginia Capes, fifty vessels of the United States Fleet passed in proud pageant before President Hoover today and marched and countermarched in mimic warfare across the Southern drill grounds.

For four hours racing screws churned white lanes in the sea and the motors of 150 planes droned trails of sound across the sky, the navy's greeting to its Commander-in-Chief on his first Presidential contact with the fleet as a unit.

This morning, in the hazy visibility of the early dawn, the fleet rode out of the North to rendezvous near Winter Quarter shoal, with the huge aircraft carriers, the Saratoga and Lexington.

This evening it steamed between the sand dunes of the Capes into the sinking sun, to conclude the first naval exercises at which a President of the United States has ever reviewed the flying as well as the surface fleet.

Plane Is Hooked to Dirigible.

As the Salt Lake City, the President's reviewing ship, started its speedy run for Hampton Roads this afternoon, with a white wave curling aft from her clipper bow, Mr. Hoover saw an omen of the future, when for twenty minutes a Vought observation plane from the Saratoga was hooked to the great frame of the dirigible Los Angeles as it hovered above the cruiser.

It was the first time that the feat had ever been done above the ocean.

When the plane was unhooked to drop into a gentle glide toward the huge flight deck of the carrier the most extensive naval exercises ever held in connection with a Presidential review were brought to an end.

This morning, when the fleet was approaching the reviewing point, thirty-six miles east of Cape Henry, it brought with it a murky mist and a sky partly flecked with columns of clouds.

By 11 o'clock, as the far-flung van of destroyers and light cruisers sighted the speeding Salt Lake City, with a huge blue President's flag at the mast, the sky had cleared somewhat and the sunlight glittered off the steel gun muzzles of the ships of the battle line.

Fleet Salutes President.

The fleet approached the reviewing point in cruising formation, the slim bows of the destroyers, hull down on the horizon, bobbing slightly to the gentle swell.

As the cruiser carrying the President approached, the turbines of the light craft sped to a more rhythmic roar as the throttles were opened and the speed increased to twenty-five knots. As the first battleship passed the Salt Lake City, saluting guns spewed flaming wadding into the sea.

After the carriers, the last ships in formation, had passed the reviewing ship, they turned sharply to star-

Disabled Veterans Must Get Preference, If on the Civil Service List, Ward Rules

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 20.—Preference must be given disabled veterans in civil service appointments, regardless of the position of their names on eligible lists, Attorney General Ward declared today in an opinion construing the veterans' preference act, which went into effect April 8.

In his opinion, given to the State Civil Service Commission, Attorney General Ward also ruled that the time of application for an appointment by a disabled veteran is to be determined by the time when he or she notifies the appointing officer of willingness to accept appointment.

The preference to disabled veterans' act is in accord with the amendment to the State Constitution which was adopted at a referendum at the November election last year. It extends to "any honorably discharged soldiers, sailors, marines or nurses of the army, navy or Marine Corps of the United States disabled in the performance of duty in any war, to an extent recognized by the United States Veterans' Bureau, the same preference in civil service appointments that has heretofore been accorded to Civil War veterans.

"It is my opinion that the preference applies to all veterans who come within the terms of the amendment whose names may be on any existing civil service eligible list," the Attorney General said, "irrespective of the time such list may have been established.

"To be effective, preference must be accorded to those veterans whose names appear upon lists which had been heretofore established, as well as to veterans whose names may appear on lists to be established."

The law applies to all public departments and on all public works of the cities, counties, towns and villages of the State, as well as the State itself.

The Latest Returns.

By The Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 21.—Returns from 5,079 of the 8,701 districts in the State, including 1,316 of the 1,590 in Philadelphia and 699 of the 1,458 in Allegheny County, gave Secretary of Labor Davis for Senator a lead of 162,399 over Senator Joseph R. Grundy. The figures were Davis 450,930, Grundy 288,531. Francis H. Bohlen, the wet candidate, had 140,267.

Francis Shunk Brown in 5,089 districts had a lead of 58,000 over Gifford Pinchot for Governor. The figures were Brown 402,619, Pinchot 344,376. Thomas W. Phillips, the wet candidate, had 169,333.

From a Staff Correspondent of The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 21.—Upon the face of the primary election returns at 3 o'clock this morning Secretary of Labor Davis has defeated Senator Grundy for the Republican nomination for the Senate, and Francis Shunk Brown is leading Gifford Pinchot for choice for Governor, with the possibility that complete returns will make Mr. Pinchot the victor.

The trend of the returns bore out the claim of the Vare organization, which supported Davis and Brown, that Mr. Davis had been nominated over Senator Joseph R. Grundy and Francis H. Bohlen, the wet candidate.

Large gains throughout the State for former Governor Gifford Pinchot and a huge wet vote, both in Philadelphia and State-wide, for former Representative Thomas W. Phillips for the choice for Governor, made this race doubtful. The extent to which Mr. Pinchot narrowed Mr. Brown's early margin gave some ground for the ex-Governor's managers' claim of final victory.

City Wet Vote Hurts Brown.

The Brown forces were greatly distressed over the large wet vote in Philadelphia and in other strongholds which were Vare bailiwicks in 1926.

Senator Grundy was not faring well in the up-State returns, but at Grundy headquarters it was asserted that the strongholds of the Senator in interior counties by later returns would make him the winner.

Mr. Brown lost heavily in Philadelphia because of his position on the wet question, with thousands of organization votes going to Mr. Phillips.

Mr. Pinchot may come to Philadelphia with a heavy majority. While final returns may upset the apparent trend favoring the nomination of Secretary Davis for the Senate and Mr. Pinchot for Governor, impartial observers feel that the final count will be in their favor.

Bohlen Concedes to Davis.

Secretary Davis had the support of labor, as well as many of the larger corporations in Pennsylvania, including the Pennsylvania Railroad. He ran ahead of Mr. Brown on their slate because labor refused to support Brown and showed their preference for Pinchot, who, as Governor, took the side of labor in a hard coal strike.

Professor Bohlen at 1.30 A. M. conceded the nomination of Secretary Davis and insisted that the wet issue would be dominant in the November election. An independent State wet ticket may be placed in the field, since the wets marshalled such a large vote.

"We have made a good fight that will show that the Eighteenth Amendment cannot be taken out of politics until repealed," Mr. Bohlen said. "We are prepared to keep up the wet organization and will put all

Radio Brings Naval Parade To Mrs. Hoover at White House

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Mrs. Herbert Hoover, who is confined to a wheel chair as a result of a recent fall and was unable to accompany the President during today's fleet review, received details of the event over the radio.

Just before 11 o'clock, when the parade of the battlefleet was to start, the dial of her radio set was fixed to pick up the broadcast, which was being made from the deck of the cruiser within a few feet of the President and his party.

The reception was tuned down so as not to be disturbing to Mrs. Hoover and yet sufficiently loud to bring in every detail of the moving ships, the drone of airplanes overhead and the recurring boom of the guns.

Mrs. Hoover was said to be resting well today and rapidly recovering from the effects of the fall, but she did not receive any callers.

ROBERTS CONFIRMED FOR SUPREME COURT

NO VOTING IS NECESSARY

Record Set for Quick Disposal When Objections Are Called For and None Is Made.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Acting unanimously, and in less than a minute, the Senate this afternoon confirmed the nomination of Owen J. Roberts of Pennsylvania to be an Associate Justice of the United States Supreme Court to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Justice Edward T. Sanford of Tennessee. There was no debate.

This great compliment to Mr. Roberts was emphasized by the fact that the nomination was approved without a vote. With a quickness unusual with the Senate, the nomination was disposed of through a mere request of the pending officer, Vice President Curtis, as to whether there was any objection to confirmation. None was offered, and the Vice President declared the nomination confirmed.

In thus acting, the Senate seems to have established a record for quick disposal of an appointment to the supreme bench. Its fast-moving course today was in marked contrast to its protracted debate over the nomination of Charles Evans Hughes of New York to be Chief Justice and the recent long discussion which resulted in the rejection of the nomination of Circuit Judge John J. Parker of North Carolina to be an Associate Justice.

The Hughes nomination was confirmed on Feb. 13 by a vote of 52 to 26, exactly 2 to 1, and on May 7 Judge Parker failed to obtain confirmation by a vote of 41 to 39. Ten days were taken by the Senate in considering Judge Parker's case.

After the turmoil in the Senate over the Parker nomination, the action on the Roberts nomination had a touch of the dramatic in its suddenness. About 4 o'clock, Senator McNary, of Oregon, who was acting as Republican floor leader in the temporary absence of Floor Leader Watson, moved that the Senate pro-our strength to defeat any one who runs either as a dry or as a straddler for State or national office.

"I extend congratulations to Mr. Davis and I hope his term in office will be both happy and successful. We have aroused the wet sentiment to the realization that it must vote according to its conviction. We have taken a leaf from the Anti-Saloon League book, in that we will hereafter have an organization that will enable the wets to express their strength.

"I am happy to see that in the city in which I am best known I did not run third."

Mr. Bohlen would not commit himself as to whether he would support a wet fusion ticket should such be put in the field. Earlier he had indicated, however, that he would not himself be a candidate for office.

Mr. Brown left his headquarters at 1:30 A. M. He seemed depressed and was represented as dissatisfied with the vote given him in the coal regions. Mr. Brown's declaration in the campaign for a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment apparently did much to bring the vote approaching 200,000 received by the wet candidates, which was drawn from the organization strength and hence aided Mr. Pinchot, a dry.

"I am gratified with the support the people of Pennsylvania have given me," Mr. Brown said. "When I get up in the morning for breakfast I am going to feel better."

Pinchot Supporters Confident.

At Ex-Governor Pinchot's headquarters a confident opinion of victory for him by a margin of 125,000 was voiced about 3 A. M. Mr. Pinchot's backers counted on sixty-six counties out of sixty-seven for him.

Mr. Pinchot previously issued a statement saying:

"The returns are not yet all in, but enough of them are in to make the results almost certain. The combination of gang politicians in Philadelphia has been beaten. The only thing that remains in question is the majority of votes."

Dauphin County, the seat of the State Capitol, gave Mr. Pinchot a plurality and was won by Davis. Indiana, the home of Governor Fisher, was carried by Pinchot and Grundy.

Schuylkill, one of the four hard coal counties, was carried by Davis and Pinchot. Lackawanna was won by Grundy and Brown, while Luzerne, another of the coal counties, went for Grundy and Pinchot. Pinchot showed weakness in Northampton, Lehigh and Delaware counties.

Count in First Ward.

Philadelphia's First Ward, a Vare stronghold, where voting machines were used in this city for the first time, returned 505 votes for Pinchot, as compared with 68 when he ran for the Senatorial nomination four years ago. Phillips, running for Governor in 1926, got 93 votes in this ward, but the wet sentiment got behind him today and boosted his total to 715.

Secretary Davis received 6,416 votes in the First Ward, as compared with William S. Vare's 8,956 in 1926. Senator Grundy's total was 459, while Senator Pepper's in 1926 was 675.

About 1,500 fewer votes were cast in the ward than four years ago.

In the first twenty wards of the city, the so-called organization strongholds, where sentiment normally is wet, the Vare machine was able to hold the voters in line for Davis and Brown. But in the other twenty-eight wards, where organization control is not so strong, the separate wet vote was surprisingly heavy.

In many country districts the wet vote for Bohlen and Phillips was also cutting into the count for Grundy and Pinchot. However, the full wet figures seemed likely to balance the poll in this regard.

Disorder at Polls.

The most serious encounter was at 513 Dickinson Street, where two Grundy watchers were knocked down by five workers supporting Brown and Davis. The neighborhood became excited and a report was sent to City Hall that the ward was invaded by New York gunmen.

Two arrests were made. Mr. Vare, touring the ward with his daughter, arrived at the polling place a few minutes after the riot call had been sent to City Hall.

Early reports from Philadelphia and other parts of the State indicated the heaviest primary vote in years. The election generally was orderly and seemed free from any intimidation of voters. The Committee of Seventy, a reform organization, was active to keep down fraud, while an investigation by a Senate committee is imminent.

The organization division workers were most careful to see that there was no trouble at the polls, while the registration committee was vigilant and kept the election officers warned of last day removals and illegal voters.

The voting was carried on under the eyes of special investigators for the Senate committee, who worked "under cover" to obtain information that may be used in the Federal investigation.

Machines in First Ward.

For the first time voting machines were employed in the First Ward here. This is a Vare stronghold and the voters are largely alien.

The machines worked well and on the average three minutes were required to register the choice of the voter. Much trouble was experienced with those who could not read or write, and under the law assistance was allowed for them.

Reports received by the Republican city and State committees, that the vote was heavy throughout the State, were held to indicate that the wet and liberal voters, the man in the street and the man of affairs, were defying the organization which has refused to espouse the wet cause.

In the first twenty wards of Philadelphia, known as loyal organization bailiwicks, the wet vote was kept down and Davis and Brown received heavy majorities. In the residential wards and in the suburbs, where the rich "main liners" and club men live, and in Montgomery, Chester and Delaware Counties, the wet Republican voter supported the wet ticket.

Grundy Votes for Pinchot.

The attitude of Senator Grundy was made known a few minutes after the polls opened. He was among the first to vote in his home town, Bristol, where his model factory and the City Hall and community centre expense stand as a monument to his generosity. As he left the polls and continued to act as a watcher, a custom he has followed for forty years, he said that he had voted for "Grundy and Pinchot." The news was flashed throughout the State and gave the Grundy and anti-machine followers the first definite information that there was a tacit alliance with the ex-Governor.

The primary excelled in interest and intensity of feeling the now historic race of 1926, when William S. Vare, on a wet platform, routed the Grundy-Mellon forces and defeated Senator George Wharton Pepper for Senator, only to be rejected by the Senate.

Centre of National Interest.

National interest was focused in the Senatorial contest. Senator Grundy, seeking the nomination for the seat to which he was appointed by Governor Fisher early this year, refused to make a deal with the Vare faction on the State ticket and entered the race as a "lone wolf," attacking General W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad and Republican National Committeeman.

After a deal was rejected by Senator Grundy, the Vare faction, which enlisted not only the support of the Pennsylvania Railroad and other powerful corporations, brought out the ticket headed by Secretary Davis for the Senate and Mr. Brown, who is a former Attorney General, for Governor.

As the campaign progressed it seemed evident that Senator Grundy had made a natural alliance with ex-Governor Pinchot, seeking the Republican nomination for Governor on a dry ticket. The ex-Governor and Senator Grundy were dry, while the Vare ticket was held to have "straddled" the issue by favoring a referendum on the Eighteenth Amendment and the State dry law.

Wets Swing Away From Machine.

After Secretary Davis and Mr. Brown had defined their stand on the wet question, the wet Republican voters, including many of those who have always been held in the Republican party by the tariff, brought out a wet ticket with Professor Bohlen for the Senate and ex-Representative Phillips for Governor.

At no time within a quarter of a century has the Republican machine in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh struggled so hard to control the machine vote. However, thousands of voters ignored the traditional tariff issue and regulation control of State affairs to register their voice for repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment.

The organization vote, which had remained steadfast in storm and strife and gave victory to Vare in 1926 because of his wet plank, deserted in the face of the probability that the organization candidates would be so weakened as to give the nomination to Grundy and Pinchot. In the wealthy divisions in Philadelphia and in the suburbs and in all industrial strongholds of the State the machine lost heavily to the wet ticket, particularly in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh.

Grundy's Bid for Power.

National interest in the primary arose not only because of the other personalities involved, but because of Senator Grundy's bid to be the supreme dictator of Pennsylvania politics, leaderless since the death of Senator Penrose, his hostility to the Hoover Administration on tariff matters and his opposition to General Atterbury and the Vare machine. Moreover, ex-Governor Pinchot was openly hostile to machine politics and corporation control.

All of the thirty-six Republican incumbents in the House of Representatives were renominated.

There was no contest in the Democratic primary and many wet Democrats are reported to have voted in the Republican primaries.

Sedgwick Kister of Lockhaven, a wealthy lumberman, now Democratic National Committeeman, was nominated for the Senate, and John M. Hemphill of Chester County for Governor.

Erie Votes Wet.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (AP).—Scattered returns from up-State counties indicated large pluralities for Grundy and Pinchot in the smaller cities and in the rural districts.

The first twenty-four districts of Erie County were unique among the early returns in that they gave Phillips more votes than either of his two opponents. These districts gave the wet candidate 1,666 votes, compared to Pinchot's 1,344 and Brown's 988. In these districts Phillips ran far ahead of his slate, but Bohlen also ran ahead of his opponents.

Bohlen Meets Protesting Voters.

HAVERFORD, Pa., May 20 (AP).—Francis H. Bohlen, wet candidate for United States Senator, voted early here today and ran into some indignant voters to whom ballots were refused on the ground that they had not been registered.

Mr. Bohlen promised an immediate investigation, and added:

"We don't want any hanky-panky work out here in the country. It's bad enough to have that kind of doings in Philadelphia. An inquiry will be made in each case and if the facts show any irregularities they will be turned over to the Nye Senate Committee."

John Howley, judge of election, said:

"If electors are not on the registry list sent down by the county commissioners, they cannot vote, although some persons refused ballots have voted previously."

BROWN LEADS IN PITTSBURGH.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURGH, May 20.—One hundred and eighty-one districts out of 1,450 in Allegheny County give for United States Senator: Davis, 18,783; Grundy, 3,893, and Bohlen, 4,823.

On this ratio Davis will win the County by over 100,000 plurality.

The official returns from 138 districts out of 458 in the county for Governor give: Brown, 10,930; Pinchot, 6,842, and Phillips, 3,604.

Should this ratio hold out Brown will have a majority of over 40,000 in Allegheny County over Pinchot.

These figures are considerably different from the unofficial returns which have Pinchot running neck and neck with Brown in the county. In near-by counties the figures vary greatly. Grundy and Davis are running close, bu tPinchot appears to be running away from Brown.

It is plainly manifest at this hour that Brown's plurality in Philadelphia and Allegheny County must overtop that of the rural counties to give him the nomination. At this hour it looks as though the Phillips-Bohlen vote would out-distance all speculation.

Major developments in Pittsburgh and Allegheny County were:

Polls were guarded by police and deputy sheriffs.

Arrest of election board members was refused by the Common Pleas Court unless charged with a felony.

Eight men, including two policemen, were arrested for disorder at polling places.

Ballot boxes were seized and election board officers arrested in the Second District of the Fifth Ward.

While hundreds of volunteer workers stood guard at polls, District Attorney Andrew T. Park, in compliance with the request of Chairman Nye of the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee detailed two assistants to watch for any irregularities. Some of the special agents sent to the State by Senator Nye were believed to be in Pittsburgh.

Seventy-five reserve police were on duty at the Central Police Station and a corps of deputies was held ready at the Sheriff's office to curb any trouble.

Expected Royal Baby's Cradle Saved by Prince as Home Burns

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

OSLO, May 20.—The beautiful mansion of Skougum, presented as a wedding gift last year to Crown Prince Olaf and his bride, Princess Martha of Sweden, was destroyed by fire.

The young royal couple had just returned from a sail on the lake and were hanging pictures in a first-floor room when the Crown Prince noticed smoke. Running outside, he found the whole roof ablaze.

The building was entirely of wood, and, as the only water available had to be carried in buckets from the lake, the Crown Prince ordered all efforts directed to saving the valuable paintings and tapestries and hundreds of wedding presents from the rooms on the ground floor.

The Prince, one of the first to dash into the burning house, was seen running out with a wicker cradle which the Princess had worked with fine silk trimmings for her expected baby.

GRUNDY ON DUTY 12 HOURS.

Senator Keeps Tabs on Check List at Bristol, as He Has for 40 Years.

BRISTOL, Pa., May 20 (AP).—United States Senator Joseph R. Grundy, seeking the Republican nomination for the Senate seat he now holds by appointment, held a window book, or voters' check list, at his home polling place today. He has done so for the past forty years, and said he intended to stay at the polls until the close at 7 P. M., Standard Time. He was at the polls when they opened at 7 A. M., and was the fifth person to vote.

Senator Grundy greeted each voter personally as he or she called at the polls and was identified in the window book. His many years of active service have enabled him to become intimately acquainted with the residents of the Second Ward.

A large percentage of the older voters dispensed with formality and greeted the Senator with a genial "Hello, Joe!" In many instances the conversation with the voters detoured from politics as he inquired after the "folks at home."

WETS WIN MAIN LINE VOTE.

Wealthy Residential Area Goes for Bohlen and Phillips in Primary.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, Wednesday, May 21.—The exclusive "Main Line" district, home of leading bankers, railroad and corporation officials, and often described as the wealthiest suburban area in the world, voted wet in yesterday's primary election.

Lower Merion and Radnor townships, which take in all of the "Main Line" territory, both returned pluralities for Francis H. Bohlen for the nomination for Senator and Thomas W. Phillips for the Governorship choice.

Professor Bohlen polled more than twice as many votes as Secretary Davis and had a substantial lead over Senator Grundy, while Mr. Phillips more than doubled the Pinchot vote and was not far from doubling Francis S. Brown's total.

The count in the two townships, where many directors of the Pennsylvania Railroad, United Gas Improvement Company and other corporations have their homes, was:

For Governor—Phillips, 4,413; Brown, 2,497; Pinchot, 1,882.

A similar trend, although not so pronounced, was evident in the well-to-do residential districts of Philadelphia, where the population, politically speaking, is generally regarded as independent.

'Dark Horse' Named in So. Dakota.

AMERICANS JOIN CUBA IN ANNIVERSARY FETE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

HAVANA, May 20.—With more than fifty military airplanes, of which twenty-nine were United States Army machines executing manoeuvres over Maine Plaza, soaring down single file and circling Morro Castle, then swinging back in squadron formation, the formal program of festivities in celebration of the twenty-eighth birthday anniversary of the Cuban Republic opened at 8 A. M. today in the presence of President Gerardo Machado y Morales and a distinguished company which surrounded him on a reviewing stand erected across the Maine monument.

A great throng lined the Malecon seawall and filled the plaza; it was estimated to include 50,000 persons.

After the airplane manoeuvres came a review of troops in which 600 marines from the U. S. S. Pensacola participated with members of the United Spanish-American War Veterans and the American Legion marching after them.

Five thousand Cuban troops were in the line of march, which required an hour and fifty minutes to pass the stand. The day was ushered in at midnight by the turning of powerful batteries of lights on the new Capitol. The festivities close with an official reception of the President to diplomats at the national capitol at 10 o'clock tonight.

Cuban residents of New York called upon Mayor Walker in City Hall yesterday and gave him a wreath of flowers in token of the Cuban anniversary.

Mayor Walker placed the wreath at the foot of the Liberty Pole in City Hall Park. A municipal band played Cuban and American airs when Leoncio Serpa, president of the Cuban committee, arrived at City Hall.

At noon Sunday the committee will hold another celebration at Riverside Drive and 156th Street, where it will be joined by American Army and Navy officers and Spanish War veterans.

MORROW MEN ACT TO AVOID VOTE LOSS

Confusion Over Having Name Twice on Ballots Feared, but He Insists on Course.

ABJURES A 'SUBTERFUGE'

Fort Opens Speaking Tour With Prohibition Talk and Jersey Drys Officially Back Him.

Dwight W. Morrow will campaign for both the short and long term Republican Senate nominations in New Jersey, even though his action may cost him many votes, his Newark headquarters announced last night.

Douglas G. Thomson, former Mayor of Englewood and manager of the Morrow campaign, said in a statement disclosing the Ambassador's decisions, that Mr. Morrow insisted on this stand out of a sense of duty to the voters despite the fact that it might mean loss of "many thousands of votes" through confusion arising from having his name twice on the ballot. The Ambassador, said Mr. Thomson, "would rather suffer defeat than resort to political subterfuge."

The Morrow managers spent all day conferring before the final decision was made known and then they prepared to conduct an intensive campaign to make the ballot clear in the minds of the voters. A slogan of "vote twice for Morrow" was suggested.

The complicated situation requiring the Ambassador's decision arose from the fact that Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, a leading opponent, has withdrawn his petition for the short term nomination, while Representative Franklin W. Fort, dry candidate in the three-cornered race, filed only for the long term.

Requirement of the Law.

The New Jersey laws require that a successor to Senator David Baird, appointed when Walter E. Edge resigned to become Ambassador to France, serve only from election day until March 4 and that an election be held at the same time for a full Senate term of six years. Mr. Frelinghuysen and Mr. Fort, seeking only the long term nomination, will have their names on the ballot once.

When Mr. Frelinghuysen withdrew his short term petition, his followers said he had gained a tactical advantage over the Ambassador, contending that the confusion that would result among voters, usually instructed to vote only once, would cut down the Morrow vote heavily. Some estimated as much as a 20 per cent loss from the Morrow strength.

The Ambassador's advisers frankly admitted their dilemma and wavered during the day, but when the issue was presented to Mr. Morrow he insisted on running for both nominations.

Statement From Morrow.

Here is the statement issued by Mr. Thomson:

"It is Mr. Morrow's belief that since there is a vacancy for the short term in the United States Senate to be voted upon at the same time as the election for the regular Senatorial term is to be held, the only honest and fair thing to the voters is to have the man who offers himself to the voters for the United States Senate stand for both terms. Mr. Morrow expressed the view that in this and in other matters in his campaign he would face the issues squarely and would rather suffer defeat than resort to political subterfuge.

"This decision of Mr. Morrow's was taken after a careful review of the situation and a realization of the fact that his stand might cost him many thousands of votes in the primaries because of the confusion of the voters, who would vote for him once, instead of twice, as will be required by his standing for both terms. Mr. Morrow will be a candidate for both the short and the long term."

Mr. Morrow's decision would seem to insure his presence in the Senate if only for the short term. John A. Kelly, his only short term opponent in the primaries, is not expected to offer much opposition. His short term Democratic opponent in the general election will be Miss Thelma Parkinson of Vineland, Alexander C. Simpson of Jersey City concentrating, like Mr. Fort and Mr. Frelinghuysen, on the long term Democratic nomination.

Fort Opens Campaign.

Mr. Fort opened his speaking campaign before the Elizabeth Women's Club in Elizabeth during the day and plunged into the main theme of his candidacy—defense of prohibition.

"The fanatics," he said, "have injured the cause of prohibition but the time is here when those of us who are not fanatics on either side of the question shall join hands in an effort to solve the problem."

The Representative went on to deny assertions of anti-Prohibitionists that young people of today were drinking more heavily than the adolescents of his own youth. He said that of the 435 members of the House there was not one who did not echo the recent statement of Representative Beck of Pennsylvania that the Eighteenth Amendment would not be repealed in this generation.

"I do not say that the law cannot be repealed," Mr. Fort continued, "but I do say it will not be repealed. The solid silver judgment of the people in different parts of the United States will see the law stand."

Several women interrupted at this point to ask him if he drank himself. Mr. Fort replied that he had not used intoxicants since 1922 when he had opened several bottles which had been in his celler since before Prohibition.

Mr. Fort will speak on Friday at the Winfield Scott Hotel in Elizabeth at a luncheon of the Women's Republican Club of Roselle Park.

Endorsed by Dry League.

The executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of New Jersey met in Newark in the afternoon and endorsed Mr. Fort's candidacy. The Rev. Dr. James K. Shields, State superintendent, announcing the result of the conference, said:

"We unanimously and enthusiastically endorsed the candidacy of Mr. Fort, and did so because we recognized we had a man in Mr. Fort equal to either of the other candidates in his ability to occupy the position and discharge its duties. We hailed his campaign with profound satisfaction that there was a man, a native of New Jersey, who had the courage and fortitude to offer himself as the champion of the cause which is today the leading issue of the nation and yet with a certain amount of unpopularity among the politicians of the wet order."

Dr. Shields said that while the league would labor for Mr. Fort, the Representative would have his own campaign organization.

Mr. Frelinghuysen toured New Jersey coast counties during the day and conferred with leaders of his forces in Long Branch and Toms River. He will rest today at his home.

REACH COMPROMISE ON NEW YORK CANAL

Senate Committee Stipulate Its Channel Shall Not Rival St. Lawrence Route.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A compromise agreement on the proposal in the rivers and harbors bill for the Federal Government to take over the Erie and Oswego Barge Canals was reached by the Senate Commerce Committee in executive session late tonight.

Following a long debate, the committee approved a provision authorizing Federal acquisition of the canals, but with strict limitations to prevent their development as ship channels in competition with the proposed St. Lawrence waterway.

The text of the compromise provision written into the bill by the committee is as follows:

"The Secretary of War is authorized and empowered to accept from the State of New York the State-owned canals known as the Erie and Oswego Canals, and to operate and maintain them at their present depth at an annual estimated cost of $2,500,000 as barge canals only, and not as, or with any intention to make them, ship channels, or to hinder or delay the improvement of the St. Lawrence waterway as the seaway from the Great Lakes to the ocean; provided, that such transfer shall be made without cost to the United States and without liability for damage claims arising out of said canals prior to their acquisition by the United States, and shall include all land, easements and completed or uncompleted structures and appurtenances of the said waterways and their service; and provided further, that no project for the widening or deepening of these canals or for the elevation of bridges connecting therewith shall proceed without subsequent authorization of Congress."

The committee also approved the Illinois waterway item as passed by the House authorizing expenditure of $7,500,000 for completion of the Illinois waterway by the Federal Government.

The committee will meet again tomorrow, when it is hoped that the action on the bill will be completed. Chairman Johnson and other members of the committee were inclined to believe that the bill now had a good chance of passage.

LESLIE SENTENCE PUT OFF.

Prosecutor Awaits Alleged London Record of Woman in Gem Case.

Judge Koenig in General Sessions yesterday postponed until June 20 the sentencing of Mrs. Marie J. Leslie, former housekeeper for Isaac E. Emerson, patent medicine manufacturer. She was convicted two weeks ago of the theft of $173,000 in jewelry from Wanamaker's, under pretense it was for Mrs. Emerson.

Assistant District Attorney Edwin B. McGuire, who prosecuted Mrs. Leslie, obtained the adjournment, after he had explained that data from the British Foreign Office in London regarding three previous felony convictions there on which a life sentence might be asked had not yet arrived.

Mrs. Leslie, who is 54 years old, has been a prisoner in the Harlem prison for women since her arrest here. In her trial it was brought out that in three years she had obtained about $480,000 in jewelry from Wanamaker's stores in this city and Philadelphia under the pretext it was being ordered for Mrs. Emerson.

Mrs. Lee Trailing in Texas Vote.

ABILENE, Texas, May 20 (AP).—The Abilene Morning News says Thomas L. Blanton of Abilene is leading Mrs. R. O. Lee by 883 votes tonight in their contest for the Seventeenth Congressional District seat. Of 13,477 votes accounted for, Blanton had received 7,180 and Mrs. Lee 6,297. The election was to fill the vacancy caused by the death of Representative Lee.

WETS PLAN FIGHT IN FALL ELECTIONS

AIMS TO WIN REPUBLICANS

Drive to Be Made for Delegates to Convention in Country Districts —Survey Planned.

The Association Against the Prohibition Amendment, it was learned yesterday, will make this State its principal battleground in the election this Autumn. In the primaries it will make a fight not only against dry candidates for the House of Representatives, the State Senate and Assembly, but will make a drive also for wet delegates to the Republican State Convention in up-State districts where a poll already taken by the association indicates that wets may have a chance of winning out.

A survey of the State by agents of the association will be in progress before another week, and on this survey will be based the strategy of the wets in the coming campaign.

A great deal of the primary fighting will be with a view to creating an impression on the Republicans to deter the Republican State convention from carrying into effect the dry program now advocated by many of the Republican leaders in up-State localities, and said to have the support of President Hoover and of William J. Maier, the Republican State chairman and titular leader of the party in this State. The primaries will precede the State convention by approximately a fortnight and the wets believe that under the circumstances any wet primary victories cannot fail but have an effect on the convention line of action.

The wets are already certain of having a strong bloc of wet delegates in the convention. Should the basis of representation that was in force when the 1928 Republican State Convention met be continued, and control the election of delegates to the State Convention this year, the bloc of wet delegates would constitute approximately one-half of the total number of delegates. More than one-third, on that basis, would be delegates from the five counties within New York City. All the Republican county committees within the city are wet.

The association is planning to make its fight for delegates in districts outside of the counties containing large cities which give promise of a wet victory with a view to supplementing the number of wet delegates which are certain to be sent to the convention from the large urban communities of the State. Under the circumstances, should the wet fights be crowned with success to any considerable extent, the line-up at the Republican State convention this Autumn on the wet and dry question would be between the cities and the country districts and the vote be very close.

Treaty Denies Us Parity, Admiral Chase Asserts

PRINGLE FAVORS BIG GUNS

REED AND JOHNSON CLASH

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Two of the navy's best known flag officers, Rear Admiral J. V. Chase, Commander-in-Chief designate of the fleet, and Rear Admiral J. R. P. Pringle, president of the Naval War College at Newport, testifying today before the two Senate Committees conducting hearings on the London naval treaty, gave it as their opinion that the treaty leaves the United States in an inferior position.

On the other hand Rear Admiral H. E. Yarnell, chief of the bureau of engineering of the navy, expressed satisfaction with the treaty in his testimony before the Naval Affairs Committee. He agreed with Admiral Pratt on the value of 6-inch-gun cruisers, and stated it as his belief that the treaty "puts us in the best position relative to the other powers that we have ever been in."

Admiral Chase was a witness before the Committee on Foreign Relations, while Admiral Pringle aired his opinions before the Committee on Naval Affairs.

The unexpected opposition of Admiral Chase annoyed Senator Reed, a member of the delegation at London, who cross-examined the Admiral in sharp fashion, but without making much headway, for the naval officer refused to lose his temper or be led into hasty replies. He was always cool and weighed every word before he answered.

In the end Senator Reed's tactics drew the fire of Senator Johnson of California, who suggested that the Pennsylvanian was misinterpreting the Admiral's replies.

Chase Comes Prepared.

Admiral Chase was the only witness before the Foreign Relations Committee. He had been forewarned and had two briefcases full of figures and records, to which he was constantly referring before answering the questions fired at him by Senators Reed and Robinson and Walsh of Montana.

Discussing the amendatory decisions of the London conference in so far as the Washington treaty of 1922 was concerned, Admiral Chase declared that "the only positive action taken by the London conference with regard to the Washington treaty was to formulate a new definition of an airplane carrier and to modify the battleship replacement program."

He said he stood squarely with the general board in the matter of cruisers armed with 8-inch guns. The "last ditch" to which America could go if the navy is to have its necessary complement of cruisers of this type was and is, he declared, twenty-one, not eighteen, the number agreed upon at London.

"If a nation be required to cut its cloth according to a pattern not of its own making, a misfit is inevitable," Admiral Chase told the committee, in urging that navies should be restricted by total tonnage, not by categories.

Coming to the problem of parity as between the United States and Great Britain, Admiral Chase asserted that parity would not be achieved in all classes of ships, either with Britain or Japan.

Rear Admiral Mark L. Bristol, chairman of the Navy General Board, was recalled by the committee, but was excused without a question being asked. He was followed by Admiral Chase, who asked that he be permitted to read into the record a prepared statement before being questioned.

Chase Voices Personal Views.

Admiral Chase then read his statement, which was, in part, as follows:

"I desire at the beginning of this statement to make clear to the committee that I am expressing my own personal views. I am in no sense a spokesman for the General Board, of which I am a member.

"It is nevertheless a fact that I took an active part in discussion by the General Board of matters closely related to the London treaty, and assisted in formulating the board's opinions and recommendations in regard to these matters. With these opinions of the board I am in entire accord, and to the board's recommendations I fully subscribe.

"My point of view is naturally a technical one. I have no knowledge of the political considerations confronting the delegates to the London naval conference. Without such knowledge I do not feel qualified to comment upon political considerations nor to hazard an opinion as to the weight to be given them.

"On the other hand, I am unable to imagine the possibility of an equitable agreement emerging from a naval limitation conference if technical considerations be ignored.

Conference "Had Two Tasks."

"As I see it, the London conference had two quite distinct and independent tasks to perform.

"One task was to modify any article of the Washington treaty which eight years' operation might indicate to be defective. The Washington treaty, like all human documents, is not perfect. This fact was recognized in the treaty itself, for provision was made for convening a conference of the signatory powers for the purpose of remedying any apparent defects. Each article of the treaty was subject to scrutiny for the purpose of bringing to light any defects, and of devising suitable remedial modifications.

"In my opinion the most defective article from an American point of view is Article XIX. By this article the United States, Great Britain and Japan relinquish for an indefinite period of time the exercise of their sovereign rights to increase the military and naval facilities within the territory of certain Pacific possessions of these three nations.

"The territory of the United States to which these restrictions apply is greater in area and value than is the territory of either Great Britain or Japan, to which the restrictions apply. Moreover, in the case of the United States, these Pacific possessions are much further from the nearest point of support.

Says Article XIX Impairs Defense.

"Article XIX, therefore, operates decidedly to the disadvantage of the United States, and places this country in an obviously inferior position.

"It does not appear that Article XIX was brought up for discussion at the London conference.

"The only positive action taken by the London conference with regard to the Washington treaty was to formulate a new definition for an airplane carrier and to modify the battleship replacement program.

"An examination of the battleship replacement program of the Washington treaty shows that from 1922 to 1936 the United States, as regards capital ships, occupies an inferior position both as to number and tonnage.

In 1936, according to the replacement program, the United States attains equality of numbers but does not reach equality of tonnage until 1942. There appears to be no logical reason for the retention of superfluous capital ships by the United States, Great Britain and Japan from 1925, when the Rodney and Nelson were completed, until 1936.

"The scrapping of these superfluous ships now, as prescribed by the London treaty, in my opinion, is undoubtedly a step in the right direction, which should have been taken five years ago, thus saving their maintenance and modernization costs.

"It will be noted that the Washington treaty replacement program required the United States to abstain from capital ship construction from 1922 to 1931."

Admiral Chase then voiced disapproval of the total cessation of capital ship construction, followed by a period of intense activity. He urged instead apportioning replacements over a period of years as an economy measure. He continued:

"The extension of the 'holiday' until 1936 adopted by the London conference, in no way corrects the defects of the Washington Treaty replacement program, but rather enhances the evil effects of the holiday prescribed by that treaty. The replacement problem remains unsolved. I doubt the wisdom of deferring its solution.

"The second task confronting the London conference was to establish limitations in categories not covered by the Washington treaty. Prior to the London conference, the United States claimed 'parity' with Great Britain, and that nation publicly conceded our claim.

"Much has been written and spoken concerning 'parity,' but there appear to be almost as many ideas as to what constitutes 'parity' as there are writers or speakers on the subject.

"One prevalent idea is that 'parity' can be achieved only by exact duplication of ships. This idea, in my opinion, is fundamentally unsound because identical ships do not fulfill the naval needs of two nations equally well, on account of the different conditions under which they must operate.

"Another favorite idea is to base parity upon equality of fighting or naval strength. However attractive such a conception may be from a theoretical point of view, it is wholly impracticable, for the simple reason that fighting strength or naval strength is not susceptible of exact computation. Two nations inevitably assign widely different fighting or naval value to the same ship, and thus make this method of estimating parity of little or no practical value.

"After much thought upon the subject, I have come to the conclusion that the only equitable method of estimating parity is one embracing two wholly independent principles, neither of which can be disregarded.

"The first principle is that each nation must be allotted equal amounts of material from which to construct its category of ships under consideration. The second principle is that each nation must be wholly free to utilize its allotted amount of material in the manner which each nation deems will best meet its particular needs.

"The scrupulous observance of both principles enables each nation to derive from its allotment of material a result best suited to its peculiar needs. When each nation is thus in a position to make the most of its opportunity without let or hindrance, parity may rightly be assumed to exist.

"It will be noted that this conception of parity absolutely forbids the subdivision of categories into classes by armament, size, speed or other characteristic, but in no way prevents the imposition of limits as to maximum size of unit or maximum calibre of gun.

States Our "Cruiser Needs."

"The question of parity has been much discussed, chiefly as regards cruisers. The cruiser needs of the United States have been determined as follows:

"In 1922 the Navy Department, after much discussion, formulated a naval policy which was approved and published by the Secretary of the Navy with the sanction of the President. In 1928 this naval policy was revised and brought up to date and was again approved and published by the Secretary of the Navy with the sanction of the President. Both editions of the naval policy contained this 'building policy' as regards cruisers:

" 'To support the fleet and protect our commerce, replace all old cruisers with modern cruisers of 10,000 standard tons displacement, carrying 8-inch guns, and in addition, to build similar cruisers at a rate that will maintain effective cruiser tonnage in conformity with the capital ship ratios as established by the Washington Treaty limiting naval armament.'

"Since 1922 all annual building programs submitted by the Navy Department to Congress through the Bureau of the Budget have conformed to this policy. Congress from time to time has authorized the construction of two 8-inch cruisers, six 8-inch cruisers and fifteen 8-inch cruisers.

"The authorization of the fifteen 8-inch cruisers was very specific in that it directed five cruisers to be laid down each year for three successive years. This authorization was passed by votes of about 5 to 1 in both the House and Senate.

He Backs 8-Inch Guns.

"It would thus appear that both the executive and legislative branches of the government were satisfied that out of a cruiser tonnage of 300,500 tons, 230,000 tons should be in the form of 8-inch cruisers. A plainer, more authoritative statement that this type of cruiser best meets the needs of the United States can scarcely be imagined.

"In regard to categories upon which limitation has been effected by the London treaty and the Washington treaty, the following table shows how nearly the Washington treaty ratios of 5—5—3 and 'parity' were preserved.

"Tonnages and ratios on assumption that United States will build eighteen 8-inch gun cruisers."

Here Admiral Chase read a table based on naval tonnage allowed the United States, Great Britain and Japan under the London treaty, by Dec. 31, 1936.

The table, giving tonnage in each category, purported to show that tonnage parity with Britain will have been achieved only in destroyers, submarines and aircraft carriers. In all other categories Britain's ratio was shown to exceed ours.

In the case of Japan, parity was demonstrated to exist only in aircraft carriers. In capital ships the Japanese ratio was said to be 2.9 to our 5; in all other categories it exceeded the allotted 3.

The sole category in which parity was shown to exist for all three navies was aircraft carriers, where the 5—5—3 balance was maintained.

Chase Explains Table.

The witness then went on:

"It will be noted from the foregoing table that the Washington treaty ratio of 5—5—3 is maintained exactly only in the aircraft carrier category. In all other categories the United States is below this ratio with respect to Great Britain or Japan."

"In the capital ship category, the United States is slightly above the ratio with respect to Japan, but below the ratio with respect to Great Britain. Parity with Great Britain is attained in the aircraft carrier, destroyer and submarine categories.

"In the cruiser category, the lack of parity with Great Britain as regards tonnage is very marked. In this category, however, the freedom of disposition of allotted tonnage on the part of the United States is much abridged.

"It may also be noted that if the United States were allotted a cruiser tonnage of 339,000 tons with freedom to dispose this allotted tonnage as it might desire, parity with Great Britain in all categories, except that of capital ships, would be assured.

"In the capital ship category the inferiority of the United States with respect to Great Britain would be slight. Under these same conditions, Japan's ratio with respect to the United States would still be above the Washington treaty ratio, but her excess in this respect would not be so great as under the terms of the London treaty, and therefore, in my opinion, would be more nearly acceptable to the United States.

"The so-called 'escalator' clause, in my opinion, must inevitably operate to the disadvantage of the United States. I cannot conceive of any action on the part of any non-signatory power that would compel this nation to take the initiative under the escalator clause of the London treaty.

"If some other signatory power, under the authority granted by this clause, should increase its tonnage in one or more categories, it by no means follows that the best interest of the United States would require duplication of that power's action, yet that is the only course under the terms of the London treaty open to this nation."

When Admiral Chase concluded his statement, Senator Johnson asked if it was true that Great Britain, under the replacement clauses of the London treaty, can if she desires replace all her cruisers except the two of the Emerald class.

That was true, replied Admiral Chase.

Under the London treaty, Admiral Chase said, Britain can replace between now and 1936 a cruiser tonnage of 86,350, Japan a tonnage of 18,190, and the United States 14,100 tons.

"In your opinion," asked Senator Johnson, "is it necessary that the United States, for the protection of our commerce and the adequate defense of our country, maintain the Washington treaty ratio of 5-5-3?"

"It is," Admiral Chase answered.

"Is that ratio maintained with Japan under the London treaty?"

"It is not."

Senator Reed then inquired if it was not true that Japan's cruiser strength was two and one-half times that of the United States when the London conference was called, and the Admiral replied that such happened to have been the case. Admiral Chase said it was his view that at Washington, in 1922, Japan had accepted in principle the ratio of 5 for the United States and 3 for herself in all categories.

"If she accepted the principle why did she go on and build up more than two and one-half to our one; that is not accepting a principle, is it?" Senator Reed asked.

"She did what she considered was right. Because we did not go ahead and maintain that ratio, was no fault of Japan's. It was a fault of ours, I should say."

Admiral Chase said it was true the General Board did not share the views of Admiral Pratt, the retiring commander-in-chief of the fleet, as to the relative values of cruisers armed with 8-inch and 6-inch guns.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas asked Admiral Chase if he was in favor of limitation on the "global tonnage" basis. Admiral Chase answered that there are, in his opinion, many attractive features in the global system, and that he was inclined to favor it. In his opinion a nation should have the freedom "of what she considers her sovereign right to do, with the tonnage which she accepts, as she pleases."

He explained that he favors limitation as to total tonnages and calibres. A nation within her prescribed tonnage limitation should be permitted to build the kind of craft best fitted to serve her national needs, he said.

He hoped the treaty allotment of 8-inch cruisers will be constructed, but advised against too much speed in building up the 6-inch types.

Senator Reed resumed the cross-examination of the witness, and after questioning him on the lessons of 8-inch cruiser operations during the World War switched to the present American cruiser program.

Admiral Chase said the navy is now at work on improved designs for the 8-inch cruisers which this country will build if the London treaty ratio is reached. These ships will be better, he added, than those of the Salt Lake City class and others of that type now under construction.

"You surprise me," said Senator Reed, "when you say that in these new ships we will not keep the Salt Lake and Pensacola class."

Senator Reed interpreted the Admiral's view to be that the Salt Lake City and Pensacola "were so defective" that we will build no more of them.

Johnson Supports Chase.

"He said nothing of the sort," Senator Johnson exclaimed. "Let's repeat the witness's testimony with some degree of accuracy."

"What led you to think I was repeating his testimony?" asked Senator Reed.

"What you said," replied Senator Johnson. "This kind of remarks ought not to be made by you, of all people sitting at this table. You ought to be here in a judicial frame of mind, and you ought to be here willing to listen to the testimony that is given here.

"Sitting here as proponent, as witness, as advocate, as judge and as jury, you ought to be exceedingly fair in respect to the testimony of witnesses."

"I am grateful to the Senator for his lecture, and I will try and keep his own temperate frame of mind," replied Senator Reed.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas moved for peace. Mr. Reed said he was through and the Admiral was excused.

Admiral Pringle, before the Naval Affairs Committee, said if he had his way he would have a maximum of probably fifteen 6-inch gun cruisers and then "would put every ton of cruiser strength into 8-inch gun, 10,000-ton ships."

Admiral Yarnell, on the other hand, said he believed that the treaty gives the United States as near parity with Great Britain as possible, and that the 6-inch gun cruiser is "much more valuable."

Yarnell Approves Light Guns.

Admiral Yarnell based his approval of the treaty on the belief that the 10,000-ton vessels armed with 6-inch guns can carry heavier armor, saying he had reached his decision after conferences with naval officers and builders.

Asserting that it is "vitally imperative" that a ship be armored against shells as heavy as those thrown by guns carried on vessels of her type, he said:

"We have 8-inch gun cruisers that probably could be defeated in close action by 5-inch guns."

However, with vessels of 10,000 tons, he continued, it would be possible to arm them with 6-inch guns and protect them with armor against the same size guns, "which I dare say is more protection than the 8-inch cruiser enjoys today."

Saying that the treaty leaves us no worse off in the Pacific than before, the naval engineer told the committee, "any assurance of success in Pacific engagement" requires fortifications, dry docks and a base in the Philippines.

Two Experts Testify.

The testimony of Captain W. W. Smyth, member of the Navy General Board and one of the naval experts at the conference, was featured by the reading of a memorandum of his sole appearance before the delegates at London which later was ruled out of the record by Senator Hale.

This memorandum told how he had said that six-inch gun cruisers might equal eight-inch cruisers in fleet action, and for that purpose the navy would need between twelve and sixteen of them.

Otherwise, he recommended that "all available cruiser tonnage should be built in the largest tonnage allowable (10,000 tons) and designed for independent action." His other testimony bore out a preference for eight-inch gun vessels.

Commander H. C. Train, a veteran expert at naval conferences, told the committee that he believed that fifteen 6-inch cruisers might be valuable for fleet action, but that he preferred 8-inch gun vessels for the rest.

Delay Till Fall Hinted.

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP).—Friends of the naval treaty today moved to hasten its report to the Senate, as a serious movement to defer its consideration until next session gained momentum. Senator Watson, the Republican leader, expressed the view today that unless the treaty was ready for consideration as soon as the Senate disposed of the tariff bill, the membership would demand an immediate adjournment, deferring the pact until next Fall.

Chairman Borah of the Foreign Relations Committee, gave notice in an executive session of the committee that after hearing one more naval expert tomorrow—Rear Admiral J. M. Reeves of the General Board—he was ready to conclude the hearings unless individual members wanted other witnesses.

Senator Johnson replied that he would have several more witnesses.

Senator Borah said the treaty will be reported from his committee before any adjournment.

596 PASS ANNAPOLIS TEST.

Results of April Examinations Announced by Academy.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., May 20.—Official reports issued today announce that 596 candidates passed the mental examinations for admission to the Naval Academy held in April. One hundred and twenty-nine passed in examinations last February, making a total of 725 youths eligible to take the physical tests for admission.

The percentage of success attained by the candidates from the enlisted ranks, 63.20, is higher than that of any other group. Of those who took the substantiating examinations, after qualification on certificate of recognized schools, 36.15 passed. The percentage passing of those taking the examination from the Naval Reserve was 31.25 and of those taking the regular examination 22.22.

Ninety-one members of the enlisted force of the navy and marine corps were successful, and all will be admitted if they pass the physical examination. More than a hundred passed last year, the first time the full number authorized by law were successful.

Japanese Vice Minister Says Americans Made No Such Commitment at London.

OFFICER'S WOUNDS FATAL

Member of Naval Staff Dies From Self-Inflicted Injuries Said to Be Protest at Treaty.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

TOKIO, May 20.—Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs Yoshida gave an interview to your correspondent today, in the course of which he said the Japanese Government and people very sincerely hoped the United States would not build three additional cruisers which she is permitted to lay down in 1933, 1934 and 1935 under the terms of the London treaty. He denied the report that any commitment had been made by the American delegation not to build those cruisers.

"The Japanese Government and people very sincerely hope," he said, "that the United States will not build the three extra cruisers. In fact, the Japanese delegates at the London conference tried their hardest to influence the American delegates to commit themselves in this sense. The American delegates never consented and declared they could not accept this suggestion, so the reported statement credited to a member of Admiral Takarabe's party is not true. Furthermore, there was no agreement made at London which has not been published."

The statement referred to by Vice Minister Yoshida was circulated yesterday by the Japanese news agency Nippon Demp-o and said that Senator Reed and Admiral Pratt had repeatedly stated that the United States would not build the three additional cruisers.

Admiral Okada, former Minister of the Navy and member of the naval general staff, was called upon today to be an intermediary between Admiral Takarabe and Admiral Kato, chief of the naval staff, in patching up their differences. Admiral Okada held a long conference with Admiral Kato and it is expected that a further conference of Admirals Takarabe, Kato and Okada will be held tomorrow. A meeting of the Supreme Military Council will follow within a few days.

Lieut. Commander Eiji Kusakari of the naval general staff, who committed hara-kiri in a train from Kobe to Tokio early this morning, died a few hours later at a hospital to which he had been removed. He is a son of the Samurai family and employed a short dagger of a type used in feudal days.

The tragedy was discovered by a train conductor, who heard groaning in a sleeping compartment and looked in to see what was the matter. He found the officer in bed, with wounds in the abdomen and the throat. The officer left no papers which would indicate the motive for taking his life, but his colleagues say he was bitter over the naval treaty and believed he committed hara-kiri as a protest against it. He was 40 years old and leaves a widow and four children, three girls and a boy. The naval general staff is conducting an investigation.

POLICEMAN BREAKS ARM IN 'SHOW' FOR WHALEN

Dog, Exhibiting Thief-Catching for Commissioner's Pleasure, Is Too Rough at New Dorp.

Just about a year ago Staten Island was much troubled by a "pants burglar." It still is, as a matter of fact, but a year ago they took steps. On the command of Police Commissioner Whalen all the departmental dogs were gathered from the four other boroughs and were shipped to the island. It was felt that even if men could not catch the robber, dogs might. They have been aiding the detectives ever since.

Late Monday evening a strange telephone call reached the island's headquarters at St. George. It was to the effect that the commissioner was coming. Deputy Inspector Thomas Cummings, who rules Brooklyn as well as Richmond, hurried over and Deputy Inspector William Shelvey, direct overseer of the island, dashed for headquarters. They waited until the grapevine telegraph brought word the commissioner was going direct to New Dorp. And so did they, hurriedly.

The commissioner with his party of friends entered the New Dorp Station practically without warning. He explained briefly that he had come to see the dogs, that he liked dogs and so did his friends and he wanted to show them how good police dogs worked. Patrolman Peter Reiss, who is their official trainer, was called and he led the group to the stable next door, which serves as a kennel. The commissioner admired the dogs for a time and then asked for an exhibition.

The department owns one dog (it comes from Queens) which has been trained to grab anybody snatching a woman's purse. He is a large dog, and not particularly friendly, so before undertaking the rôle of burglar, Patrolman Reiss thoughtfully bound himself about with quantities of wool packing. Patrolman Timothy Healy, replete with a woman's dress, blouse and hat, held the purse.

Reiss ran for Healy, grabbed the purse and started off. A revolver shot was the signal for the dog. The animal bounced forward, knocked Reiss down, took the purse and smarled threateningly. The commissioner applauded, so they did it again. On the third time, however, the dog knocked the pseudo-burglar down with such force that he broke his right arm. The exhibition stopped there, with the commissioner's regrets and a call to the Staten Island Hospital for an ambulance. This was at 1 o'clock yesterday morning.

Reiss explained yesterday that he regarded it all in the day's work. They are still fine dogs, he said.

ADVERTISING MEN PREDICT A REVIVAL

SUMMER MAY BE "DULL"

Advertising Is Praised as an Aid to Prosperity and to International Peace.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Optimistic predictions for the coming year in spite of the business depression, characterized the discussions today at the annual convention of the Advertising Federation of America.

The value and importance of advertising in bringing about the desired improvement was emphasized by all who addressed the convention.

That the present "recession from prosperity" has nearly, if not quite, run its course, with definite improvement certain within the next few months, was asserted by Francis H. Sisson, vice president of the Guaranty Trust Company; John Moody, of Moody's Investors Service, and Frank Greene, managing editor of Bradstreet's, all of whom in turn agreed with Louis Wiley, business manager of THE NEW YORK TIMES, that "the way to bring back prosperity is by hard work and sales effort, of which advertising is a prime essential."

Discussion of the place of advertising in international relations and international trade, at a luncheon conference attended by the Ambassadors of Germany and Chile, Assistant Secretary of War Payne, and Assistant Secretary of Commerce Klein, moved Herbert S. Houston of New York City, to make an appeal for organized advertising to give force to the Kellogg pact, by exerting its power to persuade the signatory powers to apply economic pressure against "outlaw" nations.

Advertising Held Aid to Peace.

"International trade cannot be carried on without international peace, and advertising, if used wisely, has a great power to provide the essential peace," Mr. Houston declared, arguing that there is no reason why nations violating international agreements should not be "outlawed," the same as business firms which offend by violating trade practices.

Carrying further the suggestion made yesterday by Senator Allen of Kansas, that advertising be used to "sell" prohibition and the London naval treaty to the people, Mr. Houston asserted that "it would be very much worth while if the advertisers make it their particular concern to adopt plans that would give force and validity to Article 2 of the Kellogg treaty, to the end that a nation being an outlaw be treated as an outlaw nation."

The influence of advertising on the development of agricultural communities was discussed by Senator Capper of Kansas, who predicted, in an address before the Agricultural Publishers Association, increasing possibilities in the rural market, with increased farm production and improved physical environment.

Radio broadcasting was presented as a public service, and the growth in the radio industry illustrated by Frank A. Arnold, director of development for the National Broadcasting Company, who cited figures of a recent survey as showing that 12,824,000 families, or 43 per cent of the families of the country, own and operate radio receiving sets.

The advertising is clearing away "misapprehensions" as to public utilities was emphasized by Edwin S. Friendly, business manager of The New York Sun, and Owen A. Connor, financial director of The Philadelphia Public Ledger, and B. J. Mullaney, president of the American Gas Association.

Dull Summer Predicted.

The assurance of increased business prosperity contained in the addresses of Mr. Moody at today's joint luncheon of the Associations of Newspaper Executives and Classified Advertising Managers and of Mr. Greene at the afternoon session of the former group, was coupled with the warning by Mr. Moody that this would be a dull Summer in the business world.

Mr. Moody, however, expressed the belief that business "will take a turn for the better at the end of the Summer, and by September a definite revival will have set in."

Admitting that "there has been a pause in the progress of business, a decrease in the earnings and profits, and the shadow of doubt still hangs above it," Mr. Sisson, addressing the members and guests of the federation at their annual banquet tonight, said that the worst of the business recession had passed, although the process of readjustment was far from complete.

Advertising a "Trusted Servant."

Mr. Wiley, who followed Mr. Sisson on the program, pointed out several "unique distinctions" of advertising as a servant of the people.

"It has never been investigated by a Congressional committee," he said. "It has never been asked the source of its funds, nor subpoenaed to incriminate itself. Its files of letters have never been spread to the world by inquisitive committees. It is a trusted servant."

He told the members and guests of the federation that "we of the newspaper world are proud of the part we play in taking advertising to the consumer."

"The daily net paid sale of newspapers in the United States is close to 40,000,000 copies," Mr. Wiley said. "That is mass production which rivals any deeds of our industrial giants.

"It is class production, too. The indispensability of the newspaper to our leaders in every walk of life is even greater than the indispensability of the picture sheet to the janitor's wife. The newspaper is the one universal form of our community's social and political life today.

"Through its columns the citizens of high and low degree meet daily, exert their influence upon common action, thought and progress. Not only in the community but in international relations, good-will and understanding are promoted by the interchange of our newspapers as spokesmen for the people of the nations.

"We hope that soon the rate of international postage upon second-class matter will be reduced, so as not practically to prohibit any substantial amount of circulation of our newspapers abroad, as well as the circulation of European newspapers on this side."

Other speakers at the banquet were Senator Harrison of Mississippi, whose subject was "I Seen Your Advertisement," and Dr. Ray Lyman Wilbur, Secretary of the Interior, who discussed the visual appeal of advertising.

CALLS WICKERSHAM IN IMPASSE ON PLAN

House Judiciary Committee Seeks His Aid in Breaking Deadlock on Bills.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—A deadlock in the House on the prohibition enforcement program sought by President Hoover's crime commission became more apparent today when it was learned that Chairman George W. Wickersham of that body had been asked to appear before the Judiciary Committee tomorrow to try to help straighten things out.

The situation is becoming more and more acute, as legislative leaders are now pinning their hopes on adjourning soon after June 1.

It also became evident today that a fight will be made on continuance of the national commission on law enforcement and observance—the so-called Wickersham commission—and the President's crime commission for another year when Senator Glass of Virginia offered a resolution calling for a statement of the Wickersham commission's expenditures.

A recent communication from President Hoover to Congress asked an additional appropriation of $250,000 to carry the commission for another year. This provoked Senator Glass, who declared the commission had "made no adequate report of its activities in connection with prohibition enforcement." His resolution today called upon the Controller General for a "comprehensive statement" of the commission's expenditures.

In the House Judiciary Committee there is understood to be no little opposition to the proposal of the Wickersham commission to try certain minor prohibition violations before a United States Commissioner. Opponents are understood to be willing to compromise on a modified form of the proposed measure, provided the Jones maximum penalties law is amended to define "minor" or "casual" violations. While it could not be learned definitely today, it was the belief that Mr. Wickersham was being called before the committee for consultation on such a compromise.

In a House speech today Mrs. Mary T. Norton of New Jersey charged that the "committee has not the courage to face the question and report a bill that could be brought before the House for debate and action."

"I say it is a cowardly method of evading a great responsibility," she declared as she castigated the House for not taking some action.

Mrs. Norton also paid her respects to the Wickersham Commission.

"The first report of the Hoover Law Enforcement Commission is a pathetic admission of the unwisdom of Federal prohibition and the impossibility of enforcing it," she said. "The years of trial, costing the taxpayers over $400,000,000, and that, with the thing that is much more important, the tremendous loss of life, have shown its folly."

It is accepted around the capital that if the Judiciary Committee does not soon report the law enforcement program, it cannot get it in at this session of Congress.

WILL ASK STIMSON'S AID FOR RUMANIAN JEWS

Committee Here Will Send Group to Washington—Voices Protests Against Outbreaks.

The executive board of the Rumanian Jewish Committee of America, at a special meeting last night in the Hotel Pennsylvania, voted to send seven officers of the organization to Washington to call on Secretary of State Stimson and ask him to intercede with the Rumanian Government "to accord its Jewish citizens a treatment consistent with the character of a civilized country." The committee includes President Saul S. Myers of the Rumanian Jewish Committee, Solomon Sufrin, Leon Fischer, Edward Herbert, Joseph Berg, Dr. Julius Klepper and B. E. Siegelstein.

Several speakers criticized officials of the Rumanian Government for their passive attitude in the outbreaks. Resolutions drawn up by Mr. Herbert protesting against the treatment accorded Jews in Rumania were adopted.

It was then voted to send the committee to Washington to confer with Mr. Stimson and United States Senator Wagner. It is the desire of the committee to have Senator Wagner bring to the attention of the Senate the treatment of Jews in Rumania.

It was also voted to send copies of the resolutions to President Hoover, Secretary Stimson, Senator Wagner and other members of Congress, to the Rumanian legation in Washington and to the Rumanian Government in Bucharest.

CHICAGO CAB EXPERT URGES A TAXI LIMIT

Parmelee Chief Tells Walker's Commission That Monooply Brings Best Results.

CITES OTHER COMMUNITIES

Rates Either Too High or Too Low Called Disastrous to Operators of Machines.

Testifying yesterday before Mayor Walker's taxicab commission, Ernest H. Miller of Chicago, president of the Parmelee Transportation Company, voiced the opinion that taxicab service is profitable, safe and efficient only under a monopoly or semi-monopoly, under supervision of some governmental agency with power to limit the number of cabs by requiring certificates of convenience and necessity.

Mr. Miller, formerly head of the Yellow Cab Company of this city, read into the commission's records data regarding taxicab operation in Chicago, Cleveland, Detroit, Pittsburgh, Los Angeles, St. Louis and Baltimore.

The Parmelee organization, he explained, was a holding company, operating cabs in leading cities through a subsidiary and wholly-controlled management corporation.

The rates charged by most cabs in cities where operation is successful, he said, are somewhat higher than in New York, the prevailing average being 25 cents for the first quarter mile and 10 cents for each half-mile thereafter. This, he explained, made the trip rate only 10 cents higher than the "15 and 5" rate in force here on most of the city's 20,000 taxicabs.

Mr. Miller will appear again before the commission next week to discuss conditions here. The basic principle of successful operation, he declared, was to give satisfactory service on a small margin of net return. The general principles applicable to other public utilities, he said, should be applied to taxicabs, but the regulating bodies should bear in mind that the business is especially sensitive to competition because it calls for cash payments at the time of service and any change in rate is immediately reflected in the public's attitude.

Both high and low rates, Mr. Miller declared, lead to bankruptcy. He favored a minimum rate law as a stabilizing influence and guarantee of a fair return on capital invested.

Selling of cabs to individual owners on an instalment basis, Mr. Miller declared, was harmful to the industry and often ruinous to the purchasers.

In Chicago, with its 3,157,400 population and its 5,200 taxicabs, Mr. Miller said, the Yellow and Checker companies operated most of the cabs, only forty or fifty independents being in the field. In Pittsburgh, he said, there are 718 cabs, all under Parmelee control, and the service is almost perfect. In both of these cities the 25-10 rate is in effect. In Pittsburgh the number of cabs is limited by certificates of necessity and convenience issued by the Pennsylvania Public Service Commission.

In Cleveland, Mr. Miller said, there were 800 cabs for a population of 850,000. The small cab, promoted by a group of Ford dealers, had failed to operate profitably, he declared, despite frequent rate increases.

TARIFF CONFEREES SPEED FREE ACTION

Resuming Discussion, They Are Expected to Complete the Report This Week.

SENATE TO GET BILL FIRST

Republicans, After Debenture Release Vote, Predict Passage —Coalition Still Threatens.

COMPROMISES IN PROSPECT

Conference Committee Adjusting Flexible Clause and Lumber Duty on This Basis.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Final action on the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill by Congress soon appeared in prospect as conferees of the House and Senate resumed their discussions today with a free hand as a result of yesterday's action by the Senate in releasing its conferees of pledges on the debenture plan and the provision repealing the President's flexible tariff power.

Senate Republican leaders are looking forward to an agreement with the House on the items in the bill yet in dispute by Thursday, and to bringing the bill back to the Senate at the end of the week with a report submitting an adjustment of all differences.

The Senate is expected to act first, as the House has already voted on and accepted the undisputed portion of the bill as revised in conference and rejected Senate modifications. Senator Watson of Indiana, Republican floor leader, said he intended to inquire into the parliamentary situation in order definitely to decide this point.

With the Senate vote yesterday indicating desire on the part of that body to have the bill passed, even though it should involve sacrifice of the debenture and the legislative flexible tariff provision, speedy action is expected. Republican leaders hope to have the measure sent to the President in the next ten days or two weeks. This depends, however, on the extent of debate in the Senate on the conference report.

Members of the Democratic-Republican insurgent coalition, who were defeated by the narrowest of margins in the test votes, have threatened that there will still be "a hard and long fight," and the Republican leaders are admittedly still uneasy.

No Long Debate Wanted.

A factor which points to early disposition of the tariff is the desire of members of Congress for an early adjournment. Senator Watson said that Senators balk against spending another month in debate on the bill.

Senator Walsh, Democrat, of Montana, in a statement asserted that "adoption of the tariff bill now being virtually assured, President Hoover cannot escape the bitterness of a cup which he had hoped might pass."

"It has been apparent for a long time," Mr. Walsh said, "that the consummation to which he (the President) looked longingly was an impasse between the two houses over the flexible and debenture amendments which would have spared him the ordeal of having to render final judgment on the most indefensible tariff bill yet written."

The conferees in their session reached no agreement as to any items yet in controversy. The debenture will undoubtedly be stricken out, Senator Watson, a conferee, said, and a compromise worked out on the flexible tariff provision. Under such a compromise the President would retain a large portion of his present rate-changing power.

According to Chairman Smoot of the Finance Committee, chief Senate conferee, the remaining items in dispute will be disposed of in the order in which they appear in the bill.

The House turned down a duty of $1.50 per 1,000 board feet on soft wood lumber written into the bill by the Senate. Likewise, it rejected a duty of 30 cents an ounce on silver which the Senate inserted and on two occasions rejected a Senate amendment for the free importation of cement for public construction.

Indications were that the silver and cement amendments will be thrown out and a compromise made on the lumber duty.

Besides the debenture and flexible tariff provisions in the administrative section of the bill, the reorganization of the Tariff Commission must still be settled in conference, as well as a provision regarding investigation of the difference in cost of production here and abroad and a Senate amendment to make accessible to any member of Congress information in possession of the Tariff Commission.

JEWS IN PALESTINE CALL GENERAL STRIKE

To Cease All Work Thursday to Protest Suspension of Immigration Schedule.

TEL AVIV, Palestine, May 30 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—A general strike of the entire Jewish population of Palestine has been proclaimed for Thursday, starting at noon and to continue until nightfall, by the Vaad Leumi, the Jewish National Council, at a meeting here today. The strike will be a protest against the government's order suspending the immigration schedule pending the inquiry into land and immigration problems by Sir John Simpson.

The strike plans include the closing of all places of amusement, a complete stoppage of all work in shops, stores and factories, while the offices of the Zionist Executive, the Jewish National Fund, the Hadassah and other Jewish organizations will be closed. There is also a possibility that none of the Hebrew papers or Jewish papers published in other languages will be issued Thursday.

The strike committee includes M. Dizengoff, Mayor of Tel Aviv, the only all-Jewish city in the world, and Eliezer Kaplan.

JERUSALEM, May 20 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—The Chief Rabbinate of the Jewish community of Palestine has joined in the call for a general strike of protest against the suspension of the immigration schedule.

Sir John Simpson, appointed by the British Government to investigate land settlement, immigration and development problems in Palestine, arrived here today. Sir John is a former Indian civil service official and helped re-establish the Greek refugees. Pending his survey all Jewish immigration into Palestine has been suspended.

MARCOSSON CALLS OUR TARIFF STUPID

EXPRESSES HOPE FOR VETO

Says Prestige in South America Depends on Cuba's Attitude—Envoy Makes Appeal.

This country's tariff policy was characterized as "utterly stupid and economically short-sighted" by Isaac F. Marcosson, writer on economic subjects, who addressed a luncheon of the Cuban Chamber of Commerce of the United States yesterday at the Bankers Club. The luncheon commemorated the twenty-eighth anniversary of Cuban independence.

"If the tariff program as projected is carried through," Mr. Marcosson asserted, "it means that we will be entering into a pact of economic suicide. The thing lying at the base of Briand's Pan-European scheme, which is even now crystallizing, is a great economic federation of the world aimed at us."

He said he had faith in President Hoover, and that every friend of the President was "hoping that he will have the courage to veto the tariff bill." He called attention to the fact that tariffs can be made by both sides, and cited as an instance the French motor tariff, which, if not adjusted, will make the sale of American cars in France impossible, he declared.

Referring to Cuba's anniversary, he said that "if the same type of corn-fed statesmanship, shot through with a dash of beet sugar, that we find in Congress now had been in power in 1902, I doubt if Cuban independence could have gotten through the customs gates, but, luckily, there was no tariff on independence then."

He asserted that American prestige in South and Central America depends on our attitude toward Cuba and her attitude toward us. He concluded with a eulogy of the patriotic vision and character of President Machado and said he had faith that these, with the integrity and patriotism of the people, would see Cuba through this crisis.

Augusto Merchan, Consul General of Cuba, traced his country's progress in twenty-eight years. He pictured Cuba's economic difficulties because the United States, which ten years ago bought Cuban sugar, is endeavoring to become a great sugar producer herself. He told of her efforts at transition from being a producer of only two crops, sugar and tobacco, to being an economically self-supporting country. Cuban imports from the United States last year were $128,000,000, he said, as compared with $200,000,000 in 1924, an average year, and $515,000,000 in 1920, a record year.

He urged the chamber to continue its work for better economic understanding. Mr. Merchan said that the bonds between the two countries were becoming looser every day, and urged that "it is not enough to be good friends politically, we must pave the way to becoming friends again economically and not rivals."

The complete elimination of tariff barriers is one of the objects for which the chamber is working, said Carlos Garcia, president of the organization and chairman of the luncheon.

CALLS TARIFF A PERIL TO FOREIGN RELATIONS

J. G. McDonald Says Bill Might Turn 'United States of Europe' Into League Against Us.

A warning that the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill now before Congress jeopardizes our foreign trade and therefore the prosperity of the American people, was sounded last night by James G. McDonald, chairman of the Foreign Policy Association, who spoke over the National Broadcasting Company's radio network from Station WEAF, as part of the Voters' Service Program of the National League of Women Voters.

Mr. McDonald described the bill as "a hodge-podge—the result of the clash of special interests, each intent on his own objective." He asserted that, if passed, it would embitter our country's relations abroad, embroil us in tariff recriminations and possibly tariff wars with some of our best customers, and warned that in such wars there would be no victors.

"Already," he said, "more than thirty countries have sent diplomatic communications to Washington about it. Some of these countries, among them Canada, France and Australia, have gone further and have initiated retaliatory measures to penalize American goods. To these protests no comprehensive replies have been made by the defenders of the tariff bill."

Mr. McDonald declared foreign trade has now become absolutely essential to the prosperity of the country, since the United States, more than any other nation, has developed mass production and mass distribution. While large corporations sell only a small part of their products abroad, he said, these foreign sales are necessary if their factories are to be kept 100 per cent busy.

"The tragedy of the proposed tariff," Mr. McDonald said, "is that it would tend to pervert the idea of a United States of Europe into a tariff league against the United States."

Mr. McDonald declared that President Hoover alone could arouse public opinion so that tariff legislation would be a victory over the forces of selfishness and unreason.

SEES AUTO EXPORTS MENACED BY TARIFF

J. D. Mooney of General Motors Says Trade Is in Danger From Retaliation Abroad.

FORESEES DROP OF 60%

Declares 4,700,000 Workers Will Be Hart Hit if Foreign Business Is Greatly Retarded.

Asserting that American manufacturers must have foreign markets, and that any domestic policy which prevents or retards access to these markets is a "direct menace to our national prosperity," James D. Mooney, president of the General Motors Export Company and vice president of the General Motors Corporation, yesterday assailed the Hawley-Smoot tariff bill. He addressed members of the Western Universities Club at a luncheon at the Railroad Club, 30 Church Street. Ray B. Prescott was toastmaster.

Mr. Mooney said that the tariff would impose additional burdens on the farmer, the manufacturer and the industrial worker, and that the last would be the hardest hit. In the automobile industry alone, he said, a shrinkage in the foreign trade would directly affect the 1,214,459 workers employed and three times as many persons dependent on their wages. These figures, he added, do not include those workers whose occupations are likewise created by the industry, such as dealers and salesmen, garage and repair shop employes, gasoline refiners and vendors, and professional drivers, who number in all 3,486,000 more. These, Mr. Mooney said, while perhaps not directly affected, would "certainly suffer" from a loss of export business.

He declared that General Motors' export business amounted to more than 15 per cent of its total volume, and that the company this year faced a drop of 60 per cent in its sales abroad as compared with last year.

"Our present foreign commerce of all kinds now amounts to over 10 per cent of our total trade and has been increasing steadily, but the percentage of our manufactured exports has been growing far more rapidly. This percentage had increased to 44.93 in 1928. Nothing more is needed to show how vital our state as a nation has become in this overseas trade in manufactured articles and how dangerous to our national welfare is any policy which will retard or cripple this interest."

Mr. Mooney said he agreed with the statement addressed recently by 1,028 economists to President Hoover protesting against the tariff, and cited the "retaliatory" measures taken by several foreign governments as proof of the "gravity" of the situation.

"It would be an understatement to say that our foreign trade may be imperiled by the impending tariff," he added. "It is already imperiled, but let us hope that the seriousness of this crisis becomes impressed upon our statesmen before further damage is done."

ATTACK SURPRISES SWISS.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

GENEVA, May 20.—The suggestion by Senator Shortridge of California during a tariff debate in the Senate at Washington yesterday that President Hoover ask for the recall of the Swiss Minister, M. Peter, owing to the latter's recent speeches upon American "prohibitive tariffs," has caused a mild sensation in Federal circles at Berne.

M. Peter, who has resided for many years in the United States, was considered persona grata at Washington and always was welcomed at the White House. It is considered here that the Senator's demand is a political, not a personal, matter.

TROPICAL WEATHER TO TEST ZEPPELIN

Changes in Weight Likely as the Ship Passes Through Range in Temperature and Rains.

BAD FLYING REGION IN PATH

Squalls Are Abundant Near Brazilian Coast and Dirigible Is Expected to Climb to Surmount Them.

Changes in specific and gross weights of several tons are likely to mark the Graf Zeppelin's crossing of the Equator some time today, the first time any dirigible has ever accomplished the feat. Atmospheric disturbances, changes in temperature and barometric pressure will all contribute to the factors which go to make the navigation of the giant craft a feat rather than mere routine as followed by deep sea sailors, according to local authorities on lighter-than-air navigation.

Dr. James H. Kimball, aeronautic meteorologist observer of the United States Weather Bureau, said last night that accurate charts of the exact course to be followed by Dr. Eckener could not be made at this time of the year. He gave a brief outline of the probable conditions to be encountered by the dirigible, as follows:

"Leaving the coast of Spain, Dr. Eckener will no doubt keep the ship at a low altitude to benefit from the northeast trade winds, which are prevailing over the ocean from there to a point about one-third of his route over the South Atlantic. Through this area he may encounter local rains and thunderstorms and in steering around them he may become somewhat delayed. Little actual danger is present from these conditions, however, as the storms in that vicinity are purely local.

A Dangerous Region.

"After crossing the Equator the Zeppelin will run along with a southeast wind until it arrives near the Brazilian coast. This position on its course is fraught with bad flying conditions. Squalls are abundant both at the zone of division between the northeast and southeast trade winds and on over the central part of the South Atlantic. It is expected that the dirigible will climb higher there to surmount the weather obstacles rather than fly through them.

"Nearing the Brazilian coast, a direct beam wind will be encountered from the south or southwest, bringing with it the rainy season now prevailing in that territory as Winter approaches. The rains are light drizzles with low clouds and poor visibility, all of which make navigation difficult. Unless some untoward disturbance occurs within the next twenty-four or thirty hours, however, the trip is likely to be made successfully and without undue trouble, as the crew of the Graf Zeppelin has repeatedly shown itself qualified to fly through worse conditions to its mark."

Commander Jerome C. Hunsaker, dirigible expert of the Goodyear-Zeppelin Corporation, which is now building two ships larger than the Graf Zeppelin at Akron, Ohio, for the Navy Department, outlined the changes which are expected to take place in the physical characteristics of Dr. Eckener's giant airship as it passes through the range of twenty degrees or more in temperature and as it catches rains on its broad envelope.

Rain Would Increase Weight.

"During a rainstorm the ship will add several tons of water to its weight," he said. "This will be compensated for by raising the nose of the huge gas container and flying along under whatever aerodynamic principles can thus be obtained as the wind pressures and vacuums exert themselves on the 778-foot hull.

"The rise in temperature as the Zeppelin passes through the tropical climate of the middle of the ocean will expand the lift and fuel gases considerably, but not beyond the bounds of control. It is not even certain that some of the hydrogen lift gas will have to be valved out to weight the ship down.

"One of the redeeming features of the tropics for airships is that the temperature is practically constant for periods of more than twenty-four hours. This makes the task of keeping a dirigible in flying trim simpler than it is in the North Temperate Zone at Lakehurst, which is said to be one of the most inadvantageous spots for dirigible flying because of the great range of temperature within a few hours.

"The speed of the Graf Zeppelin should be good until it reaches the Brazilian coast, as few headwinds will be encountered along the route at this time of year. What winds do hit on the shining silver nose of the ship will be of short duration as they are known to be purely local conditions. As the ship enters the beam winds off shore near South America, however, it will be forced to fly at a cross angle, crabbing into the wind to compensate for the drift. This will detract something from its cruising speed, but not an appreciable amount.

Same Means as Planes Use.

"Briefly, the pilot and navigators of the Graf Zeppelin will overcome most of their obstacles by using the same means as used by airplane pilots. The dynamic lift possible by inclining the Zeppelin as it flies at seventy miles or more an hour will exert forces more than equal to the several tons by which the specific weight of the craft may vary. An added advantage is present in the dirigible, which is not true of the airplane, in that the reverse of the process will serve the pilot in good stead as the ship encounters the colder temperatures of the Brazilian Autumn, with the rainy season now in progress."

Arrangements are being completed at Lakehurst for the reception and refueling of the Graf Zeppelin when it arrives there next week, it was announced yesterday by the Navy Department.

BRAZIL WEATHER FINE AS THE ZEPPELIN NEARS

Airship May Run Into Rain Squalls Moving Down Coast, but Otherwise It Is Clear.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PERNAMBUCO, Brazil, May 20.—Fine weather continues to hold generally along the coast in the region nearest Fernando do Noronha Island, the first land the Graf Zeppelin is scheduled to sight at about daybreak Thursday morning.

Reports indicate that the favorable conditions probably will continue until the dirigible is over the coast, although there is a possibility of Dr. Eckener running into small rain squalls between here and Rio de Janeiro.

Reports of the Graf Zeppelin's departure from Seville were received here eight hours late, as the field wireless had not yet established contact with the dirigible. Some anxiety was felt by the officials, who thought Dr. Eckener might have delayed the transatlantic attempt because of weather or other conditions.

State and city officials here are making extensive plans for the reception of the airship, which is expected to leave here Saturday, staying no more than two days. The hotels are now filled and an overflow is expected.

MUCH ZEPPELIN MAIL HAS AMERICAN STAMPS

Postmaster Says 17,268 Letters and 6,436 Postcards Bear Our Postage.

The quantity of mail carried by the Graf Zeppelin on its present trip to South America and Lakehurst stamped with United States postage includes 17,268 letters and 6,436 postcards, the Postmaster of New York informed the Philatelic News Bureau of Orange, N. J., yesterday.

The greatest number of these pieces is consigned to Lakehurst, and a few are addressed to the intermediate stops at Seville, Pernambuco, Rio de Janeiro and Havana. Still others are to make the complete round trip back to Friedrichshafen, whence they will be sent back to America by steamer. All of the mail stamped with United States postage was forwarded to Friedrichshafen and Seville in special mail sacks.

Five sacks were sent on April 6 on the Albert Ballin, two on the New York on April 7 and one on the Olympic, which sailed from New York on May 1.

Most of the mail was sent by dealers in stamps and first flight covers, and one-third of the entire shipment is estimated to have been sent by one dealer. The stamps used on the mail are only a small part of the $500,000 issue made by the Postoffice Department for the flight.

Zeppelin Radios to Navy.

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP).—The Navy Department announced tonight receipt of a radio message from the Graf Zeppelin indicating that Captain Eckener expected to pass the Canary Islands at 1 A. M. tomorrow morning (presumably Zeppelin time).

The message was picked up by the Cape Elizabeth Naval Station.

LAS PALMAS, Canary Islands, Wednesday, May 21 (AP).—The Graf Zeppelin passed over this town, chief port of the Canary Islands, at 3 A. M., Greenwich Mean Time [11 P. M. New York Daylight Saving Time].

The Departure From Seville.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

SEVILLE, May 20.—The Graf Zeppelin shoved her nose upward from Seville's new transatlantic airport at 8:32 this morning (4:32 A. M. New York Daylight Saving Time) and with all five motors driving slipped swiftly down the Guadalquivir River basin on her maiden voyage to South America.

Passing low over Seville, the dirigible's vast shadow dwarfed the copy of the Santa Maria, Columbus's flagship, lying in the river, the airship's large and comfortable cabin alone exceeding in size the tiny little ship below with its dark hold and miserable quarters. Whereas the caravels of Columbus fought an insweeping six-foot tide, the favorable tailwind which Dr. Eckener had counted on aided the airship as she sped over the gilt-topped Moorish Torre de Oro (Tower of Gold), opposite which Magellan's expedition started and finished the first circumnavigation of the globe, and passed quickly out of sight over the horizon, sped southward by high-pitched whistles from the boats in the river.

Captain Ernest Lehmann, second in command, was nearly left behind at the start when the dirigible started to rise while he was still directing ground operations. He shouted to the soldiers at the side railings and as they pulled down he scrambled aboard, assisted by the stewards.

Some of the nineteen transatlantic passengers arrived at the field at 7 A. M., while hydrogen was still being pumped into the craft, and stood about in groups chatting. A crowd of several thousand watched the preparations, a number of Andalusian cowboys and members of the Guardia Civil in their flat hats adding a picturesque touch. Captain Lehmann explained that the Zeppelin's officers were well satisfied with everything at Seville, saying the field left nothing to be desired, but that since this was the first stop of a dirigible there, there had been some slight hitches. It had been expected to start earlier, but the canvas hydrogen hoses were not uncoupled until 8 o'clock.

The Infante Alfonso, the tall, sunburned cousin of King Alfonso, was in a lively humor as he mingled with the rest of the party.

"I'll certainly be glad to see New York again," he said. "I even like the newspaper men there. They never bother men, as they are good fellows. I don't consider this trip as an experiment since the dirigible is a proved means of transportation. However, I will learn a good deal on the trip."

The Prince wore the green uniform of an air service captain. He arrived at the field late accompanied by his wife, the Princess Beatrice, a cousin of Queen Mary of England. The Princess said her husband had been flying for twenty years and she had stopped worrying about leavetakings. She kissed him when he boarded the ship and said, "I'll check your progress by radio from Madrid."

Dr. Mejias, King Alfonso's physician, said the King had sent telegrams of good wishes to Dr. Eckener and Captain Lehmann.

Henry J. Pierce of New York, husband of Mrs. Mary Pierce, who was on the Zeppelin last May when the dirigible was forced to turn back from the Atlantic and land in France after drifting with her motors crippled, was at the field to see his wife off.

"I received a chaffing from the newspapers when my wife took her first flight in Europe while I was in the States," he said. "I was worried then, but I am convinced of the safety of Zeppelins now."

Mr. Pierce set a new style for husbands seeing their wives off by rushing across Seville after the departure to catch a chartered plane for Madrid, where he planned to take the night train for Paris.

Sighted by Steamers.

SEVILLE, May 20 (AP).—Well past the half of her first 1,000 sea miles, the Graf Zeppelin was reported by several steamers in the vicinity of the Canary Islands this morning and afternoon on her 3,500-mile ocean trip to Pernambuco, Brazil.

BYRD SHIFTS ROLES AT MOUNTAIN CAMP

INVIGORATED BY COOL AIR

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BOQUETE, Panama, May 20.—Admiral Byrd and his party passed a comfortable night at Joe (Pop) Wright's famous hostelry in the Valley of the Moon at Boquete, where Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh rested on his good-will flight.

Admiral Byrd is delighted with the coolness of the mountain air and today he plunged anew into expedition matters with Captain H. H. Railey, his aide. Even a few hours of the invigorating air at this altitude of 4,000 feet seem to have eliminated the fatigue caused by the heat at Panama City and the rounds of social formalities, and the Admiral is looking forward to long walks in these picturesque hills.

On his arrival here last night after the ascent by motor train from David, Admiral Byrd was met by five-score villagers, shepherded by the genial Pop Wright, whose Texan expansiveness contrasted with the reserved cordiality of the residents.

Pop contributed a touch of levity by mistaking Captain Railey for Admiral Byrd and introducing him thus to his friends. Admiral Byrd enjoyed the joke and let Captain Railey take his place at the head of the table, meanwhile addressing him respectfully as "Admiral." However, the sharper eyes of Mrs. Wright soon detected the error.

Admiral Byrd and Captain Railey expect to catch up with their work on the affairs of the expedition which had awaited the leader's return, and the Admiral hopes to spend some time on his book in addition to conferences with Dr. R. Y. Hildebrand of the National Geographic Society before returning to Panama City.

Having decided to return Thursday noon to Panama City to meet the men of his expedition arriving on the steamship Eleanor Bolling, Admiral Byrd has regretfully declined the offer of a civic reception tendered by Don Antonio Anguizola, the Governor of Chiriqui Province.

This morning he went for a brisk canter on a native pony. His fox terrier, Igloo, who had never seen his master on horseback before, trotted suspiciously behind.

At dinner the Admiral had his first home-style fried chicken since his departure from the United States. He pronounced Mrs. Wright's fare "excellent."

The Admiral and Captain Bailey have set up a workshop under an orange tree near the Wrights' rambling hotel and accomplished a great deal of work during the day.

MIAMI INVITES BYRD.

Asks Him, If Possible, to Make His First Stop in United States There.

MIAMI, Fla., May 20.—The city of Miami congratulates Rear Admiral Byrd for his notable achievements in the Antarctic, the success whereof THE NEW YORK TIMES so materially aided.

If, on his return to New York, he should pass near enough to port of Miami to make even a brief call as his first stop on the United States mainland, we would be grateful for the privilege of greeting and welcoming him on behalf of the citizens of Miami and the State of Florida.

In any event, we would appreciate THE NEW YORK TIMES extending to him our heartiest greetings and welcome to his homeland.

Humane Association Votes Gold Medal to the Explorer.

ALBANY, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—The directors of the American Humane Association have unanimously voted to confer the association's gold medal upon Admiral Richard E. Byrd in appreciation of the deep interest he has shown in the dogs used in the Antractic expedition and in their humane treatment. The medal will be conferred in the name of the association and its five hundred federated societies in the United States.

Admiral Byrd's friendly relations with animals go back to his childhood, officers of the association said. As a small boy he used his pocket money to buy from some other boys a baby opossum, which he carried several miles back to where its mother could find it.

RIDER DIES IN CRASH, STUDENT PILOT HURT

SEARCHLIGHTS AID RESCUE

A student pilot was seriously injured and his passenger killed just before dusk last nigth, when a plane in which they were flying nose-dived into the Barren Island meadows near the southern rim of the municipal airport, Fyod Bennett Field.

The pilot, Conrad Jatza, 35 years old, of 1,354 East Fifty-seventh Street, Brooklyn, was taken to Kings County Hospital as soon as a police emergency squad was able to extricate him from the swamp in which the plane had fallen. The dead passenger was identified later as Lenine Norheim, 33, off 852 Fifty-fourth Street, Brooklyn, an automobile mechanic employed by the Stutz Automobile Company.

The plane belonged to Jatza and Norheim. It was a low-winged Mohawk-Pinto monoplane, powered by a fifty-five-horsepower radical motor. They had just bought and assembled it and since last Sunday had stored it at the Barren Island Airport. That port is leased by Captain Rizzo and adjoins Floyd Bennett Field. Jatza was a candidate for a commercial pilot's license. To obtain one he needed credit for fifty hours' solo flying. Officials at the Barren Island Airport say he held only a student pilot's license and had no right to take up Norheim as a passenger. But detectives who are investigating the case declared they had been unable to prove that Jatza had any flying license at all.

James Reese, a licensed pilot who brought the plane to Barren Island last Sunday from Roosevelt Field, where it was assembled, told mechanics at Barren Island that the plane was "oversensitive to the controls and had a marked tendency to nose down."

It was nearly 7 P. M. when Jotza and Norheim arrived at the Barren Island airport yesterday. As soon as the motor had been warmed up Jatzo climbed into one cockpit and Norheim into the other and they took off. They had been aloft about an hour when the ship, heading toward the entrance to Jamaica Bay, was seen to nose down suddenly and crash.

Captain Rizzo was flying in another plane at the time and saw the accident from the air. He flew back to the Barren Island port and telephoned for an ambulance and to notify the police. Then, picking up a policeman on duty at the field, he flew to the scene of the crash. The plane was discovered lying on its back with its nose buried in the mud. After wading through the marsh for more than fifty yards Captain Rizzo and the policeman finally reached the wreck.

Nor heim had been thrown clear of the plane. He was dead. Jatza was pinned beneath the wreckage, and after clearing away much of the débris they managed to release him. He was unconscious. Apparently, however, he had retained sufficient presence of mind to shut off the engine as the plane nosed down, for there was no fire.

Meanwhile two detectives from the Vandeveer Park station were trying to reach the wreckage from Flatbush Avenue. After numerous attempts had been balked by the depth of the mud, they telephoned for a police emergency squad. More than an hour elapsed before members of the emergency squad, with the aid of searchlights, and by walking on planks, managed to reach the plane and take the injured Jatza to an ambulance.

4 STATES IN SOUTH HARD HIT BY FLOODS

Calion, Ark., Inundated—Texas, Louisiana and Mississippi Points Battle Waters.

LITTLE ROCK, Ark., May 20 (AP).—Creeks and rivers were spreading destruction today over four Southern States, three of which were the greatest sufferers in the disastrous flood of 1927.

This State presented the gloomiest picture, with much of the South Arkansas oil field under water, hundreds of persons homeless and highways impassable in many sections of the State.

Louisiana, Mississippi and Texas likewise had refugee lists, and large areas of low farm lands submerged.

The Mississippi River is not to blame for the present flood. Instead, the Red, Ouachita and other rivers and numerous creeks, normally small, have been swollen by excessive rains.

The Red River in Southwest Arkansas and Northeast Texas was overflowing lowlands, and a levee break at Fouke, near Texarkana, sent rescue crews out last night to save endangered residents.

Jefferson, Texas, a town of 2,500, was reported inundated by the Cypress River. The water ranged from a few inches to five feet deep over the town. Residents were moving out.

SERIAL NUMBERS SENT OUT

Coupon first mortgage bonds of the Suburban Light and Power Company of Ohio, with a face value of $20,500 disappeared Monday afternoon from in front of a receiving teller's window at the Bankers Trust Company, 16 Wall Street, it became known today. There were twenty-three bonds, eleven of them of $1,000 each and the remainder $500 each.

The bonds were left on the ledge at the teller's window by John Schutt, 19 years old, of Communipaw Avenue, Jersey City, a messenger employed by C. M. Keys & Co., 39 Broadway, dealers in investment securities. He had been instructed to collect the bonds from a customer and return.

On his way to the brokerage offices, according to detectives, the youth went into the Bankers Trust Company, where he was to leave a deposit with a receiving teller. Schutt said he placed the envelope with the bonds near the teller's window, handed over the deposit and left, forgetting to pick up the bonds.

About half an hour after returning to the brokerage offices Schutt was asked about the bonds by the office manager. He then recalled that he had left them at the bank.

The bonds were not where Schutt said he left them. None of the tellers could recall seeing the envelope. The detectives were told that two other messengers were waiting at the teller's window for checks. It is believed that one might have picked up the bonds.

It was said that Schutt, who has been employed for more than five years by C. M. Keys & Co., has an excellent reputation. Detectives and investigators for the National Surety Company have sent out a list of numbers of the missing bonds. It would be virtually impossible for those who have the securities to market them, it was said, because brokers and bankers are unusually careful in accepting this type of securities from persons not known to them.

BETTY COMPSON GETS DIVORCE FROM CRUZE

LOS ANGELES, May 20 (AP).—Betty Compson, film actress, today received an interlocutory decree of divorce from James Cruze, motion picture director. She charged mental cruelty, chiefly through her husband's alleged continual round of parties in their home, which the actress testified sent her into a sanitarium suffering a nervous breakdown. Cruze did not contest the action.

Protests against the parties, she testified, resulted only in suggestions by Cruze that she "get out if you don't like it here."

Miss Compson and Cruze were married in 1925 and made their home at Flintbridge, near Hollywood. They separated a year ago, were reconciled last August, but again parted. The complaint for a divorce was served upon Cruze last April 20, while he was poised on a diving board over the swimming pool on his estate. He was reported to have remarked, "Oh, well."

Cruze, whose true name is James Bosen, was a popular motion picture actor fifteen years ago. A broken leg turned him to the directing field. He has directed such pictures as "The Covered Wagon," "Old Ironsides" and "Beggar on Horseback." He produced as his first talking picture "The Great Gabbo."

SEES SOVIET VICTOR IN AGRARIAN REFORM

Land Commissar Hails Move as the Most Important Step to 100 Per Cent Socialism.

WARNS AGAINST EXCESS

By WALTER DURANTY.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MOSCOW, May 20.—The success of agrarian reform as the most important step toward 100 per cent socialism in Russia is claimed in a document issued by Land Commissar Yakovlef, with the approval of the "Politburo," as an informatory basis for the debate at the coming convention of the Communist party, which opens on June 15 and which will determine the Soviet policies for the next two years.

M. Yakovlef says, first, that the agrarian revolution has now been successfully launched. Second, he says the lack of balance between the so-called urban life and industry and the hitherto individual methods of agriculture has now been removed. Third, the collectivization of the grain-producing regions has now reached 40 to 50 per cent of the total, and though on May 1 two years ago only 2 or 3 per cent of the sown area had been collectivized, this year above half has been included in the "socialized sector."

Fourth, the Commissar says the confiscation and division of the land was the first step toward socialism after the Bolshevist revolution and that today's collectivization is the second most important step assuring the victory of socialism. Finally, he declares this year's grain sowing program may be regarded as fulfilled.

As the "thesis"—so M. Yakovlef's document is termed by the Soviet press—is for the debate at the all important biennial party convention, the facts and figures it advances must be above suspicion, although the figures published today for the Spring sowing up to May 15 seem, at first sight, hardly to warrant such optimism.

A close analysis, however, shows that in the grain-producing regions—the Volga, North Caucasus and the Ukraine—cereal sowing equals or surpasses 100 per cent of the program, and the apparent shortage from the program applies to other cultures—flax, cotton, root crops, tobacco, &c., whose sowing period has not yet ended.

On the other hand, M. Yakovlef makes important admissions. First, that although the results show the majority of the peasants have already been won to collective farming, such a reform, on such a vast scale, has involved and will continue to involve great difficulties.

Second, the Communist party must realize that certain parts of the country are still unfitted for wholesale collectivization and that individual farming must remain an important factor which cannot be neglected or subjected to too great a pressure.

Third, the voluntary principle of the collective movement must be rigidly maintained, because "the errors committed earlier in the year in this respect threatened a breach between the urban workers and the peasants, whose union is the fundamental basis of the Leninist doctrine and the Soviet State."

Fourth, kulak opposition has not been entirely overcome and remains a menace not to be ignored. Fifth, certain sections of the Communist party are still tainted with the Left heresy of overharshness and "dizziness from success," while others continue to adhere to the Right heresy of timidity and readiness to compromise with the kulak and other anti-Socialist forces in town or country.

ASSERTS SUN WILL LAST FOR 10 BILLION YEARS

But Finally, Canadian Scientist Tells Confreres, World Will Be Ice-Bound.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTREAL, Que., May 20.—A prediction that the sun will serve as the power house for the world for another ten billion years, but that eventually the earth will be covered by thousands of feet of ice was made here today by Dr. A. B. Eve, director of the MacDonald Physics Laboratories of McGill University, in an address before the opening meeting of the annual convention of the Royal Society of Canada, of which he is president.

The convention, a gathering of eminent scientists and men of letters from all over the Dominion, was addressed by transatlantic telephone for half an hour by Sir Ernest Rutherford, president of the parent body in England.

"Our power house, the sun," said Dr. Eve, "has been running effectively and regularly for at least ten thousand million years and is likely to run, barring unforeseen accidents, for as many years at least in the future. We will postpone for the present the question of its closing down."

Regarding changes in the earth's surfaces, Dr. Eve said:

"Where we now are there was a sheet of ice perhaps 4,000 feet thick. The ice will come again, and perchance go again, but ultimately it will remain.

Dr. Eve told the scientists that while their researches might often lead them to cold and comfortless beliefs as to immortality and the future of man on earth and even of the earth itself, yet the spiritual should not be thrown out as a nonexistent force.

"To suggest that life is merely mechanism," he said, "is to confuse two terms with quite different meanings. Machines are contrived from without, but living things are organized from within, and we cannot definitely demonstrate either conscious purpose or intelligent directing mind. Yet we do see the most marvelous coordination of the whole, due to the cooperation of the constituent parts. I am speaking of such things as trees and bees, and of many happenings within our own bodies. Were these events left to our conscious and intelligent selves, then our lives would not be prolonged for a minute. We have not intelligence enough to manage even a minute part of our bodies for a small fraction of a second."

HIGH POST OFFERED JAILED CANDIDATE

TRUJILLO TO VISIT HERE

President-Elect Wants to See Old Friends Before Inauguration—Says He Won't Be Dictator.

SANTO DOMINGO, Dominican Republic, May 20 (AP).—Federico Velásquez, although in jail on charges of inciting revolt, has received an offer of the Treasury Portfolio in the Cabinet of General Rafael Trujillo.

Señor Velásquez, the unsuccessful candidate for President on a coalition ticket, was imprisoned after Friday's election, which gave the Presidency to General Trujillo.

The Associated Press learned on highest authority today that the Acting President, Jacinto B. Peynado, advised General Trujillo that the appointment of Señor Velásquez to the most important Cabinet post would be a good influence toward quieting the opposition.

After several hours of deliberation the newly elected Chief Executive agreed, and Señor Peynado himself carried the offer to Señor Velásquez.

Señor Velásquez replied that he could not accept while still in jail. It is believed here that he will be released soon.

Angel Morales, running mate of Señor Velásquez, was still being sought today on charges similar to those which caused the arrest of Señor Velásquez.

General Trujillo disclosed today that he plans to visit the United States before his inauguration. The object of his visit would be to "see some good friends in the Marine Corps who helped to make me a Second Lieutenant," he said.

The President-elect issued a statement in which he said he would not be a dictator, but a builder on economic policies. He said one of the first things he would do after inauguration would be to reduce his own salary, $12,000 a year, and seek a reduction also of the salaries of Congressmen from $450 to $350 a month.

"Dominicans are poor," he said. "Therefore all must live the same."

General Trujillo said he would make sweeping changes in the army "for maintaining domestic order." He said every civilian would be disarmed, "whether he is my friend or Velásquez's." He also indicated that a national military academy would be established under United States army instructors if possible.

BRITISH AVIATRIX SAFE AT SOURABAYA, JAVA

Miss Johnson Lands With Plane Patched With Plaster—Close Call Over Shark-Ridden Sea.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BATAVIA, Java, May 20.—Verging on a state of exhaustion, yet still showing tenacity and courage, Miss Amy Johnson, 23-year-old English girl, arrived at Sourabaya today, flying her tiny Moth plane in the wake of one of the Royal Dutch East Indies airmail liners.

The wings of her plane will have to be repaired before she can make the 1,300-mile journey to Darwin, Australia, which includes a 600-mile hop across the Timor Sea. They were perforated in five places by bamboo poles supporting young fruit trees as Miss Johnson landed yesterday in a clearing at Tjomal. She mended the holes with sticking plaster to enable the flight to be continued to Sourabaya, and the plane had to be lightened before she could jump out of the confined space.

During yesterday's flight dense rain squalls forced the aviatrix to deviate from her course in a perilous hop over the Java Sea and at one time she had to fly over miles of dense jungle.

"Toward Banka, a large island off the mainland of Sumatra, I turned out again to fly over the sea, but a torrential tropical rain forced me down to within a few feet of the angry waves," she explained. "I thought this was the end in a shark-infested sea, but somehow I managed to reach the coastline. Then a shortage of fuel forced me down at TJomal."

DISCUSS EXCAVATIONS.

CONSTANTINOPLE, May 20 (AP).—Mustapha Kemal Pasha today received Dr. Van der Osten, leader of the Chicago University Anatolian expedition, in a three-hour interview.

During the conversation plans were worked out for the Americans to begin excavations at Ghiabour Hissar, near Angora, this Spring. It is hoped that the locality, which contains relics of great importance, will provide a solution of the mystery of the disappearance of the Hittites.

The Gazi will motor to the excavation field daily to watch the progress of the excavations.

POISON GAS FOR CHINA SEIZED IN INDO-CHINA

Berlin Contradicts Implication That Nanking Consignment Came From Germany.

BERLIN, May 20 (AP).—A statement was published here from the Chinese North Coalition by way of London that the French authorities of Indo-China have intercepted a consignment to the Nanking Government of poison gas, which, it was clearly intimated, came from Germany.

The German Foreign Office emphatically contradicted the report, declaring it absurd anti-German propaganda and pointing out that the treaty of Versailles strictly prohibits the manufacture in Germany or the export of poison gas from Germany, while there is no such interdiction for other countries.

Although there is no restriction to prevent the Germans from handling the poison gas exports from other countries, the government recently issued a warning through the Chamber of Commerce to Germans to keep their hands off poison gas shipments, with a view to possible Chinese complications.

SHANGHAI, May 20 (AP).—The Nationalist Government Foreign Ministry at Nanking announced today that Communists and bandits in Northern Kiangsi Province were menacing the Summer resorts of Kuling and Luishang, near Kiukiang.

The government spokesman stated that Kiangsi provincial authorities informed the Nationalist Government that foreigners in those places were menaced and asked that troops be dispatched from Nanking to the affected areas.

As a result of the depreciation of Chinese silver currency, the Nationalist Government postal administration is planning to increase rates on ordinary mail and parcel post to America and Europe 50 per cent on June 1.

CALLS LADY ASTOR NO LADY

Working-Class Woman Retorts to Her Remark About Lansbury.

NOTTINGHAM, England, May 20 (AP).—Viscountess Astor was told today—and by a working woman—that she was no lady.

The American-born member of the House of Commons was addressing a women's meeting, and in her speech referred to George Lansbury, first Commissioner of Works, as "a dear old soul, muddle-headed and half-witted."

Whereupon the woman of the working class interjected heatedly: "Mr. Lansbury at any rate is a gentleman, but you are no lady."

IRONTEX* SILK HOSE 69¢

The title of the above picture is "Beholed the Bridegroom," and we think it tells a rather complete, if faintly pitiful story. It doesn't take more than a hole in the sock to turn life's highest moments sour.

Macy's Irontex silks, as you all know (or do you?), are noted for their aversion to holes. The heavy, mercerized cotton foot and toe guard and a reinforced heel do the trick. They come in plain colors, besides black. Sizes 9½ to 12.

"HERE'S HOW TO SLAY MOTHS", SAYS Janet Gray

Slā Cedar Spray—
the new insect spray with the clean cedar
(Slā pronounced Slay)

I SPRAYED Slā on all my winter clothes before storing them away—to kill any lurking moths. And next week I shall do the same with the Big Chief's heavy winter things. Slā is simply marvelous, too, for draperies and upholstery, because it doesn't stain or spot. I shall also spray it around the rooms this summer to kill any flies and mosquitoes that may happen to get in. For Slā makes short work of all insects, and it has such a refreshing cedar fragrance, I like to use it. Pint 90c; qt. $1.60; gal. $4.25.

Jury Declares Him Guilty of Conduct Unbecoming Office and Neglect of Duty.

HERE WHEN SCANDAL BROKE

Termed Victim of Trust in Aides and Not Implicated in Major Graft—He Will Appeal.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 20.—Dr. Gustav Boess, Chief Mayor of Greater Berlin, was today removed from office by a jury of laymen in a Prussian disciplinary court, being found guilty of conduct unbecoming the dignity of his office and neglect of duty. The verdict further charged that the Mayor, by his conduct in and out of office, had shown himself unworthy the respect and confidence due his position.

Dr. Boess, who will appeal from the verdict, received a life pension of $6,000 annually, which is two-thirds his regular salary.

Dr. Boess had not occupied his office since his return from the United States six months ago, where he was on a tour of inspection when charged with malfeasance in office following the exposure of widespread corruption in connection with municipal contracts. He requested a leave of absence, which was regularly extended until disciplinary proceedings were finally instituted against him.

The severity of today's verdict came as a surprise to his colleagues at the City Hall and to his political friends, who insist he was a victim of excessive confidence in and undue tolerance toward his subordinates.

It was a costly fur coat acquired by his wife for a nominal sum from a firm of city contractors that enmeshed the popular Chief Mayor in a municipal scandal. Despite his asseverations that he donated the difference between the price paid and its retail value to charity, his official prestige only crumbled more rapidly as the investigation of corruption proved his failure to keep an official eye on huge appropriations and public concessions.

Dr. Boess is the first victim of the present investigation into the city's administration, although there is no evidence that he was implicated in any of the bigger graft going on under his régime. Today's hearing was conducted behind closed doors, and the indictment on which his dismissal from office was based was not made public.

Dr. Boess was elected Chief Mayor of Berlin on Jan. 20, 1921, previous to which he had held the office of City Treasurer for nine years. He ranked as one of Germany's leading municipal experts and rendered the metropolis distinguished service in connection with the consolidation of its finances during the inflation period. He was most active in developing Greater Berlin's public utilities and industrial enterprises, which included vast areas of dairy farms and timber land, all of which proved prolific sources of revenue for the municipality.

The deposed Mayor received Mayor Walker of New York cordially during the latter's visit to Berlin two years ago and welcomed the opportunity to return the compliment at the head of the municipal party which toured the United States early last Autumn. He was always a jovial host to visiting Americans, officially and otherwise, and freely placed Berlin's famous rathaus at the disposal of American celebrities.

Until the Superior Prussian Disciplinary Court passes on today's verdict, Greater Berlin cannot elect a successor to Dr. Boess. His appeal may not be acted on for a year, unless the city reaches a private settlement with him meanwhile.

Dawes Hears Kreisler Play In London Air He Composed

By The Associated Press.

LONDON, May 20.—Charles G. Dawes, the diplomat, was introduced to London tonight in the unfamiliar rôle of music composer. Prime Minister MacDonald was present for the début in London music of the Ambassador.

The Ambassador's tuneful little composition "Mélodie" was one of the chief attractions of Fritz Kreisler's first London concert this season.

Mr. Kreisler, who has made "Melodie" a regular part of his American concert repertory, played it abroad for the first time tonight. He even paid the composer the honor of playing the piece twice.

Ambassador Dawes sat in the audience looking immensely pleased with the performance. He looked a little self-conscious when people sitting near by recognized him.

"Melodie" was the lightest part of Mr. Kreisler's program and was warmly applauded.

WHITE SLAVE BAND SEIZED.

Organization Exposed in Argentina After Years of Investigation.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BUENOS AIRES, May 20.—The Jewish Association for the Protection of Women has been largely instrumental in uncovering a vast international white slave organization with headquarters here, which for twenty-four years has been importing, exploiting, buying and selling Jewish women, mostly of Polish nationality.

The judge of first instance, functioning similar to a prosecuting attorney in New York jurisprudence, has been investigating for years on information supplied by the Jewish Association for the Protection of Women. He has unearthed a regularly chartered corporation with 424 members, who all have small businesses of some kind behind which to hide their white slave activities.

The corporation poses as a cooperative association for the mutual benefit of small business men constituting its membership, but the judge's investigations have shown them all to be engaged in the traffic of women.

Several of the corporation's leaders are under arrest on testimony of victims who have had to seek police protection.

The commanders of the Germersheim, Kaiserslautern, Landau, Speyer and Zweibruecken garrisons have received instructions to carry out the departure in a manner worthy of the victorious French Army.

On June 30 the occupation will be formally ended by the hauling down of the French tricolor at the headquarters at Mayence, where two battalions will remain as a guard of honor for the occasion.

RED ATTACHE QUITS MEXICO.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 20.—Jacob Friedman, recently the Soviet commercial attaché here, whose expulsion was decreed a fortnight ago by the Ortiz Rubio Administration, joined the steamer Rio Panuco at Vera Cruz for Germany last night, according to messages received from the southern port this morning.

Mr. Friedman was left in charge of the Russian archives after the Minister, Alexander M. Makar, was expelled some months ago and he was the last of the Red representatives in this city. Reports from Vera Cruz say that since his expulsion order he has been held almost incommunicado.

He vigorously denied being engaged here otherwise than in the lawful representation of his country and said he had not been concerned in any seditious or malicious propaganda.

EXPLAINS COURT PROTOCOL.

Dutch Minister Says United States Is Accorded Its "League" Status.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

THE HAGUE, May 20.—Foreign Minister Beelaerts van Blockland was asked during a Senate debate to explain why the protocol of Sept. 14, 1929, modifying the statute of the Permanent Court of International Justice to make it possible for the United States to join the court, grants special privileges to the United States.

The Foreign Minister replied that, if the United States had joined the League of Nations, it would have become a permanent member of the Council of the League. The intention of the protocol, therefore, is to give the United States the same right to ask the advice of the court as it would have had if it was represented in the Council of the League by a permanent member.

Since the protocol only gives the United States the position it would have had in the League, there is no reason to fear that other nations which are non-members of the League will claim a similar position in the World Court, Mynheer Beelaerts van Blockland declared.

QUITS 1931 SCHNEIDER RACE

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—The Air Ministry announced tonight that it was willing to lend any of last year's Schneider Cup Race seaplanes to their makers or to any responsible organization which wishes to fly them in next year's struggle for the speed trophy.

Machines taking part must be insured adequately, the Air Ministry specified, and no service pilots will be allowed to take part in the race.

Until the end of July, when the time limit for challenges expires, there is no certainty as to whether a race will be held in 1931 or whether, because of the British Government's withdrawal, it will have to be abandoned.

MRS. NAIDU SEIZED IN NEW SALT RAID

350 FALL ON BOMBAY GROUP

All-India Congress Headquarters There Surrounded—Peshawur Inquiry Called for May 26.

DHARASANA, Bombay Presidency, Wednesday, May 21 (AP)—British police today arrested Mrs. Sarojini Naidu, who succeeded to leadership of the Indian civil disobedience campaign after the arrest of Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji.

The satyagraha (civil disobedience) leader, who was educated in England and won fame as a Hindu poetess, was taken into custody in a raid by Nationalist volunteers on the salt depot here.

350 Police in Bombay Coup.

BOMBAY, Wednesday, May 21 (AP).—The headquarters of the All-India National Congress here were surrounded and raided at 7 A. M. today by 300 unarmed policemen and fifty armed men under high British officers.

Lull Before the Storm.

BOMBAY, May 20 (AP).—Sporadic disorders occurred today in the civil disobedience campaign of India's Nationalists, but no important disturbances were reported.

The police at Dacca stopped a youth who was riding a bicycle without lights, and a crowd which gathered pelted the constables with stones. Two policemen were injured. The others used their sticks to disperse the gathering.

Another disorderly scene occurred at Gudivada, although details were lacking. A message said police clashed with civil disobedience volunteers and that some persons, the number unknown, were injured.

The situation throughout the Indian Peninsula was generally reported to be more tranquil for the British authorities than in some time. Few unpleasant incidents occurred, and the Northwest Frontier, over which Simla officials have had some anxious days, continued quiet.

From Peshawur came the news that Badshah Gul, son of the Haji of Turangzai, had been wounded by a recent bombing raid, which was a punitive expedition against the activity of his father. His gathering near the Afghan frontier was reported likely to disperse.

Several arrests were made by police, who surrounded the village of Kurvi, near Akbarpura, in the Peshawur district.

While one salt campaign—that at Shiroda—was called off today by Indian leaders combating the government salt monopoly, another was strengthened by plans for mass action tomorrow at Dharasana.

The vounteers who have been endeavoring to enter the salt works at Dharasana since last Thursday were told to adopt any means short of violence toward the police to get through the wire fence surrounding the salt plant and seize the pans.

They were told, furthermore, not to return to the volunteers' camp until they had done what they set out to do. The plans were worked out by captains of the various volunteer groups who met with the "war council" of Mrs. Sarojini Naidu. Mrs. Naidu, the poetess, who leads the civil disobedience workers since the imprisonment of Mahatma Gandhi and Abbas Tyabji, started the salt raids at Dharasana last Thursday. Since then her volunteers have kept the police constantly on the jump, groups of them dashing for salt while the busy constabulary had its hands full dispersing other groups. Hundreds were arrested.

NAHAS REPORTS PARLEY TO EGYPTIAN CHAMBER

Premier Intimates Effort to Negotiate Treaty With Britain May Be Resumed in July.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

CAIRO, May 20.—In the densely packed Chamber of Deputies, where the greatest excitement prevailed, Premier Nahas Pasha made a short statement today on the recent treaty negotiations in London, prior to a more elaborate declaration impending after publication of the British White Paper.

Nahas Pasha paid a warm tribute to British hospitality and courtesy, stressing the prevalence throughout the negotiations of the utmost cordiality on both sides, whereby many obstacles were surmounted. He particularly singled out for praise Foreign Secretary Henderson's attitude. He said that both sides made the greatest efforts to arrive at an honorable and lasting settlement with the greatest success, since, except for minor points, an agreement was reached.

"Unfortunately," he added, "the Egyptian delegates could not accept the British viewpoint without harming vital Egyptian interests, which they safeguarded by refusal of the British offer."

The Premier said the rupture occurred in an atmosphere of friendship, induced by the conviction that the near future would see a solution of outstanding major points of difference.

"The will to reach a mutually acceptable agreement was fortified by the suspension of negotiations," said Nahas Pasha. "The London visit engendered new bonds of friendship between the two governments and peoples. Time will find a solution of all the questions."

This last statement was taken here by the opposition to mean that the government's only definite policy is to remain in office. Nahas Pasha asserted that conclusion of a treaty would be possible soon, even intimating it might be in July, thus raising the possibility of negotiations with the British residency here.

ALLEGES HUNGARIAN PLOT.

Prague Paper Says Mussolini Plans to Put Prince Otto on Throne.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PRAGUE, May 20.—An alleged Hungarian plot to put Prince Otto on the throne of Hungary with Premier Mussolini's assistance was denounced by the socialist paper Pravo Lidu today. A preliminary step was said to be the betrothal of Prince Otto to the youngest daughter of the Italian royal house.

On Nov. 22 Prince Otto will become of age, on which occasion, it is stated by the paper, the Hungarian Parliament plans to declare Hungary a kingdom and Prince Otto its lawful sovereign. At the same time the present regent, Admiral Horthy, is to be replaced by a representative of Prince Otto, the paper says.

GANDHI SAYS INDIA ASKS FULL FREEDOM

By GEORGE SLOCOMBE.

understood to mean independence, but by Indian authorities it is not so understood. Therefore, when independence is resisted we naturally ask for independence in contradistinction to Dominion status."

When I asked him if he thought that Canada and South Africa were not in all essential respects independent, he acknowledged that they were. "But we are not offered a status like theirs," he added.

I asked if he had calculated the perils involved in his campaign of civil disobedience. He replied he had.

"I have taken what has been called a mad risk," he remarked, "but it is a justifiable risk. No great end has been achieved without incurring danger." Nevertheless, he said he was gravely alarmed by the violence said to have been committed at Sholapur. He was grieved at the death of the two policemen killed there, but he was convinced the violence had not come from civil resisters. He said they had been ordered to suffer everything, even violence, without resistance.

I asked if he thought that in a struggle between law-breakers and the authorities the government could acknowledge defeat.

Mr. Gandhi smiled. "I am an optimist," he said. "In forty years of struggle I have frequently been told I was attempting the impossible, but invariably I have proved the contrary."

Nevertheless, he did not refuse to negotiate, he pointed out, adding: "My life has been nothing but a record of settlements."

Mr. Gandhi declared that, if the government was earnest in its desire to satisfy India, it should grant the eleven points demanded in his last letter to the Viceroy. "I can only judge the tree by its fruits," he repeated over and over again. "Until we get satisfaction, we shall fight on until the end and give our lives, if need be, in the cause of Indian freedom.

"We shall fill all the jails of India with our passive resisters and breakers of the salt laws, and we shall make administration impossible by our opposition."

Mr. Gandhi admitted, however, that even in the remote event of a victory negotiation would still be necessary and he was prepared to do anything to avoid bloodshed and suffering if the essential cause of India nationalism did not lose thereby.

From our subsequent conversation I gathered that even at this critical hour a settlement is possible and that Mr. Gandhi was prepared to recommend to his Congress the suspension of the civil disobedience movement and cooperation in the round-table conference which will meet in London Oct. 20 on the following terms:

First—The terms of reference to the round-table conference shall include the framing of a Constittuion giving India the substance of independence.

Second—Satisfaction shall be granted to Mr. Gandhi's demands for the repeal of the salt tax, for the prohibition of liquor and for a ban on foreign cloth.

Third—Amnesty shall be accorded to prisoners convicted of political offences, to coincide with the end of the civil disobedience campaign.

Fourth—The remaining seven points raised in Mr. Gandhi's letter to the viceroy shall be left for future discussion.

I believe the British Indian Government will court disaster if it persists in the tragic error of regarding Mr. Gandhi and his Congress as a negligible political force in India.

Mr. Gandhi's cooperation alone can make the round-table conference a reality. Is the government prepared to make an honorable peace with him?

Negotiation is still possible. After my two meetings with Mr. Gandhi in prison, I am convinced that conciliation will be met by conciliation, but that violence on either side will never compel surrender.

FOR almost half that time, Ovington's has been the rendezvous of lovers of Wedgwood china whose flowered and classic decorations and colors in queensware, jasper and basalt are forever beautiful, forever young. For Ovington's started as a little shop when Polk was president and the fair ladies who drove to its doors in phaetons wore poke bonnets and crinolines. Today its stocks of china and crystal and objets d'art are among the largest and most carefully selected in the world. Today Ovington's is the foremost Gift Shop in the land. MARQUESS IS AIDE TO FORMER MINER

RIDES IN STATE PROCESSION

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

EDINBURGH, May 20.—Amid the booming of guns from Edinburgh Castle, James Brown, royal miner and member of Parliament, drove in state through beflagged streets today as the personal representative of the King.

With him in the royal coach rode his wife, a former factory girl, who during the next ten days will be called "Your Grace" by Duchesses and Countesses of Scotland. For James Brown is now installed in historic Holyrood Palace, and will hold court there as Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland.

"Jimmie" Brown, who lives in a dollar-a-week cottage, is no stranger to Holyrood or to state processions. Six years ago he was appointed by Ramsay MacDonald in his first administration, and now, a year after the King's son, the Duke of York, had held the same post, Mr. Brown and his wife were back again today, with Edinburgh cheering them to the echo.

Prior to the drive through the city Mr. and Mrs. Brown held a levee in the glittering Throne Room of Holyrood House. Wearing a scarlet uniform with a cocked hat and small white plumes, Mr. Brown stood before the golden throne and received a brilliant group of municipal, church, naval and military dignitaries in uniform. Beside him stood Mrs. Brown in a black dress with touches of silver.

Today marked the beginning of the first business meeting of the Church of Scotland since it became reunited last year.

EDINBURGH, Scotland, May 20 (AP).—The former miner who is now a member of Parliament and Lord High Commissioner to the Church of Scotland, James Brown, is occupying what was once the home of the Stuart dynasty.

With the installation of Mr. and Mrs. Brown, a Marchioness is lady-in-waiting to a former mill girl, and the heir to a dukedom is aide-de-camp to the former miner during the church assembly.

Mr. Brown's aide-de-camp is the Marquess of Clydesdale, amateur boxer and heir to the Duke of Hamilton. Mrs. Brown's lady-in-waiting is the Marchioness of Ailsa. Among her four maids of honor is the Hon. Victoria Bruce, daughter of Lord Balfour of Burleigh.

"My wife was a mill girl when we were married," said the man who for this ten-day assembly is known as His Grace. "I started to work in the coal pits when I was 12.

"For forty years I've been superintendent of the Sunday school at home, and the kirk has made me what I am.

"Just because a Socialist and a tenant of a $50-a-year miner's cottage has been given the office, it does not mean that any of the old dignities or traditions will be departed from.

"I am going to show Scotland, and England as well, that a Socialist and a miner can do things properly and maintain historic traditions."

MEXICO WILL PROTEST IMMIGRATION MEASURE

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 20.—Ambassador Manuel Tellez in Washington has been instructed to file a protest there against the Senate bill now in the House which would restrict Mexican immigration into the United States, it was announced here today at the Foreign Office.

The proposed legislation is considered here to be discriminatory in the greatest degree and general opinion is that its enforcement would harm greatly the increasingly friendly relations and mutual confidence developing between the United States and Mexico.

MUSSOLINI SAYS HOPE OF EUROPE IS FASCISM

MILAN, May 20 (AP).—Premier Mussolini, inaugurating today the new home of the Milanese Fascio, birthplace of the Fascist movement, declared that "Europe, tormented, uneasy and disheartened, will not find its salvation except through the coming of Fascism."

The Premier made an address in which he said, "We are anxious to march because we do not like to be sedentary. Therein lies our youth."

Referring to the trials of 1919, he said, "When we were few we had to fight in the public squares. Before the people knew us we needed much moral and physical courage. From this glorious past we are emerging to realize a more glorious future."

The Premier then paid a tribute to his followers killed in the revolution. "Without them," he concluded, "the Italian people could not be what it is today—a strong, compact, organized group in all its classes and categories."

DIPLOMATIC ACTION SEEN ON DODGE CASE

Paris Paper Hints Foreign Office Will Ask for Assurances on American Agents' Acts.

PRESS CHARGES ESPIONAGE

L'Oeuvre Expects Statement by Edge—Treasury Men Accused of Abusing Hospitality.

By CARLISLE MacDONALD.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20.—The French Foreign Office, it is indicated in this morning's L'Oeuvre, will probably ask Ambassador Edge for certain assurances regarding the future activities of the American Treasury agents in France, following the suicide of the chief accountant of the Maison Poiret, photographic copies of whose books made it possible for customs officials at New York to convict Mrs. Robert L. Dodge of Millneck, L. I., on a charge of smuggling and to fine her the record sum of $213,000.

Although M. Bay, the dead employe of the dressmaking firm, was not actually suspected, he knew he would be questioned. In a note which he wrote just before shootinng himself he denied he was guilty, but said he desired to escape the dishonor he felt was approaching him through the police investigation to determine who was responsible for photographing the books.

In New York it was said the information upon which Mrs. Dodge was proved guilty had been obtained through a "Paris clerk" to whom would be paid the sum of $50,000. The Treasury Department has widely advertised the fact that all persons supplying information about smugglers will receive a substantial portion of any fines collected. This is known in the Paris dressmaking world, and since the treasury agents have denied any direct complicity in the affair it is presumed some one familiar with Mrs. Dodge's purchases offered the evidence to the American Treasury Department.

L'Oeuvre and other Paris newspapers have been vigorous in their protests against a state of affairs making possible what they call the "American espionage system" in France for the detection of smuggling. Today L'Oeuvre says officials of the French Foreign Office and the Ministry of Justice already have conferred, and some form of diplomatic action may be expected. The newspaper expresses great surprise that the French Government has not acted already and adds that Ambassador Edge is too firm a friend of France not to make an "immediate declaration."

L'Ere Nouvelle, in an article headed "Yankee Police in Paris," says the activities of the American Treasury agents not only abuse the laws of hospitality but constitute a serious violation of diplomatic usage. The newspaper asks, "What would they say in New York if our police did the same thing there?" and goes on to say activities of such a character must cease. "In France there is but one police force—the French one." concludes l'Ere Novelle:

At the offices of the treasury agent at the embassy it was explained the chief agent, O'Neil, had gone to Spain. Ambassador Edge is returning to Paris late tonight after a tour of inspection of the American war cemeteries.

Yancey Joins General Sidar's Aerial Funeral; Cortege Goes From Vera Cruz to Capital Today

By CAPTAIN LEWIS A. YANCEY,
Navigator of the Pilot.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERA CRUZ, Mexico, May 20.—We landed here at 12:30 P. M. today and joined the funeral procession of General Pablo Sidar.

We will leave for Mexico City with other planes of the funeral escort in the morning.

[Captain Yancey, with Zeh Bouck, who accompanied him on his recent flight to Bermuda, and Emil Burgin, are on the way to Rio de Janeiro on a commercial good-will flight. The three landed Monday at Merida, Yucatan, from Cuba and went on to Vera Cruz yesterday.

[The flight, which is sponsored by the Hoover Administration and American diplomats and business men, started from New York on May 14. The first stop was at Washington, where the fliers were presented to President Hoover. The plane is the same one in which the Bermuda flight was made on April 1.

[With Roger Q. Williams, Captain Yancey flew to Rome from Old Orchard, Me., in July, 1929. Upon their return from the present flight the air men plan to attempt a non-stop flight from New York or Old Orchard to Moscow.]

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

MEXICO CITY, May 20.—The ashes of General Sidar, who lost his life on an attempted non-stop flight to Buenos Aires, are expected here tomorrow. The hydro-airplane Mayab, lent to the Federal Government by the Governor of the State of Yucatan to bring the ashes back from Puerto Limon, Costa Rica, landed at the Tejeria Air Field at Vera Cruz today.

The funeral plane's journey has been prolonged by frequent stops for honors to be paid to the flier's memory. The Mayab is expected to fly tomorrow to the city of Pueblo, where imposing ceremonies will be held, and, then come on the valveuna military air field on the outskirts of Mexico City.

On arrival at the capital the honors due a Major General, the rank to which the flier, who was a Colonel, was promoted posthumously, will be accorded to him. The ashes will lie in state for twenty-four hours and then be buried beside Captain Emilio Carranza, who was killed on an attempt to fly from New York to Mexico City.

SAY SCHOBER MAY QUIT IN HEIMWEHR DISPUTE

Austrians Report He Threatens to Resign Unless Fascists Surrender Arms.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 21.—The relations between Chancellor Schober and the Heimwehr anti-Socialist private army, as affected by the Chancellor's recent promise to the League of Nations to disarm Austria's private armies of both the Left and the Right, have grown so tense as to cause rumors tonight that Dr. Schober has threatened to resign unless the Heimwehr agree to lay down their arms.

Color is lent to these reports by the fact that the Chancellor summoned the three Heimwehr chiefs, Dr. Steigle, Dr. Pfrimer, and Prince Starhemberg, to a conference today, at the conclusion of which the Heimwehr leaders said they would reserve their answer to Dr. Schober until tomorrow.

Meanwhile, the former Chancellor, Mgr. Seipel, stirred the already troubled waters by saying, in an interview today, "Dr. Schober certainly has not the least intention of disarming the Heimwehr. If the disarmament law were serious, it would never pass Parliament, and, if it did, it would never be taken seriously."

For this ironic exposition of Dr. Schober's difficulties Mgr. Seipel was fiercely attacked today in the government newspapers. Meanwhile the Heimwehr, who have given a somewhat perfunctory but definite allegiance to the government, have declared for whole-hearted Fascism. The executive committee today unanimously adopted the Fascist principle enunciated by Dr. Steidle at a mass meeting on Sunday, when he said, "we reject Western democratic parliamentism. We want a régime of the strong hand."

Vienna Taxi Drivers Protest Taxes.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 20.—The city's taxicab drivers demonstrated at midnight last night against the high city taxes and the competition of the city omnibuses, which they declare is ruining their business, by driving close in a continuous line along the main streets. When the police tried to break up the procession, the drivers began a prolonged deafening chorus of motor horns, stopping only when the police made a number of arrests.

IRISH CENSORS BAN PAPER AND TWO BOOKS

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

DUBLIN, May 20.—Two more books and an English newspaper have been banned from circulation in the Irish Free State by the censorship board, which recently placed certain American books on the forbidden register.

The banned newspaper is The World's Pictorial News. The reason given for its proscription is that it devotes an unduly large proportion of its space to the publication of matter relating to crime.

The two new books added to the register are the German war book, "Class of 1902," by Ernst Glaeser, described officially as "indecent and obscene," and "Marriage and Morals," by Bertrand Russell, banned on the ground that "it advocates unnatural prevention of conception."

CONFERENCE OPENS ON SHIP LOAD LINE

BILATERAL PACTS PRAISED

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—With the object of promoting greater safety of life at sea, the first meeting of the International Load Line Conference was held today at the Foreign Office. More than 150 delegates, representing practically all the world's maritime nations, were welcomed by a message from the King. The day concluded with a government dinner, followed by a reception at Lancaster House.

The conference was opened by William Graham, President of the British Board of Trade, who stressed the importance of their work, which he considered as vital to safety and the progress of mercantile services the world over. He said the conference started with the advantage of the report of the British Load Line Committee, over which Sir Charles Sanders presided. The report, he added, had been accepted as a basis for discussion by all the countries represented.

Baron Palmstierna, Swedish Ambassador in London, who is heading the Swedish delegation, replied on behalf of the delegation. H. B. Walker, president of the American Steamship Owners' Association and chairman of the American delegation, nominated Admiral of the Fleet Sir Henry Francis Oliver as president of the conference.

Outlining the work of the conference, Sir Henry said it was necessary to keep in mind the purposes of shipping and its far reaching effects. "In the pursuit of the safety of life at sea," he said, "regardless of any other convention, we regard ourselves as in a very favorable position in having to convert the bilateral agreements into a multilateral one rather than in having to start an entirely new one."

Sir Henry pointed out there were many issues for investigation, but said the most important thing was to reach an agreement regarding ordinary deep sea cargo ships, and afterwards on special types of ships, such as oil tankers, timber, pipe and sand carrying vessels trading in countries other than their own.

"Unless we have some such arrangement," Sir Henry added, "we shall be liable to be led aside by questions relating to the special types of vessels just mentioned, and I feel sure it will save time to settle the main question first.

"Some countries represented here already have load lines, but others have none. It is satisfactory to note tha many existing load line laws are similar or equivalent in their essentials, and this has enabled a wide use to be made of the bilateral agreements whic hdifferent countries recognize the load lines of others.

Discussing the American position at the conference with your correspondent tonight, Mr. Walker said the United States report on the subject had already been approved by the Secretary of Commerce, but would not be published until after the conference. He said the Americans were especially concerned in the discussion affecting the tankers and ships carrying timber, pipes and ore.

JAILED FOR ART FRAUD.

Exhibitor in New York Convicted of Misusing Funds of Louvre.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20.—Edouard Ramond of the Louvre Museum, who in organizing an exhibition and sale of modern art in New York posed as a director of the Louvre, was sentenced today to eighteen months in prison and $20 fine for misuse of funds.

According to the testimony, Ramond took funds belonging to the French national museums with which to purchase modern art works, which he exposed for sale in New York, and when the exhibition proved a failure he was unable to realize the money with which he had hoped to reimburse the Louvre. His accounts were found half a million francs short.

Several artists testified as to Ramond's good character and as to his merits as an art writer and organizer of art exhibits.

GOLD STAR MOTHERS REACH BATTLE ZONE

DIVIDED INTO FIVE GROUPS

Largest Number Go to Verdun to Remain Until Sunday—Rest Visit Other Cemeteries.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VERDUN, May 20.—A caravan of six comfortably appointed autobuses left Paris this morning with more than 200 American Gold Star mothers for what was the battlefront of Eastern France twelve years ago. The mothers were divided into five groups, which did not have the same destinations.

Tonight 108 in the largest group were installed in hotels at Verdun preparatory to visiting early tomorrow the largest American cemetery in France, at Montfaucon, where more than 14,000 American warriors lie. Others went to Bar-le-Duc, Soissons, Château Thierry and St. Quentin. Seveteen remained in Paris.

Near Montmirail, where the first halt was made, the impulsive desire of several mothers to place flowers on the bare grave of a British soldier by the roadside was gratified. Beef tea was served to all in the half-hour rest period there.

The next stop was at Chalon-sur-Marne, where after lunch the mothers had an opportunity to visit the City Hall in which the American Unknown Soldier who lies at Arlington was picked from among six unidentified bodies brought there from as many cemeteries. American Army officers escorting the mothers explained how America's unknown hero was chosen in the presence of General Pershing by a blindfolded sergeant, who dropped a white carnation on one of the six coffins.

Another stop was made for afternoon tea St. Menehould, which was an important French railway point in the latter part of the war and therefore subjected to almost constant bombing from the air by the Germans.

Verdun was reached shortly after 5 o'clock this evening.

Tomorrow morning the mothers will be received by the Mayor of Verdun and then will proceed to Mantfaucon. Next Sundayq they will begin the return journey to Paris via Château Thierry and Rheims. This arrangement is to permit them to visit the battlefields of these regions. They will spend Sunday night at Rheims and be back in Paris Monday evening.

Edge Praises Monuments.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20.—Ambassador Edge, who returned tonight from a tour of American cemeteries and memorials in France, said his trip had been the most impressive of his whole life.

Ambassador and Mrs. Edge left Paris early Monday morning, accompanied by General Pershing. They visited Belleau Wood, Château-Thierry, Romagne, Montfaucon, Douaumont, Verdun, Thiaucourt, Mont Sec and the battlefields in the vicinity of Verdun, and General Pershing explained on their sites the major military operations of the A. E. F.

The Ambassador also inspected the monuments completed and now building under the direction of the American Battle Monuments Commission, and tonight praised highly the character of the memorials erected to American soldiers who fell in the World War.

A woman's problem

You wear high heeled shoes on the Avenue and must wear low heels on the golf course. You walk as many miles in a game of golf as you walk blocks in the city.

Therefore your sport shoes should be chosen carefully and fitted to your feet properly if you are to enjoy the game and play it well.

The right sport shoes will take away nothing from the appearance of your feet and ankles. But we cannot emphasize too strongly the fact that it takes sports knowledge to make sports shoes.

Our Custom Shoe Department will make any sport shoe to your individual measurement.

TERMS ROOSEVELT A 'JEKYLL AND HYDE'

SCORES RECORD ON BILLS

W. L. Ward Tells Republican Women Untermyer Inquiry Was Unruly and Defends County Heads.

In a bitter attack on Governor Roosevelt yesterday State Senator Seabury C. Mastick told 1,000 members of the Westchester County Women's Republican Club at a luncheon at the Commodore that the Executive was "a Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde" in his attitude toward local Democratic and Republican administrations.

Without mentioning the Governor, William L. Ward, veteran Republican leader of Westchester, also condemned the Executive's investigation through Samuel Untermyer of the county's land purchases and characterized the proceedings at "unruly," Westchester had the best set of county officials in the country, he said.

Senator Mastick, who is mentioned as a possible Republican nominee for Governor next Fall, discussed piece by piece the legislative accomplishments of the last session, in each case charging that the Governor had deliberately attempted to take credit for Republican initiative or had sought to cover up his own delays and the "failures" of his administration.

Sees Eye on Political Star.

"When the Governor's eye is on a distant political star it is almost impossible to have a proper administration," Senator Mastick asserted. "He cannot help but be inconsistent in his vetoes and approvals of bills when he bows to Democratic leaders here and attacks Republicans up-State. He cannot help but be inconsistent when he does the Dr. Jekyll and Mr. Hyde act of approving extravagances in New York City and demanding rigid economies up-State and when he can see things going wrong only in Columbia, Monroe and Westchester counties and nothing wrong in Democratic Albany and New York.

"The thing to remember is that the Governor's frank slogan is to make up-State as solidly Democratic as New York City. The object of his attack on Republican institutions up-State is to carry out his idea of a solid Democratic State."

The Executive had charged the Legislature with being dilatory during the last session, but the lack of early action was due to the delay in submitting his budget, the Senator charged, adding that Governor Roosevelt later "got wind" of deletions which the Republican legislative leaders were making in his bill and thereupon submitted an amended budget, again delaying action.

"We should lay directly at the Executive's door the breakdown in the prison and banking department," Senator Mastick said. He assailed also the Governor's veto of the Knight bill for evaluation of utility properties.

Ward on "Little Fracas."

Mr. Ward spoke of "the little fracas we had last year in relation to the purchase of a piece of property" and declared that he would vouch for the honesty of the Board of Supervisors.

"I didn't think it necessary to appear before Samuel Untermyer and attend his unruly proceedings," the Westchester leader continued. "That seemed to anger Mr. Untermyer a little, for he devoted eighteen pages to me in his report. I was only a simple individual citizen doing what I could for the county. We don't put supervisors in office unless they are honest and we don't keep them in if we find they have turned dishonest."

In speaking of the county building and welfare program, Mr. Ward foresaw county realty values being increased by public musical education.

"In ten years we will have 10,000 children playing on musical instruments, with the spiritual awakening which that means. No one can be very bad if you make him sing. By this very reasonable human thing Westchester realty values will be swelled."

He also lauded the work of Dr. Matthias Nicoll Jr., county health officer and formerly State Commissioner of Health.

Other speakers were:

Mrs. EUGENE MEYER, a sponsor of the County Recreation Centre.
PRINCESS DER LING, former lady-in-waiting to the late Dowager Empress of China.

Autoist Parks Car on Track To Stop Train for Ride Home

Special to The New York Times.

MIDDLETOWN, N. Y., May 20.—When Walter Every of Central Valley decided that he was not fit to drive a car from Monroe to his town, he evolved a unique method for a man to reach home. He parked his vehicle on the Erie tracks and waited for a train which he heard approaching.

The train stopped and while the crew heaved the automobile into a ditch, Every boarded the train and rode as far toward home as he could. Then he took a taxicab the rest of the way.

The adventure cost him a fine of $10 on a charge of disorderly conduct, to which he pleaded guilty today.

JOSEPHTHAL ESTATE PUT AT $2,850,316

WIDOW CHIEF BENEFICIARY

Lorenzo Semple Left $288,116—Property of Mrs. Mildred Godwin Appraised at $981,820.

Rear Admiral Louis M. Josephthal, commander of the State Naval Militia and partner of the Stock Exchange firm of Josephthal & Co., left an estate appraised yesterday at $3,286,634 gross and $2,850,316 net. The gross estate was reduced by debts of $178,245, which included $162,000 Federal Income taxes for 1928 and part of 1929.

The assets included $466,633 in cash, of which $460,701 was deposited with his firm; $53 as the value of his medals, $40,455 as an indebtedness due from his wife, $8,416 for a mortgage, and $2,769,476 as his interest in the firm. This sum was composed of his capital account of $2,500,000 with interest of $59,583, and profits due him from Jan. 1, 1929, to May 23, 1929, when he died, of $208,788, with interest of $1,164. Rear Admiral Josephthal owned no real estate because his home at Premium Point, New Rochelle, was the property of his wife.

Securities consisted of $200 for five shares Atlantic Yacht Club, $100 for a $1,000 bond of the Sunningdale Country Club and $700 as the value of a $1,000 bond of the New Rochelle Yacht Club. The decedent owned 9,000 shares Old Kentucky Gold Mining Company, two memberships in the Dauntless Rowing Club, and eight shares Army and Navy Stores, Inc., all found to be worthless.

The will gave $25,000 to Nicolas J. Gerold, partner of Rear Admiral Josephthal, and left $100,000 in cash, his trophies and a third of the residue, $871,754 to his widow, who also received the other two-thirds for life. Upon her death this fund is to be divided between her daughters, Elvira C. Butler of London and Audrey Barbara Love. Minnie J. Goldenberg, a sister, got a life interest in $100,000. A fund of $10,000 was left to the New York State Naval Militia for trophies.

Lorenzo Semple, for many years a member of the law firm of Coudert Brothers, who died April 23, 1928, left an estate appraised at $288,116, of which $55,391 was his interest in the law firm and $100,450 was in real estate, including his Mount Kisco residence, valued at $100,000. He had $38,144 in cash, $281 in jewelry and $83,089 in securities. He left the residuary estate for life to his widow, Mary Semple, and gave $3,000 to his son, Lorenzo Jr., and $2,000 to his daughter, Ellen S. Barry.

Mrs. Godwin's Estate $921,820.

Mrs. Mildred Godwin, who died Dec. 22, 1927, at Katonah, N. Y., left an estate appraised at $950,550 gross and $921,820 net, of which $769,221 was in securities. Frederick M. Godwin, her husband, received the residue, $770,450, and the remainder went to her daughters, Mildred M. and Elizabeth L. Godwin. A large part of her estate was left to her under the will of her mother, Mrs. George L. Rives, widow of the late Corporation Counsel.

WINS $8,500 VERDICT FROM CUNARD LINE

Mrs. Winifred Steele Sued for $150,000 Damages Because of Ejection From Ship.

A verdict for $8,500 was returned yesterday for Mrs. Winifred Steele of 2 East Sixty-second Street in her $150,000 suit against the Cunard Steamship Company because she was ejected from the Ausonia in 1927 at Cherbourg after she had paid for her passage because she was an expectant mother. The verdict was handed up to Supreme Court Justice Mullan by the jury, which had not been able to agree when court recessed the night before.

Mrs. Steele, who is the wife of Captain Edward Steele, a British subject employed by the Equitable Trust Company, said she was trying to reach America so that her child might be born in this country and thus avoid immigration complications in the future. She testified that worry over the delay affected her health permanently.

She managed to arrive here on the Lusitania and her daughter was born here. An alienist who testified for her said that the experience had made her a psychoneurotic.

ASKS WAR ON STOCK FRAUD.

Dodds Denounces "Cruel Swindlers" to Securities Commissioners.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Denouncing the "confidence man" as the cruelest and most cowardly we have," Nugent Dodds, special assistant to the Attorney General, today called upon the Securities Commissioners of the several States here for their annual convention for assistance in the prosecution of cases against these "most miserable swindlers who prey especially upon the needy and deserving, upon widows and orphans, leaving sorrow and suffering behind them everywhere.

Mr. Dodd urged the commissioners to pay particular attention to gathering the kind of data the Federal government needs to prosecute mail fraud cases. The problem from the point of view of the State was presented in turn by A. W. Geissinger of Ohio.

J. M. B. Hoxsey, executive assistant, speaking for the committee on stock listing, said that in spite of all the care it was possible to exercise, the listing of stocks on the New York Stock Exchange had been regarded as carrying a guarantee of their value, which it does not.

Discussing investment trust securities, J. E. Sullivan of New Hampshire, chairman of the committee on investment trusts, advocated action requiring every trust to make semi-annual reports disclosing assets, liabilities, incomes and disbursements, itemized list of securities in portfolio, and other information.

ASKS HOOVER'S AID IN PRISON REFORMS

Citizens' Committee Resolution Also Calls on Governors to Ease "Inhuman Conditions."

MORROW PRESSES NEEDS

At a citizens' protest meeting under the auspices of the Citizens' Committee on American Prisons, broadcast over a nation-wide hook-up through Station WEAF, resolutions were adopted last night calling on the President and the Governors of the various States to take immediate steps as emergency measures to alleviate inhumane prison conditions.

Speakers who addressed the visible audience in the Times Square studio of the National Broadcasting Company and the invisible audience of twenty-two radio stations were:

DWIGHT W. MORROW, former Ambassador to Mexico.
DR. FELIX ADLER, founder of the Ethical Culture Society, who presided.
MGR. WILLIAM E. CASHIN, former chaplain of Sing Sing prison.
DR. GEORGE E. KIRCHWEY, Professor of Criminology of the New School for Social Research and former warden of Sing Sing prison.

Dr. Adler, opening the discussion, said that the recent outbreaks culminating in the Ohio State Penitentiary fire, of which he said, "the horror of that has not left my mind," could be likened to a prairie fire spreading over a wide territory and breaking out anew from time to time.

"It is an emergency," he continued, "and we have come to sound the cry of our own distress in this situation."

Morrow Urges Improvement.

Mr. Morrow told what steps have been taken in New Jersey since outbreaks in 1917. "I may venture the hope," he added, "when so many communities are responding to President Hoover's wise suggestion that States and local communities temper the unemployment situation by spending such money as may be possible for needed public improvements, they should give some study to their prison systems and consider carefully whether expenditures along those lines are not wise. That, of course, is a question each State must determine for itself."

Mgr. Cashin, who appeared as the representative of Cardinal Hayes, said that with the prison population increasing at so much faster a rate than the general population it became a problem of education to see that men know how to use their liberty, recognize the rights of others, are taught that lawlessness is harmful not only to themselves but to the community, and are taught the doctrine of a personal God.

Matthew Woll suggested a return to the rule of common sense in the treatment of the prison problem, with recognition of the fact that the primary function of prison is not punishment but restoration to usefulness in society.

Scores Long Sentences.

Dr. Kirchwey said that the need today, except as an emergency measure to relieve overcrowding, is not for larger prisons but for smaller prisons into which the men can be graded and classified. He placed responsibility for outbreaks not on the prisons but on the courts for long-term sentences, on Legislatures for the laws which courts must enforce, but in the final analysis upon "what you and your neighbors are."

The resolution providing for the formation of a committee of 1,000 to focus public opinion on the problem read:

Resolved, That we, as citizens of the United States, do hereby respectfully petition that the humane rights of imprisoned men and women be safeguarded; and that relief from the present gross overcrowding and idleness be provided; and further be it

Resolved, That we present this petition to the President of the United States and to the Governors of the various States of the Union, pointing out that public opinion demands the taking of emergency measures under the existing laws without waiting for legislative action.

$500,000 TO AID CHINESE.

More than $500,000 has been raised in the campaign of China Famine Relief, U. S. A., to raise $2,000,000 in this country to bring food to the famine sufferers of China, it was announced yesterday by David A. Brown, chairman of the board of directors. Of the sum raised $450,000 has been sent to China since Feb. 1.

American relief funds, Mr. Brown said, are received in China by the National Christian Council at Shanghai, which represents the missions of the majority of Protestant churches of this country maintaining work in China. The allocation of the fund is directed by an all-American advisory committee made up of the heads of American firms in China and mission board executives.

EUROPEAN EDITORS AT FIRST BALL GAME

NATIONAL TOUR ARRANGED

Eight European journalists, members of a party of fourteen who are making a "good-will" tour of the United States as guests of the Carnegie Endowment for International Peace, saw their first baseball game yesterday at the Polo Grounds. Although they had little or no knowledge of the game, all praised it greatly and seemed amazed at the "accuracy" of the players.

The party will motor through Westchester County today, stopping for luncheon at Briarcliff Lodge and for tea at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Haskell of 156 Saratoga Avenue, Yonkers. Mr. Haskell is assistant to the director of the Division of Intercourse and Education of the Carnegie Endowment. Tonight they will inspect the plant of THE NEW YORK TIMES, where a buffet supper will be served.

For tomorrow, their last day in the city before leaving on their national tour, a luncheon has been arranged at the Lotos Club, where they will be the guests of The United Press.

Friday the party will leave by motor bus for Doyleston, Pa.; Philadelphia and Washington, D. C. After a four-day stay at the capital they will travel by rail to Atlanta, Ga., where they will stay for three days. From Atlanta they will proceed to New Orleans and to Galveston, Texas, and thence to Grand Canyon National Park.

The tourists will also visit Los Angeles, Merced and San Francisco, where they will stop for four days. Salt Lake City is next on their itinerary, followed by Denver, Col., and Omaha, Neb. On June 30 they will leave Omaha for Chicago, and after four days there will continue East through Cincinnati to Detroit, Buffalo, N. Y.; Niagara Falls, Lake Placid, and back to New York. Their return to this city is scheduled for July 14, giving the journalists three days here before sailing back to Europe on the North German Lloyd liner Berlin.

The tour was arranged by the Carnegie Endowment to continue the work it began in the Fall of 1928 when fourteen British journalists were escorted through the United States. Last Summer a second group was invited from the Continent, and the present party is made up of representatives of the press of the European nations not included in the former contingents.

The purpose of the tours, in the words of Dr. Nicholas Murray Butler, who extended the invitations, is "to offer representatives of the European press the best possible opportunity to visit different parts of the United States, to meet leading citizens, groups and organizations, and to observe for themselves what may be the more significant aspects of present-day American social, economic, intellectual and political life."

Official and unofficial receptions await the party of journalists at all the larger cities at which they will stop. It was understood that President Hoover will grant them an interview at the White House.

Patriotic Society Elects Officers.

ceed to the consideration of executive business "in open session," and when the motion was carried perfunctorily, he asked that the calendar of nominations be taken up for consideration. The first name on the calendar was that of Mr. Roberts.

Senator Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic floor leader, arose to remark that he understood that the nomination of Mr. Roberts had been reported unanimously by the Committee on the Judiciary.

"It was," answered Senator Norris of Nebraska, chairman of that committee, who had been one of the most vehement opponents of the nomination of Judge Parker.

"I have no objection," said Senator Robinson for the Democrats.

"Without objection, the nomination will be confirmed," droned Vice President Curtis. "The Chair hears none."

And that ended it.

With the favorable disposal of the Roberts case, the bench of the Supreme Court will be filled for the first time since the deaths of Chief Justice Taft and Associate Justice Sanford, which occurred on the same day. The personnel of the court, with the new associate justice included, will consist of six Republicans and three Democrats.

It is expected that Mr. Roberts will be sworn in before Saturday.

Medal to Dr. Langmuir Friday.

The Willard Gibbs Medal of the Chicago Section of the American Chemical Society will be presented to Dr. Irving Langmuir, associate director of research of the General Electric Company, at a dinner at the Palmer House, Chicago, on Friday, the society announced here yesterday. The medal is given annually for work in pure or applied chemistry which has received world-wide recognition. Dr. Langmuir will speak on "What Are Atoms—How Do We Know?"

PRESIDENT PRAISES ADMIRAL AND FLEET

Hoover Radios Congratulations From Cruiser to Pratt as 50 Ships of Line Pass in Review.

DETROIT LEADS SALUTE

Air Manoeuvres by Planes and Los Angeles, Features of Sham Battle, Hold Executive's Attention.

ON BOARD THE CRUISER SALT LAKE CITY, May 20.—The power and majesty of the United States Navy passed before the eyes of President Hoover as he reviewed the combined scouting and battle fleets, thirty miles at sea off the Virginia Capes today.

More than fifty fighting ships of the line, ranging from dolphin-like submarines to the mighty battleships, steamed past, thrilling the President and others who watched them, and dimming in the minds of some, at least, any ardor for naval disarmament.

Dressed simply in his familiar double-breasted blue suit, stiff turn-down collar and black-banded soft hat, the President watched part of the ceremonies pageant from the bridge of this smart, new cruiser, first of the "treaty" class, and another part from the communications deck, where he stood beneath a battery of three formidable eight-inch guns.

He kept his field glasses fixed fast on the splendid ships as they drove by with thundering armament, and removed his hat as the strains of the national anthem drifted across the mile of calm sea.

Hoover Congratulates leet.

After the review and a sham naval battle were over, an ear-helmeted radio-man clicked out his wireless message to Admiral William V. Pratt, commander-in-chief of the United States fleet, on board the battleship Texas.

"The President wishes to congratulate the commander-in-chief, the officers and men of the fleet on the smart and efficient manner in which the individual units performed their tasks."

His blue and white flag fluttering from the stern of an admiral's barge, the President left Old Point Comfort about 8 o'clock this morning and boarded the Salt Lake City, a glittering new ship, whose brasses were burnished to perfection and decks as clean as a ballroom floor. Obviously every officer and enlisted man was proud of this new 10,000-ton ship, the last word in cruiser construction.

Flagship Salutes President.

Her four screws raced the ship at a 30-knot speed through Hampton Roads and out beyond the Capes, while the President chatted with Captain Frank L. Oliver, Secretary Adams, Assistant Secretary Jahncke and Admiral Charles F. Hughes, chief of naval operations.

Out of the horizon came the great Los Angeles, floating easily against a sky hazy with soft white clouds. It hovered above the Salt Lake City, and then roved over to the port bow.

Field glasses swung to starboard, and there on the rim of the sea lay eight cruisers headed by the Detroit, flagship of Rear Admiral Frank H. Clark, commander of the light cruiser division of the Scouting Fleet, blending into the gray of the sea.

Drawing nearer to the Salt Lake City the Detroit fired the first gun of the many twenty-one-gun salutes which boomed as the review proceeded. President Hoover listened intently as the salute echoed across the waters.

Faintly the band of the Detroit was heard playing "The Star-Spangled Banner." Through the glasses one could see its decks and those of its class lined with sailors standing at salute.

Battle Fleet Is Reviewed.

Off the starboard bow of the Salt Lake City was the battleship Texas, commanded by Captain Adolphus Andrews, and flagship of Admiral Pratt, chief naval adviser at London.

White water curling under her prow, the Texas moved solemnly on past the reviewing ship, leading the other "grand dukes" of the navy, first of them the California, above which flew the four-starred flag of Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commander of the battle fleet, including the Colorado, West Virginia and Maryland, all 16-inch gun ships, the most powerful fighting craft under the American flag.

With these ships were the other sovereigns of the navy, the Tennessee, New Mexico, Oklahoma, Nevada, Florida and Utah.

Mr. Hoover looked closely at the Utah, the ship upon which he sailed from Rio de Janeiro, after his good-will tour of South America.

Seventy Planes Take Flight.

Their after decks packed with airplanes, the Saratoga and the Lexington paraded by the Salt Lake City.

Every detail of her equipment sharp in relief under the bright sunshine, the Lexington came steadily up on the starboard side of the reviewing cruiser.

On her deck were about seventy planes, their propellers whirling rapidly as the high-powered motors warmed up to make the dash. Their blades scintillated in the sun, and the roar of their motors was like a hive of enormous bees.

Then plane after plane left the carrier, fast on the heels of each other. Sometimes they were only eight seconds apart. Seldom more than fifteen seconds separated their flight.

The full quota of three score and ten left the Lexington in less than fifteen minutes. The sky was filled with them, swerving this way and that, flying in close formation, wheeling and turning like well-drilled infantry. The precision was remarkable.

Hoover Sees Planes Catapulted.

Fully as many planes left the Saratoga as the Lexington and in the same spectacular manner. For the most part the combined force constituted the same which recently "raided" New York and bombed New England cities. The naval aviators were so much on their mettle that some of the fleet officers humorously charged them with trying to "steal the show."

In addition to the airships from the two carriers, other planes were catapulted from the battleships, several of them from the Salt Lake City.

The President watched these startling performances with keen attention, his eye striving to follow the fliers as they rocketed from the end of the catapult. It was, however, virtually impossible to retain the plane in vision as it shot away from this device.

When the review ended, the Salt Lake City steamed back to Old Point Comfort, escorted by some destroyers and heavier ships. Mr. Hoover spent part of the time talking with the ship's officers and with Secretary Adams as the cruiser moved swiftly inside the capes.

"SEE" FLEET REVIEW THROUGH BROADCAST

Radio Listeners Followed the Movement of Ships Over Nation-Wide Chains.

Millions of radio listeners, many of whom never saw a battle ship or the Atlantic Ocean, attuned their receivers yesterday afternoon to the broadcast description of President Hoover's review of the great American battle fleet and aircraft squadrons off Hampton Roads, Va., and probably were rewarded with better "views" of the proceedings than those privileged to be present at the spectacle. The "scene," heard here over WOR, WEAF and WJZ, was carried from coast to coast by nation-wide networks for an hour and forty-five minutes beginning at 1 o'clock, Eastern Daylight Time.

The radio audience was treated to vivid glimpses of the spectacle described from the gondola of the United States Navy dirigible Los Angeles flying about 2,000 feet over the parade of battle ships and destroyers beneath. The clarity of the broadcast, carried by short waves to a receiver ashore and then by wires to New York, was said by engineers to be one of the most satisfactory in their experience of rebroadcasting from the scene of great events.

Listeners were then transported in the twinkle of an eye to the deck of the cruiser Salt Lake City, where another radio announcer was stationed before a microphone installed near President Hoover's reviewing stand. It is practically sure that no eyewitness of the review saw the spectacle from both these points of vantage. Those who have never seen a battleship or the Atlantic Ocean could hear occasionally the crisp voices of the officers and the crew of the cruiser and the airship. They were treated, virtually, to breaths of salt sea air and spray which dashed against the armor plate sides of the Salt Lake City, riding at anchor about forty miles off the Virginia Capes.

Nicholson's Feat Announced.

The descriptions from the Salt Lake City, the birdseye view of the long line of "ships stretching almost to the skyline," the squadrons of planes flying overhead and the feat of Lieut. Commander Charles A. Nicholson, who attached his small plane to a mooring device on the Los Angeles as the final scene of the manoeuvre, was carried on short radio waves to a receiver installed for the occasion on top of the Cavalier Hotel at Virginia Beach.

The arrangements, installations and tests were carried out by engineers of the National Broadcasting Company in cooperation with navy radio engineers. They consider it one of the most noteworthy achievements of its kind. From the Virginia Beach short-wave receiver the descriptions were carried by wire to the NBC headquarters in New York, the distribution point for the nation-wide chains.

Barring the few seconds delay in first establishing a contact with the Los Angeles, which was explained later by the airship announcer, George Hicks, as not being the fault of the radio equipment, there was not the slightest perceptible loss of time in switching the story from one point to another. Aboard the cruiser the announcer was James Wallington, and at the Virginia Beach microphone, William Burke Miller, the NBC manager of special pick-up features.

Synchronized Perfectly.

"It was like three people speaking casually together in a room," said one listener. "When one speaker finished his description for the moment the other took it up immediately. If one wanted to break into the conversation he did so, and was heard as he did it."

The quality of transmission, resulting from a surprising freedom from atmospherics and noise, was good throughout the period. During the last few seconds of the broadcasting from the scene of the review the airship announcer told of Lieut. Commander Nicholson attempting to hook his airplane to the Los Angeles while both were flying about 2,000 feet in the air.

"He did it," radio listeners heard the announcer in the Los Angeles say. "No, he didn't. Yes, he did, he's on."

Then a microphone was lowered on a thirty-foot trapeze to Lieut. Commander Nicholson and he spoke to the radio listeners, telling them how it feels to perform something which has never been done before in an airplane high above the Atlantic Ocean.

HOOVER REVIEWS AIR FLEET AND NAVY

board to head into the light breeze and launch their planes. Ahead, in a far-flung panorama, hulls and masts dark and tiny in the misty distance, were scattered, the cruisers and the twenty-two destroyers wheeling into position for a sudden attack on the battle line.

"Stand clear of the propellers!" Loud-speakers installed in the nettings of the flight deck warned the mechanics and their officers.

A pathetic one-armed figure in an ensign's uniform was a more vivid warning. It was "Pete" Burke, who used to be one of the pilots of "The Crazy Cat Squadron" until a wheeling propeller took off an arm some weeks ago, just as the Saratoga came North.

Air Squadron Takes Off.

A white flag replaced a red one extending from the port side of the barge. The motor of the leading plane roared to a crescendo of power, the chocks were pulled from beneath the wheels and the flying fleet was on its way in less than twenty minutes.

The sixty-five planes had taken off smoothly from the deck of the Saratoga and were forming in squadrons in the skies. The eighteen V-T ships with the "Red Dragon" emblazoned on their fuselages were among the last to leave. They were preceded by a squadron of scouting and observation planes sporting the emblem of the "Pointer Dog" and by the light bombers, wearing the badge of "Felix the Cat," with a bomb in its paws. The "High Hat" squadron, swift fighters, zoomed quickly into position off the bow.

While the battleships deployed, turned in their own wakes and displayed all the manoeuvres of the great naval battle, the light forces beyond the horizon waited, while the sailors of the skies sailed into position.

President's Ship Is "Attacked."

The Saratoga's aircraft joined in attacks upon the battleships and upon the President's ship, while some of the forces from the Lexington took positions over the battle line to ward off the other sky attackers.

Eight of the swift fighters of the "high hat" squadron dived out of the sun from an altitude of 6,000 feet, to rake with light bombs and machine-gun fire the conrol stations and superstructure of the battleships.

The other division of fighters engaged the defending Lexington planes in a mad "dog fight" eight above the sea. The torpedo planes swung low into the sunlight and the heavy bombers dived out of the clouds to complete the destruction of the "enemy" surface ships.

Ten of the battleships, led by the clipper-bowed California, flying the flag of Admiral Louis M. Nulton, commanding the battle fleet, scurried into single column, with broadsides trained on the light forces.

Carriers Massed With Planes.

The Salt Lake City, her four great screws churning the sea into white froth, sped astern of the Lexington and followed the carrier closely as she launched her brood of planes into the air.

As the President watched, Davis S. Ingalls, Assistant Secretary of the Navy for Aeronautics, nodded his approval from the bridge of the Lexington of the shipshape manner in which the eighty-five planes were launched.

On the Saratoga the huge two-and-a-half acre flight deck was massed with planes and with mechanics and pilots, ready for the take-off, flight quarters sounded through the great hull of the ship as a metallic clangor from many gongs warned the pilots of approaching battle.

Then suddenly, as the Salt Lake City steamed astern of the battle line, scouting planes laid a thick wall of white smoke about the battleships.

The smoke clung and drifted close to the water and then broke into fantastic wind-swept streamers through which could be seen the frenzied head-long rush of the cruisers and destroyers, smoke-protected against the battle line.

Plane Hooks on to Los Angeles.

Leaving white sea rails to mark their progress, the light vessels sped on to turn at a simultaneous signal and fire imaginary torpedoes.

As the wind slowly rolled the smoke away in a great pall, the signal "cease present exercise" crackled from the antenna of the flagship Texas.

When the planes, after two and a half hours in the air, "fish tailed" to a landing on the flying deck, Lieut. Com. Charles A. Nicholson of the Bureau of Aeronautics of the Navy Department at Washington took his old Vought two-seater observation plane to a test "landing" aboard the Los Angeles.

The plane is equipped with a specially designed hook, made fast to the centre of its upper wing, which engaged a mechanism suspended from the bottom of the dirigible.

Commander Nicholson rode as a passenger. For about twenty minutes the motor of his plane idled, while thousands of blue jackets and spectators watched him from below as he cast off and made a safe landing on the deck of the Saratoga, as the Los Angeles slid out of sight behind a veil of clouds to the north.

The dirigible had been cruising about over the "battle" and review since early morning, exhibiting its great silver bulk to the President and to scores of observers from the army and civilian life.

Honors Felix Warburg Tuesday.

Tribute to Felix M. Warburg for his many philanthropies will be paid next Tuesday night at a "town meeting" at Town Hall, at which the drive for $2,500,000 to be conducted locally as part of the national campaign for $6,000,000 for the Allied Jewish Campaign will be launched. Mr. Warburg is honorary chairman of the national campaign and chairman of the American Jewish Joint Distribution Committee and of the Jewish Agency for Palestine, the beneficiaries of the drive.

The New Gillette Blade

THE NEW Gillette Blade has restored thousands of damaged, old type Gillette Razors to active shaving service.

These veteran razors had become damaged through years of daily use. They were dropped on the floor. The corners of the razor caps and the guard teeth were bent. Poor shaves resulted, for the bent corners forced the blade out of alignment.

The New Gillette Blade remedies this defect

The dented corners of the razor caps and the bent teeth can no longer spoil the shave.

A glance at the illustrations will show you how this sweeping improvement has restored thousands of these discarded razors to useful service.

But of course the New Gillette Blade in a New Gillette Razor is the best shaving combination.

KANSAS CITY	97

But in ratio to their population they rank thus—

In number of murders Chicago ranks second to New York. This is natural. It is second in size. But in percentage of murders to population it ranks THIRTY-NINTH.

Why then has it such a reputation for crime?

Because it is the center of railroad traffic, of lake shipping, of aviation, more people visit Chicago than visit any other city except perhaps New York.

Because it is the center of the telegraph and the telephone lines, news goes to more places from Chicago than from any other city.

As the great city nearest the center of food production, mining and manufacturing, more people are interested in Chicago than in any other city.

You cannot do much about Chicago's crime but you can avail yourself of Chicago's buying power, of its position as the great central market, and you can do this by advertising in the

MRS. HOOVER LAUDS COMMANDER BOOTH

Letter, Read at Mass Meeting of Women, Says Salvation Army Does Invaluable Work.

GREETING BY LADY ASTOR

Mrs. Coolidge Also Sends Message Congratulating Leader on Her 25 Years of Service.

Mrs. Herbert Hoover declared that the work of the Salvation Army is "of inestimable value to humanity" in a greeting to Miss Evangeline Booth, the Commander-in-Chief of that organization in America, which was read last evening at a mass meeting for women in Carnegie Hall. The meeting was the closing public feature of the Golden Jubilee National Congress of the Arms and the silver jubilee celebration of the commandership of Miss Booth. The chairman of the meeting was Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt.

In sending this congratulation Mrs. Hoover followed the example of her husband. President Hoover, in a message read last Friday evening at the opening of the congress, congratulated the organization on the completion in the United States of "fifty years of service to God and man."

Mrs. Calvin Coolidge wrote expressing the wish to Miss Booth that "the passing years might rest lightly" on her. Lady Astor wrote from England sending Commander Booth her "love and undimmed admiration."

Other messages read were from Anna A. Gordon, president of the World's Christian Temperance Union, and Ruth Hanna McCormick, Representative in Congress from Illinois.

Addresses were made by Mrs. Finley J. Shepard, formerly Miss Helen M. Gould, a personal friend of Miss Booth for many years, and Mrs. Robert E. Speer, president of the National Board of the Y. W. C. A.

The chief address of the evening was by the commander herself, who spoke on "Women Who Have Made History."

Mrs. Hoover's Message.

The message of Mrs. Hoover was:

The White House,
Washington, D. C.

My Dear Commander Booth:

I regret exceedingly that circumstances prevent my being present at the golden jubilee of the Salvation Army, commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the beginning in the United States of the most meritorious and unselfish work of this great organization. I am glad to avail myself of this opportunity of expressing through you to the national congress, now in session, my keen and unfailing interest in the activities of the Salvation army and my sincere good wishes for its continued success in that field of labor which is of such inestimable value to humanity.

Very sincerely,
LOU HENRY HOOVER.

Mrs. Coolidge's Letter.

The letter from Mrs. Coolidge was:

21 Massasoit Street,
Northampton, Mass.

Commander Evangeline Booth,
The Salvation Army,
New York, N. Y.

My dear Miss Booth:

You are about to celebrate the twenty-fifth anniversary of your taking over the command of the Salvation Army in America and I desire to salute you and to express to you, in so far as I am able, the great admiration which I have for you and for the organization of which you are the directing head. May the passing years rest lightly upon you and may you be blessed with health and renewed in strength to continue your work for the bringing in of the kingdom of Jesus Christ here on earth.

Loyally and sincerely,
GRACE COOLIDGE.
Mrs. Calvin Coolidge.

Lady Astor's Greeting.

The letter from Lady Astor was addressed to Lieut. Col. Edward B. Underwood at Salvation Army headquarters, 122 West Fourteenth Street, this city, and was as follows:

Taplow, Bucks.
Cliveden, April 26, 1930.

Dear Colonel Underwood:

How I should like to be with you all this evening.

There are few people in the world whom I admire more than Commander Evangeline Booth. She is far too great a person to desire or to need compliments, so please just give her my love and undimmed admiration, and thank her for all she has done and for all she is. Tell her that hers is the only army that a woman should join, and theirs is the only battle that is really worth winning.

With good wishes,
Yours sincerely,
LADY ASTOR.

Lieut. Col. Edward B. Underwood,
Salvation Army Headquarters,
122 West Fourteenth Street,
New York, N. Y.

W. C. T. U. Leader Sends Message.

Miss Gordon, who wrote from her headquarters in Evanston, Ill., lauded Commander Booth and the Salvation Army for what they had done for the temperance cause.

The message from Mrs. McCormick was a telegram regretting her inability to be present and expressing "very deep appreciation" of the invitation.

The meeting opened with music by the Women's Cadet Band and was followed by the singing of "Onward, Christian Soldiers," under the leadership of Mrs. Commissioner W. A. McIntyre. A Scripture lesson was read and prayer was offered by Mrs. Commissioner John McMillan. Mrs. Roosevelt as presiding officer for the remainder of the evening was presented by Mrs. Lieut. Col. Martha Hamon.

A message, drawn up by Commander Booth and adopted by a rising vote of the 3,500 women present, declared:

"We welcome every endeavor wheresoever procveeding whereby peace on earth and good-will to men be established, whereby justice may be duly secured for all who are oppressed by racial, religious or economic inequalities, whereby our sisters wherever they are in bondage to prejudice, ignorance, neglect and temptation may be emancipated and assured of their civic and social freedom, and whereby children may receive their due heritage of healthy environment, an ennobling education and a full apprtciation of their birthright as sons and daughters of the Eternal Father.

"Against all the influences that degrade character, disintegrate honor, militate against prosperity and drive men and women to despair we declare renewed warfare, consecrating our lives to the pursuit of that happiness which is to be found in seeking the happiness of others and to that righteousness which alone exalteth a nation and the world where nations are held responsible for their duty to mankind."

Miss Booth appeared on the platform carrying a large bouquet of roses. Mrs. Roosevelt announced that they had been sent to the Commander by Mrs. Hoover.

stores, which cost $500,000, the program authorizes $3,765,000 for an assay office, $1,500,000 for a site for the annex to the main postoffice and $12,325,000 originally authorized for the postoffice station and court house. It was expected that a new authorization would be made for the postoffice to replace that in City Hall Park.

There was a chance that the Municipal Government would furnish a site for the postoffice. Negotiations are moving in that direction, according to officials.

Walker Is Pleased.

Mayor Walker, who personally has taken part in the negotiations for the demolition of the present Federal Building and the restoration of its site as part of City Hall Park, was deeply gratified yesterday to learn of the progress of negotiations in Washington for another site for the new Federal office building and court house.

"I am very glad to hear that the negotiations are proceeding favorably in Washington," said Mayor Walker. "I have felt sure that the Federal Government and the city of New York would work out an equitable arrangement, and I have been anxious to work out a plan that would be reasonable from the standpoint of the city."

Joseph Johnson, who as Commissioner of Public Works represented the city of New York in the negotiations, said that negotiations as carried on to date contemplated the erection of a new Federal court building in the Civic Centre.

RIBBON PLANT SUIT INVOLVES $6,300,000

Mrs. Meyer, Chief Owner of Miesch Factory in Paterson, Accuses J. C. Welwood.

Demands Accounting of Former Partner of Husband—Misled in Merger, She Says.

John C. Welwood, silk ribbon manufacturer and for several years head of one of the largest ribbon sales organizations in the country, is one of the defendants in a suit filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by Mrs. Ida Helen Meyer, widow of his former partner, Henry Lewis Meyer, in the Miesch Manufacturing Company of Paterson, N. J., for an accounting of $6,300,000 because of alleged unfair practices by Mr. Welwood in running the Miesch business and in conducting his ribbon selling organization.

Although the suit is brought in the name of Mrs. Meyer as a stockholder of the Miesch company, it was stated yesterday by Eugene L. Bondy, counsel for Mr. Welwood, that for twenty-six years Mrs. Meyer has had an income of about $40,000 yearly from the manufacturing and selling business, and that she knew about the transactions now made the basis of her accounting suit and made no objection. The attorney said Mr. Welwood's "conscience is clear."

Mrs. Meyer names also as defendants the John C. Welwood Corporation, organized to conduct the selling agency in 1919; the Buser Silk Company, Inc., which merged with the Miesch company in 1928, and Raymond, S. Buser, who was made manager of the Miesch business after the merger, but the charges are directed chiefly against Mr. Welwood, who has been in charge of the Miesch factory and its selling agency since Mr. Meyer died in 1904.

The complaint in behalf of the Miesch company and all its stockholders asserts that Mrs. Meyer has received $375,000 from Mr. Welwood as 1 per cent on the business of the selling agency and that this sum has been "wrongfully abstracted" from the Miesch treasury to reimburse Mr. Welwood and the Welwood company; demands $1,250,000 damages on the ground that Mr. Welwood permitted the Miesch company's factor to charge more than the agreed commission on sales since 1907 and shared in it; asks $1,000,000 on assertions that Mr. Welwood agreed not to sell for any competing ribbon business and got a contract with the Buser company in violation; demands $1,000,000 on the ground that the wrong kind of merchandise was sent to the factor, resulting in heavy carrying charges and "staggering" interest rates; asks $1,000,000 on the ground that Mr. Welwood's dual interests as head of the Miesch factory and also the selling agency conflicted and that he cut prices unreasonably to increase his dividends; and demands $1,000,000 on the allegations that Mr. Welwood diverted profitable orders to other ribbon companies he acquired in violation of his agreement.

A loss of $100,000 is charged because Mr. Welwood is alleged to have bought the Graef Hat Band Manufacturing Company in 1928 and turned the machinery over to the plaintiff and kept the inventory, and $150,000 is claimed on the ground that he bought the A. & M. Levy plant in Paterson and sold it to the Miesch company at a large profit. The complaint alleges Mrs. Meyer lost $175,000 because her 1 per cent commission was subject to improper deductions and she got no commissions on the competing sales, and also that she lost $250,000 because she got her commission semi-annually instead of monthly.

The complaint charges finally that by the merger of the Miesch and Buser companies, which she says she was led to approve by untrue statements concerning the Buser company, her Miesch stock has been made less valuable.

Wallstein and Thomas Lead Attack at Hearing—Interborough to Voice Protest Next Week.

Immediate condemnation and removal of the Sixth Avenue elevated line will deprive many thousands of a necessary rapid transit facility, impose additional loads upon the overtaxed Interborough subways and enable realty owners along the route to cash in on $200,000,000 of increased values without being compelled to pay any substantial part of the cost, opponents of the project declared yesterday at a public hearing before the committee of the whole of the Board of Estimate.

The attack upon the project was led by Leonard M. Wallstein, counsel for the Citizens Union. His views were supported by Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for Mayor last Fall; J. E. Kean of the Central Mercantile Association and Stewart N. Browne of the United Real Estate Owners Association.

The committee had in its possession, as the hearing opened, a letter from Frank Hedley, president of the Interborough, opposing the project on the ground that the line was needed for transit purposes and to prevent "appalling" congestion on its subway routes. The company's oral protest will be voiced when the hearing is resumed next Tuesday, at which time the opposition will conclude its arguments and the proponents of the project will be heard.

The Interborough continued yesterday its postal card canvass of riders on the elevated line and expects at the next hearing to be able to present specific data regarding their views on immediate demolition of the structure.

Wants Cost Fixed First.

Mr. Wallstein prefaced his argument with the assertion that the only official project on the board's calendar, despite the flood of communications from civic organizations demanding removal of the elevated line before the beginning of construction of the Sixth Avenue subway, was Borough President Miller's proposal to make a study and survey so that condemnation proceedings could be started in time to have the elevated structure razed as soon as the new west side subway route was in operation, or shortly thereafter.

The Citizens Union, he said, favored removal of the elevated line, but not until the legal principles fixing the cost had been settled by the Court of Appeals and after the Sixth and Eighth Avenue subway lines had been operating long enough to give definite assurance that the overhead route was no longer needed. Furthermore, he declared, the city should not commit itself to the cost of the project until it had legally enforceable agreements from the benefiting property owners that they would bear the entire cost.

The Board of Transportation, he added, should consider seriously the possibility of recapturing the Hudson and Manhattan tube under Sixth Avenue between Ninth and Thirty-third Streets for incorporation in its new Sixth Avenue subway route.

"In the light of past experience, I make the prediction now that if you condemn this line immediately, little, if any, of the cost of the project will be borne by these property owners," Mr. Wallstein declared.

He suggested that Mayor Walker name an impartial engineering commission to look into the safety and feasibility of subway construction, with the elevated structure in place. Engineering data in his possession, he declared, showed that there was no hazard in such a course and it was being already followed by the city in Church Street and Fulton Street, Brooklyn.

Thomas Supports Protest.

Speaking for the public affairs and city affairs committees of the Socialist party, Mr. Thomas made substantially the same arguments as those advanced by Mr. Wallstein, stressing the need of preserving the elevated line until there was definite reason to suppose that the new subways would care for its passengers. Mr. Thomas presented figures, obtained from the Interborough and the Transit Commission, indicating that about 250,000 passengers a day used the line.

Mr. Hedley's letter said that 56,813,664 passengers embarked at stations on the portion of the line proposed to be removed, during the year ended June 30, 1929, while 121,875,642 passengers used the entire line. The Sixth Avenue elevated line, he declared, is now available and must continue to be so for the next five years to handle the rapidly growing traffic due to increased building and business activity in the midtown section.

RIVAL USING NAME SUED BY COWARD SHOE FIRM

Lane Bryant, Inc., Purchaser of Old Company, Asks to Restrain Grossmans and Others.

Following the purchase recently by Lane Bryant, Inc., of the Coward Shoe business for $2,000,000 from the estate of J. Mortimer Coward, last descendant of the founder, James S. Coward, an injunction suit over the use of the name "Coward" in the manufacture and sale of shoes was filed yesterday in the Supreme Court. The plaintiff is the Coward Shoe Company, subsidiary of the Lane Bryant Company, while the defendants are Julius Grossman, Inc., which manufactured some of the Coward shoes in the past; the Julius Grossman Stores, Inc., organized recently to open a chain of retail stores; Julius and Frank Grossman, owners of that business, and Addison Vars, Inc.

Argument will be heard June 2 on an application by the plaintiff for an injunction restraining the defendants from representing to the public and to the wholesale and retail trade that they have succeeded to the business conducted in New York and Boston by the Coward Shoe Company as the business connected with the James S. Coward name; from using the name "Coward" in making or selling shoes; from stating that they are the manufacturers of the Coward shoes, and from stating that the plaintiff has gone out of business, and that the defendants have the right to use the Coward lasts and styles.

"Mr. McBride, if you expect to get off this witness stand this Summer, let me advise you to answer these questions. There isn't a quorum here this morning, and I shall not proceed with this examination until there is a quorum."

"You ask questions and I will answer them," persisted Mr. McBride.

Neither Wants to "Quarrel."

"I am not going to sit here and quarrel with the witness," said Senator Blaine. "I am going to insist that you be candid and answer these questions."

"Now, Mr. Senator," Mr. McBride protested, "let us don't get warmed up on this. I want to say to you—"

"You don't need to lecture anybody, Mr. McBride," said the Senator.

"I want to say that I am not in the least fussed by your attitude," rejoined Mr. McBride.

During this interchange the clerk had been trying to reach other committee members on the telephone, and when he failed Senator Blaine called the session ended.

As he read the South Dakota "score card" Senator Blaine kept up a running fire of comment on it. He emphasized some of the general remarks on the card, which read:

"If the candidate believes in modification or nullification of our constitutional and statute laws or believes the so-called personal liberty doctrines on the question of prohibition, judgment should be zero on prohibition sentiments."

Another point on "Family Relations" was:

"If the candidate has a family but lives apart or is divorced from husband or wife, cut according to such disqualifications."

On "Moral Qualifications."

"Now, if he shouts dry and drinks dry he gets 50 points in the score," said the Senator. "Now, supposing that he shouted dry and drank wet what would his score be?"

Mr. McBride: Has he got it on the card?

Sentor Blaine: No. How many points?

Mr. McBride: You go ahead and read the card and find out.

Q.—How many points would he be given? A.—Probably he says that on the card.

Q.—You would probably split that and make it 25 points, where he shouts dry and drinks wet? A.—If that is his rule it will be on that score card.

Q.—I haven't read all of it. "Church affiliation, 2 points." That would be disappointing to some of your church friends, wouldn't it, who have bragged about the number of members of their church that have been elected to the United States Senate? A.—I think that score card would sound better if you would read it right through and not try to put so much in as we go along.

Q.—For his church affiliation and family relations, and observation of Sabbath and association with men and women, and membership in lodges and fraternal associations or societies he gets only 10 points, but he gets 50 points for his outspoken dry sentiment and his inward possible drinking, as a wet? A.—He doesn't put that in there at all. He gets no points as to that.

Upshaw Attracts Notice.

At one time in the tiff loud applause came from the spectators. Senator Blaine ordered the demonstrators to stand and singled out one.

"Who are you?" he asked.

"I am former Congressman William D. Upshaw," said the spectator, leaning on crutches. "I did not lead the applause. I heard it back of me first. But I was proud to applaud for the spunky and brave answers Mr. McBride made to you."

A prepared statement of the "policy of the Anti-Saloon League" also was put in the record of the hearing. Senator Blaine insisted that remarks contained in it were not clear. Mr. McBride testified that the "policy" embraced the league's attitude "on the prohibition question and matters relating to prohibition," adding:

"It also calls attention to the fact that other issues are inseparably linked with the prohibition movement."

"Does it apply to the Fourteenth Amendment, the Fifteenth Amendment?" asked Senator Blaine.

"We are not an organization that speaks on the Fourteenth and Fifteenth Amendments," replied the witness.

The name of Representative Denison of Illinois was brought into the questioning by Senator Blaine, who referred to a dry House member involved in a prohibition charge.

Mr. McBride said the league had endorsed Mr. Denison's candidacy in the State primary.

"Mr. Denison has not been convicted of any violation of the law," Mr. McBride said. "He has been indicted, but that is a different thing."

"Oh," remarked the Senator, "the only thing that would disqualify a man in your opinion would be for him to be in the penitentiary convicted of some offense?"

"I don't think that is a fair statement," replied Mr. McBride.

M'BRIDE LISTS FUNDS OF STATE DRY LEAGUES

Receipts and Outlay for Three Years Run About $100,000 Annually in Larger States.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—The finances of the various State bodies which act as independent units within the Anti-Saloon League of America became public today when F. Scott McBride, in testimony before the Senate lobby committee, presented for its records the State figures for 1926, 1927, 1928 and 1929.

No grand total was given with these figures, but they showed variations in revenue and expenditures of State leagues, from zero in some States to totals above $100,000 in such populous ones as New York, Pennsylvania and Illinois.

SIX CITIES VOTE WET DIGEST RETURNS SHOW

Repeal won a majority is one city and a plurality in three others of the six new cities listed yesterday in The Literary Digest poll on prohibition. Enforcement and modification each received pluralities in one city, but in both cases enforcement was in a minority against the combined repeal and modification total. Among the five cities reported for the second time, Dubuque, Iowa, and Bayonne, N. J., showed clear majorities for repeal.

Bayonne was the wettest city in the list, showing a vote of more than 8 to 1 against enforcement. Two other cities tabulated for the second time polled pluralities in favor of repeal. These were Charleston, W. Va., and Bakersfield, Cal. The fifth, Waco, Texas, cast a plurality for enforcement.

Among the new cities, Sheridan, Wyo., gave a majority for repeal, but more votes for enforcement than for modification. Massillon, Ohio; New Kensington, Pa., and Astoria, Ore., cast repeal pluralities. Hoquiam, Wash., polled a plurality for modification, and Connersville, Ind., a plurality for enforcement. The figures follow:

WHALEN WROUGHT CHANGES IN POLICE

TOOK POST AT END OF 1928

Commissioner First Entered Public Affairs as Hylan Campaign Aide—Joined Walker Ranks in 1925.

Grover A. Whalen became Police Commissioner on Dec. 18, 1928, succeeding the late Joseph A. Warren. He accepted the post only after much urging by Mayor Walker and considerable negotiating between the Mayor and the Wanamaker interests, who were reluctant to let Mr. Whalen quit his post as general manager of the Wanamaker store to become commander-in-chief of the city's police force.

It had been understood at that time that Mr. Whalen was merely being "lent" to the city and that he would return to his duties at the Wanamaker establishment after reorganizing the Police Department and putting it on an efficient basis. Reports of his resignation had been rife for months.

In giving up his post at Wanamaker's, it was said, Mr. Whalen relinquished a salary variously estimated at $50,000 to $100,000 a year for a stipend of $10,000 a year as Police Commissioner.

Before taking over command at Police Headquarters Mr. Whalen had had considerable experience as a municipal official and in municipal affairs generally.

First Entry in Political Arena.

His first entry in the political arena was in 1913, as office manager of John F. Hylan's campaign committee. Upon Mr. Hylan's election as Mayor Mr. Whalen became his secretary. As secretary to the Mayor and vice chairman of the Mayor's Reception Committee for Distinguished Guests, of which the late Rodman Wanamaker was chairman, Mr. Whalen obtained his first direct contact with city affairs and public men. His association with Mr. Wanamaker, who had delegated to him virtually all the active duties of the chairman of the Mayor's Reception Committee, later led to his becoming general manager of the Wanamaker store.

In 1919 Mayor Hylan appointed Mr. Whalen Commissioner of Plant and Structures, a post in which he remained until 1924, when he entered the employ of Wanamaker's. While Commissioner of Plant and Structures he acted also as chairman of the city's Board of Purchases.

His close association with the present municipal régime began in 1925, when Mr. Walker was making his first campaign for election. He joined the Walker forces against Hylan in the factional battle which marked that campaign and thus won for himself a claim to the consideration which was later shown him by the Mayor. For one thing, with the death of Mr. Wanamaker, he became officially the chairman of the Mayor's Reception Committee, and, in general, the social mentor and unofficial representative of the administration.

THE NEW AND OLD POLICE COMMISSIONERS.

Assistant Chief Inspector Edward P. Mulrooney and Commissioner Whalen, Whom He Succeeds, Photographed at City Hall With Mayor Walker.

Upon the resignation of Mr. Warren, the police commissionership was offered him. Mr. Warren, one-time law partner of the Mayor and a close personal friend, had not made much of a success as head of the police. Reports of his impending resignation had been rife for months and the shadow which had hung over the department in those days became dark and embarrassing to City Hall with the murder of Arnold Rothstein, the gambler, in November, 1928, and the spread of public criticism of the failure to solve that murder.

Police Force Shaken Up.

Mr. Whalen's task was a double one; to remove the shadow and to strengthen the organization and prestige of the Police Department, which admittedly had been considerably shaken. Although he failed to solve the Rothstein murder and other similar mysteries which followed subsequently, Mr. Whalen did manage to infuse new life and a new esprit de corps into the force.

Immediately upon entering upon his duties be began the work of reorganization. He made radical changes in the command of the department and set out to increase the number of policemen, holding that the personnel had lagged behind the needs and expansion of the city. His efforts resulted in adding nearly 4,000 men to the force.

The problem of traffic was the next big task to which Commissioner Whalen addressed himself. With the cooperation of Philip D. Hoyt, First Deputy Police Commissioner, he studied the problem from its many difficult and complex angles. The traffic zoning rules, the stagger system of theatre curtains and the parking restrictions were the upshot of these studies.

Mr. Whalen inaugurated various changes in the uniform of the force. Everything Mr. Whalen did in this respect—the introduction of the Sam Browne belt, for example—was intended to give the police the appearance and discipline of a military organization. In general, he liked to consider himself the commander of what he termed the city's standing army.

Some of the indiscriminate raids conducted on speakeasies and nightclubs in the early part of his administration were the subject of much criticism, while his most recent efforts to deal with the so-called Red menace were likewise disapproved by many. On the whole, however, Mr. Whalen's handling of the Communists won approbation, particularly in those instances when the police evinced calmness and self-control and managed to preserve law and order while according the Reds the rights to which they are entitled under the law.

Won Pay Increase for Higher Ranks.

To make the force conform to his new book of procedure, Mr. Whalen brought about extensive reorganization of the department machinery. He urged and won pay increases for the higher ranks to balance the pay increase for the lower ranks voted at the last election. The establishment of an aviation unit was another of Mr. Whalen's achievements. In addition, he abolished the old reserve system.

Strict discipline combined with courtesy were the cardinal principles of conduct imposed upon every member of the force. Mr. Whalen was quick to reward with promotion an act of heroism or a good example of police work. He promoted in person more than a score of patrolmen on the scene of a crime or where a crime had been averted.

Among his accomplishments which he prized most were the establishment of the Police College and the creation of the Crime Commission devoted to the study and prevention of crime. The college is attended by several hundred members of the force who seek promotion by going through a course of study in the higher and more complicated problems of police work and of aspects of the law bearing on police activities. These students pursue their studies in their spare time.

At the dinner given in his honor on May 6 by a committee of 600 business and professional men, and attended by 2,500 persons prominent in the city's business, financial and professional life, Mr. Whalen was praised as the official of the Mayor's family who had shown the greatest zeal and work of his department. The building up of the morale of the police force, the manner of his contacts with the public, his traffic regulation reforms, his creation of the Crime Commission, his "patience, firmness, justice, balance, personal courage and social mindedness" came in for high praise.

Before leaving office Mr. Whalen himself believed that under his administration the police had come closer than ever before to a state of 100 per cent efficiency.

MULROONEY JOINED THE FORCE IN 1896

Talent Recognized by McLaughlin as Commissioner—Whalen Put Him in Charge of Detectives.

Edward Pierce Mulrooney, who owes his connection with the Police Department to Theodore Roosevelt, from whom he received his first appointment, is every inch a "cop." The story of his rise to his new position as commander-in-chief of what Grover A. Whalen liked to call "New York's standing army" might have stirred the pen and imagination of Horatio Alger.

The son of an emigrant from Ireland, and a mother who was born within the shadow of Police Headquarters, at 4 Centre Market Place, Mr. Mulrooney made his way to the top from the lowest rung of the ladder, by force of character, brains and unbending devotion to duty.

The story is that the new police chief himself was born in that same little house, opposite headquarters, but he denies it. According to him, he was born "somewhere in Hudson County," across the river, but was brought to New York when a baby.

Father a River Pilot.

His father, Edward Mulrooney, was a Hudson River pilot, and it was as assistant to his father that the new Police Commissioner first familiarized himself with the waterfront on which the early years of his career on the police force were spent as a member of the marine division. It was here too that he gained his first honors.

His grandfather was a poultry dealer and sold fowl in Centre Market, on the very spot on which Police Headquarters stands.

"I guess I belong here," said Mr. Mulrooney yesterday, with the twinkle in his eye which so rarely breaks his austere demeanor.

The quiet, soft-spoken, modest looking veteran of the police force is anything but pugnacious. There is something strong and reassuring in the cold, blue eyes and strong, square jaw. The well groomed, sandy-haired figure presents the appearance of one devoted to order and discipline. His reputation as a disciplinarian is firmly established in the department.

Mr. Mulrooney is in his 56th year, having been born July 24, 1874. On completing his elementary education he went to Cooper Union for a short time, studying mathematics and engineering. He left Cooper Union at the age of 16, without completing his course, joined his father on a small harbor csaft and obtained a pilot's license.

The five years before joining the police force were spent by Mr. Mulrooney on the waters of the Hudson and Upper New York Bay.

Joined Force Under Roosevelt.

At the age of 21, on Jan. 8, 1896, he entered the Police Department. Theodore Roosevelt was then Police Commissioner and it was in response to one of Mr. Rosevelt's advertisements urging able, honest and ambitious young men to join his force that Mr. Mulrooney applied for the job. His rise in the department has been steady. He has been cited three times for meritorious service. In one case he dived into the icy waters of the Hudson to capture escaping river pirates.

In March, 1905, Mr. Mulrooney again won commendation for his conduct in the Slocum disaster.

On Aug. 6, 1912, after receiving word from a neighbor in the Bronx, where he resides, that there were burglars in a near-by apartment, Mr. Mulrooney, single-handed, battled with and captured two criminals.

After a few years in the ranks Mr. Mulrooney was attached to the staff of the late Inspector George E. McCluskey. From McCluskey Mr. Mulrooney learned many of the fundamentals as well as some of the higher qualifications of a good police officer. He remained under McCluskey's command until 1912, the year when McCluskey died, and it was while serving under him, on Sept. 29, 1905, that Mr. Mulrooney was appointed a sergeant.

On April 3, 1913, he became a lieutenant and was assigned to the traffic squad under another noted police executive, Inspector George F. Titus, and the present Chief Inspector John O'Brien.

Mr. Mulrooney became a captain on June 22, 1923, and was assigned to the West 135th Street Station.

On July 1, 1926, Commissioner McLaughlin made him a deputy inspector, assigning him to one of the most important posts in Brooklyn, the Eleventh Inspection District, embracing the Borough Hall and business section of Brooklyn. On Jan. 10, 1927, Mr. Mulrooney was made an inspector and placed in supreme command of the district. When Joseph A. Warren, Mr. Whalen's predecessor, took office he placed Mr. Mulrooney in command of the most important inspection district in the entire city, the First Inspection District in Manhattan, which takes in the financial district. Immediately upon assuming the police commissionership, Commissioner Whalen put Mr. Mulrooney in charge of the Detective Bureau following the resignation of Inspector John D. Coughlin, and on March 1 of this year he was made Assistant Chief Inspector, a post said to have been specially created for him in recognition of his abilities and service to the department.

He lives with his wife and two daughters, Helen and Elizabeth, the latter named after his wife, at 760 Mott Avenue, the Bronx.

HARVARD PRIZE TO CHOATE.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 20.—The Choate News Weekly, undergraduate paper of Choate School, Wallingford, Conn., has won the Harvard Crimson cup, given annually to that preparatory school paper which in several issues shows the "best all-around merit," it was announced here this afternoon by Paul M. Sweezy of Englewood, N. J., president of the Crimson.

The Choate News was selected from seventeen contesting papers. The Exonian, Phillips Exeter Academy daily, was highly commended for its editorial columns, while The Hotchkiss Record showed the best news columns and the Mercersburg paper displayed general high standards.

This year's award adds another triumph to The Choate News, which has won the Crimson prize four times since its inception in 1926. For the first three years the Wallingford School paper took the cup, and because of these three victories was forced to drop out of the competition a year ago. The prize last year went to The Hotchkiss Record.

ASK FUND FOR ROMANCE.

Stanford Co-eds Seek to Increase Numbers to Equal College Boys.

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Cal., May 20 (AP).—Stanford's 500 co-eds, limited to that number by a rule of the university, today started a campaign for a $10,000,000 endowment to permit the entry of more girl students.

Miss Sylvia Weaver, women's editor of the Stanford daily, asserted that the object of the endowment would be to "flood the campus" with co-eds who will keep the Stanford boys from wandering up to the University of California and to other schools in search of feminine companionship.

"Mills College (Oakland) girls are beautiful," said Miss Weaver, "California co-eds are good dates and the University of California at Los Angeles has lovely feminine creatures, but Stanford women have high I. Q. (intelligence quotient). There is a deep-rooted prejudice against the 500.

"We want the endowment fund to flood the campus with co-eds so that no longer will there be grounds for the belief that all Stanford women are mental geniuses—traditionally avoided by all collegians on the hectic search for romance."

MULROONEY NAMED AS HEAD OF POLICE

ignation and the announcement of a new Police Commissioner a large crowd had gathered in the corridors of City Hall and in the plaza outside. Very few recognized Mr. Mulrooney, who was in civilian dress.

Mr. Whalen and Mr. Mulrooney remained in the Mayor's office nearly an hour. Then Mayor Walker came out of his office into the small reception room adjoining it, followed by the Commissioner and Mr. Mulrooney. Not more than half a dozen of the score or more reporters present recognized the sandy-haired, quiet Assistant Chief Inspector as he stood by the side of and slightly in the rear of Mr. Whalen, who stood next to the Mayor.

Announces Resignation.

"I am sorry that I must inform you that I have received the resignation of Grover A. Whalen as Police Commissioner," Mayor Walker said.

The Mayor glanced at the circle of reporters and threw a bundle of papers on the table. There was a scramble for these copies, which, it was erroneously thought would contain Mayor Walker's announcement of the new commissioner as well as Mr. Whalen's letter of resignation.

"Now, now," said the Mayor with a characteristic smile as he chided the representatives of the press, "this isn't Wanamaker's bargain counter."

This caused general laughter, and Mr. Whalen, who will be back at his old job at Wanamaker's today, joined in heartily.

Mayor Walker made a gesture as if to leave the room as the reporters read the papers hastily and found that they consisted only of Mr. Whalen's letter of resignation and the Mayor's acceptance.

"Who is the new Police Commissioner?" asked several reporters simultaneously.

Mayor Keeps Up Suspense.

"Why, that's so," replied the Mayor, with apparent enjoyment in keeping the reporters in suspense. "There is going to be a new commissioner, isn't there? Well, I'll tell you who he is. He is Edward P. Mulrooney, Inspector Mulrooney."

"Assistant Chief Inspector Mulrooney," corrected Mr. Whalen.

"Assistant Chief Inspector Mulrooney," the Mayor repeated.

Some one asked if the new commissioner were present, and the Mayor's smile widened and Mr. Whalen's chuckle deepened. At a sign from the Mayor, Mr. Mulrooney stepped forward and was introduced by the Mayor.

Mayor Walker announced that Mr. Whalen's resignation would take effect at noon today and that he would administer the oath of office to Mr. Mulrooney at City Hall at that time.

New Chief Is Retired.

It was also announced that Mr. Mulrooney would retire from the police force during the day and would take office as Police Commissioner as a civilian. Later at Police Headquarters Commissioner Whalen announced that Mr. Mulrooney, who received a salary of $6,800 as assistant chief inspector, had been retired on a pension of $6,000. Payment of the pension will be suspended while he holds the office of Police Commissioner, but he will become entitled to receive it when he quits that post.

Photographers then asked Mayor Walker, Commissioner Whalen and Mr. Mulrooney to pose for a group picture. The Mayor demurred, saying that he would prefer to have the photographs taken after he had sworn in Mr. Mulrooney the following day, but finally consented. The three then posed for photographs in the Mayor's large reception room, after which the Mayor returned to his office and Mr. Whalen and Mr. Mulrooney went to Police Headquarters.

Letter Written by Whalen.

Mr. Whalen's letter of resignation follows:

THE POLICE COMMISSIONER,
City of New York.
May 20, 1930.

The Honorable
James J. Walker, Mayor,
City Hall,
New York City, N. Y.

My dear Mr. Mayor:

Seventeen months ago (Dec. 18, 1928) you honored me with the appointment as Police Commissioner of the city of New York.

The difficulties surrounding the administration of the Police Department at that time have been overcome by a reorganization of the department and a stimulating of the force with new and higher ideals of police service. The Police Department has been builded anew with increased loyalty, self-sacrifice and devotion to duty. The department in the year and a half just passed not only has seen the establishment of a new organization but also the development of men of executive ability within the organization.

The success of the plan adopted when the present police administration was inaugurated could not have been carried out were it not for the enthusiastic support of the Mayor of the city. It has happened that Police Commissioners have forgotten the source of their power. If the Mayor is held responsible for failure of a police administration, he should also receive the credit for a successful administration. Any measure of success which I may have obtained as Police Commissioner has been due to your encouragement and cooperation.

Has No 'Unlimited Leave.'

Prior to my appointment I made it clear that my business obligations would not permit me to assume the Police Commissionership. But in your usual way you were not only able to convince me but also Mr. William L. Nevin, president of the Wanamaker Corporation, that a situation existed which required the drafting of a citizen from private life for public service.

Upon my accepting the Police Commissionership, you will remember, no unlimited leave of absence was granted me, and the time has now arrived when I must ask you to choose a successor.

In the days to come I shall always look back with pride on the privilege that was accorded me to serve by your side and to work shoulder to shoulder with the most fearless and finest organization in the world—the police of the city of New York.

I have the honor, Sir, to present you herewith my resignation as Police Commissioner, to take effect on Wednesday, May 21, 1930, at noon.

Very sincerely,
GROVER A. WHALEN,
Police Commissioner.

Reply by the Mayor.

City of New York.
Office of the Mayor.
May 20, 1930.

Hon. Grover A. Whalen,
Police Commissioner City of New York, Police Headquarters, New York City.

My Dear Commissioner:

Your resignation, which I am compelled to accept for the reasons set forth in your letter, is a matter of keen regret to me.

I shall always look back with a great deal of satisfaction and pleasure to your association with this administration, and, what is far more important, I know the people of this city will ever respect and admire you for the splendid services you have rendered.

Your business associates are indeed to be congratulated on the acquisition of the energy, the efficiency, the loyalty and the talents that you bring to their command.

Sincerely yours,
JAMES J. WALKER,
Mayor.

Farewell Speech Today.

Mr. Whalen's last act as Police Commissioner will take place at Police Headquarters immediately after Mr. Mulrooney takes the oath of office as his successor this noon. Mr. Whalen will make his speech of farewell to the department to an assembled group of Deputy Chief Inspectors, Inspectors, Deputy Inspectors and heads of the various police organizations; the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association, the Detectives' Protective Association and the associations of the sergeants' lieutenants, captains and inspectors. Mr. Whalen's speech and the remarks of Mr. Mulrooney on taking office will be broadcast from Station WJZ between noon and 1 o'clock.

Mr. Mulrooney, who conferred for an hour and a half with Commissioner Whalen and Chief Inspector John O'Brien after his return to Police Headquarters, declined to discuss his policies. "I am not commissioner yet," he said in reply to all inquiries.

It was said at Police Headquarters that Mr. Mulrooney probably would follow most of the Whalen policies, except that of publicity for the department. It was said that he would continue the Police College, with Mr. Whalen as honorary president; the "under cover" squad, the aviation unit and the Crime Prevention Bureau, but there was said to be doubt that he would continue Commissioner Whalen's anti-jay walking campaign, which began on Monday.

Police Vacations Extended.

Commissioner Whalen in an official farewell to the force issued an order granting every member of the department one day's additional vacation in recognition of loyalty and faithful service during his administration. The retiring commissioner recalled his message to the force on taking office, in which he promised recognition of merit and efficiency and announced he would require loyalty. The message continued:

"In this farewell to the officers and men of the Police Department I wish to recall my first message and say 'you have kept the faith.'

"No words of mine could adequately describe my feelings of heartfelt gratitude for the loyalty and devotion of the officers and men who in the faithful discharge of their duties made possible the most brilliant record in the annals of this historic department.

"Your devotion to the cause of law and order has required you to perform many extra hours of duty in the accomplishment of this outstanding record.

"As a slight appreciation on the part of the department for this service one day's additional vacation is granted to the entire force.

"In the days to come I shall always recall the pleasure and happiness I enjoyed while serving in the Police Department, standing shoulder to shoulder with 'the finest.' "

The appointment of Assistant Chief Inspector Mulrooney as the new Police Commissioner was commended by District Attorney Crain, Charles B. McLaughlin, District Attorney for the Bronx; Judge Max S. Levine of General Sessions, County Judge Harry Stockell of the Bronx, Surrogate Albert H. Henderson of the Bronx and Joseph P. Ryan, president of the Central Trades and Labor Council.

nor that of Mr. De Luca had been submitted by his organization.

Bar Offers Its Help.

Mr. Burlingham and George Z. Medalie, acting chairman of the association's committee on criminal courts, wrote to the Mayor on Monday offering their help and suggesting that twenty days' notice of impending appointments be given to allow time for criticism and objection to be voiced.

In their communication to the Mayor, Mr. Burlingham and Mr. Medalie pointed out that their suggestion was in accordance with the recommendations of the special grand jury which investigated the lower courts. They added that the recent investigations of city magistrates had directed public attention to that branch of the court organization and had emphasized the Mayor's responsibility in exercising his appointive power. If the twenty days' interval between the announcement of appointment and the appointment itself were established, the writers said civic organizations and other bodies qualified to pass on the fitness of prospective appointees could guide the Mayor in his choice. The Bar Association had offered the Mayor substantially the same aid in two previous communications.

Critical of Mayor's Action.

"The Mayor's action yesterday is apparently his answer to our offer, Mr. Burlingham said. "With his majority in the last election to reflect upon, the Mayor, it seems, has no need of the Bar Association."

Mr. De Luca, who lives at 674 220th Street, the Bronx, has the reputation of being an extremely able lawyer. He has served under two District Attorneys in that borough. Succeeding Magistrate Vitale, he will serve until July 1, 1931.

Mr. Murphy has been Justice Mitchell's secretary since 1919. He comes from the same district as Secretary of State Edward J. Flynn, one of the strongest Democratic leaders in New York State. He lives at 1,840 Grand Concourse and will fill the unexpired term of Magistrate Douras, which runs until April, 1933. City magistrates receive $12,000 a year.

"COMPENDIUM OF REAL NEWS OF THE WORLD"

I regard the New York Times, as a matter of course, as one of the best papers, now or at any time in the past, published in the United States. As a compendium of the real news of the world I read it every day, and, almost without exception, when looking for any particular news event, find it completely and accurately printed in the columns of The Times. Often it is the only paper in which I can find some news event report for which I am looking. * The Times has done one inestimable service to the newspaper world entirely apart from its service to the public: It has demonstrated that a newspaper of high character, entirely lacking in sensationalism, can be a success in every sense of the word and obtain wide success with both readers and advertisers.

A SIMPLE STEP TOWARDS HEALTH

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is a Daily Essential and Millions Know Its Effectiveness in Relief of Constipation

Perhaps the one simple thing you are not doing to guarantee permanent health is having sufficient roughage in your food. Absence of this roughage is the direct cause of constipation which results in so many other ills—headaches, listlessness, general depression, indigestion and, sometimes, serious disease.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN is roughage. It is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation or the purchase price will be refunded. Two tablespoons daily (in serious cases, with each meal) is the proper amount.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN also helps you to health in other ways. It is rich in iron, practically all of which goes into the blood, bringing red, healthy color to the complexion. It helps prevent anemia. Be sure to include it in reducing diets.

Many eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with cream or milk added. It is a delicious addition to cereals, fruits and soups. In cooked foods, such as bran muffins, it is just as effective in the relief of constipation. Recommended by doctors. Ask your grocer for Kellogg's ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Braves Again Triumph Over Giants; Robins Rout Phils; Yankees Win in Tenth

GIANTS BOW IN 10TH; BRAVES WIN SERIES

Sisler's Single With Three On and Two Out Nets Fourth Victory in 5 Games.

BENTON FALTERS ON MOUND

Cantwell, Boston, Also Weakens in Extra Inning, Then Bob Smith Saves the Day.

By JOHN DREBINGER.

Bent upon prolonging their boisterous stay to the limit of almost everybody's patience, the Braves carried the Giants to ten innings at the Polo Grounds yesterday, scored two runs in the upper half of the extra session, permitted the Giants to consume just enough time to score one in the lower half and then galloped off for Boston.

The score at the moment of their departure was 4 to 3, and with this victory the Braves captured practically all the honors and medals the series had to offer. Of the five games played the Braves won four.

The story of this battle, blow for blow, is sad to relate. For nine rounds Larry Benton pitched a remarkably fine game, by far his best effort of the season. He was still pitching remarkably well in the tenth when, with two out and a runner on first, Richbourg slashed a grounder at Pat Crawford, the noted all-around athlete of the McGraw forces. Pat got all around this one but failed to close all the exits, and as the ball filtered through his legs Richbourg arrived safely at first.

Then Benton passed Maranville to fill the bases and George Sisler gave the attack its finishing stroke. He singled to centre scoring two and the Braves stood pat.

Counter-Offensive Fails.

In desperation, the Giants launched a violent counter-offensive against Ben Cantwell, who had been pitching in a most tantalizing way all the afternoon. O'Farrell, batting for Benton, walked. Leach hammered a single to right and Manager McKechnie deftly removed Cantwell from the action, putting in his place Bob Smith. Lindstrom bounced a single off Robert's shinbone and O'Farrell scored.

But here the rally encountered blow-outs in all four tires. Terry lied to Berger in left, Ott fanned and Crawford, missing a chance to redeem himself, ended the matter by popping to deep short, where Maranville snared the ball with a flourish.

That the game went into extra innings at all was due entirely to one Wally Berger, who had been a source of torment to the Giants throughout the series. In the first inning Mr. Berger smashed a triple to deep left centre to score Sisler with the Braves' first run and in the sixth he gave the Bostonese their second tally without assistance from anybody, the young man merely slapping the ball into the left-field stand for his ninth homer of the season.

The Giants matched these two runs with difficulty. They got one in the fourth on a trio of singles by Ott, Hogan and Reese and the other in the eighth on a double by Lindstrom and a single by Ott.

McGraw Returns to Dugout.

McGraw, who had missed both of the week-end double-headers, was back at his post in the Giant dugout, and his hitherto stout heart almost skipped a beat in the fourth when Hogan collided with Lindstrom as the latter gathered in Robertson's foul in back of third. McGraw already visioned himself minus another star, but aside from getting flattened on his back, Lindy weathered the blow in fine style. Even more remarkable, he held onto the ball.

Wally Roettger, who set the mumps in fashion with the Giants, was out in uniform for the first time since his recovery and chased flies in the field drill. He should be about ready for duty almost any day now.

BROWNS TAKE FINAL OF DETROIT SERIES

Victory Puts St. Louis in Seventh Place and Sends Tigers to League Cellar.

DETROIT, May 20 (AP).—The St. Louis Browns pushed the Tigers back into the American League cellar to day by winning the series final, 8 to 2, after dropping the first three games. The victory put the Browns in seventh place.

The Browns put on a five-run rally in the seventh, driving Elon Hogsett off the mound. Heinie Manush was put out of the game in this inning by Umpire Van Graflan for heckling the umpire.

Lena Blackburn, coach of the Browns, also was ordered off the field for objecting to this action. McNeely replaced Manush and drove in two runs.

HERMAN'S HITTING HELPS ROBINS WIN

LUQUE VICTOR ON MOUND

Pitches League Leaders to Third Straight Over Rivals—Circuit Blows for Lopez and Klein.

By ROSCOE McGOWEN.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20.—Driving Lester Sweetland and Phil Collins from the mound with a fusillade featured by prodigious home runs from the bats of Babe Herman and Al Lopez, and hitting Harry Smythe hard for the balance of the game, the league-leading Robins gained their third straight triumph over the Phils today.

The score was 16 to 9, and Adolfo Luque, who beat his old team-mates, the Reds, six days ago, went the distance for the Robins. The veteran Cuban pitched well throughout, the chief scoring instrument against him being a looping home run over the short right-field wall by Chuck Klein in the fifth with two men on base.

The Robins, after scoring three runs in the first three innings on two hits, one of which was Herman's drive over the scoreboard in centre field, fell upon Sweetland in the fourth and drove him off the mound when Lopez followed Bressler's single and a pass to Finn with a long home run into the left-field bleachers. Phil Collins replaced Sweetland and allowed another run on singles by Gilbert and Herman and Klein's fumble, making the total for the inning four.

Smythe Replaces Collins.

In the fifth the Brooklyn assault continued, Collins being replaced by Smythe after Wally Gilbert's double had driven the fourth run of the frame across. Herman, who got four singles and a homer in six times at bat, greeted the Philly southpaw with another crashing single to score Gilbert. Herman's fifth hit in the seventh scored Luque and Frederick, bringing the lanky outfielder's total of runs batted in during the game to six.

Every one of Herman's hits was clean and driven hard, and the ball he hit out of the park was the hardest drive of the day. Frederick barely missed a home run in the fifth when his high one hit the top of the screen and fell back into the field.

Only 5 Drives to Right.

Luque's pitching was remarkable in that only five balls were driven into right field, four being hits and the other one a fly to Herman, indicating that the Cuban's boast recently that he could pitch a game here in which not more than three balls would be driven into that sector was not altogether an idle one.

The Robins left late tonight for Boston, where they open a four-game series against the Braves tomorrow.

SCOTT CHALLENGES MILK FUND WINNER

Notifies State Commission He Is Anxious to Meet Either Schmeling or Sharkey.

His knockout at the hands of Knute Hansen, a defeat by Johnny Risko and the fact that he is officially charged with being knocked out by Jack Sharkey last February in Miami has not dampened the ardor of Phil Scott. Yesterday the State Athletic Commission announced receipt of a letter from Charlie Rose, Scott's English manager, containing a challenge from Scott to the heavyweight champion of the world who is to emerge triumphant from the Milk Fund match between Jack Sharkey and Max Schmeling in the Yankee Stadium on June 12.

Secretary Bert Stand announced that the letter was addressed to him and that when the matter was placed before Chairman James A. Farley, William Muldoon and General John J. Phelan, consituting boxing's tribunal in this State, the challenge was ordered filed.

Dominico Bernasconi, Italian bantamweight, through his manager, Charles Johnston, deposited a challenge with the commission, and this also was ordered filed. Bernasconi challenged Al Brown of Panama, who is recognized here as the world's bantamweight champion.

The commission set June 10 as the time limit for definite action with respect to arranging a light-heavyweight championship match between Maxie Rosenbloom, National Boxing Association titleholder, and Jimmy Slattery, the commission's recognized champion, threatening to withdraw its recognition from Slattery unless the match is arranged for Buffalo.

A plan to have Christopher (Bat) Battalino, world's featherweight champion, engage Sid Terris, east side lightweight, in a non-championship match at Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, was rejected.

The commission approved a ten-round bout between Fidel La Barba and Bushey Graham, featherweights, for Madison Square Garden on May 28 as a substitute match for the postponed La Barba-Kid Chocolate meeting.

The request of Manager Johnny Keyes to have Midget Wolgast, recognized locally as flyweight champion, engage in a non-championship match was denied.

Announcement is expected next week that the National Boxing Association, acting independently of the State Athletic Commission but in accord with the Empire State board's plan, will recognize the winner of the Sharkey-Schmeling Milk Fund battle as the world's heavyweight champion.

YANKS WIN IN 10TH FOR THIRD STRAIGHT

Lazzeri's Single and Gehrig's Double Score Three Runs as Boston Bows.

PENNOCK TAMES BOSTON

Relieves Hoyt Early in Contest and Allows Only Two Hits in His Last Seven Innings.

By WILLIAM E. BRANDT.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 20.—Lazzeri's single and Gehrig's double drove home three runs after two were out in the tenth today, the Yankees winning, 7 to 4, and heading for Philadelphia tonight with a streak of three straight and eleven victories to show for their last fourteen games. The tenth-inning offensive decided a pitching duel between Herb Pennock and young Ed Durham which was threatening to go far into the night.

Hoyt and Horace Lisenbee were the starting moundsmen, but neither survived the third inning. Gehrig's seventh homer of the season, a majestic drive into the centre-field bleachers with Lazzeri on base, scored the game's first two runs. Combs's triple and singles by Lary and Lazzeri in the third ousted Lisenbee.

The Yanks had two runs in, two on bases and none out, with excellent prospects of a lot of scoring. But Durham quickly made himself felt, retiring the side in the third without further scoring and holding the Yanks to a solitary single in the next six innings. Only three times over this stretch did a Yank drive the ball beyond the infield.

Hoyt had an unfortunate second inning in which he pitched to the whole Boston team. Four singles, one a scratch, and two passes, one to Durst with the bases filled, put Boston ahead, 3 to 2.

Pennock Regains His Skill.

Pennock replaced Hoyt, but before Herb swung into his stride, Rhyne's single scored Regan, creating a 4-4 deadlock which lasted until the tenth. After Rhyne's single Pennock showed pristine effectiveness, allowing only two hits in his last seven innings.

The crowd of 3,000 shivered through the late innings as the two twirlers held the batting orders helpless. Neither side had more than one man on base at any one time from the middle of the third inning until Combs walked with one out in the tenth and was advanced to third on Lary's deft hit-and-run single.

Ruth was up and the fans quaked, but Ruth fouled out to Sweeney. The crowd began breathing easier, but groaned when Lazzeri cuffed Durham's first pitch for a single to right, scoring Combs with the winning run.

Divide Six of Yanks' Ten Hits.

Lazzeri and Gehrig were the Yankee bat stars, dividing six of the ten Yank hits between them. Gehrig now rates one ahead of the Babe in the homer campaign.

Lary's play on Oliver's slow bounder in the sixth and a catch by Oliver which kept Combs from getting his second triple stood as the day's fielding high lights.

MENDEZ STOPS RIVAL IN BOUT AT GARDEN

GOLD PUTS OUT LAPINE

Julius Mendez of the Salem-Crescent A. C. knocked out Pete Ciminelli, Brooklyn Harriers A. A. featherweight, in two rounds at Madison Square Garden last night. The bout was one of the most thrilling encounters on the first half of the two-day card of amateur bouts conducted by the Met. A. A. U., the concluding session being scheduled for tomorrow.

A crowd of 5,000 persons witnessed the contest, which was one of the preliminary bouts in the 126-pound division. Mendez's hitting power and superior stamina enabled him to emerge with the triumph after dropping his rival five times.

In the first session the Salem-Crescent battler waded into Ciminelli and floored him for a count of nine with a right to the jaw. The Brooklyn Harrier boxer arose, only to be sent to the canvas thrice more before the round ended. As the second chapter got under way, Mendez rushed his opponent and put him down with a hard right to the head. When the round was thirty seconds old Referee Joe Jones stopped the battle.

Eddie Lapine of the Paulist A. C. scored a quick knockout over Frank Gregor, unattached, in a 160-pound class preliminary. The Paulist entry eliminated Gregor in fifteen seconds, putting him out with a short right to the body. In another 160-pound class bout Max Gold, unattached, defeated Odell Newsum, Salem-Crescent A. C., after three furious rounds. Gold and Lapin then met in a second-round bout, the former winning by a knockout in the third session.

Only one class saw action in the semi-final division. This was the 175-pound group, in which two contests were held, each terminating in a one-round knockout. José Ramos of the Long Island City Athletics stopped Gerardo Diaz, unattached, in 1:48, while Frank Kubiak, unattached, knocked out Vedi King, also unattached, in 1:44.

Medalist Puts Out Miss Millang at Engineers—Mrs. Hucknall Bows to Mrs. March.

By LINCOLN A. WERDEN.

Special to The New York Times.

ROSLYN, L. I., May 20.—Two of the district's leading players, considered a few days ago as possible successors to Miss Maureen Orcutt as the metropolitan champion, were eliminated this morning in the first round of the women's metropolitan title tourney over the renowned Engineers Country Club links.

One of them was Mrs. Thomas Hucknall of Woodway, the present Connecticut champion, who bowed to Mrs. Henry March of North Shore by 4 and 2 and the other was Mrs. Norman K. Toerge, who two years ago captured the Long Island title by defeating Miss Helen Hicks in the final.

Mrs. Toerge's conqueror was the 20-year-old girl, Miss Rosina Jones, daughter of Ernest Jones, professional at the Women's National Golf and Tennis Club at Glen Head, L. I., who won by 4 and 2.

Mrs. Anderson Victor.

There were a number of other interesting matches in the opening round, but none of them involved what might be considered an upset. Mrs. Courtland Smith of Glen Ridge, who led the qualifiers with a 92, triumphed in her match against Miss Dorothy Millang of the Old Country Club by 3 and 2, while Mrs. J. Laroque Anderson of Cherry Valley won from Mrs. Wyllys R. Betts of the Women's National, 4 and 3.

Miss Marie Jenney, the former district champion, advanced by defeating Mrs. E. N. Hodges of Raritan Valley, 4 and 2, despite Mrs. Hodges's late rally after Miss Jenney was 5 up going to the fourteenth.

Although the New Jersey champion, Miss Martha Parker, won from Mrs. Jay Lee of Hackensack by 2 up, she did so chiefly by her huge margin of 6 up over the first nine. In the only extra-hole match, Miss Jane Brooks of Rockland, after going to the twentieth, defeated Miss Helen Silleck of Greenwich, 1 up, while Mrs. Wright Goss Jr., runner-up in the national at Merion in 1927, and Mrs. F. C. Dubois of Wee Burn were others who scored victories.

Wins Six Holes in Row.

Mrs. Dubois, taking six holes in a row starting at the fourth, triumphed by 7 and 6 over Mrs. L. Reid Fuller of Engineers, while Mrs. Goss won from Mrs. Peter Van Vlaanderen of Elmwood, 3 and 2.

Against Mrs. March, who has been rapidly mounting to the front ranks of the district's players during the last two years, Mrs. Hucknall was able to take only one hole on the first nine and was 2 down when they finished the outgoing half.

Young Miss Jones, making her début in this championship but playing a game that has been developed here as well as in California, where she plays during the Winter months, took the lead early in the match against Mrs. Toerge.

Holes Chip Shot for a 2.

Mrs. Toerge topped her drive at the second and at the 375-yard fifth Miss Jones became 2 up, taking the hole with a 4. She lost the sixth, but compensated partly by holing a chip shot for a birdie 2 at the 185-yard eighth.

At the tenth Miss Jones put three balls out of bounds from the tee, and although Mrs. Toerge's shot landed in an unplayable lie she took a 7 to win the hole. After that, however, Miss Jones, with 4, 5, 5, added the next three holes, and, although she lost both the fourteenth and fifteenth, she was dormie three and won the sixteenth when Mrs. Toerge overplayed the green and another 8 resulted.

WILSON'S 151 LEADS BIG TEN TITLE GOLF

EVANSTON, Ill., May 20 (AP).—Ted Wilson, Ohio State senior, topped a field of forty golfers at the half-way juncture of the seventy-two-hole Big Ten championship today by stroking the Westmoreland Country Club course in 151.

One stroke behind Wilson in the race for the individual title, vacated by the graduation of Lester Bolstad of Minnesota, came Jarvis Hicks, brother of Miss Helen Hicks. The Michigan sophomore led the field at the end of the 18-hole morning round with a 75, but required a 77 for the afternoon journey.

Five contestants, Lenfesty of Michigan, Walker of Minnesota, Keplar of Ohio State, Catterton of Indiana and Crowe of Illinois, were deadlocked in third place with 154s.

In team play the highly favored Illinois quartet of Martin, Alpert, Lyons and Crowe compiled a score of 623 strokes for the thirty-six holes, to take a twelve-stroke lead over Michigan. Minnesota, the defending champion, was third with 638, while Wisconsin ranked fourth with 645.

MAYO AGAIN SCORES IN GREENWICH GOLF

TAILER ALSO ADVANCES

Chapman and Weatherwax, Both Seeded in the Draw, Likewise Take Their Matches.

By WILLIAM D. RICHARDSON.

Special to The New York Times.

GREENWICH, Conn., May 20.—In a battle of junior champions, Charley Mayo of St. Paul's School, Garden City, defeated Fred Kammer of Hotchkiss at the Greenwich Country Club today to disprove, at least for the time being, the old theory that it's bad luck to win a qualifying round.

Yesterday, Mayo, 18-year-old son of the professional at the Pomonok Club and holder of the Long Island junior title, won the qualifying medal in the nineteenth annual interscholastic championship with a score of 149, and he is still among those in the running for the Eastern interscholastic championship of 1930.

The other three survivors for the honors are Tommy Tailer of Browning, son of the late T. Suffern Tailer and holder of the Rhode Island junior crown; Dick Chapman of Pomfret, son of John D. Chapman of the home club, and Law Weatherwax of Albany Academy. The outcome of the first two rounds today was a complete exoneration of the seeded draw, for the four players who remain in the fight for the throne occupied last year by Sidney Noyes of Hotchkiss, now a member of the Yale freshman team, were seeded.

Play Spectacular Match.

From the spectacular point of view the match of the day was the one between Tailer and George Simonson of Tome in the second round, for in order to win it, Tailer, taking his last shot at the coveted title, had to produce some spectacular golf on the last few holes to overcome his rival's lead. As they came off the ninth green Tailer, out in the unconvincing figures of 42, was 2 down.

His outlook was a dismal one and it was even more dismal when Simonson holed a four-yard putt for a birdie to be 3 up at the tenth. Three up and only eight to go is what one might term an unenviable position, but catching his breath with a victory on the eleventh with a par 4, Tommy set out at a pace that soon left his rival reeling. Two birdies in succession, a 2 on the twelfth, where he holed a forty-foot putt, and a 4 on the thirteenth, where he ran down a four-yarder, enabled Tailer to square the match, and from there on he was never headed.

Simonson, upset no doubt by the sudden turn of fate, put his second shot to the fourteenth into the brook and Tailer won the hole to be 1 up for the first time in the match. He reached the green from the tee on the next hole, which he won with a par 3. Simonson getting into a bunker. They halved the next hole and the match ended 3 and 1 in Tailer's favor when Simonson three putted the seventeenth.

The winner played the last eight holes of the match in three under 4s. In the first round Simonson beat S. Clark of Peddie in a nineteen-hole match, while Tailer won from Louis Stoner of Kingswood by 3 and 2.

Mayo in Nip and Tuck Struggle.

Mayo, the Long Island junior champion, and Kammer, the metropolitan and New Jersey junior standard bearer, had a nip-and-tuck match for the first nine holes, where Mayor, out in 40, was 1 up, but after halving the tenth with a par 3, Mayo, who, incidentally, has two more years of competition in the turney, won three holes in succession. Kammer got two of them back, but the Long Island youngster clinched the match by winning the sixteenth, 4 to 5.

The cards:

Out—
Par	4	3	4	5	4	4	4	4	3—35
Mayo	5	3	4	5	5	4	4	6	4—40
Kammer	4	3	5	6	4	5	5	6	3—41
Mayo, 1 up.
In—
Par	3	4	3	5	5	3	4	4	4—35—70
Mayo	3	4	3	4	5	4	4
Kammer	3	5	4	5	4	3	5
Mayo wins, 3 and 2.

The best golf of the day was that played by Weatherwax against Walter Rothenberg of Clark. Out in 35, where he led by five holes, the husky Albany youngster three-putted the tenth, which his opponent won, and had to go to the fifteenth to end the match. He played out the bye holes and finished with a 72.

His card:

Out	4	3	4	5	3	5	4	4	3—35
In	4	4	3	5	5	3	4	5	4—37—72

SHAMROCK V VICTOR IN 48-MILE RACE

SCRATCH BOAT 4:15 BEHIND

Candida Home Second and Cambria Third—Lipton Enthusiastic Over Cup Challenger's Showing.

SOUTHEND, England, May 20 (AP).—The Shamrock V eclipsed even her two previous excellent performances today when she won the Harwich to Southend forty-eight-mile race.

Sir Thomas Lipton's challenger for the America's Cup crossed the starting line first, led practically all the way and finished 4 minutes and 15 seconds ahead of A. A. Paton's Lulworth, the scratch boat, which had to allow Shamrock 9 minutes, 36 seconds because of the difference in size. Second place went to H. A. Andrea's Candida and third to Lord Cambrose's Cambria.

The Shamrock led her rivals by more than a mile when they passed Maplin Light, about fifteen miles from Southend, and increased her lead rapidly. Candida was second at that point, followed by Lulworth, White Heather and Cambria in that order.

There was a light wind and the boats had to turn on all points of sailing, windward work predominating.

"A really wonderful performance which has heartened me greatly," said Sir Thomas after the finish.

WEETAMOE WILL GET FIRST TRIAL TODAY

America's Cup Yacht Ready for Her First Spin—Deck Planed and Scraped.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20.—If weather conditions are favorable tomorrow the America's Cup yacht Weetamoe will have her first trial under canvas. A few of the last-minute jobs will be completed by then.

The main boom has been slung, held by a couple of watch tackles, and the main-sheet blocks are on the boom and traveler ready for the sheet to be rove and the ends led below. Her deck, which was left unfinished until the rigging was done, has been planed and scraped.

Except for the main sheet, Weetamoe is rigged and ready to have sails bent. This probably will be done the first thing in the morning, with the trial scheduled as soon as the work is completed.

The chances are that Weetamoe will remain at Bristol for several days, trying her sails and gear.

BALKO HOME FIRST IN SPEED HANDICAP

HIGH STRUNG IS SECOND

Trails Sagamore Entry by Three Lengths, With Maya Third—Victory Is Worth $4,050.

By BRYAN FIELD.

Now that Osmand appears to have relinquished the sprinting crown he wore so long and so well, it is time to nominate another speed king and Balko, the big black speedster from the Sagamore Stable, has the support of many for the honor. He towroped his field in the fifth running of the Speed Handicap at Belmont Park yesterday to win by three lengths from High Strung, which had set a new track record down the same Widener chute in winning the Futurity of 1928.

A length back of High Strung finished W. R. Coe's Maya and then in order were Finite, Sarazen II, winner of the Paumonok and Justinian. It was a high-class field, though not large in numbers, and in beating the opposition, Balko earned $4,050 and scored his third successive triumph. In his previous race, the Toboggan, run on Belmont's opening day, he had defeated Osmand among others.

Few horses have a more consistent record than this 5-year-old son of Omar Khayam and Rahu, which was acquired at Pimlico in the Fall of 1928 from William Martin for $30,000.

Rated Callahan Highly.

Martin, one of the most picturesque characters ever to come out of Tennessee, considered Johnny Callahan, the veteran rider who recently retired, as the only real top flight jockey in the game. When Callahan retired, Martin was past sixty and decided to retire also. The two men were inseparable friends.

Balko was one of the small stable Martin then was racing and the smashing form the horse showed was one of the reasons for the substantial price, which was considered too high by many as the horse had been a mediocre juvenile and not much in the Spring of 1928.

But Trainer Bud Stotler, who directed Mrs. Charles Minot Amory in the purchase, advised that it was a safe investment.

Balko has won and won and since the racing at Laurel last Fall, has captured seven races out of twelve starts. The only time he was out of the money came when he ran a mile and an eighth in the Southern Maryland Handicap against such route horses as Misstep, Dr. Freeland and Glen Wild.

Balko Carried 118 Pounds.

Balko is a sprinter, and after that one long trial, Stotler kept him down under a mile where he is well nigh unbeatable, even with heavy weight. His burden yesterday was 118 pounds, a concession of six from High Strung. The way the race was run Balko could have licked High Strung under level weights. The Futurity winner was never a serious threat.

At the break, Jean Bejshak rushed Balko to the front where he was nicely rated. High Strung was second all the way, but it was clear at once that he was not going as easily as the big black. The race was at five and one-half furlongs and the further it went the further Balko drew out. Coming into the last furlong he drew clear, with plenty to spare over High Strung and the strongest kind of effort on the part of Pony McAtee could not make High Strung gain an inch.

Just coasting, Balko crossed the line in 1:06 2-5, fair time considering that the track was very heavy. Maya closed strongly to get to the heels of High Strung and the others were far out of it. Sarazen II ran a very poor race considering the manner in which he took the Paumonok.

The Metropolitan Handicap is to be run on Saturday, and it was learned yesterday at Belmont Park that it probably will see the return to competition of E. R. Bradley's Blue Larkspur, the 3-year-old champion of 1929 and the greatest money winner in that year. The race is at a mile.

Blue Larkspur has been at Belmont Park for some time and has been working smoothly and well. If his bad leg stands up, and training moves give every indication that it will, it will be hard for the opposition. Blue Larkspur's Withers mile in 1929 will never be forgotten by any one who saw it. One moment he was ten lengths out of things and the next he had lanced between Jack High and Chestnut Oak to win. The time was 1:36, which is plenty fast on any track.

RICH WIDOW WINS FEATURE BY HEAD

Parrish Filly Captures Shed Rownes Purse at Churchill Downs—Retort Second.

TRIUMPHS IN HARD DRIVE

Dr. Parrish, Coupled, Finishes Third—Stable Scores Double, Stock Market Taking 4th Race.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 20 (AP).—J. W. Parrish scored a double victory at Churchill Downs today when his 3-year-old chestnut filly, Rich Widow, captured the Shed Rownes Purse, a sprint of six furlongs for 3-year-olds and upward. Retort, from W. Reed's stable, was second and Dr. Parrish, coupled with Rich Widow, was third. The distance was covered over a heavy track in 1:17.

The Parrish Stable had previously won when Stock Market led home a field of nine in the fourth number.

Rich Widow, away slowly, gradually improved her position but was forced to give up ground rounding into the turn. She then came to the outside of the leaders, where the going was best, and under a good ride by Jockey P. Neal came up to win in a hard drive by a head.

FEATURE AT WOODBINE CAPTURED BY MARTIS

TORONTO, May 20 (Canadian Press).—The Strathcona Plate, best offering at the Woodbine today, proved to be a gift to the Niagara Stable's Martis, ridden by C. Kurtsinger.

Martis finished eight lengths in front of Ryland H. New's Babble, with H. P. Whitney's Crazy Coot two lengths back in third place. The Mount Royal Stable's Kopeck was favorite, but the best he could do was to finish fourth in the six-furlong race.

The winner paid $5.80 to win, $3.90 to place and $2.95 to show. Babble was an outsider, paying $20.35 for the place and $6.90 for show. Crazy Coot paid $3.75 for show.

TOLAN'S DASH MARK NEW WORLD RECORD

Mark of 9 5-10 Seconds for 100 Yards Recognized by International Federation in Berlin.

BARS SIMPSON'S 0:09 4-10

Other Americans Whose Marks Are Accepted Include Krenz, Barnes and Spencer.

BERLIN, May 20 (AP).—The International Amateur Athletic Federation today recognized as a world's record the mark of 9 5-10 seconds for the 100-yard dash made by Eddie Tolan of the University of Michigan last year.

Recognition also went to the records made by Eric Krenz of Stanford University in the discus throw; Lee Barnes, formerly of the University of Southern California, pole vault; Emerson Spencer, former Stanford captain, 400-meter run, and the United States national team of Baird, Barbuti, Spencer and Taylor for the one-mile relay.

Marks made with starting blocks, namely George Simpson's 9 2-5 second 100-yard dash and Dick Rockaway's low hurdles record, were turned down.

Ed Hamm of Georgia Tech, whose running broad jump mark of 25 feet 11⅛ inches, made in 1928, was momentarily recognized, was topped by a more recent performance of 26 feet 27-128 inch by S. Cator of Haiti.

Other Marks by Tolan Accepted.

Two world record-equalling sprint performances by Eddie Tolan at 100 meters also were accepted. He covered 100 meters in 10 4-10 seconds twice on a European trip last year, tying the record set in 1921 by Charley Paddock.

Avery Brundage of Chicago, president of the Amateur Athletic Union of the United States, was chosen vice president by delegates from twenty-three nations, among whom were Daniel J. Ferris, secretary-treasurer of the A. A. U.; Murray Hulbert, former president, and Gustavus T. Kirby of New York and Joseph MacCabe of Boston.

An American resolution that, concerning the payment of appearance money to amateur athletes, the nations be requested to apply the rules stringently, was adopted. On the question of paying airplane fares, it was decided that competitors must pay the difference between airplane and railway fare.

By a vote of 18 to 4, the federation rejected a Finnish-Dutch proposal to allow "broken time" payment to amateur athletes for time lost from work while competing in the Olympic games.

Simpson to Give Up Blocks.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, May 20 (AP).—George Simpson, Ohio State's record-breaking sprinter, today renounced the use of starting blocks in future races upon learning of the action taken by the International Amateur Athletic Federation. He said he believed he could start just as fast without them.

New Accepted Marks Beaten.

Two of the marks that were yesterday accepted by the I. A. A. F. have already been beaten by American athletes. As recently as last Saturday Eric Krenz of Stanford University shattered his new universal discus standard of 163 feet 8¾ inches with the almost incredible heave of 167 feet 5¾ inches. Frank Wykoff of Southern California raced 100 yards in 0:09 4-10 seconds, without the aid of starting blocks, the week previous.

Both are far too recent for acceptance by the I. A. A. F. and will have to wait until 1934 before they can be considered by the I. A. A. F. However, it is likely that the A. A. U. will make them both national records at its annual meeting in November, provided, of course, that all the record prerequisites go with these two feats.

The game was a pitchers' duel between Austin McElroy of St. John's and Harold Schumacher for eight innings. Schumacher was replaced by Strickland in the ninth.

SHOEMAKER STROKE OF CORNELL VARSITY

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., May 20.—Although their next race is only four days away, Cornell's varsity and junior varsity crews were thoroughly reorganized today by Coach Jim Wray. The move, while unexpected, proved satisfactory to the coach after an extended workout.

Johnny Niles, who stroked the varsity in the Carnegie Cup regatta, was replaced by Shoemaker, who set the pace in the junior varsity shell last Saturday. Niles went to 6, replacing Clark, the heaviest oarsman in the shell. The new combination rowed smoothly and Shoemaker and Niles experienced no trouble fitting into their new places.

HARVARD CHANGES VARSITY BOATING

SWAIM SENT TO JAYVEES

First and Second Crews Will Leave Tomorrow for Ithaca to Meet Cornell and Syracuse.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 20.—The first change in the Harvard varsity crew in more than seven weeks was ordered for today's workout on the Charles River by Coach Charles Whiteside.

Because of his fine showing in the quadrangular race last Saturday, Charles Hovey has been placed at 4, the position which had been held by John W. Hallowell. Hallowell was taken ill about two weeks ago and did not return to the crew until yesterday. Coach Whiteside has decided to keep Hallowell in the first shell and has put him at 2.

Stanley Swaim, who had been at 2 since the opening of the practice sessions, was relegated to the jayvee shell and Hallowell was put at the seat next to the bow oar. The shifts will most likely stand for the triangular race with Cornell and Syracuse on Lake Cayuga Saturday.

The Crimson first and second varsity men will leave for Ithaca on Thursday afternoon. They will have a six-mile workout late tomorrow afternoon, and on Thursday they will be out on the river before noon. The men will board a 4:30 train from Boston for New York City, where they will remain in sleepers over night. They expect to arrive in Ithaca at 8 o'clock Friday morning.

Coach Whiteside plans to work his men quite hard while at the racing scene. Two workouts will be held on Friday, and another one will be ordered for Saturday morning.

COLUMBIA OARSMEN IN TEN-MILE SESSION

Glendon Orders Lengthy Row to Observe Varsity Shell—Cubs Show Well in Sprint.

The Columbia varsity crew held one of its longest workouts of the year yesterday on the Harlem River, but little heavy work was gone in for. Coming into the last half mile of the ten-mile row, however, the crews held a short race.

The drill was for the two-fold purpose of improving the rowing of the varsity eight and to give Coach Glendon an opportunity to observe the men over a long route. The Lions meet Princeton and Pennsylvania in the Childs Cup regatta at Philadelphia a week from Saturday and Glendon is anxious to improve the speed of the crew.

With the Childs Cup event under two miles and the Poughkeepsie race at four, Glendon is confronted with the task of developing not only a sprint crew for the shorter race, but also to develop the combination for the longer event.

Carl Ganzle, 7, was absent from the workout. Shelley Wood, a sophomore, who has had several trials in the varsity shell, took Ganzle's place.

The varsity defeated the freshmen by a quarter of a length in the half-mile sprint. The freshmen and junior varsity crews jumped the varsity at the start, but after a few hundred yards, the latter aggregation was out in front. The jayvees gradually dropped behind, but the freshman crew held on vigorously and it was only by a powerful closing sprint

YALE PICKS CREWS FOR HARVARD RACES

Eights Named for 150-Pound Freshman and Class Champion Events Saturday.

J. V. SHELL LOSES PALMER

His Place at Stroke Will Be Taken by J. W. Blagden, Varsity Captain's Brother.

Special to The New York Times.

DERBY, Conn., May 20.—Coaches Sam Shaw and Don Grant of the two Yale crews which will race their Harvard rivals on the Housatonic Saturday in the closing events of the season on that river, announced the probable boatings today.

Shaw has had charge of the Yale interclass rowing all season, developing twelve crews for the class regatta, which was won last week by the sophomores' A boat. This eight was selected as Yale's representative in the annual race against the Harvard class champions.

The Harvard sophomores also won the Spring regatta and will come here Saturday to meet Yale '32. The 150-pound freshman eight will meet Harvard in the other race.

The Yale junior varsity crew lost its stroke today when Arthur E. Palmer of Cleveland told Coach Ed Leader that he would be unable to row any longer because of his father's illness. Palmer, a star in football as well as crew, was stroke of the Yale varsity shell last year. Joseph Washington Blagden, brother of the Yale captain, Gus Blagden, will take over Palmer's oar.

The probable boatings for Saturday follow:

Sophomore Crew.

150-Pound Freshman Crew.

Special to The New York Times.

PRINCETON, N. J., May 20.—The Princeton varsity and jayvee crews were given their second day's rest this week today with Coach Chuck Logg devoting the afternoon to the freshman lightweight, second freshman heavyweight and the scrub eights. Coach Gordon Sikes sent the varsity 150-pound eight through a strenuous workout, covering seven miles over Lake Carnegie.

In addition to the races scheduled here Saturday between the Penn and Princeton second freshman heavyweight and freshman 150-pound crews, the Kent School eight will race Hun School.

The lightweight boat had the hardest drill of the day, racing a quarter-mile at a 30 stroke on the way to the dam. On the return trip to the boathouse a fast quarter-mile at 36 was rowed before reaching the Henley course.

Coach Sikes then sent the Nassau eight three-quarters of a mile at a rapid clip, opening with a stroke at 40, dropping to 36, and then pushing the beat back to 40 for the finish. Coach Sikes acted as coxswain.

Sports of the Times

Reg. U. S. Pat. Off.

By JOHN KIERAN.

THIS may be a good thing to remember: Rules are annoying hindrances in any game, but once in a while a rule can be used to advantage. In this particular instance, the use of a rule in golf will not only aid the player, but annoy his adversaries profusely, which will undoubtedly add spice to the contest and the sound effects that go with it.

It is foolish for a man who is on the green to putt into a bunker, but it has been done. A downhill putt on a baked green may trickle past the hole and continue relentlessly until it finds a resting place in some adjacent and malignant bunker. Now, if the aforesaid bunker is of the despicable type into which a suite of parlor furniture, three African elephants and a two-family house could be tumbled with ease, there is only one wise course to pursue. That is for the golfer to invoke Rule 22, Paragraph 1, of General and Through the Green.

He could, of course, descend into the cavernous depths and flail away at the ball in the sand, but that is not recommended. Under Rule 22 it is the inalienable right of the player to deem his lie in the bunker unplayable. Adhering to this constitutional right, he should merely drop another ball as nearly as possible at the spot from which he made the first unlucky putt, add a penalty stroke, and go for the hole with more caution.

How It Works.

In this instance the player would take the penalty of stroke and distance for a shot to an unplayable lie. But notice the advantage. A man playing four on the green and unluckily tapping the ball so that it runs into a bunker can haul out Rule 22, drop another ball at the same spot from which he first putted and try for a six.

What about the foolish chap who ventured into the bunker? He might whack away six times without getting out. He might bang the ball far across the green to another trap on the far side. He might break his niblick. He might lose his temper. He might do any number of unfortunate or infernal things, but the best he could hope for would be, by some miracle, to come out on the green in one stroke and have a putt for a six on the hole.

That's exactly what the canny player invoking Rule 22 does without any of the incidental risks that go with the armed invasion of a bunker. An opponent might point out that the ball in the bunker is not unplayable at all, but his opinion is immaterial, incompetent and irrelevant. A man should know his own strength. Under the rules of golf, a player is the sole judge of what is an unplayable lie for him. It is suggested that the "unplayable" rule be invoked when, as and if needed, but this observer wishes to disclaim responsibility for any mayhem, assault and battery or property damage that arises from action taken by indignant and outraged opponents.

A Rule Needed.

Rules are bad enough. Invoking them is wicked. Tinkering with them is worse still. Yet it does seem that some rule should be written into the tennis manual forbidding the practice of deliberately and blatantly "throwing" points.

It is usually done, of course, when a player thinks that he has been given a point through an erroneous decision of a linesman or the umpire. The decisions of accepted officials are part of the play in any game. This should hold good in tennis, as it does in football, baseball, polo and track and field sports where officials have been known to make wrong decisions from time to time.

The "throwing" of a point in tennis is considered a very sporting gesture by most players and many observers, but in this corner a dissenting opinion is filed. The first thing it does is to serve notice on the assembled multitude that the player considers one of the officials either blind or incompetent. Another thing is that the point is so patently "thrown" that it is evidently a gallery play.

A Poor Return.

A third thing is that "throwing" one point, no matter how openly, does not at all balance the receipt of a previous gift point. Logically, a player should "throw" two successive points to balance one unearned decision, and in many cases it so happens that it is impossible to strike a balance because of the relative values of points at different times in a match.

There is something to be said on the other side, of course. Playing before a crowd, a player doesn't like to be put in the position of appearing to gain any advantage through the mistake of an official. With or without a crowd, the same thing is true. But admitting that the players are well intentioned and desirous of doing the sporting thing, the current custom does not repair the damage done by a mistaken decision and often leads to ridiculous situations. On one occasion at Forest Hills Henri Cochet and Bill Tilden kept "throwing" successive points to each other until the situation was farcical.

Some change should be made either in the rule or the custom. Almost any change would do. Nothing could be worse than the system now in vogue.

On the Water.

The Columbia crew trailed Yale down the Housatonic at Derby, but the Blue and White sweepswingers still hope to lead the naval parade at Poughkeepsie. Rough water won't hurt their chances a bit. Rowing daily on the somewhat unruly Hudson, they are accustomed to choppy seas and threatening whitecaps.

Other "rough-water" crews are the Navy, Harvard and California. Yale, Princeton, Cornell, Washington and Penn row on comparatively sheltered waters through the training season, but the wind whips up the waves where Columbia, Navy and Harvard go thrashing along on the Hudson, the Severn or the wide Charles River Basin.

That was one reason why Rich Glendon and his lads were ready to start the Derby race on scheduled time, whereas the Yale and Pennsylvania coaches and officials held off in the hope that the conditions on the river would improve. That was one reason why the Columbia shell, with its washboards up, was first over the line in that wild race in rough water and gathering gloom at Poughkeepsie last year.

The fine freshman crew from Pennsylvania defeated the Yale and Columbia freshman shells on the Housatonic, but finished third to Harvard and M. I. T. in the Charles River Basin. A jumped slide hurt the chances of the Penn freshmen on the Charles, but the rougher waters must have had their effect, too. It does make a difference.

MISS JACOBS WINS IN FRENCH DOUBLES

PLAYS IN IMPROVED FORM

Mrs. Moody-Miss Ryan Gain When Opponents Decline to Compete on Wet Court.

AUTEUIL, France, May 20 (AP).—Miss Helen Jacobs of Berkeley, Cal., and her Belgian partner, Miss Irene Sicart, won their opening match in the French hard court tennis doubles championship today, defeating the Misses Veronique and Josephine Gallay, a French team of sisters, at 6—3, 3—6, 6—0.

The match was played in a drizzling rain that handicapped Miss Jacobs's forceful style more than the soft, lobbing game of her adversaries. Miss Jacobs looked greatly improved over her Riviera form.

Numerous spectators who came to watch Mrs. Helen Wills Moody make her first appearance on European courts this year were disappointed, as the weather forced postponement of play just before the singles champion and her fellow-Californian, Miss Elizabeth Ryan, were to start their first doubles match.

Mrs. Moody and Miss Ryan later advanced to the third round of the women's doubles when their scheduled opponents, two French girls, declined to play on the wet court, although the Americans were willing to do so.

Because of the disagreeable playing conditions only a few matches were played and much of the interest centred about the committee rooms where the tournament officials announced the seedings for the singles championships.

There was no hesitancy about giving Mrs. Moody the No. 1 position in the women's singles, but the committee deliberated long about second place, finally deciding in favor of Señorita Elia de Alvarez of Spain, followed by Mrs. Eileen Bennett Whittingstall of England and Miss Jacobs of the United States.

Bill Tilden was placed second only to Henri Cochet of France in the draw for the men's singles, which was announced today. Wilbur Coen of Kansas City, for the first time in his tennis career in France, also had the honor of being named on the list of players selected for seeding.

Following is the order in which the players were seeded:

1, Cochet; 2, Tilden; 3, Jean Borotra, France; 4, E. F. Moon, Australia; 5, Jack Crawford, Australia; 6, Baron H. L. de Morpurgo, Italy; 7, Takeichi Harada, Japan; 8, H. G. N. MANGIN WILL JOIN DAVIS CUP SQUAD

Georgetown Star Will Accompany U. S. Group Abroad if it Defeats Mexico.

PHILADELPHIA, May 20 (AP).—Joseph W. Wear, chairman of the United States Davis Cup Committee, announced tonight that Gregory Mangin of Georgetown University would join the Davis Cup squad and be taken abroad, provided the Americans come through the tie with Mexico at Chevy Chase, near Washington, D. C., later this week. The United States team plans to sail on the Berengaria June 3.

Mangin won the Eastern intercollegiate tennis championship in 1929 and was runner-up to Berkeley Bell of Austin, Texas, for the national intercollegiate title. His home is in Newark, N. J.

Bell also will accompany the United States team abroad if it survives the American zone matches. Whether he and Mangin get into the European zone play will depend on their showing at Wimbledon and other places, Mr. Wear said. Other members of the squad are G. Martin Lott 2d, Chicago; John Van Ryn, East Orange, N. J.; Wilmer Allison, Austin, Texas, and John Doeg, Santa Monica, Cal. This quartet defeated Canada, 5 to 0, in the first American zone tie here last week.

YALE FRESHMAN NINE BOWS.

Loses First Time This Season When Milford Wins, 12-11.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW HAVEN, May 20.—The Milford School baseball team today defeated the Yale freshmen, 12 to 11. It was the first defeat of the season for the Elis.

The losers staged a come-back in the closing innings but fell one short. Fletcher tripled with the bases full in the last of the ninth, but was out at home trying to stretch the hit. His run would have tied the score.

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia, May 20 (AP).—In the concluding singles matches of their second-round Davis Cup tennis tie Spain and Yugoslavia broke even today. Spain already had won the series, however, by capturing the first two singles matches and the doubles.

Maier of Spain defeated Kukuljevitch, 6—1, 6—3, 6—2, but Schaefer gave Yugoslavia its first victory by defeating Juanito, 13—11, 6—4, 6—2.

THE POLICE COMMISSIONER.

We have to take our public officials as they are built. "Were man but constant, he were perfect." If Mr. WHALEN had been a perfect Commissioner of Police, he would probably never have been appointed in the first place, and if so would not have lasted so long. As he retires from the Department the city will be inclined to think chiefly of the excellent qualities he has shown while in office. Taking the Police Commissionership as an avowed experiment and temporarily, he hands it back to Mayor WALKER with a record in which many real achievements stand out. To his work he has given all that was in him. As an example to the police of energy and dash and absorption in the work, Commissioner WHALEN has made a distinctive place for himself as an administrator. There appears to be little doubt that he has improved the morale of the force. Observing his alert activity, the ordinary policeman must have felt a new impulse to be always ready for service. Whether Mr. WHALEN accomplished so much as he thinks, merely by reorganization of the system, is a matter on which good judges are divided. The test of time is yet to come. But no one denies that the Commissioner convinced all the men under him of his desire to do everything in his power to increase the well-being and efficiency of the police and to make the Department as nearly a model as possible. His valedictory letter of resignation, like his bulky annual report recently published, testifies to his belief that great things have been done during his brief tenure of office.

Without challenging that, it may not be ungracious at this time to indicate one quality of a successful Commissioner of Police which Mr. WHALEN has not possessed, or at least has not displayed. This is the impression of reserve power. That implies reticence, as a rule, and the avoidance of publicity. If a Police Commissioner is all the time talking of what he intends to do, he is too much like a General giving away his plans to the enemy. When a high police official is silent in an emergency, and makes his moves secretly, criminals do not know when he is going to strike or which one of them will be hit. Such tactics were not natural to Mr. WHALEN. His restless impulses and his picturesque personality kept him too steadily in the news. Perhaps he could not help this, being what he is, but it was something short of the conduct of an ideal Police Commissioner. Even with that official too much familiarity breeds a certain contempt. He cannot be doing wonderful things every day of his life. And if he is too often in the gaze of the vulgar, and by his much speaking makes himself the subject of banter, he loses something not only of his dignity but his authority.

In a recent discussion of the apparent dearth of great men in public life today, an acute writer pointed out that the best work, and a great deal of it, is done by men little known. They are the assiduous scientific researchers, striving for results, not for réclame; the experts in great industries, who rarely emerge from behind their screens; the personnel of the permanent staffs of great governmental departments, who do their work quietly and let their superiors run off with the credit. These are instances of men with true reserve power, who shun publicity and yet convince those with whom they come in contact that they are capable even of more than they do. One could wish for more men of this type at the head of the police in New York City.

To succeed Mr. WHALEN the Mayor has chosen a uniformed man as Commissioner, Inspector MULROONEY. Without withdrawing the opinion expressed by THE TIMES last week that it would be much better to take a civilian, we bespeak a fair field for the new Commissioner. His methods will surely differ from those of Mr. WHALEN in all personal ways. Presumably, he will not be seen so often or talk so much for publication. As a skilled detective himself, it is to be hoped that he will have better fortune than Commissioner WHALEN in the matter of unsolved murders. Directly responsible as he will be to Mayor WALKER, the city will look to him to keep the whole body of police up to their highest point of efficiency, or will want to know the reason why it is not done. As Mr. WHALEN said at the dinner in his honor, Police Commissioners come and go, but the Police Department, with all its difficult problems, is always with us. Commissioner MULROONEY need not doubt that the city is disposed to grant him time and opportunity to show what he can make of his highly important office.

THE NEW CHAPTER IN REPARATIONS.

The formal burning of bonds for $37,000,000,000 issued by Germany in 1921 and 1924 to guarantee reparation payments was a gesture not inappropriate to the new order of settlement. When the first Reparation debt commission of the Allies fixed in 1921 for the total German payment the sum of 132,000,000,000 marks, or approximately $33,000,000,000, the German Government was required to sign bonds, in a stipulated order of priority, to secure the payment. Part carried an active annuity requirement, for interest and amortization, of $750,000,000. The accepted plan of the Dawes commission in 1924 substituted a standard annual payment, to be reached within five years, of $625,000,000. Of this one-half was to be borne by German railways and industrial enterprises, to secure which $4,000,000,000 in bonds were issued on those properties and delivered to the Reparation Commission.

The Young plan, now going into force, not only reduces the total annuity and wholly supersedes the original plan of finance, thus dispensing with the "A, B and C bonds" of 1921, but, in the language of its report, "contemplates the abolition of the railway bonds" and discontinuance of the machinery of bonded debt on industry. In both cases the contribution imposed for interest and amortization could properly be handled as a matter of direct taxation, the government making itself responsible for the levy. Ratification of this plan dispensed altogether with these shadowy international securities, which have accordingly been destroyed. In this respect, as in the fixing of the term and therefore ultimate amount of German payment, in the provision for reduction of the total debt by mobilization loans, and in the placing of the machinery for transfer in the hands of an international bank with German participation, the new arrangement conforms to orderly and sensible methods of finance.

Whether the Young plan is to continue indefinitely in operation (the final scheduled annuity payment would be in 1988) will remain for circumstances to determine. The modification of the Dawes plan, as proposed in 1929 by the Young commission, resulted as much from the wish of the creditor Allies as from that of Germany. But the fact that even the more exacting payments imposed through the Dawes commission's plan have been met by Germany punctually, and without evidence of economic strain, is altogether reassuring. The "break-down of the transfer machinery," the collapse of the mark through inability to counterbalance the heavy export payments, were familiar subjects of warning and gloomy prediction in 1924. Events have not justified the misgiving, although during the subsequent half-dozen years Germany's "visible balance" of foreign trade has varied widely between an export and an import surplus.

When the Dawes plan was ratified the German bank rate, even after reorganization of the currency, held at 10 per cent; rates on the open money market long remained around 8 and 9. In the four first years under the Dawes arrangement the official German statistical bureau estimated that 10,680,000,000 marks, or upward of $2,600,000,000, had been raised by Germany abroad to balance her foreign payments. Last year the decrease in foreign borrowings was extremely large. Yet the foreign exchange market continued to favor Germany, and the present discount rate at Berlin is the lowest since 1914 and practically on a level with New York.

This remarkable result is in great part attributable to the recovery of Germany's industry and the resumption of large-scale savings by her people, under a settled policy of reparation payment: two factors accurately foreseen and allowed for by the Dawes commission. That the raising of the immense sums paid in reparations during the past six years was facilitated by the prodigious scaling-down of public and company indebtedness, through the currency depreciation of 1922 and 1923, is no doubt an essential part of the story.

FILMS AND WORLD UNITY.

Los Angeles, rejoicing by anticipation in fifth place among the cities as successor to Cleveland, should pause a moment to ponder the mutability of human things. There is under way a process which forecasts for the young giant of Southern California a somewhat slower growth in the next ten years than during the last two decades. That omen is the talkies. It is by no means certain that Hollywood will retain her unchallenged monopoly in the film industry of the nations. At the present moment she queens it in greater splendor than ever. Her sound films are believed in some quarters to threaten the very existence of the living theatre. They have already drawn to the Coast much of the vocal acting talent of Broadway. But the signs of a reaction are at hand. American film producers now in London are reported to be engaged on elaborate production schemes for the British talkie market. Arrangements for the French and German speaking publics have already been made. English actors now employed with the Fox interests at Hollywood will go home to take part in the new program. The same thing has already been reported of French talent at Hollywood.

The talkie seems destined to restrict if not quite to break up the unity of mankind established by the movie. The silent film is the most universal single interest ever evolved by the race, more comprehensive, when measured by range and mass, than any one religion, empire, language in history. A Chaplin film, a Pickford and Fairbanks film, a "Western," is as intimate to audiences in the Congo interior and on the Labrador coast as to audiences on Pennsylvania Avenue and in Piccadilly. Now the universal brotherhood of the sign language is menaced by the advent of the sound film—the story of Babel Tower all over again. It is not mere national pride that makes Frenchmen and Germans and Italians ask for talkies in their own tongue. It was inevitable that they should rise in demand for the new esthetic thrill. The magic of the spoken word is felt by all men. The natives of the Zambesi, when they have made acquaintance with the voice from the screen, will not be solely content with Hollywood jazz and opera. If there are enough of the Zambesians to make it worth while, they will have their own words and music turned out for them.

Industrial and business centres, once they have taken root, are hard to kill. They may suffer with a change in conditions, but they do a good deal of adapting before they cry quits. There are still many years ahead for the textile mills of New England and Lancashire, the money market in London, the luxury trades in Paris. So Hollywood, because of historic advantages, will remain the capital of the film industry for a long time to come. But her monopoly will not be so complete. The talkie is developing minor producing centres for foreign markets, even like the Ford plants abroad. The nature of the talkie makes such decentralization feasible because its plots are more of interiors than of the open air. To that extent the talkies are independent of the California sunlight.

TAMPERING WITH THE RITUAL.

Mr. SWANSON'S resolution providing that hereafter bills and joint resolutions shall not be considered as in Committee of the Whole was the unfinished business of the Senate. Strangely enough, the Committee on Rules had unanimously approved this regrettable proposal. If the existing rule is not imperiously Senatorial, what other part of the sublime and protective ritual is? Mr. SWANSON'S recital of the salutary process was meant as an attack upon it. It is a triumphant defense and justification:

> After a measure was considered and debated in Committee of the Whole and perhaps reconsidered in Committee of the Whole, the rule provided that it should then go to the Senate, where it might be considered precisely as it had been considered in Committee of the Whole, which meant at least two complete and thorough considerations of every bill and joint resolution introduced in the Senate. That rule could not be deviated from except by unanimous consent. Thus a measure could be debated and argued as in Committee of the Whole, reconsidered and again debated sometimes for two or three weeks, and then brought up in the Senate as a new proposition and the same debate had a third time, the same motions made, and then after further debate it could be again reconsidered. As a result, every question could easily have four considerations before there was a final disposition under the rules of the Senate.

Mr. SWANSON has been a Senator for twenty years. Few Senators are more accomplished or wiser. Yet he has long sought to overthrow perhaps the most characteristic of the Senate's self-protective rules and practices. "No other legislative body in the world," he said, "has any such method of procedure." This otherness is the glory of the Senate. Old stagers, including a somewhat uncertain and tangled "JIM" WATSON, participated in this assault upon the liberties of the Senate. The questions, quillets, imagined cases and subtle distinctions that flew about in the debate were painfully over the head of the layman. It is gratification enough for him to know that in that perilous hour newer Senators were faithful when the seniors were false to the quintessential principle of deliberation.

Mr. DILL saw the genesis of the suggested rule, by which reconsideration would take the place of the Committee of the Whole, in the dissatisfaction of members of the Coalition because so many of their amendments made in Committee of the Whole were knocked out when the tariff bill got into the Senate. He pleaded strongly for "the maintenance of the old standards which "have served the Senate and the "country so well." This Progressive, "sometimes called radical," stood nobly by this 130-year-old rule of the Senate. Mr. BLACK agreed with Mr. DILL that here was "a "nearer approach to the rules of the "body at the other end of the Capitol." If the Senate is to be a deliberative assembly, why should it abandon the ancient method of deliberation?

The resolution was "an effort and "a step in the direction of shorten"ing the deliberations of this body." In the estimation of all admirers of the Senate such a purpose, if attained, would be the fatal beginning of decadence. Yet with some changes the resolution was passed by 48 to 13, thirty-five Senators not voting. The mystic words, "as in Committee of the Whole," have been stricken from Standing Rule No. XIV. These velleities of expedition are ominous. The Hon. NICHOLAS LONGWORTH must have chuckled as he read the Congressional Record of May 15 and May 16.

JAYWALKING.

Jaywalking, "crossing not at crossings," takes a heavy and mounting toll. Last year 412 people were killed here in that way, as compared with 323 the year before. The argument that it is safer to cross in the middle of the street does not appear to be borne out by the statistics, in this city at any rate. But it is foolish to try to change such an ingrown metropolitan habit overnight. Mr. WHALEN'S edict is not being obeyed and will not be.

Hundreds of thousands of New Yorkers have been jaywalkers all their lives. Comparatively few have suffered ill effects. Statistics do not make much headway against experience. It is a good deal to ask a man who lives outside the congested centre of Manhattan to refrain from crossing a street that may be deserted. Even if he lives in the midtown area, say in one of the long West Forties, it is silly to brand him as a misdemeanant just because he refuses to take five minutes to walk around when he can walk across in ten seconds. Under any well-ordered drive against jaywalking, long-block residents would be entitled to a "regularly designated crosswalk" in the middle of the block.

All this should not blind the public to the benefit of Mr. WHALEN'S other regulation: "A pedestrian who "has started across the street in "conformity with the provisions of "this paragraph [when the lights "show green] shall have the right "of way over all vehicles, including "those making turns, until such pe"destrian has reached the opposite "curb." That is a reform which this newspaper has long advocated. Under metropolitan conditions the right-hand turn may be a necessity, but the privilege should not be abused as it is. The old rule requiring a stop before making the turn has become a dead letter. We believe that public opinion will sustain rigorous police action against the right-turners. To them, to police, public and pedestrian, and to all those interested in the "Respective Rights "and Duties of Pedestrians and Ve"hicles," we commend the temperate discussion of that subject in the model municipal traffic ordinance adopted by the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety:

> The common-law rule has maintained for many centuries that all users of the highway have equal and reciprocal rights and duties on public highways. This has meant that, as a matter of law, pedestrians have equal rights with vehicles to use and occupy public roadways. From the practical standpoint, however, the pedestrian has obviously not been in a position to assert this equal right and has suffered in consequence.
> The pedestrian may well be called upon to surrender some of his present equal right to the use of all parts of the roadway, and it is recommended that a pedestrian crossing a roadway at any point other than a marked or unmarked crosswalk be required to yield the right of way to vehicles upon the roadway. Operators of vehicles benefited by the foregoing regulation may justly be called upon to yield the right of way to pedestrians on crosswalks. * * *
>
> The success of a rule requiring definite obedience by pedestrians to traffic control signals depends in large measure upon a proper timing of the signals as well as numerous other physical factors, also upon intensive educational activities. Where the vehicular movement is heavy, it is obviously dangerous for pedestrians to cross the line of fast-moving vehicles. On the other hand, where the vehicular movement is light, where there is congestion of pedestrians, or where the "Go" signal to vehicles is unduly prolonged, pedestrians waiting on adjacent sidewalks become impatient and are inclined to proceed immediately across the roadway. Pedestrian regulation in this respect, in order to be successful, must be appropriate to the conditions and must appeal to the good sense of the pedestrians.

MORE CUSTOMS INSPECTORS NEEDED.

The preliminary recommendations by the special committee investigating the Customs Service at this port repeat suggestions made from time to time. They are that the force be increased, and that there shall be adequate compensation for overtime work, to be paid by the government rather than, as at present, by the steamship companies. Overwork is blamed for most of the minor criticisms. In the main, the personnel receives high praise.

This is in refreshing contrast to the charges of corruption implied in the circular sent out to a selected list of returning travelers a number of weeks ago. As pointed out at the time by former Collector of the Port BYRON R. NEWTON, the mass of the inspectors are honest. Such irregularities as have existed have been confined to small groups, usually acting in collusion. Several offenders of that kind have recently been discharged.

The Woods committee points out that 99 per cent of the entire revenue from import duties comes from merchandise as distinguished from articles brought in by tourists. The demand for prompt handling of passenger baggage has resulted in detaching inspectors from the examination of merchandise to expedite the passenger traffic. As many tourists know to their sorrow, even this special detail of men does not, during the rush season, prevent passengers having to wait from one to four hours to have their baggage examined.

The fault is obviously with the system. Relief lies in employing more men. And if the service is to continue to attract men of integrity and character, it must give more adequate compensation. The hours are notoriously irregular. The work requires discrimination. Unfortunately, the excessive amount of red tape makes it difficult alike for examiner and examined. If the Woods commission can show how to eliminate the present delays, it will have made a distinct contribution. Perhaps the inspectors sent to Europe two weeks ago to study European systems will also have suggestions to speed up examinations.

THE GENERAL WELFARE.

The second annual meeting of the Welfare Council gives fresh evidence of the value of this effort to anticipate and meet the needs of the community as a whole. It is first of all a clearing house for information where help of a particular kind is to be found. One has but to call Algonquin 7100 to receive advice concerning the institution or society or other agency to which application should be made.

It is gratifying to note that Mr. ROBERT W. DE FOREST, who has been the leader in charity organization for nearly a half century, continues as honorary president. His words are always "well-considered," as were the ancient Nestor's. That he has spoken and guided with wisdom is witnessed by the great progress made in his lifetime in the direction of providing more intelligent care for those in need, of preventing duplication of aid and unnecessary multiplication of agencies, and of making sure that no fields are overlooked. There has come to be "teamwork" where before there was unrelated activity, either by individuals or organizations.

The most noteworthy progress has been made, not in the immediacy and adequacy of the relief given with greater promptness and skill, but in the thought and effort devoted to preventing conditions which would otherwise demand relief. Miss PERKINS gave one illustration of this in relating what is being done in the matter of unemployment. The difference between this crisis and earlier ones is that a general intelligent interest is being taken in discussing methods and means of overcoming difficulties and in averting their recurrence. Another illustration is the inventory of health agencies undertaken by the Welfare Council—a foundational study which will enable the combined forces to move more effectually in the meeting of the common enemy. In the strategy of this warfare it has given special attention to the needs of those who have come to old age without means or relatives to care for them, to providing playgrounds for children and to the extermination of preventable diseases. And not the least of its services has been its broadening of the bases of giving—bringing in the many to assist in this common ministry to the needy and neglected.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Careers in Prison. A recent issue of The Summary, a weekly newspaper published by the inmates of the New York State Reformatory at Elmira, contains a farewell message to two men who had completed their terms and had attained popularity with their fellows. A casual reader, not aware of the fact that the two men were prisoners, would not suspect that they were from reading the article.

"He soon acclimated himself to his surroundings, and any one who knows him cannot deny that he has attained success as far as any one can succeed in an institution of this kind," was written of one man. The entire article is laudatory, and one cannot help noting the discretion of the writer, who omitted any allusion to the crimes for which the men were just completing sentence. "Knowing you as we do, we have no doubt about your future success," the article concludes.

With the attention of the public recently directed to the more sordid aspects of our penal system, it is pleasant to know that not all life behind the bars is a hopeless and rebellious business. The inmates of Elmira are first offenders who are not without hope of ultimate success after their time is served. One wonders whether or not something of the spirit evinced in the above article cannot be roused in others who may make "successful careers" while in prison.

Falling Planes and Men Below. The successful descent by parachute of one of the test pilots of the Curtiss-Wright Airport at Valley Stream on Sunday directs attention again to the necessity of stricter enforcement of the rules to curb the activities of aviators over thickly settled districts.

The pilot saved his own life by jumping out of his machine. By good fortune the airplane crashed in a vacant lot instead of landing on a house or in a street. The aviator was entitled to risk his own life. But by what right was he entitled to expose persons on land to death or the destruction of their property because he wished to test an airplane?

Low flying and stunt flying are, theoretically, regulated by the Department of Commerce. Both are forbidden over crowded areas. In fairness to the Curtiss Airport authorities, it must be admitted that after frequent protests these are now less common than before. But the industry as a whole does not yet seem to recognize the extent to which it is a menace and a nuisance to persons who live near airports or regular routes of air travel.

Their Noise a Public Nuisance. The greatest nuisance of the airplane is its noise. But this might easily be regulated. Already mufflers have been designed which materially silence the engines without depriving them of too much power.

Yet aviators and airport authorities appear to feel about the use of mufflers much as did the early owners of automobiles, who protested against having to muffle their motors until driven to it by law. Even then it was customary to open the cut-out when beyond the ear of the law. Today no automobile owner would tolerate a car that makes as much noise as did the old ones, or as does an unmuffled airplane.

Failure to face the fact that unmuffled airplanes are rousing more and more resentment is almost certain to end in a demand for laws that will curb aviators rigidly. As the number of airplanes increases their nuisance value—unless muffled—will increase. The sooner the manufacturers, owners and operators of airplanes recognize that it is within their power to put an end to this form of public hostility the better for all concerned.

Spoken in the Tradition. The Earl of DERBY is sailing home this week, leaving a most agreeable impression behind him wherever he went. It was understood in this country that the Earl was a genial, sporting peer with an honorable public and military record. This impression was verified by Lord DERBY'S demeanor in New York, in Philadelphia, in Washington and in Kentucky. The accident of birth he treated as an accident. The man within the title being a perfectly normal Briton acted as one.

All Americans interested in racing knew in advance that the Earl was a true-blue Corinthian in such matters. If there had been any doubts they would have been resolved by his reference on the radio to Gallant Fox, winner of the Kentucky Derby, just before the cup was presented. The Earl said he wanted to pay tribute to a "good horse." This is the tradition.

Outsiders and ignoramuses quickly style any winner a "great" horse, and when he has won both Preakness and Derby they feel there can be no question of the accolade. Not so with the turfman. He knows that on the track only two or three in a century have the right to be termed "great," and these generally after they have retired from racing. Of Man o' War Lord DERBY used the adjective "great," again in the tradition. The conservative parlance of the turf comes naturally perhaps to a turfman who is a Conservative in politics.

A Question of Pronunciation.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

During the spelling bee between the Women's National Press Club and the National Press Club, held last Saturday evening, I was surprised to hear the word "Tribune" pronounced with the accent on the last syllable. I can find no authority for such a pronunciation.

ENCOURAGEMENT NEEDED.

Porto Rico, Fighting Uphill Battle, Deserves Regard Here.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is difficult for me, a New York dress manufacturer who has maintained a factory in Porto Rico for the past fifteen years, to understand why so little attention is given by American newspapers to the industrial and general economic development of this island, whose million and a quarter inhabitants are, in a sense, wards of the United States. I realize, of course, that at the present time there are so many vital business and labor problems that must be solved in the United States that those of this island possession cannot be accorded immediate attention.

The fact remains that there are certain types of production, notably the finer hand-finished needlework, in which Porto Rican workers are infinitely superior to the hand craftsmen of France, Germany, Czechoslovakia and other European countries. American merchants should be encouraged to give preference to Porto Rican needlework over that from abroad. It is the second largest industry on the island, sugar raising and refining being the first. It is hardly necessary for me to dwell upon the unfortunate plight of the sugar industry and its adverse effect upon the well-being of the population.

I sincerely believe that hearty encouragement should be extended by constructive newspapers to the diligent and intensive efforts of Governor Roosevelt to improve the business aspect of the island. He is making an exhaustive study of the possible channels of Porto Rican industrial and mercantile development. He and members of his staff have visited my factory, where 400 persons are employed, on several occasions, and have endeavored to glean data for use in general industrial promotional work. I have made upward of one hundred trips between New York and Porto Rico and have remained on the island for a number of weeks on each visit, but I can recall having seen no manifestation of genuine interest on the part of officials approaching that of Colonel Roosevelt. I sincerely believe that he will be able to improve the flagging fortunes of the island; at least, that is what the progressive business men here believe.

Those of us who have made substantial investments in Porto Rican industries are so enthusiastic over Colonel Roosevelt's enlightened policy that we feel he should be accorded the commendation he so justly merits. MORRIS E. STORYK.

Recalling Forgotten Virtues.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES editorial "A Dinner of Connoisseurs," dealing with Lord Decies's party given in a London wine cellar, is very illuminating indeed, and reminds one of the good old times.

But no matter how elaborate that function could have been, it hardly could have matched in the line of food and wines some of the celebrated dinners served by Delmonico's when the star of that house was at its zenith.

Champagne was omitted from your list of good things. Probably an oversight. A dinner of that kind minus champagne would be like a dance without music, bread without salt or a bouillabaisse without garlic.

Champagne is consumed at every function of consequence—outside of the United States, of course—at christenings, baby or ship, at weddings. It is also recommended as medicine for various ailments.

The most rabid dry will have to admit that wine as medicine is by far more palatable than castor oil. Still, the fact remains that any one drinking a glass of champagne in this glorious country of ours is considered a criminal. I wonder if I have even the right to mention the beverage.

On very sad occasions, when the patient fails to improve, when science admits its helplessness, when the grim visitor is just around the corner, then, as a last resort, champagne is called to the rescue.

HOME-COMING.

When I unlocked the long-closed door and stepped Across the threshold, no one visible
Was there to give me greeting, but I felt
The unseen presence (it is always so)
Of those who had been waiting my return.
The silence spoke to me, and in the dusk
I felt the love of family draw close;
Without a word, to my receptive sense
The quiet rooms were glad with welcoming.
I wandered through the still place listening—
And when night came, into its cradle-arms
My old house gathered me, and crooned: "Sleep well!
We have been longing for your home-coming."
My willow tree, new-leafed and laughing, tapped
Next morning at my window pane, and preened
Its pliant, graceful self, as if to say:
"See, I have grown!"
The purple lilacs breathed
Their well-loved fragrance and the garden glowed!

Oh, sweet the scents that blow from Mexico,
And in the South exotic blossoms flaunt
Their vivid coloring; salt cedars stand
In phalanx underneath tall, stately palms!
But, to New England eyes, is anything
More beautiful than apple trees in bloom
Or the green haze of Spring upon the hills?
And what more tender than the waiting arms

BISHOP STIRES SEES HIS DIOCESE IN LEAD

PLEDGED QUOTA OVERPAID

Revision of Constitution, Canons and Rules of Order Submitted, but Action Is Delayed.

Special to The New York Times.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., May 20.—The Protestant Episcopal Diocese of Long Island made the greatest progress during 1929 of any diocese of the American Episcopal Church, the Righ Rev. Ernest Milmore Stires, Bishop of Long Island, said in his annual address today at the opening here of the sixty-fourth convention of the diocese at the Cathedral of the Incarnation. Bishop Stires cited statistics compiled by a clergyman of the Diocese of Chicago, who, to prove the standing of his own diocese, had made a study of progress in the Church and a comparative list of its divisions.

In further evidence of the work done by his diocese, Bishop Stires said that "not only has Long Island pledged its full quota of contributions to the Church, but at this moment it has somewhat overpaid the portion of the quota that is due. In this it has not been surpassed by any large diocese of the Church."

Revised Constitution Offered.

A matter which evoked much discussion and promises to occupy a large part of the session, which continues tomorrow, was a revised constitution, set of canons and rules of order submitted to the convention by a special committee appointed at last year's convention for that purpose. The committee, according to the Right Rev. John I. Blair Larned, Suffragan Bishop and one of its members, examined the constitutions and canons of twenty-six American churches to formulate the revised version for the Long Island Diocese.

Though the Rev. J. Clarence Jones, another member of the committee, offered the new constitution and canons for immediate adoption and effectiveness, subject to revision at the next convention, the 500 delegates, after a discussion through the afternoon session, moved only to receive the report and consider it for a year. The matter of amending some of the articles of the constitution was laid over until today. The rules of order set forth by the committee were adopted, with the stipulation that the adoption was to be considered final only after the acceptance of the canons by the convention.

The convention opened this morning with Bishop Stires acting as the celebrant of communion, assisted by Suffragan Bishop Larned, the Rev. St. Clair Hester, chancellor, and other members of the cathedral clergy. Bishop Stires preached the sermon, speaking of several incidents in the life of the Apostle Peter.

"When danger increases, a man is likely to begin following the Master afar off," said Bishop Stires with reference to Peter's denial of Christ. "Despite our vows, we have loved ourselves and our convictions more than Him. Let us forget ourselves in the service of others so that we may not need to be asked the question 'Lovest thou me?' even though our test may not have been as severe as Peter's."

Bishop Presides at Session.

The business session of the convention was opened with Bishop Stires presiding, and nominations were made, to be acted upon today, for vacancies in the standing committees. The treasurer of the diocese, Raymond F. Barnes, announced that the 1931 budget would amount to $34,580, a decrease of $13,135 over the year just completed. Bishop Stires pronounced him out of order when he made mention of the Bishop's salary, which has not been paid by the diocese for some time and which is said to be paid by the Bishop himself.

In the Bishop's address, in addition to referring to the supremacy of the Diocese of Long Island, he read the necrology of some prominent members of the Church in the nation and in the diocese. He also commended the clergy immediately associated with him and the remaining clergy of the Church on Long Island, who, he said, were responsible for the year's progress.

"Five years ago you called me to Long Island," said Bishop Stires. "I have a deep sense of humility in my realization that very little of that which you hoped for has been accomplished. Certainly a very small part of what I have hoped and planned has been achieved. And yet I am told that something real and substantial has been gained. I hope so. You may be sure that with all my heart and soul I rededicate myself to my unfinished task, and I count with confidence upon God's help and yours."

The Bishop congratulated the convention on the fact that progress has been made in work for the establishing of an Episcopal Fund which he advised last year in order that the support of the Bishops might not be a burden upon the parishes and missions of the diocese.

That the revised constitution and canons might be understood clearly and loyally accepted, the Bishop said that it would be better to postpone final action on them, in part or in whole, until all were satisfied as to their necessity and wisdom. In voting upon questions brought up today the delegates from the clergy will be entitled to a full vote as compared with one vote for every three lay delegates.

GETS ROCHESTER POST.

D. A. Dailey, Democratic Leader, Will Be Public Safety Head.

Special to The New York Times.

ROCHESTER, N. Y., May 20.—Donald A. Dailey, vice chairman of the Monroe County Democratic Committee and favored candidate for the position of State Conservation Commissioner on the retirement of Alexander MacDonald, was appointed Commissioner of Public Safety of this city today by City Manager Story. In his new position he will have executive direction of the police, fire, health and park bureaus.

Mr. Dailey is associated with Shields & Co., brokers. He was in charge of the Democratic State Convention here in 1928, and is chief lieutenant of Harlan W. Rippey, Democratic leader of Monroe County.

He is the first Democrat in forty years to receive a major appointment in the Rochester city government.

Mr. Dailey was delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1928 and is well known in Democratic circles throughout the State. The new appointment is effective June 1.

PROPOSE REMEDIES FOR UNEMPLOYMENT

'LABORATORIES' IN PROGRAM

State Group Plans Stations to Study Problem—Check on Industries Also Suggested.

Remedies for unemployment embracing action by city, States, industry and social welfare organizations were proposed yesterday at the New York City Conference of Social Work, which began its two days' sessions at the Emanu-El Community House, 1 East Sixty-fifth Street. The meeting was held jointly with the Welfare Council of New York City.

Mary La Dame, secretary of the State Advisory Committee on Employment Problems, who has completed an investigation of New York State public employment offices under the direction of a committee of citizens, reviewed for the first time the committee's findings. She recommended the establishment of one or more "employment laboratories" or demonstration stations to evolve a technique for the operation of an efficient State-operated employment service.

Urges Monthly Reports.

Ralph J. Hurlin of the Russell Sage Foundation offered a tripartite program. To develop complete employment statistics he suggested that every employer of at least ten persons (for some industries fewer) be required to report monthly the number of persons employed and the amount of his payroll. Then, he said, a permanent municipal commission should be created to plan, provide and administer emergency employment. Such a committee should be an independent part of the city or county government of equal importance with departments of sanitation and public welfare. To supplement the work of this commission Mr. Hurlin would create a system of public unemployment offices such as those described by Miss La Dame.

Paul U. Kellogg, editor of The Survey, who described what some municipalities and industries were doing to regularize employment, pointed out that the appointment by Governor Roosevelt of a State committee to handle the problem of the stabilization of employment was the first instance of action by a State Executive. He said he was hopeful that the State committee would crystallize interest in the problem, section by section and industry by industry, to pave the way for similar movements by other States just as the New York State example of workmen's compensation legislation was followed by other States.

Responsibility of Business Seen.

Henry Bruere, chairman of the Governor's commission, who introduced the speakers, explained that business men now are thinking more than ever of the social effect of unemployment and are coming to recognize that their responsibility to the problem is social rather than industrial.

Miss La Dame appealed for a scientific approach to the employment problem and said the members of her committee believed that the State Employment Service could be improved only by such an approach. Coordination of all forces interested in unemployment rather than centralization should be the emphasis in the work of the State employment offices for the next five years, said Miss La Dame. The committee recommends, she said, that the State employment service assume leadership in improving and coordinating the work of public and non-commercial employment agencies including those maintained by employers and labor unions and to cooperate with acceptable commercial employment agencies. Further, that the State employment service serve in each centre where there is a local office as the authoritative source of information on employment and industrial conditions as well as public work projects, so as to assist in stabilizing employment.

Effective Method Sought.

Mr. Hurlin was not optimistic that the present "unemployment mindedness" would have a permanent effect toward solving the problems involved in the present depression. Our "casual" attitude toward a social problem such as unemployment, said Mr. Hurlin, could not yield results. He declared that what social agencies required was an effective method of handling unemployment. He referred to the long-range planning of public works as one of the measures frequently proposed for helping the unemployment situation, but said that this remedy had to be "proved."

The trouble with public works, he said, was that they often get under way only after the emergency is over, "just about in time to contribute to the inflation phase of the business cycle."

Mr. Kellogg pointed out that high wages were not enough, for they meant little to the man who received them but half a year and found himself unemployed for the rest of the time. Wages, he said, must be high, long enough to assure men steady employment and broad enough to cover whole industries and not just a few firms.

HEALTH CENTRE IN HARLEM.

City Department Acquires Building for First Sectional Headquarters.

The Department of Health acquired the building at 108 West 136th Street yesterday for use as the Harlem Neighborhood Health Centre. It is the first of a series of such centres which eventually will be established in all sections of the city, according to an announcement by the department. Present plans call for four such centres to be opened each year.

The announcement explains that the activities of the department and the services of private organizations engaged in public health work will be centralized in these centres. The Harlem Tuberculosis and Health Association and the Henry Street Visiting Nurse Service will be active in the work of the new Harlem centre.

The department will maintain a prenatal clinic, a baby health station, a pre-school-age clinic, a dental clinic, a branch of the Bureau of Preventable Diseases and the district supervising nurse. Special diagnostic services for the aid of private physicians also will be maintained.

GORDON-CUMMING DEAD IN SCOTLAND

He Was Popular in London Until Prince of Wales Testified Against Him in Slander Suit.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—Sir William Gordon Gordon-Cumming, 82 years old, central figure in the "baccarat scandal" of 1890, died in Scotland today. Once among the most popular men in British society, Sir William gained world-wide notoriety when he sued for slander on being accused of cheating at baccarat. Among the guests at the house party where the incident occurred was King Edward VII, then Prince of Wales, who himself was called to give evidence.

The jury upheld the accusation against Sir William and his position in London society was ruined.

The day after the verdict was given he married Miss Florence Josephine Garner of New York, who died in 1922. Her father was the late Commodore William T. Garner of the New York Yacht Club.

Sir William was a former Lieutenant Colonel of the Scots Fusilier Guards. He was educated at Eton. He served in South Africa in 1879, in Egypt in 1882 and with the Nile expedition of 1884, winning decorations in every instance. He owned 38,500 acres. His heir is his son, Captain Alexander Penrose Gordon-Cumming of the Cameron Highlanders, who is 37 years old.

Lady Gordon-Cumming narrowly escaped drowning in 1892 in a yacht accident in New York harbor, in which her father and mother perished. She left half her property to her husband in trust for his lifetime, the remainder to their children, who will now receive their father's portion outright.

Testifying in the famous baccarat scandal case, the Prince of Wales said that he had been a friend of Sir William for years, that he had himself seen nothing to make him suspicious, but that the charges were so strongly supported he had been forced to believe them.

MARINES IN 'LINE-UP' SCANNED IN MURDER

SECOND MARINE SOUGHT

One, in Jail at Toms River, to Get Hearing Today—"Perfect" Crime Shattered by Inquiry.

Special to The New York Times.

LAKEHURST, N. J., May 20.—The marine detachment at the Naval Air Station here paraded today in special formation before a woman, who scanned the marching men for a glimpse of the marines who are suspected of murdering her husband, Robert Evans, and his friend, Albert M. Duffy, of 3,601 Avenue J, Brooklyn, five days ago.

The woman, Mrs. Louella Evans, was in turn watched by County Detective John A. Grant and Undersheriff J. G. Holman, because she is held in $10,000 bail as a material witness. Lieutenant H. G. Bluhm cooperated with County Prosecutor James Mercer Davis in arranging the "line-up" of marines.

The civil authorities have already arrested Lester Underdown, a six-foot marine, charged with the murders, and today sent out broadcasts asking for the arrest of Jiles Leon Bagwell, also a marine stationed at the air station. Neither Bagwell nor a third man, whose connection with the crime is somewhat uncertain, was in the formation today. They may have been among the group officially listed as absent without leave.

The deaths of Evans, just discharged after twelve years' service in the navy, and Duffy, an apartment house superintendent with whom he was planning to enter business, was at first ascribed, because of Mrs. Evans's story, to a drunken quarrel. They were shot in Evans's house, a lonely dwelling in the woods on the Homestead Farms Road, Lakewood.

But the crime was too perfect, in the opinion of Prosecutor Davis, who first established that the men could not have inflicted the wounds on each other. Then he learned that the men were shot from outside the house, and as piece by piece the evidence was assembled the story of a drunken brawl fell into a heap of inconsistencies.

Mr. Davis learned that Mrs. Evans had been on friendly terms with Underdown, that she plied her husband and his friend with liquor the night of the murder, that she had not spent the night at the home of a brother-in-law as she said.

"There is abundant evidence," he said today, "that the murder was planned on the twelfth. There is evidence that the shooting took place from outside the house; the manner of killing excluded the idea of combat between the two men."

Mr. Davis said that there was evidence also that Mrs. Evans knew of the plans to kill her husband. So far she has insisted that she had no part in the murder, but she has changed other parts of her story. Her status as a material witness will be continued until all angles are cleared up.

"Certainly there was jealousy at the bottom of the killing," Mr. Davis said. "There is not the slightest doubt that Underdown was attentive to Mrs. Evans since last September. We have plenty of evidence to show that he was a frequent caller at her house."

Underdown, now in the county jail at Toms River, probably will be arraigned tomorrow.

Underdown has consistently denied participation in the murder but is receiving what Mr. Davis terms "silent" treatment at the jail. He is isolated and is not questioned.

During the afternoon detectives searched the area back of the air station for the weapon used in the killing. They found an "oiler" used for cleaning rifles near a small stream, but no trace of a weapon. It is planned to drag the brook tomorrow with a "magnetic detector" in the hope of picking up the weapon or pieces of it, if the theory that it was broken up and tossed into the stream is correct. Ownership of an automatic pistol found in the Evans home is also being traced with the cooperation of naval officials.

BAKER GUILTY PLEA ACCEPTED BY COURT

Poisoner of Watchman Faces 20 Years to Life in Prison for Second Degree Murder.

When four talesmen of a special panel had been questioned and rejected yesterday in General Sessions in an effort to complete the jury for the trial of James (Texas Jim) Baker, 23 years old, on a first-degree murder indictment in the poisoning of Henry Gaw, night watchman in the Guggenheim Laboratories, in December, 1928, Judge Nott accepted Baker's offer to plead guilty to second-degree murder.

Baker was remanded to the Tombs without bail, pending sentence next Friday. The sentence must be from twenty years to life in prison. The slayer's decision came after a conference with his lawyer, James D. C. Murray, in a room adjoining the court.

Eight jurors had been selected the day before at the opening of the trial. When Assistant District Attorney James E. McDonald was questioning the talesmen yesterday he let it be known that, because of the previous declaration of two State alienists that Baker was insane, he had decided to recommend to the court that a guilty plea to second degree murder be accepted.

Dr. Otto H. Schultze, medical examiner for District Attorney Crain, and Dr. Perry M. Lichtenstein, psychiatrist and Tombs physician, had declared Baker insane. Alienists at Bellevue Hospital were understood to have held that while the slayer was sane, he was not normal. Baker had confessed to the police of this city and Detroit the perpetration of at least ten murders in hold-ups in different parts of the country.

"I have no doubt but that the jury would convict this defendant of first-degree murder," Mr. McDonald told the court, "but on the basis of the statements by Drs. Schultze and Lichtenstein, his death sentence no doubt would be commuted by the Governor."

DETROIT MAYOR OUSTS CIVILIAN POLICE HEAD

Appoints Department of Justice Chief Who Promises City 'Law and Order' Term.

Special to The New York Times.

DETROIT, May 20.—Harold H. Emmons, a Detroit business man who four months ago today was appointed police commissioner and told to clear the city of thugs and gamblers, was ousted today by Mayor Bowles, who appointed him.

Thomas C. Wilcox will succeed him. Wilcox resigned today as chief of the Department of Justice agents here and announced that he will give the city a "law and order" police administration such as it never has known.

Mr. Emmons was a storm centre as commissioner. He had never held public office and his appointment surprised the city.

Mr. Wilcox, on the other hand, has had years of experience in capturing and handling criminals. He has been used by four Presidents, Wilson, Harding, Coolidge and Hoover, as confidential investigator operating directly from the White House. He entered the Federal service here during the World War and rounded up more than 3,000 men who had escaped the draft.

Commissioner Emmons on Saturday ordered raids on gambling houses and handbook hideouts and more than 200 men were brought in and fined.

Mayor Bowles said today that gambling and vice are not only flourishing here, but have become organized.

The Mayor in a letter to Mr. Wilcox refers to the discharge of Commissioner Emmons as a "drastic action" made necessary by "the circumstances."

JUDGE VAUSE FACES A NEW INDICTMENT

Charged With Larceny by the County Grand Jury in $400,000 Failure of Finance Corporation.

FEDERAL TRIAL ON JUNE 2

MORE FREE TRIPS HINTED

Mrs. McCooey, Wife of Brooklyn Leader, Went to Europe With the Vauses in 1924.

With June 2 definitely fixed for the opening of his trial on a Federal indictment charging that he used the mails to defraud, County Judge W. Bernard Vause of Kings was indicted yesterday by the county grand jury on two counts of grand larceny in the $400,000 failure of the Columbia Finance Corporation.

District Attorney Crain meanwhile reported some progress in his efforts "to ferret out" the story behind the $250,000 fee Judge Vause received from the United American Lines for helping them obtain leases to two city-owned piers in the North River. Judge Vause was first brought into the negotiations in 1922 by H. R. Hanlin, who had been informed by a friend, whose wife was a niece of Judge Vause, that the latter would be a good man to take up the negotiations.

United States Attorney Tuttle concentrated his efforts yesterday on discovering how many trips Judge Vause made to Europe at the expense of the steamship company and who accompanied him as guests. The voyage of the Summer of 1926, when Supreme Court Justice William T. Collins, then County Clerk, enjoyed the hospitality of the judge and the United American Lines with his wife without knowing that he was traveling on allegedly complimentary tickets, was not the only "free outing," Mr. Tuttle said. He had found another two years earlier, he implied.

Allows Study of Lists.

Late in the afternoon the United States Attorney allowed newspaper men to inspect the sailing list, or manifest of the United American liner Reliance, when she departed for Cherbourg April 29, 1924. Apparently heeding the warning by Justice Collins that the slightest hint of any connection between him and the pier-leasing matter would bring a suit for slander, Mr. Tuttle merely pointed out entries on the manifest and said nothing.

The manifest, which Mr. Tuttle has impounded, listed the names of William B. Vause and Mrs. Evelyn A. Vause. In the same party, occupying an adjoining stateroom, according to the manifest, was Mrs. Catherine McCooey, wife of John H. McCooey, Brooklyn Democratic leader. The name of "Mrs. Delaney," had been written in in pencil and later almost completely erased. Mrs. John H. Delaney, wife of the chairman of the Board of Transportation, who in 1924 was Commissioner of Docks, denied last night at her home, 317 Washington Avenue, Brooklyn, that she had been a member of the party.

John H. McCooey explained at his home last night that as Mrs. McCooey was at the theatre he would speak for her. He recalled that his wife had sailed on the Reliance in 1924 with Judge and Mrs. Vause. Whether she went as their guest, and whether her ticket was complimentary, he said, he did not know as "the judge arranged the whole party." It was "possible" he said that the tickets were complimentary, but he added:

"What difference does that make?"

Mr. McCooey was sure there was no Mrs. Delaney in the party and said he never had heard of any fourth member of the group.

Newspaper files disclosed that Mrs. McCooey, Judge Vause and Mrs. Vause returned June 21, 1924, aboard the Reliance and were met at Quarantine by a city tug. Emil Lederer, former president of the company, was listed as a passenger when Judge Vause and his party sailed.

Opposite the four names, which were bracketed, the manifest contained the notation: "Comp. 4, Ed. Tobey." Alongside of this was written in pencil, "McCooey positive, 3-1" and "additional rooms wanted." George J. Mintzer, an Assistant United States Attorney, explained that the "complimentary" trip probably was authorized by Mr. Tobey, then a vice president of the company. Steamship men said the other notations indicated that Mrs. McCooey was certain to go, and that rooms would be required.

Steamship officials also pointed out that the usual manner of indicating a complimentary voyage was to write in the words "as agreed," to avoid difficulties with conference rules prohibiting free passages. The notation "comp. 4" they said, might mean compartments for four instead of "complimentary."

Prosecutors to Confer.

At the request of Mr. Tuttle, officers of the United American Lines and the Hamburg-American Line, which took over the former's ships and leases in 1926 after the leases to Piers 84 and 86 were executed, are looking up manifests for the years 1925 and 1927. Mr. Tuttle said he expected to receive them this morning. He is to lunch with District Attorney Crain today at the Arkwright Club, 320 Broadway, to discuss the progress of their investigations thus far.

The financial activities of Judge Vause, who seems to have had a hand in at least fifteen different corporations, were under fire from three different quarters in the morning. United States Attorney Tuttle asked Federal Judge Francis G. Caffey to set an early date for trial of the mail fraud charge over the united protest of lawyers for Judge Vause, his brother, Louis Vause, and their eight codefendants. In setting down the case on the calendar for June 2, Judge Caffey granted an additional forty-eight hours in which to file motions or change their pleas.

In the course of the argument before Judge Caffey Moses Polakoff, an attorney for Judge Vause, declared he needed more time for preparation of a defense and expressed doubt on the possibility of getting a fair trial in "the present inflamed state of the public mind." He took occasion to protest against trial of the case in the newspapers," whereupon Mr. Tuttle asserted he wanted to put a stop to "any campaign of dilatory tactics." He also defended his course of action on the ground that the public interest justified publicity in the case and criticized Judge Vause again for his continued silence in the face of charges.

This phase of the case scarcely had been disposed of when the county grand jury, which has heard upward of twenty witnesses in a reopened investigation into the Columbia Finance Corporation failure, handed up two indictments, each charging grand larceny against Judge Vause, his brother, Louis, and eight others. Bench warrants were issued immediately by Judge George L. Donnellan in General Sessions for the judge and his brother, and for Samuel Schuchman, Solomon, Harry and Samuel Cruso, Abraham and William Rayman, Max and Joseph Barmak.

With the exception of Judge Vause, his brother and William Rayman, the others had been indicted in the same case last February when a grand jury exonerated Judge Vause. The new indictment was in the nature of a superseding indictment in five cases. It was understood that the new indictment naming Judge Vause was based largely upon the changed testimony of Samuel and Solomon Cruso and Abraham Rayman.

Issues Show Cause Writ.

Simultaneously with this action Supreme Court Justice Mitchell May in Brooklyn, at the request of Assistant Attorney General Watson Washburn of the Bureau of Frauds, issued an order calling upon the Clinton Capital Corporation and Judge Vause, as chairman of its board of directors to show cause why an injunction should not be issued to restrain them from further sale of stock. The order is returnable before Justice May on June 2, the day on which the mail fraud charge is scheduled to open.

In issuing the order, Justice May who last week refused to issue a temporary injunction against the company in an ex parte proceeding, again withheld a temporary injunction pending argument on the order. Julius Applebaum, counsel to the corporation promised that no further stock sales would be made until argument on the motion was over and the court's decision rendered.

In his investigation into the pier leases, District Attorney Crain said he had examined several officials of steamship lines during the day. From them he had obtained the clue to how Judge Vause first interested himself on behalf of the company, he said.

Tells of Retaining Vause.

William Holt Averell, an officer of the Seaboard Shipping Corporation, 17 Battery Place, had told him, he said, that he understood that his partner Leland Holly, had first recommended Judge Vause to H. R. Hanlin, executive assistant of the United American Lines in 1922, a year before Judge Vause was appointed to the Kings County bench by Governor Smith. As a result of the recommendation, Averell said he believed, Mr. Hanlin called at the office of Judge Vause and asked him to try to negotiate the leases for which five other steamship companies were competing.

Declaring that he intended to question Mr. Holly, who is understood to have accompanied Mr. Hanlin on his first visit to Judge Vause's office, Mr. Crain said Mr. Hanlin's memory on many details of his conversation with Judge Vause was extremely vague. He could not remember just how he happened to be delegated to find a lawyer for the company nor whether Judge Vause had mentioned the amount of the fee he would expect for his services. Mr. Crain said he understood that Mr. Holly's first wife was a niece of Judge Vause.

A statement was issued late in the day by Christian J. Beck, vice president of the United American Lines and executive director of the Hamburg-American Line, denying intimations that his company had charged excessive wharfage fees for the use of Pier 86 by the United States liner Leviathan. From April, 1929, to April, 1930, he said the Leviathan had paid the United American Line $93,475.82 for the use of the pier, the annual rental of which is $300,000.

The United American Lines, he said, pay the insurance premiums, keep the pier in repair, furnish equipment and light "and dredge the slip to the depth required by the Leviathan, all of which adds $50,000 to the annual rental."

As for cancelling the leases on the ground that the United American Line is no longer an owner of ships, as has been suggested, Mr. Beck asserted that the company always has been "an operating and agency company" acting for the Hamburg-American Line.

Pastes Back Punch in Ticket; Commuter Rides Long on Trick

CHICAGO, May 20 (AP).—George Crowner, 42, a Chicago commuter from Villa Park, seemed to have an everlasting twenty-five-ride ticket. But finally the fact that Crowner's little pasteboard never seemed to grow smaller despite the daily nibbling of a punch puzzled the conductor who punched it every night.

Discovery that the commuter had been pasting the punched-out portion back into the ticket caused charges of operating a confidence game to be placed against him. He was placed on probation.

DOLORES FORD WEDS AGAIN.

Hudson Falls Records Show She Married There on May 8.

Special to The New York Times.

HUDSON FALLS, N. Y., May 20.—Dolores Elizabeth Ford, 24-year-old daughter of a Toledo (Ohio) glass manufacturer, and Louis Matthews, 22, a plumber's assistant of Richmond, Va., were married here on May 8, it was learned today.

The ceremony was performed by the Rev. John E. Thompson, Methodist Church pastor, at the church parsonage. The marriage license had been issued a few minutes before the ceremony by Mrs. Mary L. Richards, clerk of the town of Kingsbury. Mrs. Richards said today that the bride, in making out the application for the license, swore that it was her first marriage. She gave her address as the Regal Apartment, New York City.

Matthews and Miss Ford drove fifty miles in a taxi from Rutland, Vt., to procure the marriage license. They were attended by Mrs. Lorena S. MacDowell, who said that she was an aunt of the bride, and Miss Mary C. MacDowell, who said she was a cousin. Both were from Rutland, Vt.

BUFFALO, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—Annulment of the marriage of Dolores Elizabeth Ford to Eugene Newton, a mulatto, was granted after a secret session in the chambers of Supreme Court Justice Almon W. Lytle here, it was learned today. The hearing was held on Jan. 30, and the annulment order, issued a few days later, was effective May 7. The order permitted Miss Ford to resume her maiden name.

SUMNER CAUTIONS ON OBSCENE BOOKS

Vice Crusader Tells Dealers It Is Too Easy for Depravity to Find Outlet in Print.

MRS. DENNETT IN DEBATE

Says Education of Emotions, Not Censorship, Will Solve Problem—Ernst Decries Pre-Inspections.

America's booksellers were advised "to be very circumspect as to the nature of books accepted for sale," by John S. Sumner, secretary of the New York Society for the Suppression of Vice, in an address yesterday afternoon in the "censorship forum" at the thirtieth annual convention of the American Booksellers' Association in Hotel Pennsylvania.

The censorship forum brought together on the same platform with Mr. Sumner Morris L. Ernst, attorney, who has handled much censorship legislation and frequently attacked the vice society, and Mrs. Mary Ware Dennett, author of "The Sex Side of Life," who was convicted in a Federal court in Brooklyn on a charge of having sent obscene matter through the mails, but was later acquitted by the Circuit Court of Appeals. Mr. Sumner was also opposed by a third speaker, H. V. Kaltenborn, formerly associate editor of The Brooklyn Daily Eagle. Harry Hansen presided.

The several hundred booksellers present and the others who were listening in on the broadcast were warned by Mr. Sumner that "as long as the law condemns obscene books" the vice society, "as an agency to assist in enforcing the law, will not hesitate to take action where we believe and the advisory official believes that the law is being violated."

Condemns "Mongrel" Bookseller.

After denouncing the bookseller "who rents a room in a loft or office building, lays in a stock of obscene or border-line books and seeks customers through one-inch ads in the book sections of the newspapers, specializing in daring unexpurgated and allegedly suppressed books," Mr. Sumner suggested that "it might be a graceful and self-respecting thing if this convention would place itself on record as opposed to this mongrel type of bookselling and its degrading methods of newspaper and circular advertising." The convention adjourned for the day, however, without adopting any such resolution.

Mr. Sumner vigorously denounced some of the tendencies of present day publishers.

"A curse of the times is that there are too many publishers and near publishers," he said, "just as there are too many theatres. As a consequence, any tramp can find an outlet in print for his trampish writings. Any hobo temporarily sober can find a publisher to place on the market with great eclat an epic of hobodom provided that there is sufficient of the hobo atmosphere, to wit, lechery, blasphemy, profanity and filth.

"Any alleged soldier of the late war who skulked for a couple of months in the S. O. S. can find a publisher for his war-time experiences provided there is enough of yellow-back theorizing and sufficient defamation of war and the army set forth in gutter language. Any precocious youth with a propensity for high school scandals and the much advertised indiscretions of 'flaming youth' can readily find a publisher for a fantastic tale of uncorked juvenile desires. Ninety-five per cent of present day books average an active life of three months. What a waste of good paper and ink! What a flood of depravity! What a reflection on American intelligence!"

Laughter marked the discussion when Mrs. Dennett, standing a few feet from Mr. Sumner, remarked that "the various vice-hunting officials can read smut day in and day out, for a lifetime, and not be hurt by it. At least they claim that. They insist that it is others who are in danger—young people particularly."

Mrs. Dennett urged "education and re-education of human emotions" as a solution of the obscenity problem. "Obscenity is bad but censorship is bad, too—bad in the sense that, however well meant it may be, it is inefficient, and inefficiency is a modern sin," she said.

"The conviction that education is a more sound and sure reliance than suppressive laws and censorship officials is based upon the fact that obscenity is in people's minds and feelings, not in words or actions," she declared. "This fact is a more or less modern discovery and it is now recognized by practically all up-to-date psychologists. And it is rapidly percolating into the consciousness of us ordinary mortals who are not trained scientists.

"The way we feel about things is not a matter that laws or censors can affect. But it is a matter which education can affect. Our feelings can be both created and altered. Nasty notions have been bred in us for generations. They often get rooted in our feelings when we are only toddling children. Youngsters that are reared on the 'hush' plan have these feelings deeply implanted. But they can be outgrown and bred out of us, replaced by vitally happy and serene feelings. It not only can be done but it is being done, and more and more all the time."

Scores "Pre-Censorship."

Mr. Ernst said censorship was a matter of growing importance because vice societies in various parts of the country were advocating "pre-censorship" of magazines; that is, the inspection by censors before publication. The next step, said Mr. Ernst, would be the subjection of books and newspapers to "pre-censorship."

Mr. Kaltenborn urged the establishment of "common-sense distinctions and limitations."

"What a monstrous thing it is," he said, "that our courts of law should establish the dictum declared by Judge Hayes of Boston on April 1, 1929, in the case of Dreiser's 'American Tragedy,' that the theme of the book is immaterial, the object of the author is immaterial, any lesson intended by the book is immaterial—no matter what the tone of the book as a whole may be, it is immaterial.

"It is decisions like these that produce reactions to the opposite extreme. We must learn to distinguish between those who write books as literature and those who write them as smut, between those who buy books for esthetic enjoyment and those who buy them to revel in filth, between those who sell them because they would profit from man's lust and those who deal in books because they delight in a business which gives them little profit but daily and hourly contact with the worth-while things of the mind and spirit."

Fish Fossil With 'Hinged' Neck Is Seen as Clue In Our Evolution; Age Put at 200,000,000 Years

The discovery of the fossil of a giant fish, whose age was put at only about 200,000,000 years and which once existed in the region which has since become the city of Buffalo, was described yesterday by Dr. Anatol Heintz, noted palaeontologist of the Museum of Oslo, in Oslo, Norway, before a meeting of the American Society of Ichthyologists and Herpetologists. Dr. Heintz told the scientific gathering at the American Museum of Natural History that the discovery showed that in the dim past a vast sea covered part of the United States and perhaps the entire North American continent.

The Dinichthy or "terrible fish" is what the fossil is called, the name being derived from the fact that the fish is of unusual size and according to all scientific interpretations was ferocious. Further study of Dinichthy may provide a solution to the problem of an important "missing link" in man's evolution, according to Dr. Heintz, Dr. W. K. Gregory of the American Museum of Natural History, Dr. G. K. Noble and other scientists at the meeting.

"Dinichthys are giant fish, about twenty-five feet long and some of them as big as whale sharks," Dr. Heintz said. "They are almost serpent-like in appearance and characteristics, and are radically different from all other kinds of known fish. Research of the fossil by means of radium emanation has yielded the discovery that this find is at least two hundred million, and probably three hundred million, years old."

That Dinichthys may help to unravel some of the intricate processes in the long evolution of man is indicated by the fact that, unlike any other known type of fish, these creatures, in common with man, possessed a mechanism in the neck which may be described as "hinges," Dr. Heintz asserted. Creatures of the sea habitually use the jaw for taking in food and are unable to throw the skull and head back. The Dinichthys, on the other hand, were exceptional in that they could throw the skull and entire head back on the neck and shoulders.

"The Dinichthys of the Devonian age probably represented a transition of life on this planet from the reptilian to the mammalian stage," Dr. Heintz said.

Dr. Leanore Andrews told the society of a plan to establish a laboratory on an island for the artificial breeding of snakes to supply the American demand for certain types of reptilian skins. Dr. W. K. Gregory described fish as a "superlative engineering product." The skull and the body of the modern fish are so constructed that the best engineering minds of today could not supply the denizens of the ocean with a body mechanism more effectively adapted to withstand water pressure in front and thrusts of the muscles from behind the body, he said. Dr. G. Kingsley Noble, curator of the department of experimental biology of the American Museum of Natural History, told of a study of lizards, and Dr. E. W. Gudger of the American Museum of Natural History told of the completion of the work of the late Dr. Bashford Dean of Columbia University in tracing the life history of sharks.

W. H. BUCKLEY KILLED IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Financier and Insurance Expert Was Run Down on Way to Church.

BEGAN LIFE AS NEWSBOY

Arose to High Posts in State and Business Affairs—Funeral at Tarrytown Thursday.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., May 20.—William H. Buckley, insurance expert and lawyer, was fatally injured this morning when he was struck by an automobile in front of his estate while on the way to mass in the Carmelite Church.

Mr. Buckley, who was the star witness in the Legislature's insurance investigation twenty years ago, died soon after being taken to the Tarrytown Hospital. His skull had been fractured. He was 59 years old.

Miss Elizabeth Pomeroy Rouse of 11 Ferris Place, Ossining, a trained nurse, driver of the automobile, which had been lent to her by J. Daryl Knapp of High Street, Croton-on-Hudson, was held by Dr. Amos O. Squire, the County Medical Examiner, on a technical charge of homicide, pending an inquest.

The accident occurred at 7:25 A. M. Mr. Buckley left his residence at 287 South Broadway shortly after 7 A. M. to attend mass, in accordance with his morning custom. He walked about 100 feet north of the entrance to his estate, which is on the west side of Broadway, and started to cross the thoroughfare.

When he reached the middle of the roadway, the police said, he became confused by an approaching bus. Witnesses said he halted for a moment. Just then the automobile approached, driven by Miss Rouse, heading for Dobbs Ferry. Miss Rouse sounded her horn. Witnesses said Mr. Buckley seemed to be still more confused and he stepped back, directly into the path of the automobile. Miss Rouse's efforts to halt the machine before it struck him were in vain. Mr. Buckley was thrown to the pavement, his head striking the ground.

Two workmen, who had passed by a moment before in a small car, looked back as they heard Miss Rouse blowing her horn and saw the accident. These men, Giovanni Carmignani and Antonio Tagliaferro, both of 87 Cortlandt Street, Tarrytown, stopped their machine and ran back to aid the injured man. They lifted him into Miss Rouse's car, in which he was taken to the Tarrytown Hospital.

He stood high in the Catholic Church. He was a strong supporter of Governor Smith's candidacy for President.

Born on May 25, 1861, at Saratoga Springs, N. Y., of poor parents, he went to Albany at the age of nine years and began selling newspapers on the streets and on trains. Having made friends with legislators there, he was appointed a Senate page three years later, and finally became deputy clerk of that body. During his spare time he studied at public schools and subsequently at the Albany Law School.

Mr. Buckley became acquainted with Senator George W. Plunkitt, advocate of "honest graft," and through him was appointed to the State Insurance Department in 1891. Later he served as secretary to Louis F. Payn and John A. McCall, when those men were superintendents of the department.

A high requiem mass will be sung in the Carmelite Church here on Thursday morning at 10 o'clock by the Rev. Dominick Hastings, the pastor. Burial will be in the family plot in the Sleepy Hollow Cemetery.

Agriculture Bill Sent to Hoover.

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP).—The conference report on the $155,397,770 agriculture appropriation bill, adjusting differences over Senate amendments to the measure, was approved unanimously today by the House, a short time after similar action had been taken by the Senate. The bill now goes to the President.

REACCUSE CANNON ON STOCK DEALING

SAY BISHOP URGED SECRECY

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, May 20.—While Bishop James Cannon Jr. was not censured in the report of the Episcopacy Committee to the General Conference of the Methodist Episcopal Church South presented today, and the committee refused to "report the Bishop for trial" by the conference on charges of stock market gambling, new charges against him were presented by the twenty-three laymen who have pressed for his trial, in the following affidavit:

"Josephus Daniels, James P. Woods and G. T. Fitzhugh, being duly sworn, state that information has come into their possession this morning of such vital importance and so reliable that they submit it to your committee to the end that it may be in possession of the facts before taking final action on charges preferred by the undersigned and twenty other members of the General Conference against Bishop James Cannon Jr.

"Correspondence, cables and telegrams passing between Bishop James Cannon Jr. and one Ebel and also the Kable Company, in the possession of the United States Attorney in New York, have recently been unsealed under permission and authority given by the United States Department of Justice, and revealed elaborate correspondence on stationery of the Methodist Board of Temperance and Social Service and the Anti-Saloon League and other organizations with which Bishop Cannon is connected, and shows that Bishop Cannon, contrary to the impression sought to be created, was in constant touch with Kable & Co.'s bucket shop by letter, wire and cable, demanding market quotations and giving directions and receiving information as to various stocks.

"He is revealed also as a patron of one Ebel, another notorious bucket shop in New York under indictment, in cable communications with Ebel while in Brazil on episcopal business, also with Goldhurst, proprietor of Kable & Co.

"The correspondence manifests great anxiety about the outcome of criminal proceedings against Ebel and the concern of certain bankers apparently loaning him money with which to speculate.

"One letter from Bishop Cannon to Goldhurst warns him not to address him at Washington but at Richmond, as wires to the former address were embarrassing, while they would be understood by Miss Burroughs at Richmond. He also warned Goldhurst by cable not to wire him at Methodist missions in South America, but in care of the cable company.

"The correspondence is conclusive that transactions were purely nominal and optional, to be settled on the basis of market quotations, and that the so-called partial payment plan is a complete myth.

"Affiants state on information and belief that the foregoing are absolute facts and they will obtain and present within two or three days verified copies of such correspondence in addition to indisputable proof in the way of verified photostats of ledger sheets, copies of court proceedings, affidavits and oral evidence to sustain every charge or accusation made by them and heretofore filed with your committee."

The report of the episcopacy committee disclosed that the committee had first voted to report the Bishop for trial, but that this action was rescinded after the committee had received from Bishop Cannon a letter confessing error in his stock market transactions and virtually throwing himself on the mercy of the committee.

At a public hearing in a large city, the counsel for a corporation referred to its bankers as

VICE REPORT SCORES DANCE HALL EVILS

FINDS THE TYPE GAINING

Would Bar Hostesses in Places Serving Drinks—Whalen Clean-Up in Harlem Praised.

The Committee of Fourteen, composed of prominent citizens who first organized twenty-five years ago to fight commercialized vice, uses its annual report, made public last night, as a medium for a bitter arraignment of the evils of public dance halls.

Through its general secretary and counsel, George E. Worthington, the committee finds that the halls "in an overwhelming majority" are breeders of vice and offer "acute moral hazards."

The committee also attacks the speakeasy clubs and saloons, while giving a clean slate to the "speakeasy restaurants." The report practically recognizes the nullification or lack of enforcement of the Eighteenth Amendment when it proposed laws to limit the employment of women in speakeasies and otherwise regulate the officially illicit establishments.

Both Dr. James Pedersen, chairman of the committee, and Dr. Worthington pay warm tribute in the report to Grover Whalen, the retiring Police Commissioner, and to his newly organized Crime Prevention Bureau, with which the committee proposes to cooperate in a greatly increased scope of endeavor.

Although the committee has heretofore criticized public dance halls, its condemnation is much more drastic in the present report. Its investigators found an increase in the number of dance places and the employment of hostesses. Half a dozen halls were found employing white hostesses, but catering almost exclusively to Orientals.

"In the halls employing large numbers of hostesses," the report said, "moral hazards are the most acute. While women guests theoretically are not barred, the reception which they receive is tantamount to practical exclusion. Many such halls refuse admission to couples and only unaccompanied males are welcome. These halls are thronged with men of all ages, but especially with younger men.

"The men customers are actively solicited to dance, in many instances being forcibly drawn out on the floor by the girls. The girls receive as compensation approximately 40 per cent of the price of each dance, which is usually 10 cents for a dance lasting not longer than two minutes."

Cites Speakeasy Conditions.

Turning to the problem of youth in the speakeasies, the report says:

"In many of the speakeasy saloons of today are large rear rooms honeycombed with private stalls, each a distinct unit and each designed to screen from public view the couples who occupy them. Building stalls in speakeasies is not in itself unlawful. These stalls are very popular with young people, and speakeasies have been observed in the West Forties where, on Saturday nights, there is a line of young couples waiting their turn for a vacant stall. The privacy thus afforded, together with the sale of intoxicants, invites and fosters disorderly conditions."

In speaking of regulation of speakeasy clubs where women are employed as hostesses or liquor servers the report also asserts that such a condition was banned and actually was rare before prohibition in the war period. The report proposes that the State Labor law be extended to prohibit the employment of women at night in any place where beverages are dispensed. Another proposal is to make it an offense to solicit another to purchase intoxicating beverages or to employ any one for that purpose. Of speakeasy restaurants where guests sit at tables in a main room in view of all, the report says: "No particularly disorderly conditions were found."

Harlem Clean-Up Praised.

The report finds that Mr. Whalen has vastly improved conditions in Harlem. Of 360 speakeasies in the city definitely identified with vice last year in a prior report of the committee, the new report finds that 213 have been closed, 121 of them due to police activities.

Dr. Pedersen in his section of the report thanks Mr. Whalen for his "very real assistance" and the "intelligent and aggressive manner" in which he has fought commercialized vice. He also notes the cooperation of newspapers in discontinuing advertisements for night club hostesses.

DR. MANNING CANCELS HIS VISIT TO ENGLAND

Bishop's Physicians Order Complete Rest This Summer and He Will Go to Mt. Desert Island.

Bishop William T. Manning disclosed yesterday that he had given up his proposed visit to England to attend the Lambeth Conference of Bishops of the Anglican communion and has canceled his engagements to preach in Westminster Abbey and in other English cathedrals. His physicians, he said, had ordered a complete rest this Summer. He will go to his home on Mount Desert Island, Me.

The Bishop had been booked to sail on the Berengaria on June 22 and was to have been accompanied by his two daughters, the Misses Frances V. and Elizabeth V. Manning. The decennial meeting of the Lambeth Conference will open July 5 and continue a month. Most of the Bishops of the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States will attend.

Bishop Manning's physicians are Dr. F. Warner Bishop of 1,148 Fifth Avenue and Dr. Harlow Brooks of 47 West Ninth Street. When Dr. Bishop, who attended Dr. Manning daily during his three months' illness with pneumonia a year ago, was asked last evening regarding the Bishop he made this statement:

"Bishop Manning had a very serious illness a year ago. While he is in very satisfactory condition now, I felt it would not be best for him to take on that strain this Summer. The demands on Dr. Manning as Bishop of New York would be very heavy throughout the month. He has had a very hard Winter. So I thought it would be better for him to go up to his home in Maine for a quiet, restful Summer."

Mr. Rogers on the Exoneration By the Church of Bishop Cannon

To the Editor of The New York Times:

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., May 20.—See where the Church freed Bishop Cannon for plunging on Wall Street. They figured that a man's losses were punishment enough.

The Church has asked him and any others to stop it. You can't save souls and margins, too.

Yours, WILL ROGERS.

PAID $250, SHE SAYS, JUST TO MEET DOYLE

DOES NOT RECALL HIS NAME

Crain to Seek Bank Account Data in an Effort to Trace Checks Paid Out by Woman.

Mrs. Lottie Cutler of Passaic, N. J., who testified before a referee in bankruptcy that it had cost her almost $10,000 to obtain a gasoline station permit from the Board of Standards and Appeals, told United States Attorney Tuttle yesterday she had paid the first $250 of that amount to be introduced to Dr. William F. Doyle, who, for almost a decade, has represented applicants for permits from that board.

After a long interview with Mrs. Cutler and her attorney, Meyer W. Stein of Paterson, N. J., Mr. Tuttle said Mrs. Cutler had been unable to recall the name of the man who came to her and told her she "must meet Dr. Doyle" if she wanted her permit to go through. She had several conversations with this man, according to Mr. Tuttle, and, after she had paid him $250 in the form of a check made out to "cash," he took her to Dr. Doyle's offices at 11 John Street.

Tells of $1,500 Payment.

Mrs. Cutler also disclosed to the United States Attorney that she had paid $1,500 to Harry Rubin, whose address she did not know, when he told her that unless she made this payment she would not get her permit. Mr. Tuttle said Mrs. Cutler quoted Rubin as having told her she must make no effort to ascertain with whom he was in contact "on the other end." Telling of his interview with Mrs. Cutler, Mr. Tuttle said:

"She reiterated her previous statement that she had paid $5,000 to Doyle. Then she stated that while she was negotiating for a permit a man came to her and said he knew her application was pending and that it couldn't be put through unless she retained a certain party to whom he was prepared to introduce her. She had several meetings with this mysterious individual and then he took her to Doyle's office. Up to that time, Mrs. Cutler stated, she had never heard of Doyle, and the introduction did not take place until after she had handed over a $250 check, drawn to cash, which the intermediary said he must have.

"Mrs. Cutler gave me information through which I can press an inquiry as to who that man was. She said also that, through her father-in-law, who has since died, she had met Harry Rubin who, at several meetings at the Sutphin Boulevard property in Queens where she wanted her gasoline station, had told her money must be provided before the granting of the permit.

"Mrs. Cutler said she had no money at that time, but had told Rubin she would have some after the sale of the property and would pay him $1,500. Finally Rubin agreed to the post-sale payment and the permit was granted, the $1,500 then being paid in cash. Mrs. Cutler said Rubin used to come to the property in a Chevrolet automobile bearing a New York license, and had said she must not concern herself about whom he got in contact with. She said the permit did not come through until she had agreed to pay the $1,500."

According to Mr. Tuttle's version of Mrs. Cutler's statements there was no apparent connection between the man to whom she paid the $1,500 and Rubin, nor was the unknown man connected in any way with Dr. Doyle, so far as Mrs. Cutler knew.

All the figures which Mrs. Cutler has now given as expenditures in the permit deal total $9,510, of which Dr. Doyle was said to have received $5,000, the unknown intermediary $250 and Harry Rubin $1,500.

District Attorney Crain said yesterday he expected to ask Mrs. Cutler for a transcript of her account with the Merchants' Bank of Passaic to ascertain whether she could identify some of the checks she had paid out. Mrs. Cutler had told Mr. Crain previously that she had lost her bank book. She will again testify before the county grand jury on Monday.

Will Push Inquiry.

After two more of Dr. Doyle's "clients" had been examined before the Federal grand jury yesterday by Assistant United States Attorneys Lowell Wadmond and J. A. Wilson, Mr. Tuttle said:

"We have in our possession a number of checks drawn to 'cash' at Dr. Doyle's behest so that they might be cashed and the money paid over to him. This tends to corroborate the story told by Mrs. Cutler and also constitutes, in my opinion, the most sinister feature brought to light. The further examination of Dr. Doyle's so-called clients will be pressed vigorously. His fees have all been very large and it should be borne in mind that this has been developed at the outset of our questioning of his clients, when we have only scratched the surface."

Resolutions recently introduced before the Board of Aldermen by Joseph Clark Baldwin 3d, calling for an investigation by the Commissioner of Accounts into the Board of Standards and Appeals and its chairman, William E. Walsh, and calling on Mayor Walker to remove Mr. Walsh, were killed by a viva voce vote of the board yesterday. The Rules Committee, which recommended filing the resolutions, in its report pointed out that two grand jury investigations were under way, and that the Mayor had power to remove any one of his appointees without a hearing if he held such action to be necessary. Alderman Murray Stand said Alderman Baldwin had failed to produce concrete evidence of wrongdoing.

JAYWALKER GUILTY; TO APPEAL AT ONCE

POWER OF POLICE UPHELD

38 OFFENDERS ARRAIGNED

Most of 16 Pedestrians and 22 Motorists Plead Guilty and Most Receive Suspensions.

Ivan Loren, a real estate dealer living at the Hotel Breslin, received a suspended sentence from Chief Magistrate William McAdoo yesterday afternoon and so passed into history as the city's first convicted jaywalker. Whether that conviction will be permanent is another matter, for his attorney said that he would at once appeal. Thus the police get the test case they desired.

Altogether the police dragnet of Monday had netted thirty-eight persons. Sixteen were pedestrians and the rest were motorists. All of them appeared in traffic court, 300 Mulberry Street, and most of them pleaded guilty. The case of one, Louis Rinaldi, a motorist, was dismissed but the rest received suspended sentences. Magistrate McAdoo explained that it was a "bargain day"—but not one which would last.

The cases were called for 10 o'clock in the morning, but at that time the police authorities were busily trying to get the complaint worded correctly. Almost an hour later court was finally called. Former Magistrate Charles A. Oberwager appeared for Mr. Loren and Fourth Deputy Commissioner Nelson Ruttenberg represented the Police Department.

Finds Rules Legal.

Mr. Ruttenberg, in a lengthy, written statement explained that Commissioner Whalen was seeking to save the lives and limbs of pedestrians in spite of themselves. He sought to do it legally under two sections of the charter—315, which contains an implication of power for regulation on all things appertaining to traffic; and 272 which gives him permission to do such things as will help him in the regulation of all police work. The traffic problem is an item of police work.

After explaining the legal side of it, Commissioner Ruttenberg cited figures amassed by the department showing that while adult accidents were increasing because of jaywalking, accidents to children were lessening because of the educational campaign among the schools. His statistics showed also that in the restricted zones—such as the theatre, Columbus Circle and Central Park sections—the fatalities and injuries were decreasing.

In 1928, Mr. Ruttenberg asserted, 323 adults were killed and 9,271 injured when, as jaywalkers, they tried to cross the street. A year later 412 were killed and 11,091 injured. Forty-seven pedestrians who disregarded traffic lights were killed in 1928 and 88 in 1929. In the same periods 1,780 and 3,160 were hurt.

Policeman Describes Offense.

After Mr. Oberwager had contended that in his opinion Mr. Whalen was "trespassing" on the rights of individuals, and was "violating the common law" privileges of pedestrians, Patrolman Joseph E. Valder of Traffic C took the stand. Under examination and cross-examination he recounted the odyssey of Mr. Loren as he sought to go from "the southeast corner to the northwest corner of Seventh Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street." He dodged cars and trucks, clung to a stanchion while the worst of it swept by and then reached the other side only to receive a summons.

Mr. Loren did not take the stand; the case was closed after the patrolman had finished. Magistrate McAdoo at once found him guilty, set the fine at $5, and then when Mr. Oberwager protested, suspended sentence. He said he did so because of the short notice given the public regarding the new regulations, but he added that the "bargain day" would not last, and that it should not be used as a hint to other magistrates who might in the future handle jaywalking cases.

In a memorandum which he read from the bench, Magistrate McAdoo said:

"Traffic in the public streets, in my judgment, is under the chartered law giving the police commissioner the power of general regulation. The chartered power of the commissioner is to 'control, restrict and direct' the movements of traffic for its facilitation and the convenience of the public as well as the proper protection of human life and health. Can this be efficiently done by confining the regulation solely to vehicles and allowing no restricted and controlled movement of pedestrians on foot?

"The common and statutory law from the beginning has recognized the rights of pedestrians for the use of the streets and highways, but it is not under certain conditions an unregulated right."

11 BRONX NOTARIES FREED.

Cases of Two Others Adjourned in Bar Association Complaint.

Magistrate John V. Flood in West Farms Court found no evidence of illegal practices yesterday against eleven Bronx notaries public and dismissed summonses served upon them by the District Attorney. The cases of two others were adjourned until May 27. The notaries had been accused by the Bronx Bar Association of posing as attorneys.

Edward Dougherty, an investigator, appeared as complainant in the absence of Charles Olsen, who had previously taken the stand in that capacity.

The court dismissed summonses against Abraham Michaelson of 645 East Tremont Avenue, Peter Schneider and John Gobel of 590 Morris Park Avenue, Milford I. Stern of 2,715 White Plains Avenue, Mr. and Mrs. Louis Rosenbluth of 122 Westchester Square, Joseph Haberman of 4,238 White Plains Avenue, Cecile Bluestein of 120 Westchester Square, George Schaefer of 2,576 East Tremont Avenue, Charles J. Surber of 1,177 East Tremont Avenue and Philip Nomberg of 723 Burke Avenue.

The cases of John B. McAnerney of 51 Westchester Square and George N. Capa of 17 Westchester Square were adjourned. Mr. Dougherty admitted that none displayed signs to the effect that they drew legal papers or were attorneys.

Stoutness a National Problem

Stoutness has assumed the importance of a national problem. Statistics show that about 40 percent of American men and women are overweight at 35 years and over. This accounts no doubt for the ever-increasing demand for the BASY BREAD plan, the pure antidote for stoutness for more than a dozen years, the Basy way has been the safe way, the sane way to weight control.

Diet regimen prepared by Dr. Lyman F. Kebler, former Government Specialist in foods, drugs and medicines, with every loaf. The BASY BREAD course, with full instructions, covers a period of fifteen weeks. The cost is $15.00.

STUDIES PUT FIRST IN PRINCETON VOTE

PROF. McCLELLAN POPULAR

W. D. Barfield Is Chosen as Best All-Around Graduate and B. V. D. Hedges the Most Respected.

TWINS ARE SEIZED, ONE SHOT IN HOLD-UP

BROTHER CAPTURED LATER

Two Indictments Speedily Returned Against Both—Victim Recovers Loot From Wounded Prisoner.

Joseph Schwartz, 20 years old, of 2,143 Second Avenue, believed to be a postoffice clerk, was indicted for robbery and attempted assault yesterday afternoon within two hours after he was shot and wounded in a duel with a policeman. He was fleeing from a tailor shop at 333 Alexander Avenue, the Bronx, which he had held up with an accomplice.

Five detectives investigating the hold-up, which occurred three blocks from the Alexander Avenue police station, arrested Schwartz's twin brother, William. He was identified by Abraham Kalifowitz, proprietor, and the police wrote his name in the John Doe indictment which had been handed up by the grand jury with his brother's.

Kalifowitz was alone in his shop when two men entered and ordered him to the rear. Two pistols were leveled at him and he obeyed. One man rifled the register and then searched the tailor, taking a total of $55 in cash, a gold watch, chain and knife.

They busied themselves tying Kalifowitz to a chair and covering his head with a cloth. They did not notice Joseph Blacksher, sexton of the Alexander Avenue Baptist Church, who lives in the building, slip by a partly open side door.

Blacksher found Patrolman Carl J. Bahrman two blocks away and ran back with him. The policeman arrived just as the hold-up men left the store and ran to a waiting automobile. The man, later identified as Joseph Schwartz, opened fire first, firing four shots, none of which struck Patrolman Bahrman.

The policeman wounded his assailant in the left thigh with his second shot. Then he turned his fire toward the automobile and the other man jumped out and disappeared in 141st Street. By this time, Kalifowitz had been freed and came out looking for his money. Schwartz, lying on the sidewalk awaiting an ambulance, was searched and the tailor's property was found in his pocket.

District Attorney Charles B. McLaughlin, engaged with the grand jury, was apprised of the shooting and summoned Patrolman Bahrman, who presented the facts. The two indictments were brought up to Justice Hatting, who was presiding in the same building.

From police records, Joseph Schwartz was revealed in his true identity. He had refused all information and gave the name Joseph Drury. The record shows he is also known as Frank Russo, was arrested for grand larceny in 1928, but was dismissed. Detectives visited the Second Avenue address shown in the record and arrested William Schwartz. They found a pair of overalls similar to those worn in the hold-up.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

VIENNA, May 20.—The object of the visit to Vienna of the Princess Mother Helena of Rumania, and her sister, Princess Irene of Greece, is said in court circles to be to negotiate with President Zaimis of Greece for the return of some of the property of the dispossessed Greek royal family.

President Zaimis is in Vienna for treatment by an oculist.

It is said the Princesses will request the return of jewels, furniture and some other semi-private property of the royal family.

Living Room for Engineer Built in Locomotive Tender

A locomotive, the first to be equipped throughout with roller bearings and also with living quarters, has been placed in test on the New York Central Railroad. The engine was built at a cost of about $150,000 by the American Locomotive Company for the Timken Roller Bearing Company. After a period in freight service on the New York Central it will be sent to the Pennsylvania Railroad and from there to other lines.

The new locomotive is of heavy type. The use of roller bearings on the driving wheels will be watched by railroad men as these are subject to great strain.

Housed in the rear of the tender is a small room with windows, containing a bed, electric fan and lights and other comforts. It is used by the engineer in charge of the tests.

MRS. HAMMERSTEIN HEARD.

Widow, With New Counsel, Gets Delay Until Tomorrow.

Mrs. Emma Swift Hammerstein, widow of Oscar Hammerstein, was arraigned for the second time within a week in Jefferson Market Women's Court yesterday morning on a charge of immoral conduct. She had new counsel and the case was postponed until tomorrow.

The new attorney is Charles A. Schneider, former Assistant Attorney General, who is handling the case with the assistance of Robert McCormick, another attorney. With Mrs. Hammerstein in court were several friends who said they were present to "give every possible aid" to her.

Mrs. Hammerstein was arrested on May 12 and released the next day by Magistrate Silberman in $500 bail pending a hearing yesterday. With her in court yesterday were Catherine Parker Clivette, president of the Greenwich Village Historical Society; Sarah Graham-Mulhall, former Deputy Commissioner of Narcotics, and Mrs. Mary Hamilton, former head of patrolwomen in New York, who said she was making a special investigation of Mrs. Hammerstein's arrest.

MELCHETT BANS PLAN OF BRIAND FOR BRITAIN

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—Lord Melchett, chairman of Imperial Chemical Industries, the first of the big British industrialists to express an opinion on Aristide Briand's plan for a European federation, emphatically puts thumbs down against Britain's joining the proposed combination. But for the Continental countries he thinks the arrangement would be of great economic benefit. It is bound to come, he believes, as Europe's method of meeting the situation raised by the development of the United States as the most powerful economic unit in the world.

"But Great Britain has one of three courses open to her—economic isolation, association with a European union or the development of a British Empire union," Lord Melchett adds. "The people of this country will soon have to decide what answer they are going to give to this very question. I am an ardent apostle of the British Empire as an economic unit. Isolation would be impossible between the European union that is contemplated and the American unit already existing.

"Personally, I think there is no doubt as to what choice we should make between Europe and our own empire. In population, resources, raw material and capacities the British Empire is the largest economic unit in the world. Even the United States of America is smaller by comparison. And the difficulties we shall have in developing this empire unity, great as they are, will be small as compared with what M. Briand is going to meet perfecting his plan for a United States of Europe. The different parts of the empire, including England, are far more complementary to each other in the matter of trade, raw material and agriculture than England and the European States are.

"But to get the benefit of our common empire interests we must proceed on new lines. The dominions, in appreciating the benefit from the free entrance of their raw materials into England, may have to modify their present views as to the best way to develop their own local industries, while Great Britain will have to modify her ideas as to buying raw materials in the cheapest market regardless of all other considerations and buy them from the dominions which take England's factory products.

"We must either cast off from the British Empire to participate in a European economic union or as part of a great united empire enter into the most friendly relations with both the United States of America and the United States of Europe."

CRESCENT A. C. VOTES $2,750,000 PROJECT

Members of the Crescent Athletic Club, Pierrepont and Clinton Streets, Brooklyn, voted favorably last night on a $2,750,000 expansion plan proposed by the club's board of directors, headed by Supreme Court Justice James C. Cropsey, for the purchase of the million-dollar Rainey estate at Huntington, L. I., the erection of a new city clubhouse, the sale of the Bay Ridge Country House and merging with the Hamilton Club of Brooklyn.

The plan had met with considerable opposition, those against it having even taken the matter to the Supreme Court, which on Monday denied them an injunction. Of 1,609 votes cast, 908 were in favor, 699 opposed and 2 were blank. The club has 2,141 voting members.

The merger with the Hamilton Club has yet to be voted upon by the members of that organization.

The opposition faction in the Crescent Club had contended that the club members could not vote on the proposal by proxy, whereas Justice Cropsey contended that proxy voting did not violate the club's laws.

A tabulation of the votes showed that it was the proxy votes that carried the victory. About 700 members attended the meeting last night and their vote was evenly split for and against the expansion plan. There were 900 proxy votes, however, and of these 550 were cast in favor of the plan and 350 against it.

DANCES DOWN BROADWAY.

Ignoring the jay-walking regulations laid down by Police Commissioner Whalen, Mary Rizzo, 16-year-old actress, danced on her toes down Broadway yesterday afternoon from Columbus Circle to Forty-sixth Street, followed by a crowd that at times numbered nearly 1,000.

Dressed in a ballet dress, she started her performance by posing for pictures at the foot of the statue at Columbus Circle. As a large crowd gathered, she danced south on Broadway. A policeman who said his post was on Fifty-ninth Street acted as escort. Traffic lights were ignored.

Several of the crowd which followed were pushed in front of automobiles and street cars trying to pass the procession. Some were hit, but none asked medical aid. Mrs. Rizzo, mother of the dancer, was one of those struck.

At Forty-sixth Street Miss Rizzo danced into a theatre, where she received a theatrical contract for her efforts. The crowd, unable to follow her, pressed against the ticket booth, breaking a glass window. They were dispersed after four policemen called to the scene threatened arrest.

$4,600,000 Subway Funds Approved

The committee of the whole of the Board of Estimate approved yesterday the issue of $4,600,000 in corporate stock for acquiring real estate needed for constructing that part of the city's new subway system under Schermerhorn Street from Smith to Bond Street in Brooklyn. The appropriation will be formally voted on Friday.

GREAT NECK ENGINEER GETS YEAR IN PRISON

C. H. Watson Released on Bail as Court Grants Motion for Review of Charges.

Special to The New York Times.

MINEOLA, L. I., May 20.—Carl H. Watson of Great Neck, convicted last Thursday of violating the public officers act, by reason of his dual position of engineer for the Belgrave Sewer Commission, while president of the Gregory Coal and Lumber Company, was sentenced today by Justice Humphrey in the Supreme Court to serve one year in Westchester penitentiary.

Justice Humphrey, however, granted the application of the defendant's counsel, Charles R. Weeks, for a certificate of reasonable doubt, which was not opposed by District Attorney Edwards. This allowed Watson to be released in $5,000 bail pending a review of the case, which will be brought up on appeal. The motion to set aside the verdict was denied.

NEW GRUENWALD REPORTED

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BRATISLAVA, May 20. — The Czechoslovak newspaper Hirado reports the recent discovery of an altar picture by the famous mediaeval German painter, Matthias Gruenwald.

The picture was discovered in a small Slovakian village. Experts estimate its value as more than $500,000. An influx of art dealers is now expected.

Gruenwald's chief work, "The Altar of Iseheim," was a matter of special arrangement between France and Germany at Versailles. The French succeeded in regaining the picture, which is now at Colmar, Alsace.

MARKA TRUESDALE ENGAGED TO MARRY

FIANCEE A 1928 DEBUTANTE

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph R. Truesdale of 26 East Eightieth Street, and Road Edge, Westbury, L. I., have announced the engagement of their elder daughter, Miss Marka Truesdale, to Grover Cleveland Loening, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Albert Loening of this city. Miss Truesdale is a granddaughter of Mrs. Francis M. Scott and the late Justice Scott of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court, whose home for many years was at 42 Park Avenue. Her father is one of the leading lawyers of New York.

Miss Truesdale attended Miss Chapin's School and was introduced to society in the season of 1928. Since then she has taken an active interest in the many phases of the Junior League, of which she is a member. She has been active in the affairs of the Junior League Theatre School and for the last year has been manager of the Junior League Business Opportunities Bureau. Miss Truesdale was one of the fourteen débutantes of her season who inaugurated the protest against tardiness at social events, which was later taken up by their parents.

Mr. Loening is one of the best known aeronautical engineers and designers in this country. With his brother he founded the Loening Aeronautical Engineering Corporation and is president and founder of the Grover Loening Aircraft Company and a director of the Pan-American Airways, Inc.; Aviation Corporation of the Americas, W. A. Harriman Securities Corporation, Palmer Securities Corporation and the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. Mr. Loening is the donor of the Loening Intercollegiate Trophy, the award for the greatest progress during the year by flying students of colleges and universities.

Mr. Loening was born in the American Consulate in Bremen, Germany, while his father, the late Albert Loening, was United States Consul there in the Administration of President Cleveland, for whom Mr. Loening was named. He was brought to this country when a very young child. He attended the Cutler School in New York and the Lawrenceville School, near Princeton, N. J. He was graduated from Columbia University with the class of '11. Since then he has devoted himself to aviation, being a pioneer engineer and designer of planes. His first position in the aviation industry was as chief engineer of the Queen Anne Company in this city. During that year he became acquainted with Orville Wright, and in 1913 went to Dayton, Ohio, as general manager of the Wright Company. The following year, at San Diego, Cal., he designed and built the first rigid-braced monoplane, an ancestor of the transoceanic monoplanes. Since then he has been building planes for the United States Government and private owners. He is also a writer on aeronautical engineering.

Mr. Loening was chief engineer of the United States Army Air Service. In 1921 he was awarded the Collier Trophy for the greatest achievement in aviation during that year and two years later won the Wright Efficiency Trophy. He was one of the organizers and the first president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce.

His clubs include the Racquet and Tennis, Meadow Brook, Columbia University, Society of Sigma Xi, Seawanhaka, Montauk, Manhasset Bay, New York Yacht, Army and Navy of Washington, D. C.; Engineers of Dayton, Society of Automobile Engineers, Long Island Aviation Country Club, Newport Flying Club and National Air Pilots' Association.

The wedding will take place in the early Summer in Westbury, L. I. Miss Nancy Yuille gave a luncheon yesterday at Pierre's for Miss Truesdale.

Manager of $6,000,000 White Civic Fund in Boston Ends His Life on Lodge Estate, Nahant.

VALET TRIED TO SAVE HIM

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, Mass., May 20.—George E. Phelan of Concord, Boston banker and manager of the $6,000,000 George White Fund for Municipal Improvements, committed suicide tonight by leaping off Pulpit Rock on Eastern Point, Nahant, near the estate of the late Senator Henry Cabot Lodge.

His chauffeur-valet, Cresoonia de Fernandez, a frail little Filipino who had been in his employ but five days, went after him in a vain attempt to save him and was dragged from the water, battered and bleeding, by coast guards and police summoned to the scene by Mrs. Willard D. Johnson, wife of the caretaker on the Lodge estate, who heard the chauffeur's cries for help.

Despondency over a three-year period of ill health following a nervous breakdown was assigned as the cause of Mr. Phelan's act.

He had suffered a relapse about two months ago and recently had moved from his town house in Boston to the home of a close friend, George A. Brown, in Swampscott, for rest and seclusion pending the reopening of his own Marblehead estate.

De Fernandez told the police that his employer had seemed excited when he shaved him this morning and that instead of taking the usual afternoon drive about the North Shore estates in his own car, Mr. Phelan had suggested that they use the chauffeur's smaller machine.

"When we got near the lodge estate," De Fernandez said, "Mr. Phelan asked me to stop. We got out and walked through the estate to the shore. Suddenly, without warning, when we reached the top of Pulpit Rock, he went over the cliff. I jumped, too, and did my best to save him."

De Fernandez was still struggling to keep his employer above the water when the police and Coast Guard rescuers arrived at the head of the cliff. Examination showed that Mr. Phelan died from injuries received in striking half-submerged rocks at the foot of the 25-foot cliff and not from immersion.

Medical Examiner Breed said he would not issue a verdict of suicide until after he had talked with Mr. Phelan's friends, but Mr. Brown declared he was certain the banker's continued ill health had preyed on his mind. He ridiculed the idea that any trouble with the White fund caused the act.

Mr. Phelan, who was 59 years old and a bachelor, was born in Cambridge. He entered business in the office of the George E. Cotting Estate in that city at the age of 15, and was appointed manager when he was 21. He held the position for twenty-one years until ill health forced a temporary retirement from business.

In 1922, Mayor Curley appointed him manager of the George Robert White Fund, which has grown from $5,000,000 to more than $6,000,000 under his administration.

ORDINANCE FORBIDS STREET AMPLIFIERS

Aldermen Pass Measure, Which Now Goes to Mayor—Noise Abatement Body Hails It.

Radio fans who gather on sidewalks about the town to hear their favorites of the air through the street amplifier of the radio dealer's store will have to find other means of listening-in if an ordinance passed yesterday by the Board of Aldermen prohibiting the amplification of radios and phonographs is signed by Mayor James J. Walker.

The Noise Abatement Commission gained a point in its campaign against noises by the unanimous adoption of the proposed ordinance. It prohibits the use of loud-speakers outside any building or at a window looking upon a street, or within 150 feet of a school, court house or church, or within 250 feet of a hospital. Exceptions to the proposed law can be made by the Police Commissioner upon the issuance of a permit. The ordinance was introduced by Alderman Murray W. Stand.

Mayor Walker will receive the measure within the next few days and has ten days from that time in which to act upon it. He may hold a public hearing on the measure at his discretion, if sufficient demand for one arises.

"Owners of radio shops have no objection to doing away with their street amplifiers if their competitors do likewise," Alderman Stand said. "Tests have shown that even the noise of the elevated on Cortlandt Street is drowned out by the sound of loud-speakers during the day. Sound at that particular spot frequently reaches the almost unbelievable loudness of ninety 'decibels'—within ten decibels of the normal capacity of the human ear. In the recent questionnaire of the Noise Abatement Commission, complaints against loudspeakers stood fourth from highest in a list of twenty-eight noises that annoy New Yorkers."

Oxford Cottage, Built in 1510, Bought by Ford and Sent Here

Rose Cottage, which was built in 1510 and stood for more than four hundred years near Oxford, England, was dismantled and shipped to this country in bags and boxes containing graystone and ancient timber, it was disclosed by officials of the Furness Withy Line here yesterday.

The cottage, destined for Henry Ford, is to be re-erected at Dearborn, Mich. It was shipped as first-class freight on the steamship London Citizen and unloaded at Pier 74, North River, to railroad lighters in crates, sacks and boxes for reshipment. The shipment was taken on at the Port of London, the steamer later sailing for New York, via Dundee and Philadelphia.

Rose Cottage, said to have been two cottages converted into one, was once owned by a tutor of Oxford University. A year ago it was purchased and dismantled by a resident of Manchester.

SUES TO SUPPRESS JEANNE EAGELS STORY

Mother of Dead Actress Asks Writ to Restrain Publication and Sale of Magazine.

Mr. Julia Sullivan Eagels of Ossining, mother of the late Jeanne Eagles, star of "Rain" and other Broadway plays, applied yesterday to Supreme Court Justice Valente for an injunction to restrain Liberty magazine from releasing for sale copies of the publication containing a series of articles on Miss Eagels's life. Argument on the application is to be heard today.

The magazine story of the actress's life was written by Edward Doherty and was to start May 31 to run for fifteen weeks. Advertisements described the series as the life of Jeanne Eagels, "Genius, drunkard, artist and hellion, poet and devil." The first five issues are already off the press, and to keep them off the stands would cost the magazine more than $1,000,000.

MacDonald De Witt, attorney for the magazine, will argue against the application for the writ. He pointed out that while Mrs. Eagels seeks the injunction on the ground that the magazine story is a libel on the memory of her daughter, there is no provision in law to prevent its publication.

"First of all," said Mr. De Witt, "the court cannot enjoin the publication of a libel since that would be a violation of the constitutional guarantee of the freedom of the press. The publisher may publish whatever he wants to, subject, of course, to any action that may be brought against him as a result of it.

"And furthermore, we maintain that this story of Miss Eagels's life is not a libel on the plaintiff in this injunction action. Under the laws of New York State there can be no cause for action by surviving relatives for an alleged libel on a deceased person."

Under its provisions thirty men having an average of 80 or above would be selected at the end of their sophomore year to concentrate in one field of study, absolved of all routine requirements, including class attendance, until the end of the senior year. At that time a comprehensive examination or a thesis would be required.

CITY VOTES $600,000 TO VETERANS' RELIEF

Committee of the Whole Adds This Amount for This Year to Aid Disabled Men.

McKEE CRITICAL OF MOVE

Approves It With the Protest That Function of the Federal Government Is Being Assumed.

After hesitating yesterday to approve an appropriation of $600,000 for the relief of disabled soldiers, sailors and marines, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee voted for it at a meeting of the Committee of the Whole of the Board of Estimate with the observation that the city was assuming "what was primarily a function of the Federal Government."

"This occasion should not pass," Mr. McKee said, "without a reminder that the city of New York is spending $1,225,000 this year for the relief of disabled veterans. In 1926 the amount appropriated for this purpose was $321,355. With this $600,000 added to the funds already appropriated in the 1930 budget the city is spending more than a million dollars for an obligation that belongs primarily to the Federal Government."

Recent reports from charity organizations and welfare bodies have indicated that unemployment has been severe in the hardships it inflicted on veterans, particularly those who are disabled. Last March, Victor S. Dodworth, Director of Public Welfare in Brooklyn, said that unemployment in that borough would raise the monthly allotment from $33,000 to $40,000. He said the city had spent $103,000 last February to relieve disabled veterans in the five boroughs, of which $33,000 went to Brooklyn and $9,000 to Queens. The Commissioner of Public Welfare, who requested the $600,000 appropriation, explained that the increased demands for aid on his department for the first four months of this year made additional funds necessary.

While the appropriation will not be released until the Board of Eestimate approves it a week from Friday, approvel by the board's Committee of the Whole is tantamount to granting the money because the personnel of the committee and the board is identical.

RADIO-KEITH-ORPHEUM LEASES 8 THEATRES

The Radio-Keith-Orpheum Corporation yesterday announced the leasing of eight motion-picture theatres in Texas, Alabama, Arkansas and Illinois. The arrangement was confirmed by J. Miller Walker of the legal department at R-K-O.

The houses in the Southwest were taken over from the International Amusement Company, of which Karl Hoblitzelle is owner and operator. He is to remain in the same capacity under the new Radio-Keith-Southern Corporation. The theatres include the New Majestic in San Antonio, with a capacity of 4,000 seats, said to be one of the largest theatres in the Southwest; the Majestic in Houston, 2,200 seats; the Majestic in Dallas, 2,800 seats; the Majestic in Little Rock, 1,200 seats; the Majestic in Fort Worth, 1,500 seats; the Ritz in Birmingham, 1,600 seats; the Trianon in Birmingham, 600 seats, and the Virginia in Champaign.

HAMPTON CHOIR STIRS BERLIN WITH VOICES

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 20.—Under the patronage of Ambassador Sackett, the Hampton Choir, conducted by Dr. R. Nathaniel Dett, made its appearance at the Philharmonic tonight. The audience was greatly impressed by the rich Negro voices and the beauty of the traditional and modern spirituals, which are so seldom heard on the European Continent.

Calls for more than a dozen encores, which were given, clearly demonstrated the appreciation of this a capella choir.

Ambassador and Mrs. Sackett and members of the diplomatic corps and Berlin society were present at the concert, which was broadcast.

This afternoon Ambassador Sackett received the leader and the students, who are proceeding to Dresden and from there to Vienna, where they will be welcomed by Mayor Seitz in the City Hall on Saturday.

The choir will give twenty-three performances in thirty-two days in various European cities.

TELLS FOREIGN FILM PLANS

Lasky Says Paramount May Build Studios Throughout Europe.

The Paramount Publix Corporation may build a motion picture studio in every European country of any importance, Jesse L. Lasky, vice president in charge of production, announced yesterday. This plan, intended to overcome foreign resentment toward American dialogue films, will facilitate the carrying out of a program in which Paramount expects to make seventy-two talking films in six different languages during the coming year. The company already has a studio at Joinville, near Paris, and it is more than likely that Spain, Germany, Italy, Sweden and Hungary may soon have similar structures.

"Eventually we expect that virtually every country of importance will have one of our studios," Mr. Lasky said. "Whatever country shows the possibility of turning out good talking films will sooner or later have a studio established there."

PLANS 50 TALKIES IN YEAR.

Among the actors in these film will be Greta Garbo, Joan Crawford, Lawrence Tibbett, Grace Moore, John Gilbert, Marion Davies, Lon Chaney, Jack Buchanan and Ramon Novarro.

Miss Garbo will be seen in three films, the first of which is to be "Red Dust," based on the story by Wilson Collison; Marion Davies will make "Rosalie" and "The Five o'Clock Girl," both musicals; William Haines will be seen in "Remote Control," acted on the stage here recently; Joan Crawford will appear in the musical "Great Day"; "New Moon" will be Lawrence Tibbett's first vehicle for the new year, and "Jenny Lind" will be Grace Moore's.

SCREEN NOTES.

EISENSTEIN PREDICTS NEW ART VIA TALKIE

Russian Director, Honor Guest at Luncheon, Says Next Step Is Technique for Abstractions.

An intellectual cinema technique that can express abstract ideas will be the culmination in the near future of a period of art as important as the renaissance in the past, according to Serge M. Eisenstein, Russian picture director, who was guest of honor yesterday at a luncheon held in the Hotel Plaza by the Russian American Institute.

The talking picture must create a new form, the Soviet producer said, for it will offer an utterly different combination of words, sounds and other elements such as can exist only on the screen. The addition of sound rather than dialogue is important because the dynamic effect of music is stronger than the optical impression. So far, he added, we have advanced from the classical triangle drama by means of the "mass idea" in films; our next step is pictorially to portray the abstract.

Mr. Eisenstein said that the achievement of a country rather than the talents of a director will be responsible for the film forms of the future. He said that Russia's interest in films is from the cultural rather than the entertainment standpoint.

Mr. Eisenstein is the director of "Potemkin," "Ten Days That Shook the World" and "Old and New." In commenting on these films and the picture industry, Wilton Barrett, general secretary of the National Board of Review, said that in Hollywood it was more a matter of "box office" than esthetics.

Oswald Garrison Villard, editor and author, said that the friendliness of relations between great nations was greatly dependent upon the proper development of films. He predicted a new technique in films that would be independent of the theatre.

STAGE PUPILS TO PERFORM.

Several Scenes to Be Given at Laboratory Theatre Graduation.

The graduation of twenty-five students of the American Laboratory Theatre will be marked by the production of scenes from the plays of American and foreign authors tomorrow evening and Friday evening at the theatre, in East Fifty-fourth Street.

The American plays will be George Kelly's "Poor Aubrey" and Paul Green's "The Last of the Lawries," and each of the graduating students will have an opportunity to appear in at least one rôle on the program. There will be no admission charge to the exercises.

An Open Letter to Franklin Ford
(President, Defenders of the Truth Society)

Now that you have seen "LOST SHEEP" at the Selwyn Theatre will you admit openly that you are wrong—all wrong?

"LOST SHEEP" does not ridicule the clergy, MR. FORD

Robert Benchley, in The New Yorker, declares that the play's "richest vein of humor" is derived from the Rev. Mr. Wampus attributing his troubles to the fact that he is a Methodist minister in a High Church community. He also adds, Mr. Ford, that "this is not beyond the bounds of possibility, the Established Church being what it is in England."

"LOST SHEEP" IS NOT SALACIOUS, MR. FORD

Otherwise Percy Hammond, in the Herald Tribune, would not say: "If I had a daughter I would shift my responsibilities as a parent to the broad shoulders of dramas like "Lost Sheep," to tell her and her boy friend, at the matinees, that there is something more in life than kissing."

"LOST SHEEP" IS NOT DAMNABLE, MR. FORD

Joseph Wood Krutch writes in The Nation: "I fail to see how they can lead to the conclusion that a farce like 'Lost Sheep' is damnable.

"I confess that I was not offended and that I joined the audience in a good deal of its laughter.

"But then moralists cannot be expected to understand a principle like this. They laugh so seldom."

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Decline Again, Recovering Later—Money and Sterling Rates Unchanged.

The stock market, without much increase in activity, declined further in the early business yesterday; but in the closing hours the greater part of the early loss was recovered, leaving a few shares at a net advance. Along with the late recovery, transactions grew somewhat larger. The day's total trading, though still small as compared with recent activities, exceeded that of the ten preceding business days. Outside news seemed to play no part.

There have been occasions in the past when a turn like that which yesterday seemed to have occurred in the fortunes of the tariff bill would have evoked some response on the Stock Exchange. Apparently, however, Wall Street is as weary as any other part of the community over the prolonged disputes which have accompanied the present bill, and would be relieved at any development which would remove it from the active scene. Except for those observers (and they are certainly few) who support the idea produced last November, that Wall Street's October panic was a result of delay in tariff legislation, the general attitude is apparently one of indifference. In past experience, its enactment has occasionally been made a factor in the market when speculative enthusiasm was at a high point, but has otherwise cut no great figure.

Money and foreign exchange rates did not move. The weekly report for member banks in the Federal Reserve showed, as was expected, a decrease in their loans on stock and bond collateral; but it also reported decrease of $33,000,000 in other loans. These are now $519,000,000 under the corresponding date a year ago, while loans on securities are larger by $1,025,000,000. Wheat prices sold down 1 cent further, although the Commerce Department's statement for last week showed the largest exports of the year to date. The Bank of England lost no gold on export, but $2,400,000 of its reserve was "earmarked" on foreign account. Next Thursday's weekly report will show rather heavy impairment.

The Labor Department's employment statistics for April bear out in most particulars the somewhat unfavorable general survey of the department's director of employment service, issued last Friday. It is true, as the bureau's bulletin points out, that April is rarely a month of increased manufacturing employment; last year was the only exception in seven years to a stationary or slightly lower percentage. It is also true that, unlike March, the April decrease of about eight-tenths of 1 per cent does not greatly vary from the usual change of other years. It merely bears out the testimony of other statistical indices, that last month's situation carried along, though at a slower pace, the fairly continuous retrograde movement that has prevailed since last September. As compared with a year before, last month's employment in manufacture has been reduced by 10 per cent. The Labor Statistics Bureau is undoubtedly correct in saying that employment in the building trade, especially in public works, ought to make better comparison. But it has no figures of its own to show how the active laboring force in those occupations compares with a year ago.

ASK GOVERNORS TO RESIGN.

Members of Chicago Curb Exchange Fight Dual Listing of Stocks.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Thirty of the 200 members of the Chicago Curb Exchange Association have signed a petition asking for the resignation of three of their governors who, they charge, have been active in the development of the securities market of the Chicago Board of Trade. It is expected that the petition will be presented to the board of governors on Thursday. It is an outgrowth of a controversy between the two bodies over the dual listing of stocks of the Walgreen Company and the Standard Oil Company of Indiana.

The governors named in the petition are Leo A. Doyle, George A. Kroey and David H. Annan. The petitioners assert that their presence on the governing committee "jeopardizes the welfare of the Chicago Curb Exchange and the business of all of its members."

CHANGES IN CORPORATIONS.

H. A. Kahler Heads Board of New York Title and Mortgage.

Harry A. Kahler has resigned as president and has been elected chairman of the board of the New York Title and Mortgage Company. George T. Mortimer, formerly chairman of the executive committee, has become president. H. Pushae Williams, a director, will become chairman of the executive committee on June 1.

C. D. Sterling, assistant secretary of the Hudson Motor Car Company, has been elected a director of the company, succeeding Courtney Johnson, who resigned.

A. K. Atkinson, assistant to the president of the Wabash Railway, has been added to the directorate of the company.

O. R. Seagraves, president of the United Gas Corporation, has been elected a director of Stein Cosmetics Company, Inc.

Charles G. Williams, sales manager, and Arthur P. Van Schaick, production manager, of the American Chain Company, have been elected directors of the company. Mr. Williams succeeds the late N. B. Marple. Mr. Van Schaick was added to the board.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

News, Comment and Incident, On the Stock Exchange and In the Financial Markets.

Speculators interested in lower prices had their own way a good part of the time yesterday, but the market developed some strength late in the day, with the result that early declines were greatly reduced or erased entirely. The turnover on the Stock Exchange was 3,526,770 shares. The character of the trading was little different from that of the day before. Wall Street professionals became more active on the down-side and their influence was reflected in the general heaviness of the market. At times the active list was badly unsettled and this led the so-called "constructive faction" to stand aside. Operators for the decline centred upon the vulnerable spots, meeting with some success, but when they attempted to force a reaction in such issues as United States Steel, American Can, New York Central, Standard of New Jersey and General Electric they met powerful resistance. Weakness was most pronounced in volatile stocks like Vanadium, Auburn Auto, J. I. Case, United Aircraft, Worthington Pump and American Foreign Power, but even these issues developed surprising resistance on the declines.

United States Steel Meets Support.

The stock market had such a strong professional flavor yesterday that the more serious commentators were inclined to dismiss it in the most casual way. To them the day's operations seemed to have no special significance. For instance, the weakness in United States Steel common was cited as evidence of what a determined "bear party" can do, while the late rally in that stock was pointed to as an illustration of how easily short selling can be checked. It was common talk in Wall Street that brokerage houses which usually act for "powerful banking interests" were busily buying Steel yesterday afternoon. Whether this impression was correct or not, the stock was bought in large blocks and the price was lifted quickly from 166⅛ to 170⅛, at which it closed.

Looking for "Air Pockets."

Searching for "air pockets" has been for some time a fascinating game, at which a great many speculators have played profitably. It was remarked yesterday, however, that speculators for the fall were finding it increasingly difficult to uncover such opportunities.

Wheeling Strategy.

The action of the Van Sweringen-owned Wheeling & Lake Erie in asking the Interstate Commerce Commission to dismiss applications for its control by three other railroads was considered yesterday a move directed at the Pennsylvania. In its application, the Wheeling indicates its belief that the control of the Wabash and the Pittsburgh & West Virginia directly or indirectly by the Pennsylvania Railroad makes unification of the Wabash and the P. & W. Va. with the Wheeling inadvisable. It has been known that the Van Sweringens have watched with alarm the encroachments of the Pennsylvania into the control of Eastern railroads, but this is the first time that they have come out openly against the trunk line. The Wheeling also asks for dismissal of the Van Sweringen-owned Nickel Plate's application for Wheeling control. This demand was made for the sake of completeness. The Van Sweringens superseded the Nickel Plate application last year with the Chesapeake & Ohio merger plan and this plan, in conformity with the rulings of the commission, has recently been withdrawn.

Finding a Job for Mr. Gilbert.

Wall Street is now conducting a guessing contest on the job which Seymour Parker Gilbert, erstwhile Agent General for Reparations, will accept on his return here. As usual, rumors begin by naming a partnership in J. P. Morgan & Co., with the presidency of a large bank suggested as another possible post. Some are inclined to believe Mr. Gilbert will favor law instead of finance, but it is believed generally that he will continue to exercise his unusual abilities along the line of finance. However, one thing is certain, and that is that he will not lack offers on his return.

Building Operations.

A report that new awards for building and engineering projects in the metropolitan area of New York last week were the highest for the year also shows that such awards are steadily catching up with last year, although contracts are still $62,500,000 behind the first twenty weeks of 1929 in the territory described. Coupled with reports that there is an improvement in the automobile industry in the New York area, there are at least a few signs that business is on the upgrade despite the laggardness of the business season.

The International Bank Shares.

Now that America's portion of the stock in the International Bank for Settlements has been allotted to a nation-wide group of 100 banks, the chances of the shares ever reaching the bank stocks market are exceedingly remote. A sharp contrast to the situation here was the scramble yesterday in Paris on the part of the public to obtain shares. The French allotment was oversubscribed 140 times, with the public bidding a high premium. For the present, at least, the Bank of England will make no public offering of the British portion as a result of the rush investors in France. The maximum dividend payment possible on the stock of the International Bank is 12 per cent, compared with something more than a 6 per cent yield on the forthcoming bond issue.

A Traffic Problem.

When the Missouri Pacific and the Wabash were in the same fold there was, of course, considerable interchange of traffic between them. It was pointed out yesterday that assumption of control of the Missouri Pacific by the Van Sweringens meant that that road would divert its traffic to the Van Sweringen lines.

MONEY.

Tuesday, May 20, 1930.

Except for a flurry in the bill market, business in money failed to develop any feature, rates ruling steady on a modest turnover. The flow of bills was in response to the new schedules posted late on Monday, but as demand was only fair not all of the offerings were taken up. On the Stock Exchange day loans continued at 3 per cent, and 2½ in counter trading. Curb Exchange funds ruled at 3½ throughout. Time money was dull over a range of 3¼@3¾ for the short and distant dates. Commercial paper was unchanged in discount.

THE BANK OF AMERICA, N. A., NEW YORK, TRUSTEE

Mr. Adrian D. Joyce, President of the Company, has written us under date of May 16, 1930, as follows:

HISTORY: The Glidden Company, organized under the laws of Ohio in 1917 as a consolidation of Glidden Varnish Company (founded in 1870) and eleven other manufacturers and distributors, is the second largest paint manufacturer in the United States. Its products include a complete line of paints, enamels, varnishes, lacquers, pigments, etc. which are distributed throughout the United States and Canada.

Besides the manufacture and distribution of paints and allied products, the Company, through a subsidiary, Durkee Famous Foods, Inc., is a large producer of edible oils, nut margarine and other food products. Substantial amounts have been expended during the last two years to increase the plant capacity in this division to provide for the increasing demand for these products.

The Glidden Company operates 14 plants in the paint division and 7 plants in the food products division, strategically located in the principal cities of the United States and also maintains 24 retail and wholesale stores in the leading distributing centers in this country and Canada.

Sales of the Company have shown a substantial growth, increasing from $12,000,000 in 1917 to over $38,000,000 in 1929.

PURPOSE: The proceeds of these Notes will be used to retire bank indebtedness incurred for expenditures made in increasing plant facilities and for additional working capital.

EARNINGS: Consolidated net earnings of The Glidden Company and subsidiaries, available for interest and Federal taxes after depreciation, as certified by Messrs. Ernst & Ernst, Certified Public Accountants, were as follows:

Year ended October 31
1926	2,465,869
1927	2,287,785
1928	2,750,372
Annual Average	2,750,326

The average annual consolidated earnings as shown above were equal to 7.90 times annual interest charges of $347,100 on funded debt to be outstanding upon the issuance of these Notes and for the year ended October 31, 1929 such earnings were equal to over 10 times such annual interest charges.

ASSETS: The consolidated balance sheet as of March 31, 1930, adjusted to give effect to the issuance of these Notes and the application of the proceeds thereof, shows net assets (excluding good will, patents and similar intangibles) of over $29,500,000 equivalent to $4,900 per $1,000 Note and net quick assets of more than $13,000,000 equal to over $2,000 per $1,000 Note. The ratio of current assets to current liabilities shown by such adjusted balance sheet was 5.6 to 1.

The Company will have no funded debt except these Notes. Subsidiaries will have outstanding in the hands of the public $285,000 6% First Mortgage Bonds and $500,000 par value of 6% Preferred Stock.

EQUITY: The Glidden Company has outstanding 74,443 shares (par $100) Prior Preference Stock and 695,443 shares (no par) Common Stock, both listed on the New York Stock Exchange. The current quotations for these stocks indicate a market equity of about $24,000,000 junior to this issue of $6,000,000 Notes.

INDENTURE PROVISIONS: The indenture under which these Notes are to be issued will provide in substance, among other things, that while any of the Notes remain outstanding the Company will not mortgage or pledge any of its assets or properties, unless the Notes then outstanding shall be secured by such mortgage or pledge equally and ratably with all other bonds or obligations secured thereby, nor will the Company permit any subsidiary to mortgage or pledge any of its assets, unless the indebtedness secured thereby is held by the Company or some other subsidiary; but this shall not apply to (a) purchase money mortgages or vendors liens, (b) the acquisition of property subject to existing mortgages or (c) pledges in the ordinary course of business to secure current accounts maturing in not more than 12 months.

This offering is made "when, as and if" issued and received by us and subject to approval of all proceedings by our counsel, Messrs. Cravath, de Gersdorff, Swaine & Wood. Delivery may be made in the first instance in the form of interim receipts or temporary Notes.

UTILITY HEADS JOIN UNITED CORPORATION

COMPANIES DRAWN CLOSER

Consolidated Gas Left Out in Move—Consummation of Columbia Gas Purchase Indicated.

The United Corporation placed on its board of directors yesterday the chief officers of the public utility systems in which it has its principal interests, thereby adding five operating executives to the four bankers and the president of the company who now serve on the board.

The new directors are Floyd L. Carlisle, chairman of the Niagara Hudson Power Corporation; B. C. Cobb, chairman of the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation; Philip G. Gossler, president of the Columbia Gas and Electric Corporation; Thomas N. McCarter, president of the Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, and John E. Zimmermann, president of the United Gas Improvement Company. Mr. Gossler's election anticipates consummation of the plan whereby United seeks 25 per cent of the common stock of the Columbia company.

These elections were believed to be significant of the present stage of development of the United Corporation group. Since its formation, in January, 1929, United Corporation has been engaged principally in acquiring holdings in large Eastern utility systems and in participating in the organization of Commonwealth and Southern and Niagara Hudson Power.

Directors in Formative Period.

Thomas S. Gates and George Whitney of J. P. Morgan & Co., Landon K. Thorne and Alfred L. Loomis of Bonbright & Co., Inc., and George H. Howard, president and formerly a partner in the law firm of Simpson, Thatcher & Bartlett, were the only directors of the company in that period.

The additions announced are taken to indicate that henceforth all matters relating to the interconnection of and other relations between the five utility groups can and will be discussed at meetings of the United board. A degree of informality will be maintained, however, through the absence of any joint engineering or managerial organization, neither of which figures in the United Corporation's plans. The actual working out of physical problems, it is understood, will be effected through conferences between two or more of the large units.

The new step was interpreted also as indicating that the five large utility systems represented are to retain their independent operating status, barring unforeseen developments, in the extensive territories now served by each of them. It was considered probable that each company might acquire additional properties, but unlikely that they would be merged.

Consolidated Gas Unrepresented.

United Corporation's holdings of about 202,000 shares of Consolidated Gas Company of New York has been regarded apparently as not sufficient to warrant representation of that company on United's board. While a Niagara-Hudson-Consolidated Gas merger has been mooted in Wall Street, it has not yet been broached officially and is not expected to be taken up immediately.

Some deposits of Columbia Gas and Electric shares already have been made under the United Corporation's offer. A deposit agreement was consummated yesterday, it was learned, and Columbia shares will be accepted in exchange for United securities in the order received. The offer will be closed as soon as the required amount has been deposited, and no pro rata allotments will be made.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT FALLS TO 75 PER CENT

Steel ingot production in the United States was reduced last week, according to statistics announced yesterday. Operations are now at about 75 per cent of the theoretical capacity of the plants, compared with 76 per cent a week ago and 76½ per cent two weeks ago. The decrease was attributed to cuts by independent companies, as ingot output of the United States Steel Corporation was maintained at a shade unnder 80 per cent of capacity, the same rate as a week ago. Two weeks ago the corporation was turning out ingots at slightly above 80 per cent.

The independent companies reduced ingot production during the week about 1½ per cent and are now operating slightly above 70 per cent of capacity, compared with close to 72 per cent in the preceding week and a fraction over 72 per cent two weeks ago.

A year ago the average of ingot output for the entire industry was about 96 per cent, with United States Steel producing slightly in excess of theoretical capacity and the independents around 93 per cent. Two years ago the average was slightly under 82 per cent, with the Steel Corporation's ingot production at 86 per cent and the independents at about 78 per cent.

ABOLISH BOARD CHAIRMAN.

Trustees of Title Guarantee Vote Change Owing to Kelsey's Death.

Trustees of the Title Guarantee and Trust Company abolished yesterday the office of chairman of the board of directors, created in 1923 for Clarence H. Kelsey, whose death on April 30 eliminated the necessity for the office.

Clinton D. Burdick will continue as president and the New York office will be in charge of Frederick B. Condit as executive vice president.

Merger of Trusts Approved.

Acquisition of the Allied American Industries by the Guardian Investors Corporation was approved yesterday by the stockholders of the latter company. The preferred and common stocks of the companies will be exchanged. To provide the additional shares the Guardian stockholders authorized an increase in common stock to 700,000 from 500,000 shares.

No Action by Trust's Board.

Mason B. Starring Jr., president of the All America General Corporation, said yesterday that the directors of the company had not yet passed upon the proposal for a merger made to stockholders of the company by the Atlas Utilities Corporation. "When the board has arrived at its decision," he added, "it will notify the stockholders directly."

HOLDS FARM BOARD FAILS TO AID PRICES

Irving Trust Criticizes Use of Public Funds in Marketing Agricultural Products.

CALLS AIM PRAISEWORTHY

Declares, However, That Sweeping Changes in Trade Usages React Upon Values.

The use of public money in financing the distribution of agricultural products has not prevented severe price recessions, according to the Irving Trust Company's mid-month review of business. No one will criticize the motive back of the Federal legislation aimed to coordinate the marketing of basic crops, says the review, and no one will fail to admit that this marketing process in the past has involved at times certain hardships for a class of people unfamiliar on the whole with the technique of distribution.

"Whenever any sweeping change in business procedure is undertaken, however, it is likely to react upon values in an unexpected way and to arouse general discontent, especially if the new régime has force behind it," continues the review. "The uprooting of long established trade usages not only unsettles business but also disturbs the smooth flow of credit which is the vital and sustaining sap of the tree of prosperity.

"An objection made against the governmental machinery now set up to 'stabilize' agricultural prices and conditions is that the government board has injected an element of uncertainty that makes private dealers hesitant and private capital timid. Any trammels imposed upon a broad and active speculative market of themselves tend to create a commodity price level lower than it otherwise would be. Trading in wheat particularly has been very light, and the sagging tendency in quotations reflects the fact that speculators are more often buyers than sellers.

"Our economic outlook is now colored to an unusual extent by political considerations. Although popular opinion regarding the proposed tariff seems apathetic, some glimmering of the retaliatory effects is becoming evident. Reprisals against the proposed American tariff in many foreign countries are contemplated. Evidence accumulates that the alleged purpose of our tariff bill, namely, to ameliorate the condition of the American farmer, will not be attained. Rather, the effects will be just the reverse."

BANKERS CHANGING VIEWS OF BRANCHES

Association Indicates Shift From Full Opposition to Steadily Growing Plan.

SEES MULTIPLE IDEA GAIN

"Trade Area" System Believed Likely to Get Little Support, Commission Says.

Modification of the attitude of the American Bankers Association toward the branch banking problem is forecast in a report of the Economic Policy Commission of that association, which was made public yesterday by R. S. Hecht, president of the Hibernia Bank and Trust Company of New Orleans, chairman of the commission. The Bankers Association has been consistently opposed to branch banking in any form, except for a resolution that endorsed the McFadden bill, which was designed to put national banks on a competitive basis with State banks by permitting them to establish branches within cities in which they were situated but only in States where State banks were permitted to have branches.

The report of the Economic Policy Commission states that it has no theories or policies to urge upon the association at this time but says:

"We do not believe that the so-called 'trade area' branch banking is likely to gain the support of any large percentage of the banking fraternity."

The commission says, however, that it feels the most important development that has affected American banking in recent years involves the rapid growth of multiple banking organizations in the form of group, chain and branch banking systems.

Views on Multiple Banking.

In discussing this development the report says:

"A great many larger group organizations have taken in not only many additional unit banks but also a number of smaller bank groups as a whole. There have also been numerous consolidations between strong bank groups. Furthermore, many instances have come to our attention where consolidations of groups have been followed by consolidations within the group of banks that duplicated or over-supplied facilities in given localities. These have been factors tending toward stronger, more compact banking, whether from the angle of individual unit banking or from that of group or chain organizations.

"They have also tended to increase the volume of banking resources now held in group and chain systems at a faster rate than the increase in the number of systems or of member banks. Our files now contain information regarding 269 group or chain systems, comprising 1922 member banks and $15,285,000,000 in aggregate resources. There are only six States and the District of Columbia where we do not find any group organizations.

"We have been in touch with the managers of many important groups. Aside from the obvious economies of centralized operation and control, a number of these organization heads very frankly tell us that they do not feel that the system has been in operation and tested long enough to justify them in making positive or sweeping statements as to its advantages or disadvantages as compared with unit banking in the larger economic viewpoint."

Result of Inquiry Into Banking.

The report then discusses the developments in the investigation into banking conditions being conducted by the Banking and Currency Commission of the House of Representatives and says:

"The inquiry is now in the stage of gathering information as to the major issues. Branch and unit bankers are being heard. The indications are that the issue as to branch banking will not be joined for some time. It would therefore seem best to wait before attempting to formulate anything in the name of the American Bankers Association along the line of a broad policy.

"It is the intention of the economic policy commission to continue to develop its own studies in these questions, to watch carefully every move that is made and every bit of information that may develop in this connection, and keep itself prepared to give the association an unbiased and accurate statement of the facts of the case whenever that is desired.

"In the meantime we do not hesitate to venture the opinion that the association in the not distant future will have to modify the position it has taken in the branch banking problem, although we do not believe that so-called 'trade-area' branch banking is likely to gain the support of any large percentage of the banking fraternity."

Reserve Bank Fails to Follow Dealers' Cut on Bill Rates

The Federal Reserve Bank did not reduce its buying rate on bankers' bills yesterday, despite the cut of one-eighth of 1 per cent named by dealers on thirty, sixty and ninety day bills effective yesterday morning, making the discounts on these maturities 2½ per cent bid and 2⅜ asked.

The Reserve Bank's buying rate was adjusted, however, so that 2½ per cent now rules for thirty, sixty and ninety day acceptances, instead of on thirty and sixty day maturities only, as heretofore.

CHASE SHARE UNITS ARE SOLD AT AUCTION

Total of 34,980 of Bank and the Securities Corporation Brings $5,975,140.

ALL TO 3 BROKERAGE FIRMS

Average Price 170½—Offering Is Balance of Additional Stock Issued for Merger.

Three brokerage houses obtained all of the 34,980.8 share units of the Chase National Bank and the Chase Securities Corporation at the auction yesterday noon held by Adrian H. Muller & Son at 56 Vesey Street. The offering, which represented the balance of a stock increase after an exchange of shares of the bank in connection with its absorption of the Equitable Trust Company and the Interstate Trust Company, fetched prices ranging from 169 to 175 a unit, or an average price of 170½. The total realized was $5,975,140.

Although no announcement was made concerning the purchasers of the stock, it is understood that Potter & Co. obtained fifteen lots of 1,000 units each and the odd lot of 980.8 units, and McClure, Jones & Co. and Broomhall, Killough & Co., Inc., ten lots each. Part of the stock purchased by the brokers is believed to have been for the account of the Chase Securities Corporation.

Each unit consists of one share of Chase National Bank stock of $20 par value, and one share of Chase Securities Corporation, of no par value. In the bank stock market yesterday the Chase stock was quoted at 168½ bid and 171½ asked, up 1½ from the previous day. The range for the year to date has been 178 high and 154 low.

The bidding on the first lot of 1,000 shares began at 167 and moved up rapidly to 169½. The second lot was knocked down at 171, the third at 172, the fourth at 172¾ and the fifth at 174¼, which was the high until the last three lots were put up. The latter, including the odd lot of 980.8 shares, fetched 175. From time to time various bank stock dealers and individuals participated in the bidding, but dropped out under the determined bidding of the three brokerage houses.

S. F. Telleen, second vice president of the Chase National Bank, represented the bank at the sale. Under the term of the auction buyers were required to pay 10 per cent down on their purchases, with the remainder to be paid to the bank on May 29.

Stock Valued at $150,000 Lost.

The loss of stock valued at $150,000 which had been sent by Fenner & Beane to the Commercial National Bank of Independence, Kan., was announced yesterday by the New York Stock Exchange. The stock, which consisted of common shares of the Prairie Oil and Gas Company and the Prairie Pipe Line Company, was lost before March 13, when the bank was taken over by the Controller of the Currency. To the shares were attached sight drafts on the bank.

Gilt-Edges Up on English Exchange, but Trend of Other Securities Is Downward.

FRENCH STOCKS ARE DULL

Some Domestic Issues Decline Sharply—Tone Irregular on the German Boerse.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 20.—Gilt-edged securities improved on the Stock Exchange today, but elsewhere conditions were gloomy. The War Loan rose ⅛ to £102⅟₁₆, but the Funding Loan sagged ⅟₁₆ to £89¹¹⁄₁₆, and the most important industrials also were lower.

International Nickel declined ⅝ to $33¼, Brazillian Traction ⅞ to $49¾ and Canadian Marconi 1s 3d to 27s 6d. The electrical stocks were weak, Associated Electric falling 9d to 26s 9d, General Electric 6d to 51s 3d and Hydroelectric ¾s to $46¾. The graphophones also were depressed, with His Master's Voice sagging ⅟₁₆ to £4¹¹⁄₁₆ and Columbia weakening ⅛ to £5⅟₁₆.

Courtaulds was steady at £2¹¹⁄₁₆. Automobiles advanced despite the falling prices in other sections. Among the tobaccos, British-American was firm at £5⅝ on the declaration of the interim dividend of 10d a share, tax free, the same as last year's. Oils reacted to profit-taking, Royal Dutch declining ⅟₁₆ to £33⅟₁₆ and Shell Transport to £4¹¹⁄₁₆. The mining markets were quiet.

A fair demand for money prevailed in Lombard Street, pushing the overnight loan rate to 2¼ per cent. Discount rates were steady at 2 3-19 per cent for three-month bills. Sterling improved to $4.86. Germany bought £400,000 of Cape gold in the open market today, India taking £83,000 and £300,000 going to an unknown buyer, believed to be Belgium.

Trading in Paris Sluggish.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20.—The Bourse was extremely dull today, the volume of trading being so slight that the results of the day's session were scarcely perceptible. The Bank of France dropped rather sharply, as did one or two other domestic issues, while electrical stocks gained.

There appears little hope of an immediate improvement except that subscriptions to the International Bank capital may release considerable sums which have been held idle in view of that operation.

Rentes were quiet and closed as follows: The 3 per cents, 87.70; 1918 4s, 100.10; 1920 amortizable 5s, 132.95; 1928 5s, 101.10; 1920 6s, 104.65; 1927 amortizable 6s, 104.85.

Business Slower in Berlin.

Wireless to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

BERLIN, May 20.—The Boerse opened today's session with an uneven tendency. The volume of trading was considerably smaller than on Monday and mainly confined to a limited number of specialties. Salzdetfurth, of the potash group, advanced 10 points and Schultheiss and Ostwerke improved 6 and 2 points respectively. Vogel Draht advanced 5 points.

Seigen Solingen and Manneman of the mining group and shipping stocks also were slightly higher. In the building group Julius Berger and Wicking Cement, chemicals and electricals were weaker. The money market was easy. Call money was plentiful at 2¼ to 4½ per cent.

AGAIN the Fidelity Union extends its banking facilities to round out its services in the City of Newark. Announcement is made as of May 20th of two new units, formed by the merger of the North Ward Trust Company and the Equitable Trust Company, bringing the total resources of the Fidelity Union Trust Company to $162,270,978 as of the last published statement, March 27, 1930. World Bank Shares Heavily Oversubscribed; French Demand 156 Times Total Issued There

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 20. — The capital shares of the Bank for International Settlements were issued in eight European countries today, and wherever they were offered to the public they were heavily oversubscribed.

In France the stock was oversubscribed 156 times and in Belgium it was covered more than twelve times. The Bank of England and the German Reichsbank retained their entire allotments of the capital shares for themselves.

In every country the sale was completed today and 25 per cent of the payments—the proportion called—was forwarded tonight to the world bank at Basle.

France, Britain, Germany, Italy and Belgium disposed of 16,000 shares each and smaller amounts were taken by Holland, Sweden and Switzerland. Shares are expected to pay a dividend of 6 per cent, with a possibility of producing 12 per cent.

The great demand for them in France has caused large sums of money to be immobilized by purchasers who borrowed from the banks in order to be sure of having the necessary covering. Owing to the method of selection in France, the shares will be distributed only among a few purchasers, as it is impossible to give satisfaction to the large number who desired them. Unmet or only partially met demands were returned by the Bank of France tonight.

GOLD MOVEMENTS LACKING.

Neither Exports Nor Imports Reported by Reserve Bank.

No imports or exports of gold at the Port of New York and no change in the gold earmarked here for foreign account were reported yesterday by the Federal Reserve Bank.

Cables from London reported that of the £800,000 gold offered by bullion brokers, £250,000 was taken by Germany, £300,000 presumably by the Bank of England, and £83,000 by India, with the balance left on the market.

The Answer to the Salaried Man's Investment Problem

THE salaried man, the business executive, the man who has to work for every dollar he saves . . . how can he invest his money wisely?

How can he obtain the skilled, vigilant, constant, investment guidance he needs? How can he diversify his holdings over enough different types of sound securities to assure him of safety . . . and yet allow him a reasonable expectancy of capital increase and earnings?

The answer lies in the Uniform Trusts, created by America's oldest Trust Company, after years of experiment and trial.

Whether you have five, fifty, or a hundred thousand dollars, this new investment service offers you all of the advantages hitherto available only to very large investors.

Many leading financiers consider Uniform Trusts to be one of the most notable contributions ever made to the welfare of the smaller investor.

THE UNIFORM TRUSTS

YOU place in trust with us a sum of money (the minimum is $5,000). You authorize us to mingle your trust with many others created on the same basis.

We administer this mingled fund, amounting to many millions of dollars, as a unit . . . just as we do the huge private fortunes of which we have been trustees for generations.

This enables us to gain increased stability by diversifying the investments of the fund over many different types of sound securities . . . permitting us to invest in a variety of the country's basic industries, and giving the holder of a Uniform Trust a carefully chosen stake in the future of the country.

Most important of all, the mingled fund comes under the skilled supervision, the daily scrutiny of senior officers and directors of this company . . . acknowledged investment authorities.

Thus the holder of an individual Uniform Trust benefits from the same facilities which we are able to offer the very largest investor. He shares proportionately in the operations of the mingled fund. He benefits from all capital increases in the fund. He can get back his proportionate share on the first Wednesday in any month . . . or can use his trust as collateral.

Call at any branch of the City Bank Farmers Trust Company or The National City Bank of New York, and the Uniform Trusts will be explained to you in full detail. Or send for booklet "The Uniform Trusts," addressing the City Bank Farmers Trust Company, Department T, 43 Exchange Place, New York City.

BOND TRADING DULL ON STOCK EXCHANGE

FOREIGN LOANS ARE EASIER

Rails and Utilities Steady to Firm —Government Securities Make Small Gains.

Irregularity continued to characterize dealings in bonds on the Stock Exchange yesterday, with prices in most groups backing and filling in listless fashion in quiet trading. Domestic issues were a shade higher and foreign loans a trifle lower for the day, while United States Government issues closed with small gains. In the latter group the active securities finished up 2-32s to 6-32s, with the exception of the first Liberty 4¼s, which were down 3-32s, and the fourth Liberty 4¼s, which held unchanged.

Convertible issues tended lower as a group, with General Theatres Equipment 6s of 1944 dropping 6¾ points, American Beet Sugar 6s 2½ points, and several others losing ground fractionally. Warner Brothers Pictures convertible 6s moved up a point, and American Telephone and Telegraph convertible 4½s of 1939 and Philadelphia & Reading Coal and Iron 6s half a point each.

In the industrial list Namm 6s moved up 2¼ points to par for the first time this year. Sugar bonds were dull and generally easier, and rubber and steel issues showed only minor changes for the day. Bush Terminal 4s duplicated the previous low for the year at 87¼, off 2½ points.

High-grade railroad and public utility issues were steady to firm in dull trading. New York traction issues were irregular, with the active issues off a point to up fractionally.

In the foreign loan group the New Japanese Government 5½s sold at 91, a new high at the close, up ¼ point. Peruvian Government bonds were easier, but most South American issues showed unimportant changes. German Government 7s were up ⅛ point.

TRADE GROUPS SPLIT ON TERMINAL PLAN

PORT BODY DEFENDS MOVE

Declares It Would Bring Needed Traffic Relief—Estimate Board Defers Action.

After a hearing yesterday in which the Port Authority's proposed universal inland freight terminal for the west side was defended as a much needed means of traffic relief and attacked by opponents who said it would lower residential property values the committee of the whole of the Board of Estimate deferred action until next Tuesday's meeting, pending further consideration of the plan.

Commissioner Howard S. Cullman of the Port Authority set forth the advantages of the proposed terminal and replied to each objection raised by opposition. He said ten railroads had signed a tentative agreement to use the proposed terminal on the block bounded by Eighth and Ninth Avenues, West Fifteenth and West Sixteenth Streets.

Proposes New Hudson Tube.

Traffic studies by the Port Authority showed that two-thirds of the trucking traffic in the downtown west side zone passed the proposed site, he said, citing that circumstance as reason for its selection. Declaring that the Port Authority would consider the construction of a tunnel under the Hudson River at Fourteenth Street after completing the Thirty-eighth Street tunnel, Commissioner Cullman said that this projected improvement should be considered in its relation to the freight terminal a block away.

His support of the project was supplemented by speakers from the Merchants Association, the New York State Chamber of Commerce, the New York Board of Trade, the Shippers Conference of Greater New York, the City Club, the New York Freight Forwarders and Brokers Association and Harold M. Lewis, consulting engineer on city planning and former executive engineer for the Regional Plan of New York and its Environs.

Organizations approving the proposal included the Eighth Avenue Association, the Central Mercantile Association, the Twenty-third Street Association, the West Side Association, the Market and Business Men's Association of the Chelsea and Greenwich districts, the Forty-second Street Association and the Warehousemen's Association of the Port of New York.

See Menace to Realty.

Holding that the terminal constituted an industrial invasion of the traditionally residential Chelsea district, the objectors said it would impair the value of recent apartment developments in that area. James P. Eadie, representing the Moore estate which owns considerable property in the area, said the trend of population was no longer uptown, but was beginning to come back to downtown New York. He said it was essential for the city to preserve the residential areas remaining in Manhattan.

Transit Commissioner Charles C. Lockwood, representing Henry Mandel, builder, said that if the Port Authority expected to build three such terminals, that the one furthest downtown be tried first. He said the midtown terminal at Fifteenth Street would be "very harmful" to real estate in the vicinity. State Senator Philip Kleinfeld, appearing for owners of property in the Chelsea district, also voiced his objection. William A. Littell of the Market and Business Men's Association said the terminal would injure the operation of the Gansevoort market and a spokesman for the Warehousemen's Association said the Port Authority would compete unfairly with commercial warehouses because the Port Authority could build the terminal exempt from taxation.

Several of the objectors suggested an alternate site for the terminal on the block bounded by Ninth and Tenth Avenues, Seventeenth and Eighteenth Streets. J. W. Danahey of the Eighth Avenue Association and Joseph Kean of the Central Mercantile Association spoke in favor of the alternate site, the latter declaring that the Port Authority's site had an assessed valuation of $2,071,000, while the alternate site was assessed for only $1,371,000.

Declaring that the matter of a site had received careful consideration at numerous hearings, Commissioner Cullman submitted reasons against the alternate site. After excluding all blocks south of Fourteenth Street for various reasons he said the Port Authority had a choice of only its own site and the one suggested by the opposing speakers. The site on Seventeenth Street between Ninth and Tenth Avenues was unsuitable, he declared, because it was bounded on the east and north by residential areas; on the east by two schools; because it was twenty-two feet narrower than the other block; because inferior foundation would add $1,000,000 to construction cost, and because there was a fire station on the block.

Answering the objection that the Port Authority would be in unfair competition with commercial warehouses, he said the Port Authority was prepared to pay the city money in lieu of taxes and would agree not to undercut rental rates.

After listening to the arguments for more than an hour, Aldermanic President Joseph V. McKee said the Board of Estimate would require further time to study the proposal.

COÖPERATING WITH BUILDERS OF AMERICAN BUSINESS

IN FRANCE—American cotton being unloaded on the wharves at Havre. At this great port is located a Guaranty Office—a completely equipped bank for international trade. Our Havre Office facilitates the business of many prominent American shippers of cotton and other products.

A SUBSTANTIAL part of the total export and domestic movement of cotton is financed by the Guaranty Trust Company. Our exceptional service to the cotton interests is typical of that rendered to every important branch of American industry. We shall be pleased to discuss with you the banking problems involved in your domestic and international business.

Pipe line and tank farm gross domestic crude oil stocks east of the Rocky Mountains decreased 1,879,000 barrels in April. The net change shown by the reporting companies accounts for the increases and decreases in general crude oil stocks, including crude oil in transit, but not producers' stocks at the wells.

Companies aggregating 3,519,400 barrels, or 95.7 per cent of the 3,678,900 barrels estimated as the daily potential refining capacity of the United States plants operating in the week, report that crude runs to stills are operating at 75.2 per cent of their total capacity.

LATE RALLY ON CURB.

A late recovery eliminated many of the earlier losses and brought some gains on the New York Curb Exchange yesterday, under the leadership of pivotal issues brought into a buying range by recent declines. The questionnaire sought to learn the extent to which the rail carriers were cooperating with the policy of President Hoover to maintain employment and business activity in the country.

Capital expenditures actually made in the first quarter of 1930 amounted to $11,772,000 more than the estimate of $212,000,000 for the period submitted by the railroads at the conference of industrial leaders held in Washington last December at the instance of President Hoover.

Compared with the capital expenditures of the corresponding period of 1929, the total for the first quarter of this year showed an increase of 96,653,000, while compared with the corresponding period of 1928, the increase was $95,344,000. The amount in the first three months of 1930 devoted to the purchase of new equipment was $89,070,000, compared with 37,642,000 for the corresponding period of 1929. Charles C. Paulding, vice president of the New York Central, was elected a director of the New York & Harlem Railroad to succeed the late R. J. Cary at the annual meeting of the latter railroad yesterday. More than 70 per cent of stock was represented. The statement of the New York & Harlem shows total assets of $24,315,000 and a corporate deficit of $2,192,000 on March 31. Current assets were $547,000 and current liabilities $470,000. Assets include $22,419,000 road and equipment.

WHEELING CONTESTS BIDS TO CONTROL IT

Railroad Asks I. C. C. to Dismiss Petitions of Nickel Plate, Wabash and P. & W. Va.

WASHINGTON, May 20 (AP).—The Wheeling & Lake Erie Railroad asked the Interstate Commerce Commission today to dismiss three applications by other railroads seeking permission to control it.

The Wheeling is owned by the Alleghny Corporation and the Nickel Plate Railroad, but its stock is held by a trustee because the Interstate Commerce Commission ruled that Nickel Plate ownership might restrain competition.

The Wheeling asked that the Nickel Plate petition for authority to control it, be dismissed because it was not in proper form.

The Wabash Railroad also has sought authority to purchase the Wheeling and the motion today said that such control would not be in public interest. The Wabash Company, the Wheeling said, was 49 per cent owned by the Pennsylvania System.

A similar complaint was made as to the third application to control the Wheeling, advanced by the Pittsburgh & West Virginia System, which company, the motion said, was owned by the Pennroad Corporation, also an affiliate of the Pennsylvania.

ASSAILS I. C. C. MERGER PLAN

Arthur E. Barlow, president of the Newark Chamber of Commerce, announced yesterday that that body, through its directors, had taken action to urge repeal of the law giving power to the Interstate Commerce Commission to plan consolidation of the railroads of the United States.

Mr. Barlow said the board had adopted recommendations made by its transportation committee, which had investigated the consolidation plan announced by the commission and had concluded that the proposed reorganization would not work to the best interests of New Jersey.

THE first two men who, in the dawn of time, met to exchange a sheep for a stone hatchet, took the initial step in the long march of civilization through marts and market-places, guildhalls, bazaars, and trading posts, to the great modern bourses and exchanges.

The Fifteenth, Sixteenth and Seventeenth Centuries saw the birth of corporate organizations and the evolution of "shares." With the buying and selling of shares came the need of stock exchanges.

Amsterdam lays claim to having housed the first stock market in 1609. The Paris Bourse was founded in 1726, with a trading background of more than three hundred years. The London Stock Exchange was opened in 1773. In 1790 brokers met beneath a buttonwood tree, which grew beside the now famous Wall Street, and traded in securities issued by the first American Congress.

America's rapid financial, industrial, and public utility growth has been responsible for the great Stock Exchanges of our country as we know them today.

THE ORIGIN of Exchanges,

The World's First Real Estate Securities Exchange

ONE of the most remarkable business expansions in our history began to gain momentum in 1919. The real estate world was suddenly confronted with an unprecedented demand for homes, apartments, hotels, office and industrial buildings. Millions of dollars poured into real estate enterprises. Real estate securities were issued in enormous blocks. The public realized the soundness of real estate as the basis for a security and bought. Investors on the one hand began to demand that their real estate securities have all the advantages enjoyed by other types of investments—marketability—satisfactory banking collateral value—daily published quotations.

On the other hand operators wanted to know what could be done to assist them in the wider distribution of sound real estate securities upon a more economical basis so that future issues could be marketed with greater ease.

A New Exchange Meets a Nation's Need

To meet these demands, a representative group of leading real estate operators and financial experts devised, organized and finally put into operation the world's first Real Estate Securities Exchange.

Today, for the first time in history, there is an open market for the purchase and sale of the real estate securities admitted to trading on this Exchange. There is a reliable source of information as to the origin and character of such securities. The New York Real Estate Securities Exchange is creating for real estate securities the same liquidity, the same publicly established prices, and the same collateral values that other exchanges give to the securities they list.

Investigate, today, what this Exchange can do for you. Follow the published quotations in the daily newspapers. Mail this coupon, checking the information you desire.

"BEATING" the NEWS!
OF THE STOCK MARKET

WHEN you are contemplating the purchase of sound, profit-making securities, it is of vital importance that the price you pay should not too greatly discount future possibilities.

If you could devote all your working hours to an intensive study of business and the stock market, you might be reasonably sure of securing favorable prices, at least part of the time, provided that you also had unlimited resources of information and all the necessary facilities for investigation.

But, since such a combination is next to impossible for any individual investor, it becomes necessary to call in outside assistance.

A dependable service

A large and growing army of investors have learned to depend upon the Standard Statistics Company—the largest analytical and advisory organization in the World—for sound advice and information available through no other source concerning the most profitable opportunities for the investment of their funds.

Through a group of highly-trained analysts, located at strategic points throughout the country, "Standard" is in a position frequently to "beat" the news of the stock market, and to discover the most profitable investment opportunities for its clients.

How it works

And "Standard" is highly successful in doing just that. These field investigators are continually studying industrial and other properties at first hand, through intimate contact with corporation executives, bankers and others, who are glad to give them the most cordial cooperation.

As a result, our clients in many instances have the benefit of vital information long before it becomes public property. And, thus they are enabled to "get in" before the rush.

Investigate now

If YOU are interested in such a service — if you have an investment in securities sufficiently large to warrant the payment of a fee ranging upward from $1500 a year for sound guidance—you owe it to yourself to investigate Standard "Supervisory Service."

We are prepared to place at your command, through Standard Supervisory Service, the results of an expenditure running into millions of dollars each year, every penny of it devoted to the development of investment and business information and advice.

Standard Supervisory Service is not one of the thirty services which this company publishes. It is not a "ready made" service, but a strictly personal, individualized service designed to meet the particular needs of each and every client.

MANUFACTURED GAS SHOWS SMALL GAIN

NATURAL PRODUCT DOWN

Group of the Larger Companies Reports 4.4% Drop From Three Months in 1929.

Sales of manufactured gas by companies representing nearly 90 per cent of the industry during the first three months of this year aggregated 97,233,000,000 cubic feet, an increase of 2.3 per cent over the corresponding period of last year, according to Paul Ryan, chief statistician of the American Gas Association. This is considerably less than the usual year-to-year increase experienced by the manufactured gas part of the industry.

A group of the larger gas companies, representing approximately 60 per cent of the public utility distribution of natural gas, report sales of 118,355,260,000 cubic feet for the first three months, compared with 123,779,935,000 cubic feet sold by the same companies in the first quarter of 1929, a decrease of 4.4 per cent.

Such data should, however, be viewed in conjunction with the decline in general industrial and economic activity during the quarter, according to Mr. Ryan. He says these factors are reflected in a decrease of more than 5 per cent in natural gas sales for industrial purposes, with a corresponding decline in the same class of manufactured gas sales. The decline of 4 per cent in sales of natural gas for domestic purposes, according to Mr. Ryan, may be attributed in large part to the unusually mild weather prevalent throughout most sections of the country during the first three months of this year, as an appreciable proportion of the domestic consumption of natural gas is devoted to house-heating purposes, and is therefore greatly affected by weather conditions.

The tendency to provide for manufactured gas requirements by purchase gas continued during the first quarter of the current year, according to the report, the total manufactured gas produced showing a decline of 3 per cent for this period. This was the result, in large part, of the decrease of nearly 6 per cent in water gas production, of 1.6 per cent in coal gas production and a 2 per cent decline in oil gas production. Coke oven gas produced by the utilities themselves increased 5.3 per cent during the quarter, while coke oven gas purchased from merchant by-product coke companies and concerns affiliated with the iron and steel industry, registered a gain of 17 per cent.

UTILITY EARNINGS.

Interborough Rapid Transit.

The Interborough Rapid Transit Company failed to earn the full dividend rental of 5 per cent on Manhattan Railway modified guaranteed stock by $1,791,552 in the ten months ended on April 30, according to the report issued last night, while earnings in April were $161,202 short of the Manhattan 5 per cent requirements. Before such rentals, however, net income was $70,669 for the month and $527,157 for the ten months.

Gross revenue from all sources totaled $6,276,782 in April, while net earnings after expenses and taxes were $2,167,224. For the ten months gross revenues were $60,628,687 and net earnings were $20,827,986.

The operating expenses include a tentative reserve for depreciation at the rate of $50,000 annually for the Manhattan division and $1,000,000 annually on the subway division. The expenses in connection with the fare litigation charged to the subway division for the ten months ended on April 30 were $166,948. If it is finally determined that this amount is not a deduction from the revenue under contract No. 3, it will have the effect of diminishing the "balance before deducting 5 per cent Manhattan dividend rental" for the ten months.

Dividend rental has been paid during the current year to the stockholders of the Manhattan Railway Company assenting to the "plan of readjustment" on Jan. 2, 1930, 40 cents a share, and on April 1, 1930, 40 cents a share, aggregating $445,192 so far this year.

Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit.

Net income of the Brooklyn-Manhattan Transit System, including the Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corporation, amounted to $5,931,592 for the ten months ended on April 30, after taxes, charges and minority interests, equal, after preferred dividend requirements, to $6.08 a share earned on 769,911 no par common shares. Net income of the Brooklyn & Queens Transit Corporation for the period was $1,995,199, equal, after requirements on the preferred stock, to $1.31 a share earned on 800,000 no par common shares, comparing with $1,260,056, or 39 cents a share, in the same period a year ago.

MERGER PROPOSED FOR TWO UTILITIES

Columbus Electric and Power to Vote on Union With Georgia Power Company.

Stockholders of the Columbus Electric and Power Company of Columbus, Ga., will vote next Monday on a proposed consolidation of their company and the Georgia Power Company into one, to be called the Georgia Power Company. Both companies are controlled by the Commonwealth and Southern Corporation.

The merger plan provides that for each common share of the Columbus company the consolidated company will issue nine-tenths of a share of its $6 preferred stock. Fractional shares of the preferred stock will not be issued, but stockholders of Columbus Electric may buy or sell fractions at the rate of $100 a share to make complete shares. As an alternative they may exchange their holdings on the basis of four common shares and two option warrants of Commonwealth and Southern for each common share held.

Holders of Columbus Electric and Power preferred shares may receive one and one-sixth shares of the new company's $6 preferred stock for each share of preferred stock, Series B; one and one-half shares of new $6 preferred stock for each share of preferred stock, Series C; one share of new $6 preferred stock for each share of preferred stock, Series D, and one and one-sixth shares of new $6 preferred stock for each share of second preferred stock of the Columbus company.

These arrangements are a part of Commonwealth and Southern's plan to simplify the capital structure of its various subsidiary companies and follows the merger of the separate holding companies into a single corporation.

PUBLIC OFFER BY GOODRICH.

Debentures Unsold Through Rights Will Be Put Out This Week.

With stockholders' subscription rights expiring tomorrow, the unsubscribed portion of the issue of $30,000,000 fifteen-year 6 per cent convertible debentures of the B. F. Goodrich Company will be offered to the public later in the week by a banking group headed by Otis & Co., Goldman, Sachs & Co. and the Chase Securities Corporation.

Proceeds from the financing will be used in liquidating current indebtedness of the Goodrich company, a substantial amount of which was incurred in connection with acquiring the assets and business of the Hood Rubber Company and the Miller Rubber Company and for other corporate purposes.

Bankers confirmed the report that conversations are being continued regarding a possible merger of two large rubber companies. It was pointed out that economic conditions seem more propitious for an amalgamation than when it was first rumored several months ago.

SAYS TRAFFIC JAMS COST US BILLIONS

URGES STANDARD RULES

Plans for New Buildings Should Recognize Need for Easy Access, Says Report.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 20.—Traffic congestion costs the American public more than $2,000,000,000 annually, aside from losses due to traffic accidents, according to a report of the committee on measures for the relief of traffic congestion of the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, made public today.

Secretary of Commerce Lamont is chairman of the conference and E. J. Mehren of Chicago headed the traffic congestion committee. The report, with recommendations, will be submitted to the National Conference on Street and Highway Safety, which has been called by Mr. Lamont to meet here May 27, 28 and 29.

"Traffic congestion is not a necessary evil," the report said. "The Federal Government and the towns and cities are urged to take a forward step to relieve congestion by giving consideration to the needs of adequate street service adjacent when planning and constructing public buildings."

Traffic congestion, according to the report, can be alleviated and to a very large degree eliminated by careful study and judicious expenditure for immediate relief measures and permanent improvements and by the sound control of land use.

Federal, State and municipal governments should give prompt consideration to traffic congestion that will arise through erection of new buildings for governmental use, the report says.

"Plans for the location and construction of such structures should recognize the need for adequate street service adjacent to these areas, easy access to the buildings, requirements of employes for off-street parking, congestion and the needs of the general area in relation to such buildings or groups of buildings," the report said.

Outstanding among the findings and remedies proposed by the committee are the following:

1. In view of the improvement in traffic conditions that can often be effected by relatively small cost in comparison with the benefits, there should be increased expenditures in most communities for the relief of congestion.

2. Such expenditures can be made most effectively in accordance with a comprehensive plan developed by competent technical study.

3. Each municipality with a traffic problem should have a traffic commission of citizen and official members.

4. Except on a few major thoroughfares connecting large centres and at a few major intersections there is normally no serious congestion of rural highways outside of metropolitan areas.

5. Immediate relief measures to be effective must cover adequate control of traffic at important intersections, standard rules governing turns, marking of traffic lanes, parking regulations, restrictions on the loading and unloading of fuel, building materials and similar supplies, separation of traffic by allocation, protection and expedition of pedestrian movement and vigorous enforcement of regulations.

6. Permanent relief measures must include creation of major thoroughfares in accordance with traffic flow needs, improvement of intersections, elimination of grade crossings with high frequency of vehicle or train movement, widening of roadways, street extensions and connections, parallel routes, new arterial highways, development of by-pass routes, construction of parkways, development of off-street parking and loading, and provision for playgrounds for children.

COTTON PRICES RISE IN STEADY TRADING

6,000 BALES IN FROM HAVRE

Increase in Certificated Stocks Indicates Total of 575,000 Bales Finally.

Following Monday's sharp decline of $2 a bale on an improved weather outlook, prices on the Cotton Exchange steadied within a narrow trading range yesterday and finished with a gain of 5 to 12 points.

The feature of the news was the arrival in New York of 6,000 bales of American cotton reshipped from Havre, while no exports were reported to either Europe or Japan. Exports for the season are now 1,153,000 bales behind those at the same date a year ago.

With figures from Galveston lacking, the total certificated stock increased above 538,000 bales, indicating an aggregate of 575,000 or more when the cotton in New York and Savannah is classed by government agents. Brokers continued to buy May and sell July, thus releasing July contracts for covering purposes and reducing the outstanding interest in the July position. Despite the sales, July widened its premium to 115 points over October compared with 95 the previous day.

Washington's revised estimate on the 1929 area of 47,067,000 acres planted and 45,793,000 harvested compared with 47,569,000 and 45,981,000 respectively in the Dec. 1 figures. This compares with 46,946,000 acres planted and 45,341,000 harvested in 1928.

STOCKS OF COTTON RISE.

Total April 1 of 6,242,000 Bales Is Largest in Three Years.

Stocks of cotton in the United States on April 30 were 1,482,000 bales more than on the same date last year, the New York Cotton Exchange Service announced yesterday. The total was placed at 6,242,000 bales, the largest since April 30, when this year's figure was exceeded by more than 600,000 bales.

The Cotton Exchange Service's bulletin follows:

"The total stock of all kinds of cotton in all hands in this country on April 30 was 6,242,000 bales, against 4,760,000 at the end of April last year; 5,262,000 two years ago, 6,864,000 in the big crop season three years ago and 6,066,000 four years ago. The stock on April 30 this year was 1,482,000 bales larger than on the corresponding date last year, 980,000 larger than two years ago and 176,000 larger than four years ago, but 622,000 smaller than three years ago.

"If exports this season should be 6,950,000 bales and domestic consumption of all cotton 6,500,000 bales, the total stock in this country at the end of this season, July 31, would be about 4,000,000 bales. If, however, exports should total only 6,650,000 and domestic consumption only 6,350,000, the stock at end-season would be about 4,450,000.

"The stock of all kinds of cotton in all hands in this country on July 31 last year was 2,313,000 bales, two years ago 2,536,000, three years ago 3,762,000 and four years ago 3,542,000. The foreign cotton in the end-season stock last year totaled 182,000 bales."

The production in 1929 by States, bales rounded to thousands and allowances made for cross-State ginnings was:

WHEAT FALLS AGAIN, ENDING AT BOTTOM

OATS GO TO LOWS FOR CROP

Good Weather and Larger Country Offerings Dip Corn—Rye Off Sympathetically.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Operators here continue to take a bearish view of the wheat situation, and while there was fair support early today around $1.04 for July and $1.07 for September, the orders were finally filled and prices dropped further, with stop-loss orders uncovered. The finish was about the bottom, with net losses of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents, July at the inside being 3¾ cents under the high of Saturday.

Support on the extreme decline came from shorts who sold yesterday and late last week, and from holders of bids, while it was intimated that some May was taken by the government. Winnipeg was firm at the start, only to weaken later and close 1⅜ to 1½ cents lower; Liverpool fell 1¼ to 1½d and Buenos Aires was off a cent for the day.

Speculative interest in wheat is small. Prices have been on the downgrade for two days and some observers said after the close that the market was rapidly passing from an overbought to an oversold position, and they were inclined to avoid the selling side on any further decline.

Spotted Crop Conditions in Kansas.

Estimates on the yield in Kansas run from 110,000,000 to 170,000,000 bushels, and some interests contend that it is hard to estimate the yield this year. Mention of black rust was made in reports from around Minneapolis, Kansas and in the Abilene (Texas) territory, but unless the grain is unusually late in ripening no material damage is expected.

Foreign crop reports are less optimistic, due to persistent wet and cold weather, and rust is now feared in France and Italy if it should turn warmer.

While some buying of futures was attributed to cash interests, presumably removing hedges against export sales, the foreign demand generally was reported as slow, with no business confirmed by the seaboard. It is felt, however, that Europe must come to North America for supplies sooner or later and liberal sales are looked for on any further break.

Primary receipts were 605,000 bushels; a week ago, 573,000, and a year ago, 735,000. Shipments were 1,379,000 bushels; a week ago, 1,017,000, and a year ago, 1,264,000.

Heavy Selling of Corn.

Selling ran the corn market into stop loss orders and the finish was at net losses of 1⅛ to 1⅜ cents. Favorable weather over the belt, with fair and warmer indications for several days, combined with increased country offerings to arrive, were the main depressing influences. Illinois points sold 62,000 bushels to arrive today and Central Iowa offered within 1 cent of buyers' views. Shipping demand was only fair, with sales of 86,000 bushels. Buenos Aires closed 2 cents lower for the day.

Primary receipts of corn were 446,000 bushels; a week ago, 371,000, and a year ago, 316,000. Shipments were 536,000 bushels; a week ago, 1,071,000, and a year ago, 632,000.

July, September and December oats sold at new lows on the crop today, due to liquidation. A local professional started to sell September and disclosed a lack of support, with stop loss orders caught on the way down. The finish was 1¼ to 1⅝ cents lower. Cash houses took May on the decline.

Rye lost 1¼ to 2 cents in sympathy with wheat. Russia was reported to have sold heavily for May-June shipment at a price equal to 51 cents c. i. f. Rotterdam.

Prices for the principal grains were as follows:

OIL NEGOTIATIONS RUMORED

Shell Interests Now Said to Seek Paragon Refining Company.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Unconfirmable reports today were that Shell Oil interests were negotiating for the $15,000,000 Paragon Refining Company of Michigan. Paragon, in addition to its refineries, has 500 retail units, 700 tank cars and a network of pipe lines. It recently acquired the Valvoline Oil Company.

At a special meeting of stockholders of the Paragon Refining Company on May 13 in Cincinnati, E. W. Edwards, president, said another oil company had submitted an offer to purchase Paragon's assets. The Paragon company has a large refinery near Toledo, Ohio, while the Valvoline Oil Company has one at Warren, Pa.

General Industrial Alcohol Corporation

To the Holders of Convertible 6½% Sinking Fund Debentures of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation, issued under Trust Agreement dated as of May 1, 1929 between said Corporation and The National City Bank of New York, as Trustee.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that, in accordance with a certain contract dated May 10, 1930, between General Industrial Alcohol Corporation, on the one part, and American Solvents & Chemical Corporation, a Delaware corporation, on the other part, the said General Industrial Alcohol Corporation proposes to sell and transfer to the said American Solvents & Chemical Corporation all of its property and assets in accordance with the provisions of said contract. Said transfer, if effected, will take place not earlier than June 16, 1930, nor later than July 30, 1930, and the date as of which stockholders of record shall be entitled to receive their respective distributive shares in the event of such sale shall be at the close of business June 16, 1930.

In compliance with the provisions of said Trust Agreement, subsequent to the date of such transfer, if effected, the conversion privileges of the Debentures will be continued (but without provision for adjustment of the number of shares of stock issuable) and each holder of a Convertible 6½% Sinking Fund Debenture of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation shall be entitled, upon complying with the provisions of said Trust Agreement, to convert said Debenture into thirty (30) shares and no more of the Common Stock of the said American Solvents & Chemical Corporation. Upon the completion of said transfer, if effected, the right of the holders of said Debentures to convert their Debentures into Voting Trust Certificates in respect of the Common Stock and/or into Common Stock of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation shall cease.

The performance of said contract is contingent, among other things, on the verification by auditors of the representations of the two parties made in said contract, on the approval of stockholders of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation, the approval of counsel, and the performance by Rossville Commercial Alcohol Corporation of a certain contract dated May 10, 1930, between it and the said American Solvents & Chemical Corporation.

In the event that for any reason whatsoever said contemplated transfer of assets by General Industrial Alcohol Corporation to American Solvents & Chemical Corporation is not effected, the conversion right of the holder of each Convertible 6½% Sinking Fund Debenture of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation shall remain unchanged. This existing right is to receive thirty shares of Common Stock of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation, in accordance with the provisions of said Trust Agreement.

In accordance with said contract between General Industrial Alcohol Corporation and American Solvents & Chemical Corporation, if the proposed transfer of assets is completed, holders of Voting Trust Certificates in respect of the Common Stock of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation and/or stockholders shall be entitled to receive one (1) share of Common Stock of American Solvents & Chemical Corporation for each share of stock and/or Voting Trust Certificate of General Industrial Alcohol Corporation held. Consequently, if the proposed transfer is effected, Debenture holders on conversion will receive the same amount of stock of American Solvents & Chemical Corporation, whether they convert prior to the transfer or immediately thereafter. After the transfer the Debenture holders will be entitled on conversion to thirty (30) shares of Common Stock (as from time to time constituted) of American Solvents & Chemical Corporation for each $1,000. principal amount of Debentures, and no adjustments will be made in the number of shares issuable.

COMPROMISES HIT BY CUSTOMS COURT

CALLED UNHOLY AGREEMENT

Characterizing a compromise settlement reached by attorneys for the government and for A. H. Smith & Co., importers, as an "unholy agreement" which would deprive the government of its chances of collecting more than $436,000 in duties, Justice Charles P. McClelland of the United States Customs Court yesterday refused to ratify a stipulation as to the value of perfumes imported by the company. In a lengthy opinion handed down with his decision, Justice McClelland calls attention to the fact that the value at which the perfume was entered by the importer was increased from 50 to 300 per cent by customs officials, and later reduced to within 24 per cent of the original value through consent of the Assistant United States Attorney General.

The decision covers a test case which would govern the disposition of 127 other pending cases, involving valuations on various shipments of perfumes from France. In each of the cases the appraiser raised the valuations upon which the imports were to be assessed for duty.

Declaring that there was "not a scintilla of evidence" to sustain the valuation upon which the government attorneys compromised, Justice McClelland in his written opinion stated: "I feel constrained to add that the stipulation herein is but an illustration of what I am convinced is an indefensible practice which has developed during the past decade to such an extent that proving the claims of importers in protest and appeal cases in this court may be said to be the exception rather than the rule."

In addition he pointed out that if the government had prosecuted to a successful outcome it would stand to collect $721,513.73 in duties and additional duties, whereas under the stipulation only $285,447.45 would have been paid. He charged that the stipulation as to value was not based upon fact "but upon an assumption wholly without evidence to sustain it and was used solely with the view of limiting the action of the court as to a ratification of the values agreed upon."

Charles D. Lawrence, Assistant Attorney General in charge of customs litigation, in a statement replying to the insinuation that his office was lax in pressing the claim, said yesterday that in his opinion the government had obtained as fair a settlement as was possible under the circumstances. He claimed the difference of opinion between the court and the attorneys turned on the right of the latter under the law to make compromise settlements.

"The right has been upheld repeatedly in the highest courts of the land," Mr. Lawrence continued. "In Solomon v. the United States, a case involving the right of government attorneys to stipulate, the Court of Customs and Patent Appeals has already held that it would be a strange thing if litigants or their representatives could not get together and agree among themselves and the court as to what are the relevant facts touching the litigated issues."

Mark Eisner of the law firm of Olvany, Eisner & Donnelly, in commenting on the decision, stated that his clients, A. H. Smith & Co., would appeal the case at once.

MACHINERY TRADE QUIET.

Sales Slow in the Last Week, While Inquiries Are Spotty.

The trend of trade in the market for machinery and machine-tools is extremely irregular according to American Machinist. It is stated that business of sizable proportions reported in one week is counter balanced by a sharp slump the next.

"The general level of machine-tool sales has shown little, if any, rise in the past month or two, despite improvement in the positions of prospective customers," says the Trade Journal. "Inquiries are also spotty, while demand for used-tools is quiet in some sections, good in others.

"Machinery orders in the New York market during the past week were few and far between and inquiries were likewise slow, but the second-hand market was reported active. Chicago dealers expect the May volume to be lower than April, based on bookings so far this month, and do not look for an upturn until July.

"Although improvement is looked for soon, Philadelphia market reports indicate little activity there. Business in the New England territory is likewise dull. Cleveland machine-tool business is unchanged. Cincinnati is optimistic, although sales totals are small. Detroit machinery bookings have again declined in spite of better conditions in the automotive industry. Cincinnati manufacturers report a slight improvement, although dealers notice little change."

BUSINESS WORLD

COMMERCIAL PAPER.

Yesterday..3¾ to 4 per cent for the best names.
Monday...3¾ to 4 per cent for the best names.
The quotations are for 4 to 6 months' paper.

Drop in Buyers Here.

The number of buyers in town during the week ended yesterday showed a drop in comparison with the figures of the preceding week and a year ago, according to the lists published in THE TIMES. The total for the past week was 716, as compared with 730 buyers in the preceding week and 834 in the corresponding week last year. Buyers reported in the market yesterday were 248, as against 306 listed on Tuesday last week.

Fall Volume Still Behind.

Delay continues to mark the placing of volume orders for Fall in many lines, in which even during the last few years at least some advance business has been placed. Estimates made yesterday say this business is from a month to six weeks later in developing than was the case a year ago. This situation was held true in more or less degree of fabrics, toys, home furnishings, boys' and men's clothing and numerous specialty items of merchandise. Both chain systems and department stores were reported to be dilatory. A definite turn in commodities and the tariff situation would result in quick improvement in orders, it was held.

Plan "Vest Pocket" Color Card.

Plans are under way for the issuance of "vest-pocket" color cards for the guidance of buyers, merchandise managers and stylists operating in this market, it was learned yesterday. The cards will be sponsored by the merchandise managers' division of the National Retail Dry Goods Association as part of its retail color coordination efforts now in progress. The colors were recently chosen from the Fall color card of the Textile Color Card Association, which is cooperating in the move. Ten colors will be shown on the card, which is the first of its kind.

Trend to Nets in Fall Curtains.

A revival of the vogue for nets next Fall in the popular-priced curtain field is looked for by those in the trade. Early orders have shown a leaning toward nets in pastel and varied ecru shades. Fall business to date has been limited but is expected to improve in the next few weeks. Orders for current merchandise are coming in regularly. Emphasis on voiles in pastel colorings continues in the requests for goods for immediate delivery.

Bureau to Enforce Cloak Terms.

What is hailed as a significant step in the cloak trade's determination to enforce trade regulations covering terms and returns was made yesterday in the statement that the Central Bureau of Trade Practices is now functioning officially. The bureau is a joint creation of the Industrial Council of Cloak, Suit and Skirt Manufacturers, Inc., and the Merchants' Ladies' Garment Association. One feature of the work will be the periodic examination of books of member firms of the association to see that the trade regulations are being "minutely" observed. This is the first time a procedure of this kind has been taken in the trade.

Producers Busy on Fall Chinaware.

With current activity in popular-price chinaware continuing at a subnormal rate, manufacturers and selling agents at present are concentrating their attention on Fall lines. The number of buyers in the market at present is small and their purchasing is limited to replacements. Although details regarding producers' plans for Fall have not been announced, it is known that most of the companies are planning innovations to attract greater interest to their products. New designs both in body and decoration of dinner-set pieces are contemplated, it was stated yesterday.

See Straw Hat Pickup Near.

Developments in straw hat retailing so far have proved a keen disappointment to the trade. After what appeared to be a most auspicious start during the recent hot spell, turnover dwindled because of the abrupt return of cool weather. The belief in the trade, however, is that sales at the coming week-end will see the season definitely launched from a volume standpoint, inasmuch as most consumers normally will buy their Summer headgear before the arrival of Memorial Day. It was recalled in the trade yesterday that in some quarters May 24 had been originally selected as the opening date.

Sharp Rise in Union Suit Sales.

A sharp increase in the demand for men's nainsook union suits has attracted the attention of selling agents for underwear mills this week. As many orders are now being received for union suits as for men's shorts and athletic shirts. Until recently the demand for union suits constituted little more than 25 per cent of the business done. The change is noticed chiefly in the popular-price lines, where garments retailing at from 49 to 59 cents are selling freely. Selling agents yesterday explained the sudden shift with the theory that many of the stores underestimated the union suit's popularity.

Velvets Stand Out for Fall.

The reception thus far accorded Fall lines of silks tends to substantiate previous expectation that velvets will prove outstanding for the new season. Advance orders for these goods have been coming through, although complaint has again been raised in the trade that the pricing is highly competitive and not on a satisfactory basis. Crêpe-back satins and cantons are also assuming leadership in the new offerings and promise to be among the goods on which a volume business will be done. Most firms in the trade have made considerable headway in the liquidation of Spring stocks, in which they were aided by warmer weather recently.

Gray Goods Trading Still Dull.

Another day of dull trading was experienced in the gray goods market yesterday. Orders for merchandise were as small as on the preceding day and were limited to immediate requirements. Prices remained unchanged. Small orders for 38½-inch 60-48s were filled at 5 cents and for 38½-inch 64-60s at 6 cents. There was a little more activity in 39-inch 68-72s at 6⅞ cents. Trading in sheetings was slow.

Sees Improved Indian Market.

Prospects of improved purchasing power among the natives of India justify the attention of American companies figuring on developing that market, George W. Leman, representative in India for the Irving Trust Company, told the Export Managers' Club of New York, Inc., yesterday at their regular luncheon in the Hotel Pennsylvania. He added, however, that uncertainty over the present unsettled conditions there, inadequate credit data on native Indian companies and the difficulty of finding satisfactory agents, present discouraging factors to American exporters.

LESS COPPER USED IN FIRST QUARTER

Consumption in United States 25,000 Tons Under Initial Three Months of 1929.

EXPORTS ARE ALSO LOWER

Small Demand Results in Cut of 10 Points in Lead, to 5½ Cents a Pound.

Copper consumption in the United States in the first quarter of 1930 was approximately 25,000 tons under that in the corresponding quarter of 1929, the American Bureau of Metal Statistics reported yesterday. The building industry consumed 11,000 short tons in the first quarter, compared with 15,000 in the first quarter of 1929; the automobile industry 24,000 tons, against 37,000, and manufacturers of electrical goods 53,000 tons, contrasted with 52,000.

Copper in manufactured articles exported amounted to 15,300 tons in the first quarter, compared with 22,300 in the first quarter of 1929, the bureau estimates. These manufactures included plates and sheets, rods, wire and other primary fabrications of copper and brass.

Buying of non-ferrous metals was dull yesterday. Sales of copper for export amounted to 6,000,000 pounds, compared with 14,000,000 on Monday. Total sales for export since the beginning of May were 192,000,000 pounds.

Prices of Lead Are Reduced.

Prices of lead were reduced 10 points yesterday, to 5.50 cents a pound, as a result of small demand. Several days ago the price was increased 10 points.

The following table shows the consumption of copper in short tons as reported by the bureau:

Favorable Weather Keeps Demand Up to Recent High Level.

Favorable weather conditions in most sections of the country kept the demand for hardware at its recent high level during the past week, according to the market summary of Hardware Age. Prices are generally steady, although there is an easier tendency noticeable in certain staple lines as well as in merchandise of seasonable character. The Age says that collections show a slight improvement, and in discussing conditions in various parts of the country says in part:

"Torrid temperatures in most trade territories during the past week are responsible for an avalanche of orders to wholesalers for stock replenishments of hot-weather merchandise. Some sections suffering from insufficient rainfall found it difficult to supply the overwhelming demand for articles needed to water and care for growing lawns and gardens. Some shortages were reported, although for the most part stocks on hand were adequate.

"New England is practically the one exception to a general improvement in demand. Unsettled weather in that trade territory has retarded the demand. In contrast, Pittsburgh, Chicago, Twin Cities, Atlanta, Cincinnati and New York hardware markets show a marked increase in the current demand. Wholesalers in some of the latter markets are now predicting that May sales will show a gain over a year ago."

LIVE STOCK IN CHICAGO.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Demand for hogs was less active today and all of Monday's advance was wiped out, with a decline of 10 cents and the finish weak. The top was off 10 cents to $10.30, while the day's average fell a like amount to $10. Most sales were at $9.85 to $10.20, with 250 to 350 pound butchers $9.65 to $10.15, 160 to 250 pound averages $9.75 to $10.30, and packing sows $9 to $9.65. Packers bought 16,100 and shippers 5,000, with 6,000 left over. Receipts were 23,000, with 14,000 estimated for tomorrow. The five leading Western points expect 66,000 hogs tomorrow, compared with 56,900 a week ago.

Receipts of cattle increased and the market was quoted as weak to 25 cents lower. A few choice heavy steers brought former prices. Best steers sold at $14.35, with the bulk of beef cattle at $10.25 to $12.25. Receipts were 8,500.

Spring lambs were in active demand, advancing 25 to 50 cents, while aged were barely steady. Best California sold at $11.25 to $11.40. Shorn stock sold mainly at $9 to $9.75. Sheep were steady to 25 cents higher at $4.25 to $5.50. Receipts were 11,000.

LIVE STOCK AND MEATS.

These prices were quoted yesterday in the New York and New Jersey markets by the United States Department of Agriculture:

No cattle, vealers, calves or hogs on sale.

SHEEP.

Spring lambs steady to strong, two loads outstanding; 69 pound and 75 pound docked and trimmed Tennessee experiment lambs, $12.75 and $13.50. Bulk, good to choice, $12 to $12.50.

REVIVED COTTON ITEMS SHOWN IN GARMENTS

Makers' Display at Chicago Also Has Colored Wash Suits for Men.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 20.—Products of the cotton looms which have not been seen for many years until this season are being displayed at the annual convention of the International Association of Garment Manufacturers, which opened here today.

Calicos and ginghams, dotted Swiss, batistes, quaintly sprigged cambrics, such as the younger generation's grandmothers wore, as well as picques and chambrays, organdy and voile, are being thumbed by garment manufacturers.

Among the new fashions shown are overall costumes for women, consisting of a short-sleeved blouse and overalls to match made in pastel colors. They may be worn on the beach, or for gardening or housework, it was explained.

The modern flare for color has invaded the filling station and the factory, and men hereafter may go to their work of building houses or laying a gas pipe in overalls or coveralls of powder blue, green or yellow, with perhaps a little embroidery on the back. The garments are displayed in the convention booths.

In a men's style show, a suit made of wash materials to retail for $7 was shown. English and Eastern men's universities in which students recently promoted a campaign to free men from the necessity of wearing hot, uncomfortable clothing, were praised by manufacturers attending the convention. Some predicted that men would before many years wear wash suits with short trousers reaching above the knee.

MAPS ARBITRATION GAINS.

Association Report Says 300 Trade Groups Are Linked in System.

More than 300 trade associations have been linked in a unified national arbitration system of law claims and 290 law firms have used the services of the American Arbitration Association in the preparation and settlement of claims, the third annual report of the association records. In 1929, the records show, 387 cases, including those which were pending at the beginning of the year, were submitted to arbitration in its New York City tribunals. Of this number 140 were settled privately or withdrawn.

In disposing of the remainder 276 hearings were required, with 509 arbitrators serving in the cases. In practically every case conducted under the rules of the association, the report states, the courts have upheld the decision of the arbitrators when an appeal has been made to have the award set aside. The association has issued a warning on arbitration clauses, calling the attention of business men to the losses and inconvenience which result from vacated awards.

SUGAR, COFFEE, COCOA.

Sugar.

The sugar market, both for raw and refined, was stagnant yesterday, attributed in part to the Cuban holiday, with no actual spot sales reported and little activity in the futures market. At the close of the market both Cuban and duty-free sugar was freely offered at 1 7-16 cents a pound, the price at which sales were made on Monday, but buyers had temporarily withdrawn from the market. There was no change in refined sugar, refiners quoting 4.90 and second-hand refined available at 4.65.

The price range in the futures market was:

REVIEW OF THE DAY IN REALTY MARKET

Leasehold Deals Are More Numerous Than Sales of Properties in Manhattan.

LOANS MADE IN 3 BOROUGHS

Brokers Report Brisk Business in Leasing of Space for Commercial and Housing Purposes.

Reports of pending transactions were current in real estate circles yesterday, but properties actually under contract were few in number and leasehold deals occupied a place of greater importance in the day's trading than changes in fee ownership. There was more activity, however, in the leasing of space for business purposes and the renting of apartments. Agents of west side houses said they were doing a good business for this time of year.

The largest gain was made in mortgage financing, which was scattered over Manhattan, the Bronx and Brooklyn. In these three boroughs loans were obtained on apartment and commercial structures.

Sale on West 102d Street.

A two-story business building at 430-442 West 125th Street was bought by the 688 Ninth Avenue Corporation (A. B. and B. B. Block) from the Mount Pleasant Estates. The building is on a plot 175 by 98 by 210 feet.

The entire building at 147 East Fifty-sixth Street was leased by the Van Lex Realty Company to R. Tinacci through Brown, Wheelock: Harris, Vought & Co.

The six-story building at 323, 325 and 327 West Sixteenth Street was leased by the Duross Company, as broker, to the Seymour Company.

J. Clarence Davies, Inc., leased to the 125 Maiden Lane Corporation, Arthur Cutler, president, 125 Maiden Lane and 9 Fletcher Street, nineteen feet on the former and nineteen feet on the latter street, a six-story building, eighty feet west of Water Street. The term is from May 5, 1930, to April 30, 1951, the rental not being given in the recorded instrument. This lease will be subordinate to a mortgage for $75,000, or any mortgage to the extent of seventy per cent of the appraised value of the devised premises. This property was purchased by the lessor in December last from George F. Moody, who had just taken title to it from the trustees of Eliza Gardner Board, who had held it since November, 1884.

West 19th Street Lease.

For twenty-one years from July 1 next the building at 211-215 West Nineteenth Street, 150 feet west of Seventh Avenue, has been leased by Clement March to the Pechman Holding Corporation, Herbert Pechman, president, the yearly rental increasing from $6,500 for the first year to $9,000 for the last six years of the term, in addition to the taxes, assessments, &c.

The lease of the premises on the north side of 109th Street, 120 feet east of First Avenue, 25 feet of frontage, held by the 109th Street Live Poultry Company, Inc., with its renewal options, has been sold by that corporation to the Albert L. Winkel Live Poultry Corporation. This lease is held from the estate of James McGuinness, who purchased the property in July, 1890, from Enoch C. Bell.

The lease of the building at 186 West 102d Street, expiring April 30, 1940, held by the 186 West 102d Street Company, Inc., has been sold by it to Samuel Goldberg of 75 Tapscott Street, Brooklyn.

M. in the office of Brown's Letters, Inc., construction reports, at 100 East Forty-second Street. Mr. Ernst's talk will cover the engineering and architectural aspects of floating steel aircraft landing units. Architects, contractors and others connected with building are invited to the talk.

The mortgagee is Yetta Cooperman of 3,232 Hull Avenue, the Bronx.

On 510 Madison Avenue, a lot 28 by 100 feet on the southwest corner of Fifty-third Street, Sally Wood Nixon gave a mortgage for $20,000, due March 4, 1932, at 5½ per cent, to the Franklin Savings Bank.

NEW YORK BUILDERS TO CONFER IN LONDON

John W. Harris of the Hegeman-Harris Company and Colonel William A. Starrett of Starrett Brothers, Inc., New York builders, who were appointed delegates to the Fifth International Congress of Building and Public Works by President Hoover, sailed last night on the Bremen for London. With eleven other leaders of the construction industry who had already sailed, they will represent the United States at the conference.

Motion pictures demonstrating American methods of construction and showing many important buildings, especially of the skyscraper type, are being brought to the congress by Mr. Harris and Colonel Starrett. Mr. Harris will read a paper on the condition of the building business in the United States. His address has been translated into French by the secretariat of the congress for the use of non-English speaking delegates.

"I had the good fortune to be a delegate to the last congress in Paris in 1925," said Mr. Harris. "At the Paris congress some seventy countries were represented and the American delegates derived a great deal of profitable information by contact with men in our industry from other countries. I am quite sure the present conference in London will prove equally agreeable and profitable.

"The building business, as an industry, is in a bad way, economically, in other countries, as well as in the United States, and these conferences have proved exceedingly helpful in bringing about greater understanding and free exchange of ideas. The agenda of the London conference include such subjects as the unification of the principal conditions of contract imposed by public authorities or other owners upon the contractor, scientific research, education and training for those intending to become employers in the building business, the housing problem and apprenticeship.

"It will be seen that this program is very practical and designed to bring to the surface the best thought of leading builders of the world, and we are hopeful that we will bring back to the United States many ideas that will be helpful in the solution of our own problems."

BROOKLYN TO FIGHT JOINT RATE APPEAL

LOSS OF $20,000,000 FEARED

Traffic Manager Files Petition for Intervention in Both Cases to Be Heard at Newark June 26.

When the State of New Jersey appears before the Interstate Commerce Commission on June 26 to press its claim for additional freight rates between railhead and terminal its case will be augmented by the Commonwealth of Massachusetts, which also has filed a formal complaint with the commission.

This was learned yesterday through A. C. Welsh, traffic manager for the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce, whose petition has been accepted by the commission for intervention in both cases. It is contended by the chamber that its membership comprises many of the important Brooklyn shippers who would be affected and it asked that permission be granted to enter into the controversy.

The State of New Jersey seeks to alter existing freight rates so as to include additional charges for lighterage and flat car between the terminal base at New Jersey and the actual destination. Such a change, it is contended, would affect Brooklyn shippers at the rate of $20,000,000 annually. The water-haulage cost is now included in the long-haul rates. It is the contention of New Jersey that because of its natural geographical location it should not submit to the same rate charges applicable to more distant points.

The State of Massachusetts, through the Port of Boston Authority, will proceed along the same general lines, according to the complaint. It is maintained that because its harbor arrangement precludes extensive use of lighters or flat cars, the cost included in the existing rates for this service should be deleted. The Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce interprets this move on the part of Boston as an alignment with the New Jersey forces against Brooklyn, inasmuch as it might mean additional cost for water hauls.

In the complaint the Boston Port Authority points out that the existing rates as levied by the railroads through the Interstate Commerce Commission are in violation of the United States Constitution. It is asserted that such rates retard the growth of the section, prevent adequate development and are prejudicial to the Commonwealth.

"The theory of delivery expense in the terminal area as being part of the long-haul rate is as old as the rate structure of this country," Mr. Welsh said. "It has been applied in every large city, and any attempt at radical destruction of this principle will result in chaos."

He said that if the port of New York was about one-tenth as large as it is, this feature would not be mentioned, but because of the extensive limits of the port, the water-haulage angle is in the spotlight.

At the hearing in Newark on June 26, Boston will be represented by Johnston B. Campbell, former commissioner of the Interstate Commerce Commission. Colonel William N. Dykman and T. H. Burgess will appear for the Brooklyn Chamber of Commerce.

CONTRACT AVERAGE GAINS.

Local Building Awards Show Daily Total Above That in May, 1929.

Contracts for new building and engineering work in the metropolitan area of New York this month average $4,530,000 a business day, as compared with $3,788,000 in May, 1929, according to the F. W. Dodge Corporation, though the total since the first of this year is $399,512,700, whereas $462,018,000 was the aggregate in the corresponding period last year.

Awards during the week from May 10 to 16 totaled $31,173,700, including public works and utilities, $9,249,300, of which almost $7,000,000 was for new subway work; residential buildings, including a $2,000,000 apartment and bank structure, $8,208,800; commercial buildings, including a $4,000,000 office building, $6,404,600, and educational buildings $4,128,500.

Construction work reported as in the contemplated stage last week amounted to $56,075,900.

Lower East Side Owners to Meet.

Property owners of the lower east side have been invited to attend a meeting to be held tomorrow night in the auditorium of the Bowery Savings Bank, under the auspices of the East Side Chamber of Commerce. Subjects to be discussed include new zoning restrictions, sewer improvements, progress on new transit lines and a community plan for the district.

ASKS SHIPPERS' AID AGAINST RAIL MERGERS

Committee Seeks Approval for Couzens Resolution to Defer Consolidations.

The Shippers' Conference of Greater New York will be asked at its next meeting to declare itself in favor of the Senate resolution introduced by Senator Couzens in opposition to railroad consolidation when it acts on a report submitted by its legislative committee.

The report of the committee, headed by Parker McCollester, reads in part as follows:

"It is believed that to the extent that the resolution would defer consolidation and also to the extent that the resolution attempts to make the operation of holding companies in securing the control of railroads subject to the [Interstate Commerce] commission's jurisdiction, the resolution should have the approval of the conference."

The Shippers' Conference has already voted favorably on a report of its legislative committee, which discussed consolidation as follows:

"In general, this committee doubts the wisdom, from the shippers' standpoint, of large systems which will tend further to remove responsibility for management from direct contact with shippers and receivers of freight and reduce competition between carriers."

POLISH LINER ARRIVES.

The Kosciuszko, First of Baltic Ships, at Brooklyn Pier.

When the Baltic American liner Kosciuszko arrived yesterday from Danzig via Halifax the United States Public Health officials boarded her for a search at quarantine before the liner was permitted to land her passengers in Brooklyn. Several cases of measles had been reported on the liner in dispatches from Halifax where several passengers suffering from light attacks of the disease were removed. After an inspection yesterday the ship was permitted to enter as no traces of measles were found on board.

The Kosciuszko, formerly the Lituania, is the first of the Baltic American ships to be transferred to the Polish flag under a contract with the Polish Government and plans had been made yesterday for a celebration in honor of the new service to Poland. Prominent Poles were to have taken part in the exercises on the pier at Thirty-ninth Street, Brooklyn, but they did not appear.

The official of the Polish Consulate explained that complete transfer had not yet been made but that within a few weeks the Kosciuszko and the Pulaski, formerly the Estonia, would be flying the Polish flag. It was expected the celebration will take place on the arrival of the next ship.

CUNARD CUTS PENSION AGE.

Captains and Chief Engineers May Now Retire at 60.

With a view to relieving the congestion caused by promotions to the ranks of captain and chief engineer in its steamship services the Cunard Line has decided that those who desire to retire at the age of 60, instead of remaining until they reach the regular age limit of 63, may do so and go on pension.

The company also has the option of retiring any captain or officer at 60 for ill health or any other reason the directors may deem proper.

Captain William Hossack, who has served thirty-four years, has retired because of ill health, and Captain G. W. Melson will retire next month on reaching 60.

The idea of the directors at first was to make the retirement at 60 compulsory, but the pension fund was not big enough to meet the number who would have been entitled to draw upon it, if that ruling had gone into effect.

SANDY HOOK LINE TO OPEN.

Scout Leaders to Assist at First Sailing of Season on Sunday.

The Sandy Hook steamer service will open its seventy-first season next Sunday when about 200 patrol leaders of the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts of the city take an all-day trip on the Sandy Hook as guests of the Central Railroad of New Jersey. Flag-raising exercises will be held just before the boat leaves and Colonel W. V. Shipley, passenger traffic manager of the railroad, will speak.

The Sandy Hook service will be augmented this season by an all-day sail-motor-shore luncheon tour to Asbury Park and return. Later in the season dinner and twilight sails will be added to the program. The steamers Sandy Hook and Monmouth have been overhauled.

CANADIAN VACATIONS

A New World . . . at your Door!

THE glamour of a romantic past still lives in old French Canada. Much of the architecture of the Richelieu period remains today, not as picturesque ruins but in houses and buildings still in actual use. Little villages, clustered around tall church spires, dream in the sun beneath the slopes of the Laurentian mountains.

The Saguenay river was once believed to be the water route to China. Early voyageurs paddled up its black waters awe-inspiring beneath the towering grandeur of rocky capes. Their subsequent laughter gave rise to the christening of Ha Ha Bay. As you relax on the wide decks of our luxurious steamers, scenes of almost unbelievable beauty and grandeur pass slowly beyond the rail.

Please write at once for illustrated folder, which describes in detail the pleasures of this wonderful vacation cruise.

VERY IMPORTANT

CANADA STEAMSHIP LINES operate from the head of Lake Superior, via the St. Lawrence River, to the Saguenay. Their cruises include the seven day trip from Detroit to Duluth and return; Niagara to the Saguenay, including the Thousand Islands and shooting the rapids; excursions from Toronto, the Queen City, to Niagara, the Thousand Islands and Rochester. They operate a fleet of 106 steamers, freight and passenger, and are the largest fresh water transportation company in the world. The famous Saguenay trip includes visits to Montreal, metropolis of Canada; Quebec, the historic walled city; Murray Bay, "Newport of the North" and Tadoussac, Canada's oldest settlement. The Saguenay Canyon is one of nature's masterpieces.

Our steamers may be boarded at Lewiston, Rochester, Duluth or Detroit in the U.S.A., or Sarnia, Queenston, Toronto, Montreal or Quebec in Canada.

NEW HAVEN STATIC IN CENSUS COUNT

Gain of Only 113 to Total of 162,650 Is Explained by the Drift to Growing Suburbs.

WILMINGTON, DEL., DECLINES

Trend to Towns Near By Depletes City by 5,227, to 104,941—Rural Maryland Also Falls Off.

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 20 (AP).—The trend of city dwellers to suburban towns is reflected in census figures of New Haven and surrounding communities made public today.

In the past decade New Haven's population figure has remained practically static. A gain of only 113, or .0685 per cent, is shown in the present figure of 162,650 over 162,537 for 1920.

On the other hand, Hamden, an adjacent town, grew from 8,611 to 20,250, an increase of 135 per cent, and West Haven, including the town of Orange, from 16,614 to 27,166, a gain of 63 per cent. East Haven and North Haven likewise contributed to absorbing the city's normal growth.

New Haven barely held her lead over Hartford, the State capital, which has reported 161,324 inhabitants, as compared with 138,036 in 1920, an advance of 16.8 per cent. In comparison with other cities of the country New Haven has been passed by Youngstown and Dayton, Ohio; Grand Rapids, Mich.; Memphis, Tenn., and Dallas and Houston, Texas.

Wilmington, Del., Loses to Suburbs.

WILMINGTON, Del., May 20 (AP).—Wilmington, the only city in Delaware with more than 10,000 inhabitants, shows a loss of 5,227, or 4.74 per cent, in the present census, as compared with that of 1920.

This year's total is 104,941, while that of ten years ago was 110,168. This is accounted for by the fact that within the decade upward of 10,000 persons have located in new settlements immediately adjoining the city.

Rural Eastern Maryland Dwindles.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 20 (AP).—Dwindling rural populations in the counties of the Eastern Shore of Maryland were reported today by A. Stengle Marine, census supervisor. The count is complete in all but one of the eight counties.

Increases, however, were shown by all of the principal towns. Salisbury, county seat of Wicomico, jumped 44 per cent from its 1920 population to 10,981. Cambridge, second-place town, gained 1,064 inhabitants to register 8,531.

80,620 Increase for Rhode Island.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 20 (AP).—Rhode Island has a population of 685,017, an increase of 80,620, or 13.3 per cent, an unofficial computation showed today.

Newport, with a present population of 27,430, lost 2,825 in the decade. The decrease is due in part to the difference in the personnel at the Naval Training Station, which had 2,861 in 1920 and now has 1,193.

Granite State Gains 18,039.

CONCORD, N. H., May 20 (AP).—Census figures completed today showed a total population for New Hampshire of 460,325, a gain of 18,309 since 1920.

Vermont Towns Gain Slightly.

BURLINGTON, Vt., May 20 (AP).—Vermont's three census supervisors have announced 1930 figures for about 90 per cent of the towns and cities in the State and the results so far give a slight gain over the 1920 totals.

Towns and cities to the number of 216 now have a population of 315,328, which is 5,839 more than in 1920. St. Johnsbury and Windsor are the only large towns still unreported.

Further Reports on the Census.

Other census figures made public yesterday by The Associated Press included:

PLATTSBURG, N. Y. (including army barracks)—13,333; increase 2,324, or 11 per cent.

HAMDEN, CONN.—20,250; increase 11,639, or 135.18 per cent.

DERBY, CONN.—10,790; decrease 448, or 3.98 per cent.

WALTHAM, MASS.—39,425; increase 8,510, or 26.5 per cent.

WATERTOWN, MASS.—34,860; increase 13,403, or 62.4 per cent.

FIFTY BABIES PARADE AT PLAYGROUND FETE

The annual Spring festival of the Schermerhorn Playground, 415 West Thirty-eighth Street, was held yesterday under the auspices of the Children's Aid Society. Several hundred mothers and their children attended, and more than fifty babies were in the baby parade.

The event was presided over by Miss Pauline Robinson, president of the West Side Children's Centre, 419 West Thirty-eighth Street, which has just been remodeled as a boys' and girls' club. Mrs. G. Inselman directed the program in the girls' yard, which included folk dances and songs.

Miss Marie Beaumont, 12 years old, announced the events through an amplifier system. There were old English minuets, a windmill dance, an Oriental dance and "pyramids" by the boys. Amos 'n' Andy were depicted in a converted baby carriage labeled "Fresh Air Taxicab Company of America, Incorpulated," while the Stein Song of the University of Maine was changed to "Camp Song of the Schermerhorn Boys."

The mothers afterward inspected the Children's Centre, which was formerly the West Side Industrial School and was formally reopened yesterday. The cost of remodeling was a gift of the estate of Mrs. John Innes Kane. William Cruikshank, a trustee of the estate, made a short address.

PASSAIC POPULATION FELL 733 IN 10 YEARS

Census Total Is Given as 63,108—Supervisors Here Strive to Finish by June 1.

Special to The New York Times.

PATERSON, N. J., May 20.—Census returns from the city of Passaic show the 1930 population to be 63,108, a decrease of 733 from 1920, according to Census Supervisor Carl Unger today.

Tentative returns from the sixteen municipalities indicate that the population of Passaic County is 300,839. It was 259,175 in 1920.

Census supervisors in Greater New York are making every effort to complete their enumeration by June 1, the date set by them at the meeting held last week in the office of Bruno B. Saloschin, supervisor of the twenty-second district. Officials are hopeful of being able to devote the month of June to the tabulation of results.

In spite of the efforts which have been made by supervisors, some residents of Greater New York have not yet complied with requirements of the law.

J. H. Moran of 504 West Seventy-ninth Street and Rose Farkas of 511 East Seventy-seventh Street have failed to answer the grand jury subpoenas served by the United States marshal for neglect to comply with the requirements of the census regulations, according to the statement issued by Edward F. Corsi, supervisor of the twenty-third census district, yesterday.

The other two subpoenas in the case of the recalcitrants of his district have not been served because Nellie Madden of 519 East Seventy-ninth Street and Margaret Hession of 511 East Seventy-ninth Street could not be located.

Women's City Club Elects.

Mrs. Martha Bensley Bruère has been elected president of the Women's City Club of New York, it was announced yesterday. Other officers elected include Mrs. William H. Good, first vice president; Miss Susan Brandeis, secretary, and Mrs. Percy Grier Hart, treasurer. Vice presidents and directors are Mrs. Samuel A. Lewisohn, Miss Martha L. Draper, Miss Mabel Hyde Kittredge, Mrs. Ransom L. Hooker, Mrs. John Edmund MacKenty, Miss Harriet Townsend, Miss Dorothy Kenyon, Mrs. H. Edward Dreier, Mrs. Henry Goddard Leach and Mrs. Edward C. Carter.

DECISION RESERVED IN M'INTOSH CASE

BLAND APPEAL IS ARGUED

J. W. Davis and Emily Marx Attack Lower Court Rulings on Arms-Bearing Issue.

The United States Court of Appeals reserved decision yesterday after hearing argument in the cases of the Rev. Dr. Douglas Clyde MacIntosh, Professor of Theology at Yale Divinity School, and Marie Averil Bland, Canadians, who served in the World War, but to whom citizenship was denied by a lower court, because each refused to promise to bear arms as required in the oath of allegiance to the United States.

"I don't believe," Mr. Davis told the court, "that any man has ever taken the oath of allegiance to the United States without making some mental reservation which would leave him some freedom of action when the time came to make a decision."

Judge Learned Hand asked the attorney if he thought President Hoover had any reservation as a Quaker when he promised to be Commander in Chief of the United States forces in the event of war.

Mr. Davis replied that it was his understanding that President Hoover had taken the customary oath. He stated that Congress had exempted members of certain religious sects opposed to war from active service, and asked George H. Cohen, Assistant United States Attorney, if it were not conceivable that a person could be opposed to warfare on religious grounds without belonging to a specific sect. He also asked Mr. Cohen if he would bar from citizenship any alien who was opposed to the prohibition law.

Mr. Cohen replied that citizenship was a "sacred privilege" and that the individual asking it "must expect to submit to all of the regulations prescribed for him."

Miss Emily Marx, attorney for Miss Bland, argued that if it had been the intent of Congress to bar conscientious objectors the law would have specified this class of aliens as it had in its ruling against anarchists and polygamists.

Frank W. Ford, Assistant United States Attorney, declared that the wording of the naturalization laws implied such discrimination against those who do not uphold a national policy.

"Do you mean to say by that," asked Judge Hand, "that if a person, for instance, owned to views in conflict with the Eighteenth Amendment he should be excluded?"

The question was not answered. Sitting with Judge Hand were Presiding Judge Martin T. Manton and Judge Thomas W. Swan.

NORTH ARLINGTON BALLOTS.

Votes to Change From Commission to Rule by Council.

Special to The New York Times.

NORTH ARLINGTON, N. J., May 20.—The voters of this borough, by 1,186 to 482, favored changing the local government from commission to a councilmanic form, at the special election held here today. In three of the five districts in the borough the voting was more than three to one for the change. Candidates for Mayor and the Council, which will consist of six members, will file their applications within the next week and the primaries will be held June 17.

The result was something of a surprise, though 1,050 persons had signed a petition for the election. A few days ago, however, Mayor Alfred Barnard issued a statement setting forth the advantages of the commission form of government, and it was thought the statement had influenced sentiment in favor of the commission form. Until ten years ago, when commission government was inaugurated, North Arlington had a Mayor and Council of six, as it will have under the change.

TO ADVANCE $2,500,000 FOR HUDSON BRIDGE

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., May 20.—The State Highway Commission will advance $2,500,000 for the use of the Port of New York Authority in acquiring property for the New Jersey approaches to the Fort Lee-Manhattan bridge across the Hudson River. The money will be refunded from tolls collected on the span.

This was decided today at a conference between members of the two bodies and Governor Larson. Attorney General Stevens will be asked if the road board has authority so to employ its money or if additional legislation is needed to make it possible. In the latter event, Governor Larson will call a special session of the Legislature.

The Senate will meet next Tuesday night to receive nominations by Governor Larson for the Supreme Court and Circuit Court vacancies created by the death of Justice Samuel Kalisch and the advancement of Peter F. Daly of New Bruswick. Mr. Daly was sworn in by Chancellor Walker today as a Supreme Court justice, to succeed Charles C. Black, whose resignation became effective today.

DIVORCES F. R. WULSIN.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 20 (AP).—Mrs. Frederick R. Wulsin, wife of the former curator of African Archaeology and Ethnology at the Peabody Museum, Harvard University, was secretly divorced from Mr. Wulsin here on May 6, it was learned today.

Mr. Wulsin obtained a divorce in Mexico in February and married Mrs. Suzanne C. Emery of Providence, R. I. Mrs. Wulsin named the second wife as corespondent.

Before her marriage Mrs. Wulsin was Janet Elliott, a New York society girl. Her father, Howard Elliott, was a former president of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad and later head of the Northern Pacific System.

Where Dignity Has Its Place

IN MANY lines of business, a stately, conservative air would not be in keeping, but in banking it is most essential. Yet not the musty atmosphere of an outworn age. The modern spirit demands dignity, yes—but it also requires vigor...smartness...style to be in evidence, especially in office furniture and furnishings. That explains why so many of the city's leading banks and financial institutions have commissioned us to decorate and furnish their offices.

No matter what your business or profession, it will pay you to discover how a Wholey furnished office really looks. Then you will understand why it is such a profitable form of investment. Many different types and grades of offices are shown in our Exhibition of Business Offices. You will be surprised to learn how much can be done with so modest a sum as from $300 to $500, under the advice and supervision of our consulting staff. Sketches for your approval gladly submitted without obligation.
